were beginning to come together at this point in time as she's not supposed to carry negative feelings for me for all times and eventually we have to be reconciled.

- The upper half of Brother Andrew slightly below his shoulders dressed in a metallic armour with a white wrap around his neck stuffed inside his armour superimposed on a well-lit forest background as he says: Wake up, Kartika. Your death is near. Wake up, Kartika. Your death is near.
- The huge face of Brother Phillip with a long beard (his current style) superimposed on the view of a group of dark towers of buildings with dots of light peeking out through inside in a night background as his central incisors shine through his slightly open lips.

I fall asleep for a brief while and have the following dream revelation:

- For some reason my mom is showing me the upper jaw of her teeth as she tells me that she got them cleaned. I can see that some of her teeth are white, while others are off-white. Though the color of her teeth is uneven with minor gaps present in between, all of them are unstained. She was concerned about something related to her teeth. Because she seems to be too concerned about her teeth, I feel like asking her what she thinks about mine and then she also asks me to show her my upper jaw. So I move my upper lip upwards and as I do so I wake up seeing that I've done so for real after which I hide my face as I know that people are watching me.

I am still in that depressed state I was previously in, so I continue lying in bed as I tear up intermittently.

After a while, I feel the drone move up inside my groin and it seems that it’s moving up high, and as it does so, I experience a sudden warmth inside like an internal blanket and it's not that I'm pleased with the drone but the warmth brings me comfort and I feel better and at ease. Now, one can say that the situation went both ways. It involved an apparent sin of that drone moving up, but then the sudden and still internal warmth that I experienced calmed the negative emotions in my body that were bothering me down into that mental weariness. So I didn't know how to think about it, but I knew that I was a bit better though I'm not fully relieved. After a while, I see:

- The upper half of a well-built and muscular Edward (played by Robert Pattinson) with squinched eyes, a light stubble, and ruffled spiky hair dressed in a fitting baby pink t-shirt moves to the left as he moves his mouth in an affected crying manner of saying: Why? Why? Why? after which the vision expands and behind him is revealed a silently smiling Elon Musk dressed in a black suit over a white shirt and a tie taking a few steps towards Robert's back as they both gesture together with their hands to the right while looking at the viewer, where, as the vision further expands to is revealed to be flowing a ravine through a rocky path passing further forward into the vision through a passage between tall and thin trunks of trees with only their lower halves visible. Both of them are standing in the background of that rocky forest.
- The follow-up vision shows a momentary sudden bursting overflow of water which moves further down the rocky path through the trees.
- A huge clean-shaven face of Edward facing down and bent over the shining face of an old man with a white Chin Curtain beard wearing a glowing white crown in the background of the shiny close-up view of a huge rock.
- The follow-up had his huge face looking down at the huge face of Bella.

- The side-view of Edward dressed in a full ankle-length white tunic with two huge angel wings at the back standing facing a naked dim-red lady without breasts and having a crumpled belly assuming the shape of abs as he is hugging her and showing love to her with both of the standing at the right end of the vision on a flat stone surface which seems to be a hidden or covered place inside a forest.

  After I wrote the above, I heard in my Spirit: Ab bach jayega. Ab bach jayega.

  And after I wrote the above, I saw:

  The front-view of Edward's face turning slightly down and up with filled eyes. Perhaps the revelation has touched his heart.

As I continue resting, I hear:

- This beautiful lady is in love with me.. This beautiful lady is in love with me.

After a while, I see:

- The upper half of the landlord Subhash Uncle dressed in his grey polo t-shirt with his back towards the viewer as he extends his left hand to the side behind a wall to get hold of a long gun which he holds firm while looking at the front as he says: Bete sahi se raho. Chinta mat karo. Hum usko yaha pe aane nhi denge. Hum usko yaha pe ane nhi denge.
- A drunken Edward with slightly filled eyes dressed in a black suit over a white shirt and a tie sitting on a chair laid against a wall present at the viewer's left mental view with a wooden table present to his left as he abruptly throws the alcohol from his wine glass at the face of the viewer.

While brushing, I'm saying things to the drone hovering near the ceiling. I am comparing our minds.. that how it would be hard for the short fellow and the wicked gossiping woman to be at the mental level that I am with God. As I wrote the last statement, I heard in my Spirit: Forgive him, child! Forgive him! I said how he didn't receive a single revelation by God by far or else he would've known who I was on the inside long back without God revealing it in indirect ways through revelations while hiding their meaning from me. I asked him if he had a single page of God's given revelations while He gave me an ample amount every day and showed His love to me directly. And therefore they were dependent on me to know God's heart and Will towards them because He revealed things to me and not them.

When I wrote the previous sentence, I saw:

- Death Conqueror in his recent vision-specific attire of a black suit takes a few slow steps backwards.
- A smiling Glory peeking sideways in the direction of my room out of a door on the right end of the corridor with two red love hearts in front of his eyes as seen from my side.

Not that God can't speak to them or reveal things to them. He can choose to even if they don't have the Holy Spirit of God because He has done so in the Old Testament where He appeared in dreams to people who didn't know Him but worshipped pagan gods, but He still gave them a revelation to warn them about not sinning or reveal something about their near future. If they were to turn to Jesus and repent, He would give His Spirit to them as well, and then they would then have their own individual walks with God. How awesome that would be! I can already see my sudden change in perception of them if they became that way. Not that I have ungodly thoughts for them now, but them receiving Jesus and His Spirit and thereby turning to His golden path would accord very high value to them because it would mean that they've chosen to be high-quality individuals who follow

God while accepting His righteousness regardless of what the world is up to. And in that scenario, even if they lived in real huts, they're of great value and I would accept them happily.
And then only cause pain and hurt with their careless words and actions! As I wrote the last few sentences, I saw:

- Death Conqueror dressed in a black suit running away from the viewer as he intermittently turns his head to the side.

While in their present state when they're away from God and walking in crooked worldly ways, they're a part of the kingdom of satan that's heading towards destruction though they may have aided in developing this ark of a story. And writing the same makes me recall what I heard in one of Derek Prince's videos. He had said that the ones who were allowed to enter the ark of Noah were the ones who aided in constructing it – and those people constituted Noah and his family. Only they were allowed to enter in when the flood came while the rest of the world was washed away. So, the people who helped construct this ark are also supposedly the ones who are to be carried in it and be saved out of the earthly serpent system.

If they had a direct connection with God through His Spirit like other believers, I would feel an inner nudge to interact with them, talk to them, sit with them, while as of now, they only seem vain and worldly to me besides carrying the additional undesirable trait of being emotionally abusive. Jesus can transform them if they were to accept Him.

Well, I got carried away from where I intended to reach in the above para. So, as I was saying these things and pointing out to the drone the difference between my mind and his mind, and how to be at my level, he would need to not want to sin or abuse in the first place. It shouldn't constitute a part of his thought process let alone be a part of his enacted deeds because I am very cautious of the way my thoughts might take. The thought patterns corresponding to sin in ways that they do are nowhere present in my mind. I don't even want to lie or falsely represent something because it seems a very wrong thing to do to me while to them it's a casual everyday part of their daily lifestyle.

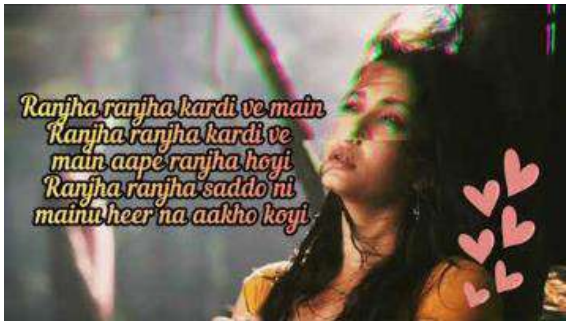
As I was highlighting the mental differences, I saw:

- The bottom view of a huge Death Conqueror dressed in a light blue and silver sherwani hit someone lying below brutally with a rod as he shouted the words: Teri itni mazaal!!

It was a good thing that I was saying that a holy mind would like and nothing to get angry about though I don't know if the revelation pertains to what I was saying. But it was a very ungodly revelation showcasing a dire lack of forgiveness when he himself has committed a great amount of sin the forgiveness of which he took for granted.

As I was done writing the above, I heard in my Spirit the first few chorus lines of the following song as seen in the video's thumbnail.
The Lady sings:
Ranjha Ranjha kardi ve mein aape Ranjha hoyi
Ranjha Ranjha saddo ni mainu Heer na aakho koyi..

Ranjha Ranjha | Lyrics | Ravaan | Sukhwinder Singh



I first heard this song on FM playing in a car I was in with my dad to someplace.
And after a while, the following lyrics were also playing in my Spirit.

The Guy sings:
Ranjha Ranjha na kar Heere jag badnami hoye..
Patti patti jhar jaye par khushboo chup na hoye..

This made me think that it was not me who did something that should bring humiliation or dishonor to me, but that it was him. So, who was it whom that he was referring to here?

Past Revelations

- (Past three weeks) I experience drone rubs at my strong pp and as the rubs ger stronger, I see a single stem of rose planted in an earthen pot with the red flower at the stem's top develop and rise higher and higher with each rub in discreet steps.
- (Past week) It's night and I'm on my bed to sleep when I cover my face with the blanket. I open my eyes and see two semi-animated wide-open blue eyes right above my eyes looking into them. I close them and open them again, and see the semi-animated blue eyes wide-open above mine again as they looked at me.
  As I wrote this revelation, I saw:
  Death Conqueror standing at the level of the ceiling of my room dressed in his black suit attire turn his back to me and walk backwards as he says: You love me a lot. You love me a lot.
  The lady sings: Maar dala.. Maar dala..
- (past three days) I see the face of Death Conqueror in front of my naked left breast as a burst of milk splashes out of the nipple at his face.
- (past two days) The face of Death Conqueror until his throat showing the black and white collars of his suit and shirt respectively in front of my right breast in my mental view as he is gnawing away at the black tape trying to remove it fully (perhaps it's his intent) followed by him grabbing a hold of it.
  The tapes are so uneasy and make me itch as well and I stink around my upper half inside my neutral smelling clothes. I feel so dirty as I've not taken a full bath for more than a week, and then I don't have to get the two blobs removed as I saw in some previous revelations. I don't know. I will do as I'm led which will be also dependent on the conduct of these people. God have mercy on them.

Afternoon

I go to poop, and see:

- A small-framed vision of a translucent grey reptilian being with a round middle and small hands and legs mov e to the right in the sky.
- You're a sloth. You're a sloth. It repeats several times. But I know that I'm not a sloth because I used to be quite active before the situation took a toll on me.
- The top-view of Shiney Ahuja in the commode dressed in his previous attire of a full-sleeved nylon light sky blue shirt moving a wooden danda up and down with a fierce expression.
- The face of Shiney Ahuja as he says in a gentle tone: I Love You. I don't know him personally and these are the first few revelations related to him and they represent his mind and now I know how I have to deal with such revelations.

  Remember the song: Dil mein sanam ki surat when in doubt.
- The face of Elon Musk until slightly below his throat dressed in his previous attire of a black suit as he says in a quiet tone: I will take your revenge. (Perhaps they mean it for the case of me being dead.)
- The upper half of Elon Musk appears again as this time he for some reason angrily grabs my throat with his face looking straight into mine as he's saying something supposedly mean which I don't remember. He seems to be threatening me about something. His face then changes to a titanium robot with pointed features as he continues looking at me with that threatening expression.
- Toot gaya. Toot gaya. Followed by the vision of a taller and wider translucent Death Conqueror dressed in that previous black suit attire standing in front of me as he breaks vertically in two from the middle, and as the two shell halves fall to the sides, out of him comes a deep red shiny featureless being of the outer shape of a man which walks towards me with an arm extended for a handshake. It reminds me of the previous vision of a similar being of the shape of a woman birthed out of me when I was lying on the floor to rest a few months back. The vision repeats.
- The follow-up vision shows the differently colored beings come out of him as well in sequence with these successive beings smaller in size than the previous red one.
- The upper half of Robert Pattinson dressed in a black suit over a white shirt and a tie in a golden background looks at me with his yellow eyes from the movie with that subtle shine in them.

After I'm done pooping, I feel convicted by the statement: You're a sloth. So, I think perhaps I need to push myself to complete the pending chores. But I know that when I am okay I don't leave chores pending for unreasonable durations because when I was staying in Saroj Sadan, I did everything besides cooking. Can't believe I used to wash and iron my clothes regularly as well. I could manage that because I had the strength.

As I was at the beginning of the above para, I saw:

- Edward dressed in his black suit attire says to me in a quiet and comforting tone: Come here. Come here. Followed by him holding me and us moving slowly in a duet as I rest my face against his shoulder.

After I was done writing the above, I saw:

- A close-up vision of the upper half of KA until slightly below his throat with him dressed in a white shirt says loudly looking at the viewer: Kutiya tu mujhse bahut jyada pyaar karti hai!

After I feel convicted, I think I would clean my room first and complete other pending chores before beginning to write revelations again. As I walk past the open washroom, I see:

- Jesus with Glory's face with a beard and neck-length hair dressed in His attire of a full-length white tunic with a red drape sitting on vertically folded knees with his back against the washroom wall as He brushes upon the clothes lying on the floor with an expression that showed that He was putting good effort in brushing.

This tells me that I should begin with washing clothes while previously I was thinking I would begin first by brooming the room. So, I listen to His advice and wash clothes first.

I begin washing clothes and after a while recall the Jesus vision in which He was sitting at a spot opposite to mine with His back against the wall. So, I too change my spot and understand that it is a better position to wash clothes as it keeps me away from the commode and also hides my back.

While I am washing clothes, I hear the lady sing:
Bepanah pyaar tujhse.. Tu kyu jaane na..
Hua ikraar tujhse.. Tu kyu maane na..

The lyrics play for a while.

After washing, while my bucket is filling with water to rinse the clothes in, I broom the room. After I'm done with brooming and rinsing clothes, I use the spare water to mop the room.

While I'm mopping the area around the doormat sitting on vertically folded knees, I hear:
Ye kis naukrani ko randi bana diya!? Ye kis naukrani ko randi bana diya!?

As I continue mopping the room now using my right leg and am mopping the central space in silence, I hear in my Spirit the singer from the song sing:
Kuch na kaho.. Kuch bhi na kaho..
Kya kehna hai.. Kya sun na hai..
Mujhko pata hai.. Tumko pata hai..
Samay ka ye pal.. tham sa gaya hai..
Aur is pal mein.. Koi nahin hai..
Bas ek mein hu.. Bas ek tum ho..

It's after a while that I notice the song playing in my Spirit as I was absorbed in cleaning the room without much thought about anything else and I didn't notice when the song started playing.

I use the water left from rinsing the mops a second time, to wipe the washroom floor. So, everything gets done at once. This also reminds me of the dream revelation from yesterday morning in which I had seen nature eject out black goop as waste all of which got absorbed in space to be reused and recycled.

I go upstairs to hang clothes and while doing so, I notice after a while that this different song has begun to play in my Spirit:
Pehle kabhi na humne kaha.. lo aaj sanam hum kehte hai..
Pehle kabhi na humne kaha.. lo aaj sanam hum kehte hai..
Hum apke dil mein rehte hai.. Hum apke dil mein rehte hai..
Hum apke dil mein rehte hai.. Hum apke dil mein rehte hai..

Again, I don't realize when it started playing in my Spirit as I am absorbed with the chore, but I notice it after a while.

Pehle kabhi na humne kaha lo aaj sanam ye kehte h hu2m aapke Dil me rehte h

It reminds me of the past when I used to work at home doing the chores every day in 2020.
And it continues to play for a long while, continuing to play until when I am back to my room and am then making coffee. Unexpectedly the time used in the chores was turned into a heart-filling time spent because of the songs accompanied with a sense of communion with the related person.

After I was almost done with the chores, I'm hearing:
After all, Mata Randi randi nahi hai. Mata randi randi nhi hai. Mata randi is not a randi after all.

While I'm having coffee to relax after the chores while sitting on my bed, I see:

- Jesus hurls one Besan Ladoo after another in my mouth in a line. I think, "Perhaps He's doing this to lighten up my mood." And then I recall the previous revelation of the animated face of Sia with a teardrop on her face from her songs hurling Ladoos in her mouth one after the other.
- The follow-up vision shows Jesus putting momos in my mouth, and then He throws one of the momos at the wall in front of my bed as it breaks and sticks to it.

Somewhere during the above evening time, I also keep hearing:
You love me a lot Kartika. You love me a lot. But you'll never/not accept it.

So the next thing I am nudged to do is to go out and buy Besan Ladoos, and then I receive a phone call from a delivery person as well. So I leave my parcel at the Dinesh Store and on my way to buy Besan Ladoos hear the song lyrics play again:
Pehle kabhi na humne kaha.. lo aaj sanam hum kehte hai..
Hum apke dil mein rehte hai.. Hum apke dil mein rehte hai..

I buy some milk cake as well along with followed by buying half plate veg momos. I was happy this evening and was feeling entirely different than how my day began. The route of the day had changed when I was done writing the part above the dream revelation itself as it explained to me how I was only desensitized and not turned into a prostitute.

After I've returned to my room, I get a nudge to eat a piece of milkcake first. So I do so. And later when I am having momos, I hear: Kartika, tu bahut lalchi hai. Kartika, tu bahut lalchi hai.
And it doesn't make any sense to me. I think if the fellow is thinking so because of how passionately I'm eating momos.

And while I'm having momos, I see:
The upper half until the shoulders of Elon Musk dressed in his suit attire from the previous vision says to me: Meri girlfriend banja! Meri girlfriend banja!

After when I'm washing the dishes, I hear again:
Har lamha teri aankhe mujhe dekhna chahe..
Har rasta mera teri taraf hi jaaye..
Bepanah pyaar tujhse.. Tu kyu jaane na..
Hua ikraar tujhse.. Tu kyu maane na..

Later followed by
Har lamha meri aankhe mujhe dekhna chahe..
Har rasta mera teri taraf hi jaaye..

Well, the pronouns keep interchanging as the song plays in my Spirit.

After I was done with my communion and washing dishes, as I entered my room's central space, I saw:

- I'm in a graceful duet with Jesus with the stubbled face of Glory with neck-length hair dressed in a full-length white tunic with a red drape in the center of the room, and it's emanating an immensely love-filled, soothing, and calm aura.

And when I am taking notes of the revelations in my Notebook, I hear in my Spirit:

- Banana bhi jaruri tha, todna bhi jaruri tha.

Past Revelations

When I was listening to the song, Hai Love Mera Hit Hit (recorded on Page 580), and I listened to it a few times because I liked the music and their dance steps and I wasn't focusing much on their dressing sense, I saw:

- A stubbled RS with neck-length straight hair dressed in a Sherwani tells me not to pay much attention to her as he says pointing sideways: Vo ek randi hai. Vo ek randi hai.

But I saw DP actually trying to fight for him as I saw her change her countenance, appearance and behavior in order to give an impression that she indeed had the mind or persona RS liked. It doesn't matter whether she actually possesses them but the fact that she was trying to please him by enacting them out should catch his attention. And I could sense her longing for them to be united the way they once perhaps were as I coincidentally came across a few of their photos together in which I saw her trying to exhibit a countenance that didn't come naturally to her. I also saw how when RS bent down to kiss her cheek during an event in which she was dressed in a white saree to the viewer's right of Karan Johar with her hair tied in a bun at the back, she lit up with unaffected ingenuity. I could feel her heart in that moment and it touched my heart. Her profession demands her to be a certain way and makes her priorities different. But she can always choose to be holy despite her work, or both of them can choose to be holy together which is even better. I didn't note this revelation of RS saying so previously. I don't know the truth between them. I only wrote my observation. But DP for sure loves RS and doesn't want to separate. RS should look at her love heart and not her profession or persona. Her love heart is the only thing that matters.

When I began writing the above, I saw RS dressed in a sherwani looks at me and says: Randi. Randi.

As I continue writing, he says: Tu bahut acchi hai Kartika. Tu bahut acchi hai. The vision repeats several times.

And after a while of writing the para about how DP tried to change her countenance, expression, and clothing to appease RS and how despite her profession, she could still choose to be Holy, I saw:

- The upper half of DP until slightly below her shoulders with her hair tied at the back looking at me with red love hearts in front of her eyes as she says in a discontent resentful tone: Kartika 'you' should've been my husband!

After I wrote the above revelation, I saw: RS dressed in a dark embroidered Sherwani folds his hands in a namaste as he touches his forehead and chest alternatively and goes back to DP and starts kissing her hands.

- Never say Never: the song lyrics have been playing in my Spirit for the past week.
  And they make me wonder if they're a response to me repeating Never as I think about some people and things which I've been doing for the past some days.

  The Guy sings:
  Never Say Never..

  And there's just no turning back
  When your heart's under attack
  Gonna give everything I have..
  This. is. My. destiny..

  I'll never say never. I'll fight.
  I'll fight till forever - to make it right.

Whenever you knock me down
I will not stay on the ground..
Pick it up. Pick it up.
Never say never.

Never say never!
Never say never!
Never say never!
Never say never….

Justin Bieber - Never Say Never ft. Jaden

- This part from the movie Life In A Metro has been being highlighted to me for some time. In this movie, Dharmendra coincidentally unites with Nafisa - his lover from his younger years - when both are now old and they choose to spend their last days together. They still remember in their old age everything they shared in the past and they still have the chemistry they once shared together. I don't know if it correlates with me because I have also been hearing:
Din bahut kam reh gaye hai zindagi mein meri..
Karna hai kaam phir milega mauka mujhko nahin..

Well, but then for God, one day is like one thousand years, and one thousand years like one day. So, perhaps I just have a lot of work to do. Currently, I'm a content writer.

The Guy sings:
Kahani suno. Muh zubani Suno.
Mujhe pyaar hua tha.. Ikraar hua tha.
Kahani suno. Muh zubani Suno.
Mujhe pyaar hua tha.. Ikraar hua tha.

Kaifi Khalil - Kahani Suno 2.0 (Lyrics)

I lay down to take a break from writing and lie with my head down on the bed, and see:

- A translucent green snake quickly marching forward behind me in a dark background with an open mouth and its tongue sticking out.
- A clean-shaven Ayushmann Khurrana dressed in a black suit over a white shirt with a black bow tie in a well-lit white background extends forward a red rose towards me/the viewer as he says gently: I Love You.
- The upper half of a bearded Ayushmann dressed in bike racing clothes drives his bike in a direction slightly tilted away from the viewer towards the left with another person sitting behind him.

While editing the previous page, I take a break to rest and see:

- A black screen with a code being written on it in white as the screen scrolls upwards. The code lines are short and the language seems to be other than C or C++ (the ones I know). (I don't have much experience with python. I am able to manage with C and it serves the intended purpose. And I don't feel like learning a new language either as I have grown too comfortable with C/C++.) I see that it's a long code consisting of short lines and long vertical gaps between two short sets of code lines.

- Kartika tu bahut rone waali hai.. Tu bahut rone waali hai..

Past Revelations

- (Past two months or before) The Great Kartika (Heard in my Spirit) I found it too much to write until this point when I no longer feel shy or uncomfortable about it but it's just something that I heard in my Spirit.
- (Past week or before) I am lying in bed in the morning post waking up to gain some energy to get out of bed. I check out the WhatsApp statuses as there is that dot beside the Status link showing there are some states. I find that Vicky Bhaiya has put up a status. It is a song sung by him over guitar at home. After I've listened to it and continue lying in bed..

I took a break to blow my nose after two sneezes and when I was back to complete writing the above revelation, I heard the lyric play in my Spirit: Yaaron dosti badi hi haseen hai..

.. I can feel the drones and also this is around the beginning of my phase when I started getting involved with the drones and am having revelations from related people. I then see:
The upper half of Vicky Bhaiya until slightly below his throat in a shiny white background looking at me as he says slightly nodding his head with filled eyes: Bander apko yhi sab karne ke liye bheja tha vaha pe!? Bander apko yhi sab karne ke liye bheja vaha pe!?

When I've made a note of it somewhere while lying in bed, I see:

- His self from the previous vision is now present beside my bed at a level below as he is holding and kissing my hands with genuine affection looking down at them with slightly filled eyes.
I don't remember writing the above from my Notebook and then at times I don't understand my handwriting immediately so I leave that revelation to be written at a later time when the handwriting becomes spontaneously magically mentally legible to me. However, everything I write is legible around the time when I've written it and it's after some time has passed that I struggle to understand it, but even then after a while, it has the capacity to become clear on its own.

- (Past two days) A small-framed vision of Rajendra Kumar dressed in a full-sleeved off-white shirt tucked inside light brown pants with shoulder straps in an expanse of a dim light golden background as he vertically holds a half-peeled banana in front of his left eye.

- (Past two days) A black Shampoo's pouch with something written on it.
- (Past three weeks) A square pouch resembling the small pouch of the digestive Satmola Tablets with something else written on it.
- (Past week) I was writing revelations when I began saying out this part from the movie Maleficent as her words came to my lips by themselves and the scene was being highlighted to me.

Maleficent says:
Well, Well. What a glittering assemblage King Stephan!
Royalty, Nobility, the gentry! Oh.. how quaint!

"Awkward Situation" Clip - Maleficent

(Past year) After this revelation, I happened to remember the previous song revelation from past year which didn't make much sense to me.
The Guy sings:
Ye jo mohabbat hai.. Ye unka hai kaam..
Mehboob ka jo, bas lete hue naam..
Mar jaaye. Mit jaaye. Ho jaaye badnaam…

Rehne do, chhodo, bhi jaane do yaar..
Hum na karenge pyaar..

ye jo mohabbat hai - kati patang (with lyrics)

As I wrote the above song revelation, I heard:

- Ye sab jaanti hai. Sab jaanti hai ye.

- (Past three weeks) I understood later the meaning of the revelations from Page 585 in which I was looking up at Naveen followed by him looking up at me with a pathetic expression. When he was saying all the right things - righteous or what would be considered conscience-wise right - I had a very high impression of him and was looking up at him. But when he started saying covert things about me interacting with people I left working with because of the presence of ungodly values in their workstyle, and I knew that he was doing it intentionally, I was no longer looking up at him.

  It's hard to find people who stay consistent in their godly conduct even when they don't face any friction from you. You see, I wasn't saying anything disturbing about him to him, or wasn't trying to make him feel targeted, but yet he switched from being that righteous person to making me feel uneasy. Most people around are of this kind and I've always known this! That's why I never had a lot of friends. I sought out people with consistency in their godly conduct where it came naturally out of them because of it being an innate part of their nature and not something they chose to implement in some situations while unreasonably and unexpectedly flipping to the other side of the spectrum.
- (Past few days/week) The front view of the face of KA blowing his nose away.
- (Past two days) The upper half of Virat Kohli dressed in a half-sleeved light colored t-shirt as he looks slightly to the left of the viewer.
- Immediately following this vision is Mona Singh with a veg cut done on her hair with curly ends as she walks to the left with her phone held against her ear alongside a tall row of green bushes being dressed in a white cotton tunic set with a pink floral print with its pink drape resting in a V-shape on top of her bust.
- (Yesterday) Jesus puts a tika on the center of my forehead.

  I lie down on my bed to fall asleep with lights turned off and see:
- A small-framed vision of the upper half of a stubbled RS dressed in an attire with fine yellow and black print in front of me as he is moving on the bed in the same manner as mine being covered with a sheet on top. He is emulating my actions.
- As I close my eyes and settle in, the small-framed him too closes his eyes and settles in the same manner.
- The front view of the upper half above the bust of a Bollywood actress dressed in the dark olive green attire of a Policewoman as she looks with her eyes turned sideways to the right in a dark background with blurry fragments lit in yellow. Her face changes to Tabu and then to another Bollywood actress I don't know the name of.

  I am making a note of the revelations immediately after I receive them and as I began to write this sentence, I heard in my Spirit: Ab tu dhokebaaz nhi hai!
- I take a yawn in bed and see a small-framed vision of RS from the previous visions take a yawn in the same manner.
- A small-framed vision of the front parallel view of a stubbled RS flying horizontally towards me in the sky holding a huge pair of white angel wings as he says: Kartika mein wings leke aa gya tere liye, udne ke liye. As I wrote the revelation, I saw: Death Conqueror dressed in his black suit sitting in a car says: Sorry, Kartika. Sorry, Kartika. as he sobs a bit. The revelation later reminded me of how Maleficent got her wings back towards the end of the movie that Stephen had clipped to be the king. After this point, I turn the dim green light on to write revelations with ease as I can see that they may continue for a while, though I'm also telling God to give me some rest as I had just completed writing the previous slot of revelations. This reminds of this vision I had within the past week. So this day I was feeling tired of writing and then I had the thought of resuming my PhD work as well which was hovering over my head as I've not been making progress with a great speed or with a pace I would otherwise have. I was also feeling fed up with writing all the time every day when I don't even know His entire Word that's already written - the Holy Bible that I haven't read most of the Old Testament from and don't remember the verses by their verse labels either like others do. In short, I wanted to spend leisure time with a free mind and take a break from this seemingly huge, tedious, and unending task of writing and do some other things, perhaps read the Word, worship or rest in Him while spending silent quality time in His presence, and then I also had my PhD work in mind that I should have enough of to discuss with my supervisor in our next meeting. As I'm having these thoughts of not wanting to write more, I see:

- Jesus angrily hits my head sideways with a rod as He says: You're useless! This made me understand that this is what He had purposed me to do at this hour and I was supposed to be doing this and not try to go in a different direction. This was my allotted job in God's charted path for my life at this point in time and it pertains to calling people to His kingdom, people who have an influence over the general public.

At times it may seem like our work is too huge for us to handle. Happens in all professions. I can imagine how people hurry during their last PhD days to get things completed or spend sleepless nights preparing for exams when short on time or when wanting to do things in a good or in a perfect way.

Yeah. So, though I was desiring a break from writing revelations, I kept making notes of whatever He showed me before I fell into sleep. And when I think of it, I feel good about it - that I am doing the work of God as He chose me, gave me grace that I'm grateful for unlike some people, and continues to lead and guide me in my life's path. So, if He is with me, even without resources I am fully abundant because He is the provider of all and He knows my needs best and will provide as He sees fit and according to what I need at times giving me what I want as well as He is known for fulfilling the desires of the heart of His children. And He brought to life the things that held importance to me. I had this important mental world that stressed at living with a certain mindset and making decisions accordingly, and I had these important parts from the videos I watched or songs I heard that touched my heart and I considered them my inner wealth and didn't feel good around people who would demean them or treat them as things of no significance. That was also the reason Meera was my friend because she accepted and rejoiced the things of the mind and heart that held value to me, and Glory seems to understand the same to some extent as well. God sees the value in things or ideas that I hold dear to me, and I am fit for my position as He was saying long back that no one could've done what I did. And He chose me for this purpose alone. A hand can't be a foot and vice-versa. So I have this allotted spot in the body of Christ. And when I write, I don't want to be so flamboyant with the way I write that some people miss out on the meaning of what I am saying. I want to be as clear and plain as possible. For this reason, I am in a way perfect for this job, because I stress on the content and not the look of it. I don't know how someone else would've written the same things and if they would have been intelligible to a person with a mediocre understanding of words. God releases Words written in an intelligible way and not with grand flashy words.

After I wrote the above, I heard in my Spirit:
Maut zindagi ki aakhiri manzil to nahi..
Maut ke baad ek aur zindagi abdi..

- The upper half of a muscled and groomed RS dressed in a light sky blue shirt with a navy blue waistcoat with a light stubble and slicken hair as he is sitting in what seems to be an open helicopter as he says gesturing at me in a low and quiet tone: You're great.
- A small-framed vision of a person dressed in a shiny off-white tunic of length until his calves over a dhoti below and about a foot-wide vertically folded stall resting on his left shoulder. It's not clear who the person is. The vision changes in a flash to another dressed in the same way and finally flashes to Nana Patekar who is clearly identifiable in the attire .
- The front view of Edward (RP) dressed in a black suit with a white shirt inside (lacking a tie) with a gun in his right hand pointed in my direction as he rotates his arm in a semicircle with a loose expression as he slightly turns his neck to either side.
- The upper half of a huge Saif Ali Khan dressed in a full-sleeved white shirt with a black waistcoat on top floats by beside me as he moves the top of what resembles a thin and a few inches long white golf stick held in his right hand through the top of my groin. After I wrote the revelation, I heard:
  Oye randi randi oye..
  Chuppana bhi nahi ata..
- A small-framed and distant vision of Saif Ali Khan dressed in the same attire sitting facing to the left in a furnished room with light navy blue walls as a huge lady with a huge wide forehead standing behind him is bent towards the viewer with her face around her neck as she seems to be sucking on his neck.
- A vertical golden shape consisting of outwardly curved flat rectangular bars joining two rings separated by an unusual distance.
- I lie with my face covered with my blanket and when I open my eyes, I see: The spread fang of a creepy dark brown snake with round eyes, followed by the lines: I'm a snake Kartika. I'm a snake. (That's why he was able to sleep with that many women without being attached to them or not remembering his time with them.)
- The bottom view of a tall and wide bearded RS with neck-length frizzy hair dressed in a thick, full-sleeved, white ankle-length shiny creamish attire embroidered with gold around his chest which fits him well on his upper half but is in the shape of a skirt below his waist with a thick belt of the same cloth joining the two halves in the middle. He emanates a highly righteous aura as he stands tall dressed in that manner with a sword carried in his right hand and looks so holy in the well-lit background.
- It is followed by the vision of the face of DP with her hair tied at the back winking at the viewer pointing him to her with a finger to follow after her, after which is shown her slim figure sitting along the side of a bathtub facing to the right with her right leg stretched forward as a white cloth is wrapped loosely around her body covering her from her bust to until her hips. She still has her hair tied at the back and she looks too cleanly waxed as she's rubbing something around her hairless leg.

She is giving a promiscuous look in this vision. The vision makes me recall why RS was calling her a Randi and telling me to not pay much attention to her. As I was writing the above vision, I saw: Death Conqueror says: This is me. Ye mein hu. which is true because he changes his looks according to his target but the underlying aim is always the above - to seduce the person to fornicate with him.

- The semi-animated vision of the naked upper half of a muscular KA in a football field as he runs to the left to the bald goalie guarding the goal post, hugs her, and says: Tu randi nhi hai. Tu bahut acchi hai.
- Na na karte pyaar tumhi se kar baithe!
  Karna tha inkaar, magar izhaar tumhi se kar baithe.
  Na na karte pyaar tumhi se kar baithe!

As I lay on my left side and am feeling cozy in my blanket with just my face protruding out with a smile as I feel content and am experiencing inner joy in that moment, I see in front of me:

- A small-framed vision of KA resting cozily emulating my expressions.
- He then gets up from his blanket, lifts me up on one arm and with a rotation slams me on the ground the way wrestlers do in a match. He is shown as being too strong and muscular in that vision. The background then changes to that of a field planted with thin green strands of a crop spanning the area. He then changes to Varun Dhawan.

I fall into a brief sleep and have the following dream-vision.

- My mom is in the kitchen of my parental apartment cooking brown grams or red beans as I can discern looking at the gravy while my youngest brother Divyanshu works on his desktop. It's seeming to take long and then the vision shows him lamenting sitting on his seat: Itni der mein to…. followed by the front view of my mom walking towards his door with the food served on a plate as seen from inside. He's lamenting about how during the time my mom took to cook food, a heavier task could've been completed. But when I was at home last time, I saw that my mom cooked the meal quite quickly after she was done with the preparations. So, perhaps he was referring to the time she took breaks in between her cooking leading to it getting delayed. I don't know.

The vision makes me angry because first, she's too old. And second, she's bringing it to him served on a plate in that old age while he could've served himself!

- The upper half of the Bollywood actor Dharmendra dressed in a brown sherwani makes a questioning gesture at me with his hand as he stands in a crowd.

Post Waking Up

While brushing teeth:

- I have this thought from someone else emerge and stay in my mind that I don't have any special abilities. This person is saying or thinking that I don't have any special abilities which makes me think who would say such a thing to others. I never said to worldly people how vain and worldly they are. I just stayed away from them. And then I didn't judge my friends who couldn't sing or play the keyboard even if it meant learning a song and playing it by memory because even that requires skill. Even that requires understanding of the gaps between notes and maintaining the right rhythm. These people put down everything I do. As one continues to play by memory and continues to intuitively understand by playing more, playing by hand comes in handy. These abusers even insulted my PhD work. According to them, though I may work hard and get my degree, I just am not smart. It seems to me that they're saying this about themselves. (In response to which, I heard: That's true.) Who says such a loveless thing about others!? Only an abuser who wants to keep others in control and control their perception of what they can do! Whatever they do doesn't match who they are for though they may dress holy, their thoughts, deeds, and intent are not holy. They may have completed degrees, it doesn't represent their minds. I don't see the purity, righteousness, and integrity of a scientist in this fellow, and I don't see the wise perception regarding different economic sects of society in her. All their qualities are external, and they don't express their inner qualities in a godly way either. They lie, make false statements about me, misrepresent me, and say insulting stuff while looking down at me. Why will I choose to be in the presence of such people? And they show that they look down at me by their words and actions and the way they continue to hurt me? I don't want these game players in my life!

As I'm writing revelations, I hear the lady sing:

- Hum.. Dil de chuke sanam..

After a while, I hear the truth of my own thoughts:

- But I looked down on you because of your lifestyle. (I'm thinking this in regards to Death Conqueror.)

I go to poop but am unable to as I am constipated again. I see:

- The back view of a short but wide clean-shaven Glory dressed in a black suit as he looks to the left and says: Tu mere layak nhi hai! Tu mere layak nhi hai!
- The huge face of KA until slightly below his throat in a white tunic to my slight left in front of me as he says looking at me: Ye samajh gyi hai ki mein isse bahut jyada pyaar karta hu. Ye samajh gyi hai ki mein isse bahut jyada pyaar karta hu.

I sit for a while and try but as I'm unable to - I get up to try later.

After my water warms up, I prepare to bathe after long and I have to shave my groin as well because of the revelation.
But before doing so, I go upstairs to get my dried clothes down but almost all are wet. I check out my jeans if the blood stain had fully been removed as it wasn't very much clear when the Jeans was still wet while washing yesterday. I see that a part of it is still there and then I hear a male's voice say apathetically: Bhool ja jo kuch bhi hua tha! Bhool ja jo kuch bhi hua tha!

I sit to poop first and this time am able to. Later I am shaving my groin in the same manner of that I saw in the revelation by making up to down razor strokes, and as I am doing so, I hear:
Vo apne jaal mein khud phas gaya. Vo apne jaal mein khud phas gaya. Tune usko phasa diya.

I also see: Death Conqueror in a black suit rotates around happily with stars and red love heart in front of his eyes.

The Guy sings: I'm in love.. I'm in love..

The next thing I do is bathing, and while I do so, I hear the following lyrics play:
Teri meri galla hogyi mashhoor

Karna kabhi tu mujhe nazro se door
Kitthe chaliye Kitthe chaliye Kithe chaliye..
Jaanda hai dil te jaandi hai tu..
Tere bina mein na rahun, na mere bina tu..
Kitthe chaliye Kitthe chaliye Kithe chaliye..

I happen to take a bit longer as I want to bathe properly because I don't know when I will do it next. I hear:
Hum samajhte hai. Isko pata nhi hai ye next time kab nahayegi. Isiliye soch rahi hai ki abhi naha lu acche se.
It repeats a few times.

Towards the end, as I was washing my bust as it was exclusively dirty because one of the last times I removed my top, an extremely stinking smell rose up to my nose, and then I was wearing tapes as well that added to sweat and stink, and it's then that I hear:
Tu mere paas kabhi nahi ayegi. Tu mere paas kabhi nhi ayegi. accompanied by the vision of the upper half of Death Conqueror.
Well, that was also how I was feeling because he was putting me through this shame!

As I'm still bathing as the covered parts of my upper half have accumulated stink that I'm trying to remove in a relatively sober way, I hear:
Sorry for putting you through this. Sorry for putting you through this.

Somewhere in the middle as I'm pouring down water, I see:

- Edward dressed in a black suit comes walking from behind me and stands up close behind as he says in a quiet tone: I'm sorry. I'm sorry.

- KA in a full-length white tunic stands at a distance as he says: I want to marry you. I want to marry you. And I know that he is a monogamous person which goes along with my own natural style. To be with Death Conqueror, I would've to go against my nature which I suppose God slowly conditioned my brain to accept to some extent because in the kingdom of Heaven, He is the king, and He has millions of angels worshipping Him though they're not male or female like humans are. It's a different situation in the kingdom of Heaven.

After bathing, as I am changing into fresh clean clothes, I slip into a grey striped warmer top and then am sliding upwards my black skin tight woollen warmer legging and it's then I begin hearing: Mein samajh raha hu tu kya cheez hai. After I get out of the washroom and am walking into the room area, I hear:
Itni sunder ladki ka karna kya hai. Itni sunder ladki ka karna kya hai.

I'm looking for the T-shirt I was supposed to wear but didn't find in the washroom. I find it lying on my shoulder as I separate the dirty clothes. After changing into fresh clothes, I begin to wash my Jeans as Worship songs continue to play in my Laptop along with a few Westlife songs. When I'm out, I catch this lyric being played from the Westlife song Beautiful World:

Oh the sun has a light
Let's watch it shine for you and I
Oh the open skies
Can we just lie here for a while..!

Well, the above are the lyrics that were shown written in the video that was playing and that's how I understood that part as well. As Westlife songs continue to play and I am brooming my room while my bucket fills for me to rinse the Jeans, I hear this repeat in my Spirit: Mein samajh gaya tu kya cheez hai. Mein samajh gaya tu kya cheez hai. And it seems to be coming from Glory. It repeats for a while. It seems that he has finally understood something.

Somewhere in between, I happen to hear: She's an attention catcher. She's an attention catcher. Even if she doesn't want, she catches attention.

Also, this day I wear the new t-shirt with the quote: I'ld rather wear flowers on my hair than diamonds around my neck

As I wrote the above, I saw: Death Conqueror in his black suit attire walks backwards in a dark background as he says crying: Tu mujhse pyaar nahi karti. Tu mujhse pyaar nahi karti.

Well. The revelations are testify for the things I don't say or am about to do. The things I don't say don't always show up in my behavior which is at times based on the behavior of the other person.

The t-shirt reminds me of the 2021 promise of the vision that had the upper half until the shoulders of a lady dressed in white standing facing a slightly taller man in a black suit in a night background, and she was wearing a disk-shaped floral crown on her head.

I felt so good wearing that t-shirt because it had who I am written on it.
As I'm mopping the outer narrow corridor, I see:

- The muscular naked upper half of Glory with wide-open filled eyes carrying an astonished expression as he looks at me and says while briefly looking sideways: Kaha se mil gayi mujhe ye.. Kaha se mil gayi mujhe ye..

After I'm done with all the chores, and am moving around busy with a few other things, I see:

- Death Conqueror flings open my room's mesh door with wide-open eyes and takes a step inside boldly.

And when I was combing my hair after bathing, I heard a voice, apparently Glory's, say: Iske to baal hi sab kuch hai iske liye. Iske to baal hi sab kuch hai iske liye.

And after being done with all these chores, I am perhaps having a hot drink and my nose has begun to run when I see the bald and fat man from Nath Tent and Caterers in Single Storey beside A-16 say: Beemar ho gyi. Beemar ho gyi.

These song lyrics have been playing intermittently in my Spirit since yesterday.
The Guy sings:
Bewafa tera masoom chehra..
Bhool jaane ke kaabil nhi hai..
Khubsurat bahut hai tu lekin
Dil lagane ke kabil nahi hai

Bewafa tera masoom chehra..
Bhool jaane ke kaabil nhi hai..

I don't know why this fellow says this because the song lyrics don't just describe me. The first time I heard this song was in 2020 near my parental apartment from a random (perhaps a messenger) guy near the stairs singing the first chorus line. It hadn't made sense to me even then.

As I am writing revelations, I think of how despite me telling them to not send drones over my breasts, they continue to do so, and am feeling angry about the same and it's then that I see:

- The upper half of Jonathan sitting behind his table in his cabin says: He's going to die soon. (I too said in a previous revelation that he is digging both of our graves.)

When I'm sitting in bed and writing revelations later, the man again says: Beemar ho gyi. Beemar ho gyi.

I get an immediate nudge to rest as I see Jesus pointing me to bed and I feel an urgency in my Spirit.

I go to bed still wrapped in my olive green sheet and cover my face with the blanket as well. I then have the following revelations.

- I hear: I'm not a snake. I'm Mrittunjay.
- Accompanied by the lightly stubbled face of Mrittunjay about less than a foot away from my face to my left looking down so the side view of it is visible to me. His face then changes to my dad's and then to Glory's as it's slightly moving about its position.
- A small-framed vision of Sunil Grover with a moustache and outwardly spread shoulder-length frizzy hair dressed in a white cotton tunic set with a grey half-jacket on top in a golden background.
- Mein accha insaan nhi hu Kartika. Aur tu ye baat jaanti hai. Lekin use isse kuch farak nhi padta. Mein accha insaan nhi hu Kartika. Aur tu ye baat jaanti hai. Lekin use isse kuch farak nhi padta.
- A bearded face of RK with overgrown frizzy hair says in a quiet and serious tone: Vo tujhse bahut jyada pyaar karta hai Kartika.
- A bearded RK with the same frizzy hairstyle dressed in multilayered brown clothes with a shawl on top walks towards the viewer holding the hand of a child to his left in what looks like a desolate solid land in a desert area. The child is dressed in a full-sleeved white printed top over denims and then assumes the face of the little toddler Yuvaan from the first floor. The vision then expands and to his right is shown a lady dressed in a red tunic set with multiple layers wrapped around her upper half as one of the layers runs over her head. Both of them hold a handbag each in their left hand which rests on their backs going over their left shoulders.

- I then feel a drone over my mouth and hear in my Spirit: Khyati is kissing you Kartika. Khyati is kissing you Kartika.
- Mrittunjay's face until slightly below his throat revealing the collar of his black suit appears to my left as he says: Tu mujhse bahut jyada pyaar karti hai. Lekin accept nhi karegi.

  As I wrote the above revelation, I heard the lady sing: Raanjha Raanjha kardi ve mein aape Ranjha hoyi.

  Jesus points me to take note of the revelations lest I forget them. After noting them down, I cover my face again.
- Khyati is kissing you again Kartika. Khyati is kissing you again Kartika. (The guy sings: Yhi sach hai..)

I take note of the revelation and this time when I cover my face, I hear:

- Mrittunjay will kiss you now. Mrittunjay will kiss you now.
- I see the face of Death Conqueror above mine as he's kissing me. I then see him insert his tongue deep inside my mouth as the drones also continue to move on my tongue. And it continues for a long while.
- I then see a young Milind Soman with blue eyes and a conical face dressed in a black suit over a white shirt and a tie sitting on the last few stairs with another fellow to his right as he's talking to him while looking in my direction intermittently.
- The Guy sings: Mera pehla pehla pyaar ho tum!
- The side-view of the clean-shaven face of Bobby Deol with short curly hair from the Soldier Soldier song as it abruptly moves to the right and stops in front of someone else's face not clearly visible in the vision.
- Manoj Bajpayee in a cream sherwani and a red Pagdi gets married. The accompanying song lyrics are the chorus of the wedding song: Dulhe ka sehra suhana lagta hai..
- I then happen to sigh hard to feel a bit better because of my blocked nose, and then I see: the blown air is hitting the straight hair base of the front flocks of a wide forehead making them lift in the air like the parallel view of a crop field. Apparently, it's Death Conqueror's forehead. I continue blowing out air and blowing up the hair locks around the forehead that I'm seeing as it seems to me a good and interesting thing to do as it's something relieving and soothing.
- Akhila stands dressed in a tunic with long frizzy hair spread outwards.

  I keep breathing in that manner because it leads to more air getting in my system and I feel better as well. The previous vision of the side-view of the human face of Death Conqueror breathing on my face from a foot above in the air leading to my yellow and black patterned serpent skin drawing back and revealing the inner human is highlighted to me, with the following words: It's him. Apparently, my breathing on his face makes his snake self withdraw away.

  The lady sings: Tod dala.. Tod dala..

  As I continue breathing out in that way, and it's relaxing for me to do as well, I see his serpent skin retract back. When I stop breathing on him, it draws back in, but as I continue to breathe, it keeps retracting backwards, eventually retracting fully changing the serpent skin of his muscular representation into light pink skin at which point the drones too come to a still. The breathing leads to the huge genitalia of the human serpent severed from its place as he says: I don't want it. I don't want sex. I want this. I want this. This is so much more better. It repeats a few times. But the state can only be experienced with a certain mind. It can't be experienced by the serpent self.

(Samajh gaye. Samajh gaye.)
So I continue breathing for a long time as the breath hits the hair around his forehead lifting them up in the air. Every time it is shown to me in the Spirit by that pink man, it's a signifier of the fact that he is overwhelmed by the breaths and the drones too stop moving at that point and everything comes to a still. And then I keep hearing in my Spirit to continue breathing in that manner as I blow air wavily on his entire face. I blow out air in that manner for a long time as it fights the serpent skin, and then I see the darkness that was previously inside of him retract away outside but I can see that it's a living force that has a tendency to be drawn back inside him again.

- A very tall Edward dressed in a full-sleeved green shirt tucked inside pants walks towards the viewer with two much shorter girls - one on each side - with his arms around their shoulders. The one to his left is overdressed in multilayered clothes with a grey sweatshirt and a scarf and wears translucent glasses while the one to his right is lightly dressed. The left heavily dressed one is shown to pass strong vibrations to his body through his arm as he walks together with both of them.
- Mar gayi bechari. Mar gayi bechari.

I fall asleep and when I wake up and get out of bed, I find that my entire body is aching as I find it hard to walk.

- When I was sitting in bed perhaps in worship, or writing revelations, I kept seeing Jesus hurling a long Paneer Dosa in my mouth slowly but continuously. And the vision repeated several times so I knew that I had to eat Dosa this night.

When I'm using the washbasin and it's dark now, I hear in my Spirit:

- Na to vo sunder hai, na hi smart hai, aur na hi moral hai. And along the sentence is highlighted Akhila. And it repeats for a while.

Late night
As I'm writing revelations, I hear: Kartika tu bahut jyada gir chuki hai. Kartika tu bahut jyada gir chuki hai.

It reminds me of a previous dream revelation in which I was running along the boundary of a high terrace and I fell down to the ground with my body facing upwards. But as soon as I fell down, I got up and with a jump flew back to that previous level and continued on my way.

Samajh gaya tu kitni badi kutiya hai! Samajh gya tu kitni badi kutiya hai!

Earlier during the day:
Jesus dressed in His attire of ankle-length off-white tunic with a red drape over his shoulder stands facing to the left towards the balcony in the centre of my room lit in golden light as seen from my position of sitting on the bed with my back resting against the wall joining the corridor outside and

Him to my right in the room, as He says with a stern affirmatory expression while pointing at me: Mein isse bahut pyaar karta hu! Mein isse bahut pyaar karta hu!

It was so nice to hear Jesus - who is God - say that. Wow..
It seemed as if He was saying it to someone standing in front of Him in that direction.

Later in the evening when I was in bed, I saw:

- Jesus standing in the center of the room and looking in my direction with fire in His eyes followed by His mid and lower body being consumed with fire sparing His head and shoulders as Love appears written in thin black font on top of the fire.

When I lie to sleep, I see:
The face of Brother Phillip in place of mine as I lay in the bed with my head covered with my maroon sweatshirt's hood. The follow-up vision shows him holding his baby from the video I was watching earlier during the day. He is walking around with the baby held in his right hand in a dark background. The baby carries pointed vampiric teeth and a demonic expression as he looks at me with wicked looks.
As I wrote the above sentence, I saw: Death Conqueror dressed in his previous attire of a full-sleeved sky blue top over navy blue pants saying in a clear affirmative tone: That's me! That's me!

He moves around more and the baby keeps looking around with that wicked countenance. As the baby is placed out of his hold on a surface, at times he changes into a calm baby with blue eyes and a calm expression and stays as such. He changes again to that vampiric baby with pointed teeth but becomes the normal blue-eyed baby again.

Samajh gaya vo kya cheez hai. Samajh gaya vo kya cheez hai.

This back-and-forth change continues for a while with him staying in that vampiric zone for longer durations than the blue-eyed angelic baby's zone in this particular revelation which makes me wonder if it was because he was in Brother Philip's arms (representing me) and then his behavior with me has been vampiric from the beginning, though in the dream revelation - Time With The Short Blue-Eyed Man - Mrittunjay had blue eyes throughout the duration of the dream.

A lightly bearded face of KA sucking gently on a nipple in my bottom left mental view. It repeats for a while as he intermittently slaps my left cheek lightly without looking at my face.

As I'm still writing revelations and it's past 5 am, I see:
A small-framed vision of Jesus in an off-white tunic with His red drape on top moving His palm over my eyes to close them as He is nudging me to sleep. I persist for a while longer as I want to quickly note down the revelations that're still there in my mind, and I lay down to sleep afterwards. But as soon as I lay down after turning off the lights, the Holy Spirit continues showing me small-framed visions of KA one after the other. I make a mental note of the first few of them after which I lose track of the continuing revelations that have now drifted away from KA but seem to be related to a generic situation. Perhaps they're an answer to the next thing - the next false accusation, the next false judgment, the next false perception, the next false portrayal, the next covert insult, etc. - that I'll be facing, but I feel Jesus nudge me to stay lying down and sleep instead of taking a note. You see, when you have an encrypted answer beforehand to what's coming, when those insults originate in the mind(s) of those people, the revelation also comes to life and serves as the Word of God that's like a hammer that breaks the strongest of rocks, and in the process, it silences those people in a way and paving way for them to draw near to God in repentance. I often keep coming across people who serve as wicked messengers as they communicate demeaning messages to me and the revelations are an answer to them. So this night, I only remember the small-framed KA revelations.

- A small-framed vision of the muscular naked upper half of KA near the balcony space as he stands facing to the left with erect genitalia.
- A small-framed vision of water pouring down on the head of the naked upper half of KA. It seemed like he was taking a shower.

After I woke up from my restful sleep as I had laid down taking an anti-allergen and a pain-killer PCM, I saw this notification from Swiggy in my phone's list about Chaayos. And it reminded me that for the past few days, I've been getting this nudge to order from Chaayos again which I stopped after shifting to this place. And then this girl said outside to someone: Madam chai le aau!? So, I thought perhaps I should order Chaai from Chaayos this day as there're too many confirming nudges. So I ordered the Tulsi chai with a few other things to be added, Tulsi being the main. That's why I used to order from Chaayos because I didn't have access from Tulsi and then they added everything in a proportion that highlighted all the ingredients of the tea!

I went out to get my tea and while I was having the same, this whistle from the beginning of the song Hum Apke Dil Mein Rehte Hai kept being highlighted in my Spirit.

And the whistle continued to play until after I was done and sat to write again, and continued playing when I was editing the previous page and writing on this one later. The whistle revelation reminded me that I haven't whistled in a long time and then it made me recall Shobhit Sir who at times roams around whistling melodies casually as I heard once as he was walking to his door.

I've the entire day of revelations to write but I'll do it. I think they're given, again, as answers to the thoughts of important people. I woke up with a dream revelation that summarized my time in A-16 and brought to surface the hidden reality behind several situations. And the later part of the dream changed my heart even more towards the short fellow. I never perceived reality in that way. And then I've the dream revelation from the morning. I have the vision revelations from during the day. And now I want to write them as an integrated whole of a story instead of segregated revelations.

First, I will complete the breathing revelations from the last page.

Dream (Morning):

I see a lean bald man with tiny spiky hair of medium stature dressed in an off-white shirt lined vertically in light brown that's tucked inside pants walk down the stairs in front of me holding the innocent-looking toddler Yuvaan in his arms. The stairs are present in the middle of a huge white-walled hall. He doesn't seem to be too pleased with Yuvaan as he hits his head once dropping him down and it's hard to look at. I can tell from his countenance that he may hit the toddler even more and I want to tell him to stop. As soon as he gets down the stairs, he throws away Yuvaan leading to his head hitting the floor which is what he intended to do. I feel gravely hurt looking at how the toddler is getting injured by his own dad for no reason. He lifts him again and throws him away again leading to one more hit on his head and leaves afterward. I rush to pick up Yuvaan who's lying on the floor and I'm too hurt. I find myself crying because he is just an innocent toddler who didn't deserve to be treated that way but I'm glad that his head has managed to stay intact and devoid of any bleeding despite those hits. I am now walking around with the tiny baby Yuvaan tied on the inner side of my left wrist. He's too small and only about an inch or so long and has the weird shape and texture of a beige flat, convex lens with tiny rubbery dents. I see that he is not breathing and is lifeless after the hits on his head though there's no bloodshed. I walk around crying as I am on a directed path and somewhere in the middle, I think of trying breathing into his nostrils and see if something happens. I do so, and see him begin to breathe though temporarily. I breathe near his nostrils again and he begins breathing again though stopping after a few seconds of me withdrawing back. This tells me that he is not dead yet though he hasn't been breathing for the long duration of time that I have been carrying him. I enter into a room where I find an ongoing meeting between people who seem to look like academicians. I can tell that they are not moral though for they break moral rules and practice ungodliness on several fronts though all are dressed holy for a show. I can tell from their wicked faces that they want to exploit me as well and make me comply with their wicked system. I exit the room through the door at the left end into a corridor and don't want to be in their stifling presence. A woman with a mic comes rushing to me and asks me questions that show that they're already aware of what goes inside for they target things around the real issues. The reporter makes me feel disgusted and I leave her and enter into a room to my right again and stop at the end of the room where I find a tall old person with a croissant figure and a round face with his grey hair tied at the back. It seems to me that perhaps he could help me in taking Yuvaan to a hospital for he can still be saved and I am not well-acquainted with the place while he seems to be so. But before I am able to explain the situation to him, he snatches Yuvaan from my wrist, chews him in, and spits out his outer top and bottom ends, and he does so smiling without showing any remorse.

Samajh gaya mein kitna bura hu. Samajh gaya mein kitna bura hu.

I'm now completely distraught and heartbroken as I turn away and leave the man. I walk out on the road and seem to be evading someone with a low spirit and a grieving heart. After all, I was carrying him with me all this time in the hope of saving him but that wicked man gulped him in and ate him in one go and now he was no more and dead. On the road alongside the wall accompanying it, I come across a long column of white cows walking to the right. The row consists of pairs of cows joined together one behind the other with the distance between them kept intact using wooden logs and this structure makes an extremely long row consisting easily of 20 pairs of cows. Because I'm running away from some people, I enter this structure and stand in the middle of the first pair of cows in the long row and see that at the very front of the row walks a small beige calf tied conically with the structure behind him. At first, I'm afraid of walking between huge cows and then I see that the distance stays intact and they can't come close to me and cause me any harm. I continue walking in this manner for a while and eventually exit and enter what looks like a fair but a demonic one and it's dark now. The people around seem to be wearing huge demonic costumes and are behaving in wicked ways. But it takes me a while to surmise that their costumes are a part of their actual bodies themselves and constitute their identities instead of being something external that they donned. In my objective to leave the previous wicked place and evade those wicked people with a human's outer physical form, I have now entered a space where people have demonic outer physical selves themselves and it's not questioned as they walk around freely seemingly being a part of society. The creatures have demonic forms with greater than usual heads or bodies with unusual shapes, and it seems that they're aware of each other's wickedness and therefore don't cause each other any harm, while I feel afraid of being around them though I am walking through the space not interacting with anyone. I spot a creature with a huge red and black demonic head entering the dark hall that I'm in through a door along the right wall of the space at some distance ahead, and he starts walking in my direction. I don't know if he's going to attack me but when he's reached near me, I begin praying for him thinking that he may be delivered from his demons. But it doesn't seem to be working. And before he can cause me any harm, I move closer and bending over to his red demonic nostrils, whisper my prayer into them said in the name of Jesus. As soon I'm done whispering out the prayer into his nostrils, the demonic creature transforms into a gentleman dressed neatly in a black suit to my surprise. He is shown to be a well-built Bollywood celebrity though I don't recall who it was. It was one of those who are not frequently given revelations about. He's a new person now in the land and it seems that I would've to guide him out of the place. I walk along with him and this time am feeling amazing in his godly presence as he is nowhere emitting the wicked aura his demonic self previously did. And while I walk him down the stairs, I am thinking of the place I've to get him to. I feel grateful for him for I am thinking that God blessed me with this gentleman's presence to compensate for the toddler Yuvaan who got eaten by the wicked lady! And I think that it's not too bad of a swap. I feel happy because the man comes with the addition of being able to listen to and understand me so I can build a bond at the same level with him while the toddler only needed care, and didn't serve any other purpose than to please one's senses by being cute and exhibiting innocence! While this fellow, though he may not have the pure innocence of a toddler, he for sure emanated a righteous, calming, and soothing aura and seemed empathetic and considerate looking at his behavior. I don't know how but after a while I find myself alone in the dream as I am now in a room with a few old teachers. And I'm supposed to eat from the things placed strategically on the floor in the manner of a game that I'm to play. I see a few such structures made on the ground and apparently, I'm not allowed to eat from them. But an old lady teacher with her white hair tied at the back allows me to play one of those games and then I can eat as a part of the game as I continue to play the same. That game wasn't laid out by her but she permitted me to play the same. (Weird replies as dream revelations to weird immoral people!)

After waking up, when I was editing the previous page, I heard in my Spirit: Tune usse bahut jyada pyaar kiya hai Kartika, aur jis din use ye realize hoga, vo din uski zindagi ka aakhiri din hoga!

Someone is repeating this to me. It repeats even when I'm later resting in bed.

I then get Choco Lava cake highlighted in my Spirit, along with a Taco, and I'm thinking of having a soft drink along with them - a Coke or a Pepsi, but then a cross appears on top of the beverage while Jesus wants me to have those two things. He allows me to have Atta Halwa as well. And when I'm having it, I hear:
Tu bahut smart hai. Vo apne jaal mein khud phas gaya. Vo apne jaal mein khud phas gaya.

- Kian Egans walks to the right with a long broom held pointing forward above his head as he seems to move it in a threatening gesture of hitting someone on his head who's not shown in the vision.
  As I rest and intermittently open my eyes, I see:
  The naked muscular upper half of KA to my right moving down his palm over my eyes closing them as he says: Kartika you need rest.

The same vision repeats with the naked, muscular upper-half of Glory to my bed's right as he moves down his palm on my eyes saying: Kartika you need rest.

Dream (Late Evening):
I am in a room that seems to be a part of a house though I'm in it with my supervisor and am having a discussion with him/her. I don't recall the gender shown of the supervisor. The person was shown as my boss and not my PhD supervisor perse, though I recall that the person had short hair and was dressed in an off-white tunic and was certainly not Glory because he was present somewhere else. While I'm having that discussion with him in the room, I am also on a video call on my Laptop with Glory dressed in a white tunic and it seems that I'm chatting with both in that setting simultaneously. After having an expanded discussion with my boss, I go back to being exclusively with Glory on the video call and am having a nice love-filled gentle chat with him across the screen. My boss interrupts me from behind and walks away pointing out something for me to do. When I turn my head back to the Laptop, Glory sitting upright with a calm countenance says a gentle: Koi baat nhi as his tone reassures me that despite any mistake my boss may have pointed out, it's still good enough to go and that I didn't need to be stressed out. I feel happy and soothed in his presence in the video call.

When I later woke up, this part reminded me of the time I was in D4 of A-16 and used to have Zoom discussions with my PhD supervisor in my room though I also used to be aware of Glory's presence around at the same time.

In the dream, he looks such an upright, righteous, and well-contained man in the video call.
When I wrote the last sentence, I saw:
Glory coming at my head angrily with a rod as he said in a stuffed voice: Randi…!

The dream continued: After the video call is over, I am shown to be sitting on a double bed laid against a wall with another girl who is giving me indirect promiscuous signals. I ask her if what she signaled was what she really meant and she replies with an unashamed Yes, and it shocks me because how can she be so forward with love-less ungodly fornication? After her reply, I shift away from her and sit on the far corner of the bed and feel a wall between us as I suddenly have exercised strong boundaries with her as in my mind I'm supposed to be Glory after some time, though I don't know when the dream would manifest, for I've the revelations about him from God and a vague idea of his righteous nature, and then homosexuality is an ungodly sin as well.

This incident reminded me of how both Pinky – my first roommate in D4 of A-16 – and Akhila – my first roommate in D1 of A-16 – displayed homosexual tendencies. While Pinky used to lick her lower lip consistently with her eyes wide open while talking to me, Akhila once laid on her side with her left leg extended forward as she slapped her pelvis while looking at me with promiscuous eyes, and the second time I remember she tried to seduce me was when she dressed up in a fitting yellow crop top with stripes as shoulder strips and she had a nude lipstick applied in the fuller style to over highlight her lips. I understood that she was trying to seduce me when I didn't seem to be affected by her attire or the way she looked but was leaving the room for some chore and she briefly pouted her lips looking at me with a disappointed expression which I coincidentally caught her doing while she lay stretched out on her side of the bed. I don't remember if I asked her why she dressed like that. Perhaps I asked her if she was going out because she often used to go out with her friend Shin at nights as well, but then she was used to lying to cover up her motives so she must have replied in affirmation or else she would be caught. I found it weird that she was dressing up and molding her outer looks according to what's considered attractive in the vain worldly contemporary sense. She kept lying there and perhaps went to her friend's room for a while and then changed her clothes after some time. She didn't go anywhere. I also saw this event highlighted in the dream though I don't remember how it was portrayed but I do remember that I was pointing out to that event in that part of the dream to make the point that she did try to seduce me.

Khyati is your fan now, Kartika.
The lady sings: Maar dala.. Maar dala..

In the later part of the dream our beds were separate and I saw her lying to my left which was supposedly my space in the room and her upper half was shown to as naked with her wearing just an off-white criss-cross bra on top revealing her slim figure. I saw her lying facing upwards and I wasn't getting a good feeling around her for she emanated a promisuous aura and then was often going out as well. (A little backstory: She loved trying new restaurants, mostly expensive ones, and she went out with her friend Shin. That used to be the defining event of her life before she got involved with the short fellow. They found it fascinating to dress promiscuously and go visit expensive restaurants they hadn't previously visited. And I once spotted both from the PG's roof as they walked together dressed half-naked in fitting backless tops which made me wanna puke out. I thought how can they be comfortable wearing such clothes in the first place let alone go out wearing them!) So, in the dream, I wasn't getting a good aura around her when I asked her something related to the same in response to which I saw her put her hand in her loose trousers and rub her strong pp briefly as she replied that these days no one wanted to be committed (or believed in commitment implying that things were mostly surface level). So I cross-questioned her in bewilderment if she would go out with just anyone to expensive restaurants? And she replied with affirmation.

The next part of the dream showed her now going out to fetch her ordered dinner. Her back view was shown with her being dressed in a loose half-sleeved t-shirt with shorts below and she was shown to be walking along the inner side of the wall to the left of the main entrance gate of Miranda House. It seemed that she stayed in its hostel.

(Well, I too stayed in its hostel but during my stay there, I didn't feel the need to order food from outside because the mess used to be good.)

The route she took in the dream wasn't a usual route to take at night either for the real hostel in the real physical world had its own entry gate that had opening and closing hours and people who stayed in the hostel didn't need to use the main entrance gate to fetch their orders, and also they couldn't go to the main entrance either because the doors would be locked after a certain evening time. Apparently, she was going out to pick her dinner up from her boyfriend as is highlighted in the dream by the thought accompanying her walking towards the gate to the right. (She often used to order dinner from outside. She mostly ordered biryanis.)

After she has brought her dinner in and is having the ample amount that's laid out on her bed as she sits with her back towards me, I open my laptop bag and ask her if she wants to try the fast chips I was carrying. And the chips shown are the loose white fasting chips that I fried in the current place that I am staying.

I think I was shown those chips because they had the label of fast chips because I was often fasting in that PG for I was still able to.

She takes a few and turns away back to her side to continue having her grand meal. I then have some of those fried fasting chips.

It reminded me of me sharing with her my fasting smoothie mixture pouch that I carried in my laptop bag when I was on a strict liquid diet.

In the next part of the dream, I am interacting with a short-heighted guy with a not-so-clean look below the building that I am staying in, and in the dream, it seems like he is my friend, but I am not able to have a sensible conversation with him he responds with confusing and out of context statements saying things that are in no way coherent with the flow of the conversation. I understand after a while that I can't have a sensible talk with him where things make sense to me so I leave his presence and go back to my room. The next thing I see is me standing against a railing of that building - perhaps it was my room's balcony's railing or the roof's. I find him still standing downstairs and now he has moved on to the road on his scooty and he is dressed in a faded and dusty black attire of a black t-shirt over trousers. I don't know why is he standing in the middle of the road blocking the path of the people behind him. His behavior seems weird to me. A lady coming from behind on a scooty stops by his vehicle because he's parked it in the middle of the road. The lady is dressed in a half-sleeved light pink short and fitting top over denims/trousers. She walks upto him to have a chat and he seems to ask her for Roti but after a while of him trying to reason with her, and he's reasoning hard and repeating himself, she leaves him and drives away without giving him anything to eat. His behavior seems weird to me because how can a woman or anyone driving on the road be carrying Rotis with them to give to him, and why is he asking Rotis from strangers on the road in the first place. I feel pathetic for him. I wasn't expecting him to be in that poor condition. After the lady has passed by him, he still continues to stand in the middle of the road on his black scooty. The next vehicle that comes from behind him is a big black car. It seems to be belonging to a rich person. The car stops as well because he's obstructing its path and out of it comes a tall man with a short Caesar haircut dressed in a yellow loose and shiny t-shirt over shiny black pants with a slight outward curve of a belly that looks cute. The short man in faded and dusty clothes walks up to the tall man and starts asking him for Roti as well. And then he spreads out the base of the front of his t-shirt in front of the tall man. It seems like he is in dire need of Roti and looking at the scenario I feel terrible for I think why is it that he is asking those bypassers for Rotis when I who is his friend and whom he knows can give him Rotis for there are plenty in my PG that I could pass to him. I see that when the rich man in yellow and black attire refuses to his gesture of begging with a spread t-shirt, the short man inserts his head and his upper half into the yellow t-shirt of the tall man which seems quite boundary breaching and doesn't make any sense to me in the dream! I feel too sad for the man behaving in this manner because I know that my place has plenty of rotis that he could have and it didn't make any sense to me why he had to stand in the middle of the road and beg people to give him rotis. Neither did he talk in a sensible way to me, nor did he behave sensibly with the people on the road. If he talked to me directly and coherently where things made sense instead of saying things that seemed uncorrelated or out of context, he didn't have had to stand on the road and beg bypassers for rotis. I am feeling terrible at his condition and it is when the dream ends.

As I was writing the above para, I heard the guy sing in my Spirit:
Bhool jaa.. jo hua use.. bhool jaa..

Post Waking Up
Oh.. The sun has a light..
Let's watch it shine.. For you and I..
Oh.. These open skies..
Can we just lie here for a while..

- Elon Musk dressed in a neck-high light orange fitting t-shirt over light blue denims and a denim jacket lies on a grassy ground in sunlight alongside a woman about a foot away to his right side. He seems to be enjoying the casual and carefree day.

I wake up from sleep and see:
The naked upper half of a muscular Dino Maria hugging a woman wrapped in a printed black shawl with the woman's back facing towards the viewer

Later at night:

- The bearded face of an old King Stephen wearing his crown from the part of the movie Maleficent when she went to visit him.

Uske par katne waale hai, tujhe pata nahi hai.

Dream 1:

I find myself walking holding my red dress with Polka dots. I see that its lower half has a long vertical zip at the back that has been left open. So, I zip the lower half down as I'm walking upstairs. On reaching the end of the stairs, I reach a corridor and take a right. To the left of the corridor lies a meter and a half high wall and to my right lie a row of classrooms of which I enter one through its back door as it comes first on my way. There are rows of long wooden benches and desks placed inside and I sit on one of the back benches of the first row in my path. There's a transparent cuboidal plastic box lying left open on top of the desk I'm at, with its open mouth facing away from me, and the box is filled with small cuboidal bottles filled with a light yellowish chemical which shouldn't be exposed out in the open. But someone present in front of me and the open mouth of the box tries to insert a thick navy blue drill with a pointed end inside, and though the glass bottles carrying the liquid are thick enough, the thick physical drill can still cause harm as the box's lid won't be easily closed. So, I remove the drill because extracting the yellow chemical out of the bottles into the air is forbidden to us as it will supposedly lead to a catastrophe. However, there's another chemical being passed around among the people. I see a round eye lying on the dark brown bench as a thread containing the chemical touches the cornea of the eye and it instantly leads to a chemical reaction leading to the cornea and the pupil merging into one another to an extent that they lose their defining shapes leading to the eye becoming dysfunctional. Now this was a real human's loose eye lying on the bench that happened to go through the experiment. Because of some reason, the chemical is already out in the open and now is touching people's eyes. I see it come in contact with one of the eyes of a person and it seemed that because of the reaction, she had no option but to take her eye out. It touches one of the eyes of another individual present in the class and he too takes his eye out. I see people themselves taking one of their eyes out to get rid of the reaction and preserve themselves, and it left a dark hole in that eye's place. The third person the chemical came in contact with happens to be Debajyoti Choudhary Sir from my department who too happens to be present in the class and is dressed in a polo t-shirt over pants. I see it react with his cornea and pupil because of which he too takes his eye out with a few systematic moves in a go. The vision shows the close-up view of the dark hole left inside his right eye the flap of which then gets closed.

I wake up from the dream in the middle of the night and sense the drone moving hard behind my left eye. That's the only place I sense them moving in that moment and I feel uneasy. I take a few deep breaths to feel comfortable, move around a bit and the drones stop moving behind my left eye after a while of which I fall back into sleep.

Dream 2:

I find myself in our rented home in the Cheema Colony in my hometown Pundri in Haryana – the first house on the right side of the street as one entered it. I don't know why I'm there but in the dream, I seem to know that I've returned to that house after several years and I feel good about it. I walk upstairs to the first floor and walk to stand near the verandah's railing. Now when I look at it, it doesn't look like the way the first floor was built when we stayed on the ground floor. This renovated version looks much better than the ground floor. I stand at the railing and look down at the people from the street passing by. The verandah no longer resembles the previous version of a cemented roof but I find the floor now has been changed to a pebbled pattern with the living area at the back. I turn back from gazing down and see the old dishwasher Aunty come slowly walking towards me with a smile dressed in a printed tunic salwar suit with her drape covering her head.

A little backstory: She was a lean and thin old Punjabi lady with grey hair she used to tie at the back and she usually dressed in holy tunics like typical Punjabis. She always kept her head covered with her drape wrapped around her head. She was a very calm lady and emanated such a righteous aura. She had a good home of her own in which she used to live with her old sister but they lived alone and didn't have any source of income. When my mom asked her how come she set out of her home to wash dishes at such an old age, she had replied humbly that the money would help them at least pay their electricity bill. She didn't emanate the aura of a maid but that of a grandma and she walked slowly with grace and was such a genuine with no deception and any trace of ill-will for anyone. I used to make tea for her and us when she used to come to our home. She didn't wash dishes before a certain time but now had to resort to the same at this stage in her life as both sisters were living alone with no one left to support them. She wasn't a maid by profession. I loved her because she was so good-natured. She had an old wrinkled round face with a calm countenance and she was very wise and she didn't have the peckiness and noisy immaturity exhibited by the maids of metrocities. She was an old, wise, and straightforward person and one could see her transparency. Her sister who had a longer face and who too dressed in tunic sets but had a sense of worldly cleverness and cunningness about her. I remember going to their home once for some reason I don't remember. It was a good home.

While I was writing the above, I heard in my Spirit: Samajh gaya mein tu kis jagah se hai. Samajh gaya mein ki tu kaisi jagah se hai.

I got interrupted while writing the above dream by the Swiggy delivery guy and when I was having my meal, I heard: Shayad tujhe pata nhi hai, par mein marne wala hu. Shayad tujhe pata nhi hai, par mein marne wala hu.

The Dream Continued: As I spot the Aunty walking towards me, I too walk towards her and give her a warm hug. She seems to have remembered me after those many years as she came walking to me without feeling any inhibitions and hugged me. We are now behaving like friends who've met after long. I take her to have a tour of that floor of the house as I myself haven't yet fully explored that area. The first room we enter happens to be a huge dining room with two dining tables placed along the walls between the doors. The bigger one seems to be a rectangular 12-14 seater dining table while the other one is a circular table with a much lesser capacity. The tables are covered with clothes with a beige and brown print resembling that of a floor carpet. Both tables have a covered steel vessel placed in the centre which when we check out contains cooked sweet milk noodles. The room looks to be a part of a hotel from the way it has been embellished. We think of having some noodles from the vessel because we know that they're gonna keep lying there and perhaps were placed there for the visitors as we see a few youngsters sitting around the smaller table. There's a short-heighted chubby lady with a round face and hair tied at the back among them who is dressed in a fitting parrot green polo t-shirt tucked inside denims. I can tell that the girl doesn't belong to my hometown but seems to carry the boundariless aura that most people from metro cities exhibit. I ask her if the noodles were placed for everyone, to which she responds with a No looking up at us with a smile though she looks very fake. I can tell that she is from the place I left to visit my hometown. The house seems to have been turned into a tourist spot as we see the few strange outsiders sitting inside the room. We leave the room and enter another huge room, which again doesn't look like a room one could live in casually but seems to be built with a raw artistic expression. The room has wall tiles near its entrance, and the center wall has a white square textured pattern as artwork. I see other raw tilted and textured formations on the wall. We exit the huge white room after observing it for a while. While we're getting out of the building, we find ourselves passing through a narrow corridor with a rotten tomato and a solid egg lying below. The Aunty picks up the egg but leaves the rotten tomato and when we've exited the covered corridor and have now entered into an open corridor after taking a U-turn, we come across a pigeon's nest made in the open to our right and she drops the egg inside. She tells me that she wants to take me to a place. She gets on her bicycle and I follow after her. She's too fast for me. She takes us through a narrow, smelly road where I try to keep my breathing at a halt as she moves forward ahead of me showing me the way. After exiting the street, I see a huge and wide iron gate ahead with an empty cemented square region lying between the gate and the street. I see that she is now further away from me. I don't know why she left me behind. Was she in a hurry to get to her place or for some other reason? After I enter the iron gate, I suddenly get filled with a sense of freedom and joy as I look ahead to the clean and about 15-meter-wide road. I see that it leads to a water body after some distance. I am moving forward with joy as I make a few jumps and float in the air with a sudden sense of freedom and joy. I see that I've not felt this way for a long time. It reminds me how I used to feel several years back. While I'm still in the air, I find that my black thermal legging has slid down below my ass but I pull it up quickly. It's too loose around the waist. There's hardly anyone present around with his or her eyes glommed at me that I should feel embarrassed about the situation or my response to it. I am not concerned about my legging sliding down but am over-consumed with a sense of inner joy and freedom experienced with a morally right mind whose joy and pleasure can't be fully described. I continue moving ahead, take a left, and enter into a wide spacious area with a cemented road whose end is not in my sight with very few people around as a water body lays in front of me. At the far end to my left, I spot a few people sitting together on the cemented slab above the water body. I now think about the Aunty. Why did she leave me?

I then spot Ashish and Ravi - my batchmates from school – to my left as they've stopped in their tracks bicycling to inform me something. I ask Ashish about the name of the Aunty as I can't seem to recall it. He reminds me of her name Sharbati and points to the left with an extended arm where at the very far end of the place, I see her tiny distant back bicycling away into a street to the left. Apparently, she's now moving towards her home after having led me to this place.

This is when I wake up. I perhaps stay awake for half an hour or so, but when I fall back into sleep after a while, the dream continues as follows.

I'm now back on the first floor of the first home to the right in the Cheema Colony and this time I find out that all the houses of the colony on the right of the entry street are connected by a shared balcony with the left side having a wall separating the street from a rectangular ground in which they've now begun to do some plantation as I spot a narrow muddy lane extending across the length of the field until its entrance.

When I used to stay there several years back, that space was often used for putting up tents and organizing societal or personal events of the families residing in the colony, but now I see it full of soil and rows of green plants sprouting up from the ground as one of the neighboring Punjabi Aunty is moving inside near the other end of the field.

While I was writing the above, I saw: Glory with an amazed expression says turning his head to the left: Ye kis jagah pe rehti thi ye!? Ye kis jagah pe rehti thi ye!? (Yeah. People had a versatile lifestyle and mentality unlike this place!) Madhavan from the (as of now) wicked trio turns his head to the left and repeats the same.

Dream Continued: I walk away from my house along the shared balcony on the first floor and now when I look at it, it highlights to me the structure of the floor I currently reside in my real life. When I walk along the shared balcony of my floor, to my right is the lane of apartments and to my left is an open field that's not harvested though. In the dream, I come across a new unusual group of people now living in that colony. I spot a few North Eastern Indian people there and think that the place has indeed developed in its mixture of people. But it has the same pure aura that I used to feel when living there. I compare the place with Delhi and think how much more better this place is in terms of the attitude and mentality of people where most people support righteous or godly ways of thinking. The environment and the air have that sense of being free of deception, and I see people having interactions in a pure way where they're saying what they intend or want to. I see how I love being in this place and not in that city of foolish immoral fools.

I now walk back and find myself with Sakshi working in the kitchen. Perhaps she has cooked something and the kitchen's slab is messed up and dirty. I see that she washes the dishes and cleans the slab which is almost empty now as she talks to me at the same time. After she's done, I spot two solid cylinders of poop lying on the kitchen's floor with a few feet from her feet. How did they get there? They were not present there before! I don't recall how she removed them. She quickly uses a tissue to pick one up and throws it away while the other still lies around. Perhaps she threw the other solid poop cylinder as well but I don't recall seeing her do that in the dream.

After she's done with her work, we both set out to have a walk. She was a beautiful and a fairer lady with a wide face. It's after long that we've met again. We walk outside the colony and take a right and continue walking and eventually walk into a corridor and find Shamsher Sir standing there dressed neatly in a full-sleeved white shirt tucked inside black pants. He stands facing to the left in front of the corridor's wall having a casual chat with someone I don't know. It's after long that I'm seeing him. He looks the same as he did when I last saw him. He is a dusky, tall, wide, and a fit man with grey eyes and his facial features resemble HRX to some extent. I find it unusual for him to dress in black and white because he usually dressed up in shirts tucked inside denims, or cotton tunic sets at home. This is the first time that I am seeing him dressed in that color combo. Sakshi begins a chat with him. It seems that he's ignoring my presence while I stand facing him expecting to have a chat with him. I can tell that he's ignoring me intentionally. We exchange a few words and walk back through the corridor together out in the open space.

I recall how he used to scold Sakshi for not doing well. She was poor at school and often got scolded by him. I find her voice too coarse and rough which wasn't so when I knew her back in the school. We stop and stand together for a while as he shares some stuff about his life. I see that he's standing out among the rest of the men that are coming in as he looks the smartest. I find myself thinking: Our teacher looks the smartest of all! And he stands looking straight ahead which was his usual way to talk besides looking in people's eyes. He was a very righteous man.

We turn to the right and continue walking together with me walking to his right side and Sakhsi on the other side. I am walking looking downwards and happen to spot his right leg as he extends it forward as a part of normal walking movement, and his naked leg flashes itself out of the black pant which makes me think why pants or jeans can come across as unholy. I know that the vision is not a good thought so I quickly brush it away and ask him: Sir apki job kaisi chal rahi hai!? To which he replies: Job kaisi chal rahi hai!? Ye kaisa sawal hai!? followed by him abruptly increasing his pace with Sakshi and leaving me behind as I watch them walk to the right into another area. I wonder what made him that conscious. My question was a very general question and pertained to his job as a maths and science teacher at the school. I was looking forward to having a casual chat with him but he got conscious and fled away in a way. He was some somehow more comfortable with Sakshi.

He was always a very righteous man and he avoided even thinking in immoral ways let alone implement them in his behavior. That's how the culture of the place was. People operated with a sense of right and wrong at the mental level. Someone having a wicked thought would be rebuked and corrected and that was the norm of the place. Most people gave value to inner purity and it was in the air of the place. Good people rejoiced in it.

I quickly catch up with them and am now sharing with him the revelation in which Hanuman tore open his chest and inside it was revealed to be present Einstein's face. ('Sir, apko pata hai, God ne mujhe revelation di jisme Hanuman ke ander Einstein ka face tha!') I ask him if it corresponded to him recently throwing a similar joke in one of his classes as he often threw jokes while teaching though none used to be ungodly or obscene but still hilarious! I share the revelation with him because he was a devout worshipper of Hanuman when I knew him back in school, and I think that perhaps me telling him about it will convince him about Hanuman being a pagan god and that the God I knew was the Most-High God who saw everything and talked to people through His Spirit. But he stays silent though he seems to have listened to my words. We're now into another building and Sakshi and Shamsher Sir are not in my sight anymore. Perhaps they're in the room to my left. I spot a middle-aged lady dressed in just a Salwar with a naked upper half with her back towards me. I wonder why is she standing like that in the open and not wearing anything. When she turns in my direction, I see that her front has the shape of a baby stuck to it giving it an unusually protruded look. She rotates around her position a few times as she is interacting with others. Her front definitely seems to have a baby stuck to her though its boundary can't be seen and neither are the detailed boundaries of her front visible. There're other women present around her but no one seems to hand her a cloth to wear on her upper half but everyone is behaving normally. The next thing is her now moving into a washroom along the left side of the corridor. Apparently, she needs to take a bath. I see that the door is left open as two fully dressed women pour water using a pipe on that lady who's now sitting on vertically folded knees with her back facing upwards and head bent down. She can't be seen as they're blocking the view from the door. I reason that there must be some problem that they're doing things in this manner.

I walk past the corridor and look back at the place. It seems to look like a hospital. I ask someone present around about the same, and they tell me that it has been built as both a hospital and a restroom as I see men and women around, not all of whom are there to see a doctor but to find shelter and rest on their way. It sounds like an advanced concept to me. It's nothing immoral unless a wicked and perverted mind gives the situation an immoral meaning!

Earlier during the day, I found myself thinking about how good KA is! And I couldn't stop saying: Kartik kitna accha hai! Kartik kitna accha hai! Kartik kitna accha hai!
Glory too is good but KA despite his stature came across as such a humble person, and on top of that he is monogamous! And I couldn't stop thinking how good he was!
The lady sings: Maar dala.. Maar dala..

During pooping in the afternoon:
The close-up view of the face of KA with a few feet long black frizzy beard and long hair as he says: Mein to baba ban ne wala hu tere marne ke baad!

I'm listening to worship songs. I haven't worshipped like this for some time and then when these messenger people who don't know God at all can make noises praying to gods they never saw and who never answer back to them, I too can spend publicly audible time praying to my God who actually communicates with me.

While worshipping, I see the close-up view of a dark ear getting tickled at the sound of my worship. It's Jesus' ear perhaps. As I follow, I see Jesus standing to my right in the center of the room while I stand near the kitchen area. He has red love hearts in His eyes as He moves around in graceful dance moves. As I move forward in my worship of Him, I see myself stretch up high and reach up till Heaven face to face with Him sitting on His throne as He then begins showing His love to me kissing me and hugging me. It is followed by Him holding my hands and swinging me around in a circle where I'm shown as a toddler who is flying horizontally in the air while He is doing that swing rotation holding my hands. Wow…

I also see KA rotating inside my room at the sound of worship while Death Conqueror dressed in the full-sleeved sky blue top over navy blue pants is shown sitting at the back seat of a car as he looks at me with a bewildered expression and says: Mein ja raha hu! Mein tere layak nhi hu! But I can see that these are his momentary thoughts and he is not one of those who give up easily.

The swing rotation with Jesus continues for a while and I feel so good worshipping Him. Later I'm reminded of the revelation in which He said: Mein isse bahut pyaar karta hu! which reminds me of the fact that I am worshipping Him because of how great His love is and how He has loved me! It wasn't solely because I loved Him but mainly because He loved me perfectly and deserved to be worshipped out loud. Such a pleasure to sing loudly to the Most-High God of Heavens who created everything. His statement told me that I shouldn't feel proud about how I love God when I worship Him because my love is nowhere close to how He loves for I am like an ant before Him. What I should remember during worship is that it is Him who has loved me more and in the perfect way!

I get an abrupt nudge to go rest. I sense the drones pressing in closer. After a while, I feel a warm comforting presence above my left eye so I turn my head slightly to that side.

Revelations while resting:

- I lie down to rest with the olive green sheet wrapped around me and immediately see the top-view of me lying on my bed in the way that I am lying in that moment but with my face replaced by the female Hillsong Worship singer Darlene Zschech emulating my expression.
  I can feel the close presence of the drone as it's pressing in closer to my face and I can feel the associated love that was present in the afternoon as well when I was resting. I feel something approach nearer to my left eye from above with a warm presence. I open my eye but am not able to keep it open so close it again. I turn my head to that direction and see: Darlene has her face turned to the left towards the person present there as she seems to be delving deeper into his presence. I assume it to be Death Conqueror. I hear: Ye isse itna pyaar kyu karta hai!? Ye isse itna pyaar kyu karta hai!?
- The view of a cemented grave extending away from the viewer in a daylit wilderness area with a huge cemented U at the place of the grave's stone head.
- The white witch standing in front of a throne clothed heavily in multi-layered clothes.
- The Wedding Date actor dressed in a suit with white wings standing in front of a throne.

I am straight on my back with my hands folded on top of my chest as I have begun praying in the middle of my rest.

I begin to see KA with his huge light pink love heart beginning to break from its top. So I fold my hands on top of my chest and begin praying for it to be joined back together at that place.

The crack in the heart joins back at that place and then I pray for it to stay intact at all times. It seems to be in a good posture now. As I continue to lie in that manner, I see a deep red love heart inside the cavity formed by my hands above the centre of my chest at the place of my heart. And the heart has the name Kartik written on it in white. The heart is moving inside the cavity. It seems it is encaged within and is trying to find a way out. It escapes from the top opening and goes straight into my mouth on its own without me even thinking about it and inside my belly after which I see the front view of a young and beautiful Lamia (the witch from Stardust) in a dark background touching her thick maroon and black hair tied beautifully in a low bun at the back as she seems to look into a mirror not visible to the viewer but to her alone. She is then shown as a giant with a tiny KA held around the place of her heart by her hands as she's trying to absorb him inside her heart. Another deep red love heart appears again inside the cavity and this time one doesn't have anyone's name on it but it grows bigger into a 3-D structure and bursts like a mushy piece of flesh blasts out into several layers and pieces. Every time I see someone's heartbreak, I pray for it to be restored back. But when my heart breaks, God knows how to deal with it. He prepares me in advance through revelations in order for me to not reach that state of heartbreak. The follow-up vision shows the giant and beautiful Lamia now wearing a crown with an additional thick light greyish fur drape attached to her attire around her neck covering her back and front while leaving just a slit in the center giving her the shape of a rectangle as she absorbs the tiny KA inside her heart who was initially present inside the cavity made by her hands thereby pulling the drape around her front to cover herself up. As I wrote the last statement, I heard the guy sing: Aur is dil mein unko chupa ke rakhu! from the song Toh Chalu from the movie Border.

After I wake up, I talk to my mom on WhatsApp call and she starts talking about the monthly expenses to be asked from Dad, and then she always talks about it in a survivalistic manner as if she has no money when her account now has more balance than mine. After the call, I end up feeling annoyed with her attitude! And I shove the truth on her face about me being unable to give her money now as she already has perhaps more than me (about 1 lakh) and I haven't yet found a job, and she behaves in that manner when she's been receiving money from her husband. This later reminded me of the recent revelation in which some people were asking me to give 1 lakh rupees to a short-heighted old man dressed in an off-white tunic set who stood outside the Dinesh Store.

Brother Philip is highlighted along with a voice saying: He is the Judas. He is the Judas. You're not the Judas. He is the Judas.

Post waking up around 8 or so am, as I was lying in bed, this song abruptly began playing in my Spirit and has become stronger in my Spirit now and continues to play.

The Guy sings:
Mein tera boyfriend, tu meri girlfriend
Oh mainu kehendi na na na na..

Main Tera Boyfriend Song | Raabta | Arijit S | Neha K Meet Bros | Sushant Singh Rajput Kriti Sanon

As I continued to lay in bed, I saw a few things.

Brother Andrew dressed in a fitting light and dark blue thickly patterned swimsuit walks upstairs, comes to me, and extends his red love heart with the words: Here's my heart. You can eat it.

After I wrote the above:
Maregi ye mere haathon se..
The lady sings: Phod dala.. Phod dala…

I am not sure if I saw this vision this morning or the last night before sleeping: Brother Phillip dressed in a neck-high multi-layered metallic armour comes walking to me in the open view of a day as he says in a low, quiet, and apologetic tone: Sorry.. I didn't understand you..

I felt a drone on the left side of my neck and it reminded of the Dino Maria vision because of his signature scenes from the movie Raaz.

And the following lyrics also played in my Spirit:
Bhool na jana.. Bhool na jana..
O jaane jana.. Pyaar nibhana..
Tum ho tum ho tumhi ho..
Sanam mere humraaz.. Sanam mere humraaz..

Which made me look at the healing revelation. It seemed to have been orchestrated by God solely to reveal to the world that: Isse shaadi honi thi! Isse shaadi honi thi! So that everyone knows that he is the one who created the camera situation under the pretext of marrying this girl (me) who has healed him which further reinforced the thought that the short fellow indeed wanted to keep things under the rug and a secret and that's why he had been using these covert methods because it's a thing of shame for him to get involved with a person of social stature as me. After all, according to him, he will lose his honor but I didn't possess any honor in the first place that I could lose because of him putting me in this situation. Well, why doesn't he get used to bathing, peeing, and pooping publicly by putting himself in that situation? I had a certain mind that felt shame while doing so and that part of my mind is numbed now. I lost that capacity to withhold that intimate space physically from the general public because of what he did and it is a real loss. I had a mind that wanted to experience that intimate space with a chosen partner in privacy. Can he restore that mental perception!? I don't think so! He brought that mental change in me, and because there has been a change, it's a proof that the previous state wasn't anywhere like the current one. So, he could try bringing that same change in his mental state and see if it corresponds to him losing honor or staying internally at the same place! Well, he didn't have that constricted intimate space in the first place to begin with that he could lose. He lived a life prostituting his body to the public under the flashy covering rug of society while maintaining the false image of a righteous man at the front. Well, it's about to shatter in due time!

Later when I was having tea with the Namkeen from Red & white packet, I heard a sobbing lady's voice saying: which rang my alarm bells.
Usne mujhe dhokha diya Khyati! Usne mujhe dhokha diya Khyati!

Well, if he thought he could hide and stay hidden after doing all this, he is wrong. God has a situation to reveal him live on public TV and not any stupid app or website!

When I finally understood the healing revelation, and how he didn't even look at me while I was the one who was smiling and falling on him in response to which he turned his face away, and walked away silently. What is it that this revelation tells?

Now I partly understood why he has been adopting these covert methods. And then yesterday I was thinking about the revelation in which he gave a high-five to someone with the words: We made her a prostitute! And I thought did he feel that he had accomplished a feat by doing so to a girl who didn't strip fully in front of even one man and he abruptly subjected her to that stress of being stripped to the entire world? What was he trying to do!? It wasn't a game. And then I thought perhaps I would ask him this question why did he feel that joy in making that statement, I also had my own answer if in case he asked me why I thought he did it to me. And my answer was that it was because he was a wicked man. After all, no righteous person would choose this way. It was solely because he was a wicked man that he chose to do this! No other reason. Because he was righteous, this method wouldn't even come to his mind.

And then this morning I was thinking if the bride had to be tested for her wings to be clipped in the end and for her to become a dishwasher when she was moving forward in her career path and was working on the next main thing of her field!

During as the lay as I lay on bed, I see a blurry vision of Glory standing to my right as he's asking me: Kartika kya tumne kabhi mujhse pyaar kiya tha..? Kya tumne kabhi mujhse pyaar kiya tha..? And it reminds me of the scene from the movie Man in which Manisha Koirala asks this question to Amir Khan to which he responds with a truthful integrity: Ha kiya tha! Bahut kiya tha! Ab bhi karta hu! and that's what I find myself repeating.

Later in the afternoon:
You poor little thing. You poor little thing. Mere ishaaro pe naachti hai. And as I heard this in my Spirit, I also heard a condescending sound from the drone which made me think when was it that I danced on someone's signals. I've only been following Jesus and He will never say such a thing to me because I am His creation He created with Love for a purpose - His purpose, not a mortal earthly man's or woman's whose entire power comes from the actions of others.

This day I followed the nudges to rest as I was led. And during one of my resting sessions, I saw:

- The bottom-view from a distance of the side-view of a man and a woman standing facing each holding up a baby in the center above their heads in the dark of the night. While the man and the woman were dressed in multilayered old-fashioned Hebrew clothes of the style one often sees in Jesus movies, the infant raised high in the center was shown as naked and glowing in golden light in the dark which made him stand out. As the infant continued to glow, its visible upper half expanded up in the air transforming into a highly muscular and naked upper half of a man with the face of Death Conqueror as he had his forearms arms like a wrestler who's showing his muscles to the viewer while glowing with golden light in the dark. As I wrote the last statement, the song lyric 'Show me your face Lord' played in my Spirit. This is the song I was listening to a while back and it had the birthing of Jesus as a part of it. Looking at the attire of the couple in that part of the song's video which was of course taken from a movie, reminded me of this vision I had earlier in the evening.

I get a nudge to lie to sleep and see:

- Several tiny white pigs come running along two horizontal translucent surfaces in a dark background and fall together into a dark pit below. A dark shape of a crucified Jesus appears on top of the dark vertical pit with His blood dropping into the pit.

I'm saved by the blood of Jesus. But who will save the pigs unless they repent? By doing what they're doing, they're increasing their sin debt and the load placed on me that I need to forgive. And they can not pay for their sin-debt in any other way besides the blood of Jesus.

However, the vision reminded me of this revelation from the past week in which as the drone(s) rubbed against my strong pp, I saw a light pink flesh tube rise up in the air and as the vision expanded it was revealed to be the horn lying at the center of a light pink pig on which rode Death Conqueror along with someone else behind him. The pink pig kept running in the wilderness with the duo sitting on top. The lady sings: Phod dala.. Phod dala…

Also, this day when I lay in bed, he was shown as a black rhino with his features in a dark background with its horn at the center being on fire as the rhino inserted the burning horn inside me.

However, I also saw the animated side-view of a dark brown horse with sad narrow eyes dropping a tear.

Anyway. After I had written the golden baby Death Conqueror being held up high in the air as she showed his muscles, and went to bed, I heard in my Spirit:
Kartika dobara mat bolna ki tum mujhse pyaar nahi karti. Dobara mat bolna ki tum mujhse pyaar nahi karti. Tum mujhse bahut pyaar karti ho. Tum bahut badi jhooti ho! Tum bahut badi jhooti ho! Dobara mat bolna ki mein jhooth nahi bolti! The sentences repeat several times!

- The face until the throat of a stubbled KA with an iron chain loop around his neck extended to the left in a golden background. Apparently, he is naked on his upper half and looks quite mentally spent. The follow-up vision has him dressed in a light pink suit over a white shirt dragging along several women with a smile behind him on the floor all tied together with a chain in a cinematic setting. It seems like that's how he is perceived in his field. Well, the second KA is who he can easily become because of his profession and how he looks. But he's not a polygamous person. But he can wear that suit even in a monogamous setting and doesn't have to wear that chain being half-naked.

- The smiling face of Shawn from Yeshu Ke Geet in a Hindu groom's Sehra with those floral hangings beside his face.

Later in the night, a fight erupted in the neighboring family. I too went out as it seems that things may get worse. After all was said and done, and I was back to my bed, I saw:

A fat infant drenched in blood comes out of my vagina with tiny pointed teeth and a demonic expression. Thankfully, he didn't climb up on me like the previous lift vision in which he attacked my lips with his vampiric mouth. This is the first baby that's come out and carries that partial demonic look. More fat infants drenched in blood and fluid come out in a line and float through the kitchen space towards the balcony and are carried to Heaven in a chariot floating in the air run by angels.

I see several fat infants drenched in blood and fluid come out and be carried away to Heaven.

Mission accomplished. (Heard in the Spirit)

I went to bed late at night in the dim green light as I wanted to be able to record something in case I had to, though I didn't. It was after the fight in the neighborhood was over.

As I lay in bed and felt the drones moving, I heard: They're all eating you.

The phrase was accompanied by this vision from the past week of a group of people sitting around a table with their plates filled with a man facing to the left with straight neck-length hair in front of them all. As I thought more about it, I heard: Lunger sewa accompanied by the vision of a chubby Tanvi Azmi dressed in a light orange tunic set with an orange drape wrapped as an inverted cone in the front eating from a plate lying on the floor as she sat in front of a glass window. When the vision expanded, I saw a row of identical women sitting in a line on a long floor mat extending into the vision as they all ate from their plates lying on the floor with a glass-windowed wall present behind them. This made me recall the green light Jesus' visions in which I communed with Jesus in green light. And the vision then told me that I was being treated like Jesus whose flesh and blood they were eating! And throughout the day, I kept following His nudges to go to bed to rest and it happened once that I saw Him lying on His side to my right in full-length attire of an off-white tunic with a red drape as He was hugging me. Though I could feel the droned above or around me being immersed in their experience, I turned abruptly to the edge to my right and I heard: This is what he has done to several women.

Samajh gaye.

And then I thought of how he is used to walking away apathetically after sleeping with the woman, or he will unexpectedly hurt them treating them like a toy.

And it reminded me of this lady from my own MSc batch who was going head over heels for the short-fellow as I noticed through my FB feed because both were in my friend list. I had several people in my FB list from my field, both male and female, whom I didn’t know but had them in because of mutual friends and because I felt a resonation at some level.

I came across a post on her profile in which she shared her joy about that time spent of hers in her college. She too was from St. Stephens. She had shared a group photo on her fb with several people in the pic who were perhaps her batchmates or seniors from the college – I’m not sure. But she was happy as I happened to read what she had written. She was expressing her joy at finally having a pic with the short fellow which pointed my attention to the photo. And while I was casually running my eyes through the comments, the short fellow put her down and replied with an apathetic: I was dying to get one as if, which silenced her as I could sense because of her lack of response and she felt pushed away while previously he was behaving all nice and as if he shared a good bond with her!

Despite me not having any kind of bond with this guy, I got an idea of the kind of person he was after I happened to come across some other promiscuous photos of him in a promiscuous crowd. So I saw that he had this capacity to abruptly throw people away and hurt them like Tejaswi and didn't feel bad about his immoral lifestyle either! Why would I keep such a person in any of my social media friend list!? I could tell that the girl had shared that group photo with the short fellow under the pretext of it being a group photo and she was trying to cover it up as she tagged him along trying to sound as general as she could, but I am an observant person.

That girl once when she was walking beside me in a group was whispering sadly to herself with her head bent down: We were watching Tom and Jerry! I could see her sadness in that statement that wasn't meant to be heard by anyone. And it didn't make any sense to me but then I had seen her changing her cover picture doing a perfect jump with raised hands and folded legs, and I saw her wide shy smile in one of her pics with lowered eyes and I could see how she was very much fond of this short fellow as she was once joyfully saying a Hi to me as they both came walking together in the Buddha lawns and I was some meters away from them. She was dressed in a grey sweatshirt and the fellow was dressed in what looked like a white cricket tracksuit. I replied to her Hi and caught a glimpse of him already gesturing his hand towards me to have a handshake, and I ignored him. I could see her mind, and I saw his mind, and I saw his mind was very much promiscuous while she was immersed in his presence when I later saw her again when I returned to the lawn to return a batchmate's notebook. She was moving her feet with childlike innocence as they lay with their legs stretched in a different part of the lawn along with some other people with him trying to be the center of the discussion as he was talking with unexpected sudden raises in his voice about topics like entanglement which when I think of now doesn't seem to go along with his acts. This short fellow is also Physics background so it was not a strange thing for me to come across people from my FB feed in my real life.

It was later saw how he triangulated her online and how she was left speechless at the group photo's comment of his, and then I came across dirty immoral promiscuous pictures of this fellow with women dressed promiscuously on both his sides as he held alcohol in each hand and it made me wanna puke out and then I blocked him! And as I came across more platforms where I found him still present in my list, so I blocked him on those platforms as well! No righteous person with a morally clean and happy view of reality wants people with such minds in their lives! Well, he displayed his nature of being a betrayer again in my case as well, though to a greater extent! It was very hard to look at the underlying motive or heart state through the outer acts and it was made possible only because of God's given revelations.

It all came together after I had seen several such things and then weird behavior that day as she walked with us. I saw that he could be as apathetic and abusive as Tejaswi who only sought out women to have physical relationships with while they were young or else they lose their value in his eyes! During the last call when I was breaking up with him, he said in a hurt tone: Kartika you're at the peak of your youth. How many friends you will get? And his response gave him away and I saw how cheap he was! He wanted me to be his best friend, and he would imagine family scenarios together. Though he put such a scenario out only once, after a certain time, everything he said was poison to my ears as it only revealed his disgusting inner promiscuous self!

He could never be satisfied with one woman. I remember him giving an argument about the number of lovers one could possibly have: 1, 200, 1000, or a million? Where was the limit he argued? Which made me think how foolish he was! Didn't he know even the basics!? He was not content because he wasn't committed and vice-versa. I didn't want another such antique piece in my life. He was the first one of his kind whom I encountered!

I later thought that the girl from my dept got lucky that he didn't target her like he did me as a part of a game or a stupid test.

Dream:
I am in Saini Uncle's rented home in my hometown. I am in its kitchen that lies in the middle of the two rooms on the first floor with a huge square open verandah in between. I find that my mom has thrown all sweet things away for Himanshu is not supposed to have sugar. I find the half-empty packet of Atta Bakery biscuits lying in the kitchen's sink. I take them out and ask her about the same. Why did she put them in the sink along with the dishes to be washed if she had to throw them. She points me to a transparent cylindrical jar with bourbon biscuits that she says I can have. She didn't throw them, I find myself sitting with my mom in the congested balcony of a congested home visible to behind the open balcony door, as I talk to her sitting. When I'm inside, I come across Pinki Mausi who's managing her clothes lying around.

Post waking up
Brother Phillip comes walking dressed in a grey sweathsirt as a brown demonic hand with long and narrow fingers covers his right eye from behind and pulls him back.

The vision repeats with him walking towards someone on the ground with an extended arm to say Hi with the words: Hey Pal.. And he was about to perhaps minister to him when the demonic hand covered his eye and took him backward again!

The voice says: Remember that he is the Judas. He is the Judas.

Jesus says: You can't record everything now (as it's like an overload all the time).

This event from my middle school has been highlighted to me several times now. We had this group of new teachers that came to teach for a week or so in our school as perhaps a part of their B.Ed. Project perhaps. And then they had to choose one or two students from their classes, give them some puzzles and record their feedback as a part of their assignment. One of them chose me, took me out in the lawn outside the Principal's office where other such chosen children were present, and gave me spatial puzzles to solve. They were blocks that needed to be fit together and they would form a picture. I was doing great at first as I arranged them as soon as she put them on the surface with hardly any time spent thinking. She had a stop-watch and the maximum time-limit was perhaps 2 minutes or so. I solved the first few puzzles instantly which shocked her and she asked the lady beside her how she should record the same. She told her to record as she saw in her watch, even if it the time duration constitutes 2 seconds for the puzzles constituting 4-6 pieces. The puzzles got harder with time and it now took me longer. At the end, there were several pieces - 15 to 20 in number - and all small-sized, so were hard to arrange and I failed the end part of the puzzle-solving activity. I couldn't solve the last 3-4 puzzles within their time limit as they were like an overload to me. And this has been highlighted to me in regards to my situation now - that now I'm having an overload of revelations that I will never be able to all record in the time that I have. So, this is a stage where I do not record what's meant for me know but write the ones meant for others to know or that which helps progress the story ahead and bring it to someplace.

Somethings are like information for me to know and understand somethings and I can choose to not write them while the things that keep being highlighted to me I have to write.

I will from now write what is highlighted.

While editing this page, this song began playing in my Spirit abruptly:
Yeh Pal - Qazi Tougeer | Ruprekha Bannerjee | Prem & Hardeep

As I lay in bed in the morning, I saw:

- An adult Glory comes out of my vagina drenched in blood and fluid and stands on the floor.

The vision repeats a few times.

While editing one of the previous pages, I got a sudden nudge by Jesus to go and rest and after a while I saw:

- The back of a lean man dressed in a plain cotton tunic over white cotton trousers as he walked away holding a flat baby carrier in his left hand with a fat baby dressed in a printed pink and white attire. He is moving with grace as the baby carrier gets dragged along. The vision then expands and in his other hand is revealed to be held another flat baby carrier with a fat baby dressed in printed green and white and its holding a square magazine or a label sort of with I'm Cute written on it in green font over a white background which it is putting in its mouth and is playing around with. However, the man is not being careful with this baby carrier as it moves in all sorts of directions getting hit by objects and vehicles he passes by leading to the baby tossing to the sides and it seems that she will soon be off the carrier but then the carrier gets hit in such a manner that the baby goes off flying high to the left behind him and lands on the face of a huge Jesus who then starts pampering the baby in His arms.

- Kartika, I'm the snake of Madhavan. I'm the snake of Madhavan , as I see a small snake head with spread fangs near my mouth below my chin, followed by him saying: And I'm in love with you. The snakehead then changes to the naked upper half of a dusky muscular man who doesn't look (Past few days, Night) I see KA dressed in an orange Astronaut's suit resembling that of Kalpana Chawla as he walks towards the viewer. As the vision expands to his right, it is seen that he is walking holding hands with Kalpana Chawla herself.

While I'm resting, I'm thinking about the wedding dream in which Glory sat on the ground with vertically folded knees with a bouquet held in his hands below his chin as he looked up at me. I saw how it correlated with the recent dream revelation that I was editing in which I got the company of a gentleman when the toddler was eaten away by the old fat person. Glory was dressed in a red suit with a white shirt inside - the attire of a gentleman - while he sat like a toddler when proposing me immediately before the wedding.

Vo marne wali hai. Teri maa. Teri maa marne waali hai.

Kartika, Madhavan is doting on you. Madhavan is doting on you.

While I'm having The Kartik Aaryan Meal: Kartik is doting on you.
After a while, I hear: Tejaswi is doting on you. Tejaswi is doting on you.

But I've moved on and I don't really want him doting on me. It doesn't affect me at all. Also, it reminds me of this recent vision in which I saw the side-view of the face of Mrittunjay facing to the right in a dark background which then faded into the face of Tejaswi facing to the right with a thin circular gold earring visible in his ear. He used to wear earrings because of his Hindu spiritual beliefs. I had this vision somewhere within the past week and it reminded me of the dream revelation Glory in My PG in which I told him in a resentful tone with stuffed anger inside that when I was with Tejaswi I saw the eye of devil as I pointed horizontally to my own eye! Recalling this dream then pointed me to the dream revelation in which I saw the devil's eye in place of Mrittunjay's right eye and then the three revelations came together to life!

After having the meal, I rest, and after a while I hear:
Kartik is here. Kartik is here. Kartik is here. repeating in my Spirit.

After a while, I hear: Kartika is in love with Kartik. Kartika is in love with Kartik. Kartika is in love with Kartik.

A crying Mrittunjay dressed in his previous attire of a full-sleeved sky blue top over navy blue pants says with a mouth wide open: Tu bahut gandi hai!

As I wrote the above, I saw a small-framed vision of Glory dressed in a loose white t-shirt over black trousers opening his mouth wide and start crying as he bent forward his upper body! Not that I'm happy in his suffering, but then I laugh at my own suffering, so please understand.

Earlier during the night, I say to Death Conqueror that he is not pure, and that nor is his intention to be pure for I felt like saying so because of his actions and impure methods. And then the vision of the bald toddler handing me a Bru Instant Coffee pouch directly with no deception got highlighted to me.

I hear in my Spirit that my words – that he wasn't pure – are going to stay with him, and that they've cut deep through him for they're convicting and I may never see him because of the same.

Later I get nudged to sleep and I see:

- I am hugging KA intimately and I see his wide chest wearing a black t-shirt that I'm hugging. I hear in my Spirit that he can feel it. He can feel my hug though it wasn't something I was intending to or thinking about but the vision began on its own in my Spirit. The follow-up vision shows me hugging a tall and wide KA dressed in a beige loose and boxy t-shirt untucked over trousers, again feeling his wide chest against mine. The vision zooms out and he is shown to be standing in front of a water body in a setting resembling the title song of Slam Dunk. He in a flash changes to the redhead Hanamichi Sakuragi as I stand facing him in that zoomed-out vision and then appears a wide and bold doctor's + sign in red on top of the vision which makes me wonder if KA/Hanamichi is my healing place to go.

In the vision, I saw a small-framed distant view of a tall, wide, and animated KA standing in front of the water body in place of the three girls as I was hugging him before the vision zoomed out, and he then changed to Hanamichi with the short-heighted Haruko standing in front of him.

Ref: Slam Dunk Opening 1 HD

I hear as well: He will always remember your sacrifice. He will always remember your sacrifice. This makes me think how, ideally, he should be the one sacrificing his clothes to cover a woman up. But look at what he is doing, and that's why I said that he wasn't pure because he displayed a demented view of the implementation of the right moral sense.

And I was also thinking this morning how he took all he could using the indirect methods he could use instead of doing things the right way and interacting with me for real in which case I would get the opportunity to observe him as well and adapt accordingly, but he enjoyed the consequences of being with a woman without taking open and accountability and responsibility of being together with her during that time and now he will act as if he never me according to the recent revelation! It made me think how I would never do such a thing because it's so impure in its approach. He wasn't even concerned about my mental state, or what stance I was at any certain point in time. But he did what he wanted to, and without communicating anything in a sensible and direct way expected me to behave in extremely specific ways.

What was he trying to achieve by doing all this, adopting this sick method? Because I can recall that I was seeing YT recos of a 'one-month' marriage which rang my alarm bells and told me to stay away from such a person who adopts wrong methods, does the wrong things, and even his right motive is also not really right because no one wants to be in a month-long marriage! What was the righteous thing he was trying to achieve by doing all this!? Was it to be in a holy covenant? But I don't see in him the presence of a mind that can sustain the idea of a holy marriage! He has exhibited by far the mind to sustain only open bonds full of fornication, and he can sustain several such bonds at the same time as he only visits those people or they visit him when he has to eat with them staying in this open-ended bond which is not godly in any sense. And if not for his marriage to meet the holy standard of God, why would he want to marry in the first place? It’s the same thing as if not healthy or eatable, why would one eat something in the first place? For it has to be cooked hygienically, or the space one lives in has to have separating walls from outer surroundings, or else what's the point of cooking dirt or staying in the open calling it a closed room when it's not? So why does he want to get into a setting when he is not able to exhibit the holiness standard needed to sustain that institution? Well, it is an institution in a way because it's supposed to bring us closer to God and learn how He thinks about marriage.

While I wrote the above, I kept seeing intermittently: The dusky face of Madhavan looking to the left with wide-open blue eyes and an astonished expression as he sits in the middle of the trio as he whispers a quiet: She knows everything. She knows everything.

Past Revelation

(past month) A pigeon sitting outside my balcony facing to the right lifts and slowly flies away in that direction.

While resting after having The KA Meal

KA says:

Tu randi nhi hai. Tu ek scientist hai. Tu kabhi randi ban hi nhi sakti.

Ye kaun scientist meri chakkar mein pad gayi! Ye kaun scientist meri chakkar mein pad gayi!

This time I was getting back into the mindset I used to stay in all the time some years back and I saw how blissful it was. I used to be happy by only looking up at the sky and I felt free. I felt connected with my environment, not humans though because most were full of cheat, deceit, and all sorts of ugly stuff. But whatever I saw around was pure because it was what it was and things worked like they worked and they didn't have the deception or rotten nature of what I would now call the serpent race. I looked at the lit yellow bulb in the kitchen area and saw how in the past the same would raise several questions in my mind and the questions didn't carry a sense of objectiveness but that of depth, and therefore whenever I sat to work or study something figuring things out in my own way, it wasn't an objective meaningless task that I was doing but I was delving deep into something pure which stayed the way it was at its core. Though what I was studying was not known fully to me, it was pure. That's why I chose Science because it brought along with it a sense of purity, and it could only be really enjoyed by a pure mind. A smart person can understand things, but he won't be able to cherish and savor the underlying purity behind creation – excluding humans because they only rot and make things impure. Their words, actions, the way they think, everything stinks of impurity – now I know better to attribute it to their sinful ungodly nature that messes up everything and introduces corruption and ugly stink in the space they possess. The stink produced by nature is not really stink because it is not in any way related to Sin. It still is a part of a pure process. But the unseen immoral stink humans produce in their environment, it's like the worst stinking smell present in the air that gets to one's brain and makes a holy mind nauseous. That's also the reason why it's those with a philosophical bent of mind who have the capacity to savor nature or science the most because they understand how it's related to depth and purity that's not found in humans easily. And that's also the reason why a philosopher would make the best moral scientist or someone who understands Godly principles in depth. Because a person with such a mind can reach the thought of the necessity of the existence of God by just seeing and thinking deeply through what he sees around, and such a person would also understand how God can never be like humans because He creates pure things and makes impure things pure. He is Holy. No sin lies in Him.

As I lay in bed yesterday, I saw how I was delving into that deep and pure presence all the time though I didn't know God. And though I didn't know Him, I was touching Him somewhere without knowing it just by looking deep into the abstract substance of the things around me.

A person with a philosophical bent of mind always gives strong weights to thoughts (s)he processes or things that (s)he believes in because (s)he understands that they make up his reality which is not constituted by the things or possessions or one's lifestyle. And such a person will stand his/her ground because what they believe in is the most important thing to him/her, even more so than his/her life. That's why such a person when (s)he loves, loves with a strong and firm sense of godly integrity that's supposed to be kept untouched by the unholy stink of the world and such a person is willing to even lay down his/her to actualize what (s)he has believed in. And that's a vague explanation of how God thinks. He has His statutes fixed firmly for eternity in His mind, and to actualize them in His creation, He would rather lay down His life than allow what would violate His mental statutes. He created the world and us with that same perfect mind. His pure, unadulterated, and unchanging nature can be easily perceived even by a non-scientist if (s)he carries God's way of looking at things with a firmness that we as humans would classify as constituting a philosophical mind. Lord Jesus is where purity, integrity, and love find themselves at the highest level possible. It would be wrong in a way to use the comparative word highest for Him because He is incomparable, but in comparison with humans and angels, He possesses those traits at the highest level, but when seen in isolation, He possesses those traits as they absolutely are in their perfect nature. So, a more general and perfect statement would be that He is pure without corruption and cannot be really compared with anyone. The same would hold true for two or more pure beings - they are pure within themselves and cannot be compared though they possess the same qualities. Now this doesn't involve any mathematical analysis to be understood but plain simple thought that's thought in the right way.

Yesterday I felt the peace and calm I used to feel some years back when I wasn't interacting with a lot of people. I only wanted one pure mind to interact in an intimate manner or form bonds with because a pure person would understand that it counts as a serious violation when the statutes that define purity are violated. A person who regardless of his living environment is used to thinking with an ungodly volatility would find it very hard to perceive the Holy nature of God despite living in a world that carries the essence of His presence everywhere.

The Guy says: Mein to nalayak hu. Mein to nalayak hu.

As I was writing the above part, I intermittently saw the Madhavan from the trio say: all my life I wanted a woman like you! All my life I was looking for a woman like you!
And then some other time he was saying: You didn't deserve to go through all this. You didn't deserve to go through all this!

After I was done writing my experience of going back into my previous normal and was now busy with a chore, I saw:
A small-framed vision of my supervisor Nivedita Deo standing beside her husband Sanjay Jain as she slowly turns her head to the left to his side and whispers to him in a seemingly apologetic and affirmatory tone with slightly filled eyes: She's perfect.. She's perfect.. That's why God chose her (for this task).

It could be a labelled revelation as well but often people are aware of their conscious thoughts.

The lady sings:
Bepanah pyaar tujhse.. Tu kyu jaane na..
Hu ikraar tujhse.. Tu kyu maane na..

Dream:
I have to get my Wifi plan recharged and I choose to recharge it for 2 months instead of one this time for I want to make sure that I stay two more months in this place before going home. I have to focus and give time to my PhD work and also see if I can give some job interviews. I come across my dad and don't feel too good because I've not made much progress in my PhD work since I got mentally bedridden and then I'm also running out of time, and I know going back home is not too good of an option. I pass him by without interacting much and enter into a room where I find my younger brothers with an NCERT book opened and I see the figure of a vertically longer parallelogram on the page they've opened in front of them and are discussing the underlying written theory in much detail. It seems that they're reading or understanding it for the first time which makes me think how they're still occupied with basic things. I know that the theory given in NCERT books is quite indulging and gives one a mental push and I know that what they're discussing seems too interesting to them because they're reading that theory for the first time, but I went through this process several years back and the theory that seems too interesting to them seems ordinary to me and nothing too new to feel enthralled about, though I know that me interjecting in between won't help them and that I have to let them discuss among themselves so they're able to discuss things with a person who perceives that written theory from a similar mental same level which is the best way to grow in understanding as it leads to a rigorous mental exercise and leaves space for several unanswered questions as well, while if one discussed with an expert who possessed a deep understanding of the topic, his calm attitude towards the subject may seem boring to immature minds, while an equally voracious mind serves as a good company. So, instead of stopping by and listening to their discussion and helping them out with their gaps in understanding, I just pass them by and get two months Wifi recharged.

Post waking up, I was perhaps busy doing a chore when I saw:
A small-framed vision of KA standing along with some people as he said looking in my direction: Is do take ki ladki ne mujhe reject kar diya. Is do take ki ladki ne mujhe reject kar diya.

The same vision repeats with RS dressed in an embroidered dark purple Sherwani as he stands and repeats the words to me. But I was looking forward to my wedding with Glory because that's the earthly aspect of the made promise.

I found this weird because I hadn't come across any such situation. Well, he can say whatever he wants. I always took him as a promised person for God's kingdom like several others with whom I will get to spend eternity in the kingdom of God. And it was because of the kind of revelations with songs considering durations of 100 years as that of 100 seconds. Why will I reject someone as great as him because look at the revelations God gave me about him! Though I can let the Will of God be made known to him.

Revelations During the Afternoon Rest

I lie down to rest and see.. Well.. as I began writing this statement, I heard the guy sing in my Spirit:
Rahegi sada yaha.. Pyaar ki ye daastan..
Sunenge sada jise.. Ye zameen aasman..

I had just begun in my rest when I heard: Kartik tumhe kabhi maaf nhi karega. Kartik tumhe kabhi maaf nhi karega.
Again, the only sense it made to me was that he wasn't going to forgive me for the rest that I was having that was a Will of God. Even if the drones were not present, I would've rested in the presence of God but in that case, I wouldn't be facing the breaths and drone movements and receiving revelations about people.

I begin to fall into a relaxed state because of the breaths around my face that seem to be putting pressure on my face thereby making me sleepy and see the vision of the baby suddenly being put to sleep because of his dad breathing near his face highlighted in my Spirit. It is such a nice revelation and nothing promiscuous. I open my eyes again but they are forced closed again and I can't help it. The follow-up vision shows a naked, dusky, and well-built man holding in his hands a fully wrapped baby in multiple layers that go over even its head. The man looks happy with the baby as he has it held against his chest. And while I'm having these visions, I keep sensing the breaths near my nose and face. One of them is saying: She's Madhavan's baby. She's Madhavan's baby. Apparently, it's Madhavan who has been putting me to sleep.

P.S.: There are two Madhavans in the revelations. One refers to the proxy name used for the muscular and dusky guy from the trio shown in Smooth Talk & Witchcraft and the other refers to the Bollywood celebrity Madhavan. In these visions, it's the Madhavan from the trio who has been putting me to sleep, while Aamir Khan in the recent 3 Idiots revelations is proxy for Mrittunjay, and Sharman Joshi for the third guy.

So, during my rest, I'm having these Madahvan revelations. And during my entire period of rest, it's him who holds the baby, and apparently puts her to sleep by breathing near her face.

He is then holding the baby about a foot away in front of his face as he looks at her with blue eyes.

He is then rotating around his position with the infant baby held forward in front of him with both arms as it looks at him laughing with its short baby hands extended out while being swung around.

While he holds the infant wrapped fully in a multi-layered plain cloth in his arms, it suddenly grows into a lady wrapped in the same way in a multilayered plain cloth whom he's still holding against his chest in that previous baby's posture with her running diagonally along his body.

Somewhere in the middle, as I am about to get up, I see: The naked dusky upper half of a person to my right as he hurls in my direction with a strong: You're not leaving me!

(Toot gaya Mrittunjay. Toot gaya Mritunjay.)

He comes with such pain reflecting on his face and in his voice that I decide to rest for a while longer.

Somewhere in the middle, I see:
Towards the end, the side-view of his naked self holding a naked lady lifted up along his body was shown as he moved in and out of her moving his body through the space while standing vertically as he had his hands on the lady's ass using which he was pulling her toward him while the lady stayed upright without any movement initiated by her. The lady was represented with sharp facial features like that of a living doll while her lower belly bulged out.

The same vision had repeated itself earlier during the revelatory flow with him standing against the wall and I lifted against him in the same manner as the above vision. In this vision though, I was represented as a normal human with my hair tied low at the back. Who in their right mind wants to showcase the person they intend to marry to the whole world and who does it for that long of a duration without getting negatively affected? No sane person would do that and then the short fellow was giving a high-five to the other guy!

Revelations from the Past Few Days

- The top view of a dusky and naked Madhavan lying on a single bed as a fairy dressed in white with white wings lifts up above him but he has his hands extended up in the air and he pulls her back down.
- Sharman Joshi dressed in a pink suit over a white shirt stands with his legs spread apart and placed on two benches from two adjacent rows about a meter apart as he says: Mein jeet gaya! He is not standing on the floor between the two rows but on the benches.
- Madhavan the Bollywood celebrity dressed in a sweater over a shirt puts a Salmon towards the viewer on a wooden table lying in front of him. He then puts another identical salmon and continues to place them on the table as they form a heap.

- This day I am lying on my right side and the breaths continue near my mouth. I hear a stuffed: Kartika it's Madhavan. Kartika it's Madhavan. It seems that the person is making me aware that he's not the short fellow but the more fluffed and dusky man. But I continue to lie in that direction. I hear: Mrittunjay is getting jealous. Mritunjay is getting jealous. Which is followed by the vision: A tiny naked Mrittunjay with a black serpent's lower half floating horizontally in air gulps in alcohol in a go. I don't feel like turning to the to the other side where, apparently, the short man's drone is hovering, because I didn't have many wicked revelations pertaining to this dusky man while the short fellow is the one who put me through this difficult situation. I keep hearing an intermittent and stuffed: Kartika, it's Madhavan. Kartika, it's Madhavan. And then a few days back, I had seen him saying: He doesn't deserve you. I deserve you. He doesn't deserve you. I deserve you.. with a genuineness on his face. This fellow is not emanating a strong wicked aura. And also, I had seen him change into a man in an ankle-length white tunic with two white wings at the back and a golden ring above as he lifted up in the air and left the vision. So, I knew that this fellow had a more functional conscience than the short one. He didn't seem to emanate an aura of exhibiting unpredictable hurtful behavior as much as this short fellow does. And then I thought if the revelation of the dance song 'Tumhare siva kuch na chahat karenge' in which the lady was dancing with three men in red and white was coming to life, because earlier I only facially knew the short fellow along with the general details that I knew from my social media platforms, and God gave me revelations to make me able to forgive him despite him continuing to behave in the same way. But now God was giving me revelations with this other fellow whom I only had the Smooth talk and Witchcraft dream revelation with. It seemed to me that He was now reconciling me with him as well though I wasn't carrying a lot of negative feelings because the short fellow was the one who kept getting highlighted in several different ways while the others were kept in the hindsight. I thought if God is now building a sort of this new chemistry with this other fellow as a way to invite him to His kingdom. Recall: the past vision in which Death Conqueror stood wearing an astronaut's suit without a helmet but was then joined by two other men who too were dressed in astronaut's suits. So, looking at these revelations together, it seemed that all three were called or invited to God's kingdom. What a great display of love, mercy, and grace by God!? So this night when I lay on my side having these revelations, I was looking at everything together, though I didn't know if they were going to accept Jesus as their God and savior, but I could see that the revelations pointed in that direction. It would seem hard to believe that people who would do such a thing could repent and turn to God and be led by Him through the rest of their lives, but who knows!? God knows who is His and those who would turn to Him and those who would reject Him. Yeah.. So, this certain night.. I kept lying apparently facing the dusky fellow who somewhere in the middle got on top of me angrily as he grabbed my throat with the words that I had been acting to cause division between people! And then the phrase: Divide and Rule was highlighted to me. But not really. I was drawn into that presence as it had seemed more humane to me, though I must say that I did feel good when I heard: Mrittunjay is getting jealous. Apparently, I was kissing the Madhavan of the trio and then I saw Aamir Khan and Sharman Joshi turn their backs and walk away together crying with sad countenances as they felt left out! After I had spent enough time with the breaths, I felt a nudge to turn my head back and say: Medicine le lena as these people tell me after they've said or done something which think is supposed to cause me grave hurt.

Revelations During The Rest Late Evening
Ayushmann K. dressed in a beige and cream Sherwani and a red Pagdi holds a long bouquet of roses with its base standing on the ground as the top rests in his left arm.

(Dekh liya maine tu kitni badi kutiya hai!)

Ayushmann dressed in KA's attire from The Kartik Aaryan Meal extends a bouquet of flowers towards me.

The front view of the upper half of Ayushmann dressed in the previous Sherwani attire as he revolves with a woman behind him dressed in a red Hindu bridal attire.

He is then doing sit-ups in that wedding background though lacking people, as he has a bundle of cash resting on top of his palms in front of his chest. He keeps doing those sit-ups and when it has been long enough, he takes out a bouquet of flowers from behind him and throws it at my face!

So I had these visions while resting.

While I rest, I see the upper half until the shoulders of a face resembling Arbaaz Khaan dressed in a beige shirt as he says: Ye randi nahi hai. Ye maha murakh hai. Ye randi nahi hai. Ye maha murakh hai.

The top back-view of a giant Jesus dressed in ankle-length white robes with a tiny me dressed in my maroon sweatshirt and denims standing some distance away in front of Him with my back towards Him as He hands out huge multi-cuisine filled food plates forward with frantic hand motions that by themselves appear in my hands being shrunken in size though, as I hand them out quickly to the general public in front of me replicating his Hand movements. The public moves away as soon as they've received their food plates. There's a huge crowd of tiny people like me that I'm distributing plates to after receiving them from Jesus and then they're scattering away with the plates. The revelation continued for a while until its follow-up. The crowd doesn't seem to end and more and more people seem to come to me and I keep handing them over plates that are handed over to me by the giant Jesus standing behind me. It didn't look like a shameful revelation to me. I got the feeling of doing charity to the public who craves to be fed freely.

The vision continues for a while, and then I start experiencing rubs on my strong pp, following which I hear: You please her, you please Me! followed by Jesus turning His blue-eyed face from the above vision to the left with a slight nod and a pleased smile as He looked sideways at the viewer behind Him.

As I was writing the above vision, I heard in my Spirit: Samajh gaye tu kitni dukhi hai! Samajh gaye tu kitni dukhi hai!

I couldn't believe that I was handing out food to those many people and that the food wasn't even mine but was handed over to me by Jesus!

Meri to izzat hi khudawand hai.. Hai..
Meri to daulat hi khudawand hai… hai..

Such a beautiful vision it was. How many people hand over food to others that's handed to them directly by God? Beautiful revelation.

After writing the above, I saw: the trio from Smooth Talk and Witchcraft dream revelation sitting together on a long bench or a seat in a dark background singing with a worried expression: Hum mar jayenge..

And it was followed by: Bhaiya All is Well from the Bollywood song All is Well.

After I wrote the above, I saw: Madhavan (of the trio) looks to the left and says to Mrittunjay with a sad resentful expression: Ye sab teri galti hai!

KA dressed in The KA Meal attire jumps lightly around his position in a white background as he pours down a small amount of coke from the diet Coke can held in his left hand on a regular-sized Pizza held in his right hand and takes a bite of it.

KA dressed in The KA Meal attire calls me Wife!
A very dirty and bearded KA with frizzy overgrown hair dressed in a dirty white shirt with all its buttons open revealing his muddy upper half says: Aa raha hu mein after which he walks away with a few red and white small cylinders in his hand which when looked carefully at are revealed to be fire extinguishers.

The follow-up vision shows the side-view of him having intercourse with a lady in that look as he uses that fire extinguisher around their point of connection at the same time. As he continues to do so, the woman's strong pp extends forward as a wide and pink cylindrical tissue with a curved conical end nailing him to the wall away in front of her.

After I wrote the above, I heard the song lyric:
Chamakte chaand ko toota hua tara bana dala..
Well, the song lyric reminds me of the vision of the person bandaged from head to toe.

As I continued lying in bed, I would hear: Open your eyes, and as soon as I would do that, I would feel this downward pressure on my eyes and these breaths near my nostrils and face leading me to a relaxed and sleepy state and it would be accompanied with the vision of the baby from the YT Short falling into a relaxed sleepy state as a man, supposedly his dad started breathing near his face. Every time I heard Open your eyes, I was expecting those breaths and the downward pressure on my eyes leading them to be closed again accompanied by the vision of the baby being led to sleep by its dad, and because of the revelation, I felt so great about the breaths. And once when I was fully drawn into a sleepy state quite quickly, I saw: the top view of the face of a newborn infant lying fast asleep peacefully. And it would be very hard for me to get out of the sleepy state. And if I opened my eyes intermittently, I was led back to the sleepy state. It seemed to me that these people were waiting for me to open my eyes so they could put me back to sleep.

And then I heard: Madhavan's baby. Madhavan's baby. repeated from the afternoon revelations.

After I wrote the above, I saw: the upper half of Death Conqueror with blue eyes dressed in his full-sleeved sky-blue top looks to the left in a dark background with an astonished expression.

This time I saw a few times Mrittunjay's head until throat dressed in a yellow sweater breathing closely on my face and making me sleepy after which he would act all joyously as if he had achieved a great feat and say: My baby! And the vision repeated a few times as I would open my eyes and be led to sleep!

The back-view of Sis Bia dressed in a white top holding her baby as she looks at me with her head turned to the left and body slightly tilted in my direction and says: Thanks for letting me know..

Thanks for letting me know.. She's referring to me letting her know how her baby becomes vampiric in Phillips's arms while becoming normal when placed on a surface out of his grasp.

Amitabh Bachchan bandaged from head to toe with just his face visible as he sits in a wheelchair and looks at the viewer.

The face until the throat of Madhavan the Bollywood celebrity from the rain scene from the movie Guru walking to the right with his head drenched in rain as a small monkey dressed in white sat on top of his head and poured a heap of small grey rocks on top.

Followed by Kartik Aaryan moving towards the viewer sitting in a wheelchair. Well, it seems that it's going to be me perhaps, but I will still worship Jesus.
After I wrote the above, I heard the following lyrics play in my Spirit:
Masih Nidhal.. Soedaar.. Chalte dekha hai..
Bhadakti aag mein ek phool.. Jalte dekha hai…
Masih Nidhal.. Soedaar.. Chalte dekha hai..
Well, wickedness has no lowest level that it can stoop to. There is still scope to be more lowly.

The face of Parineeti Chopra visible from behind a small oval glass window of the same size as her face which is revealed to be the part of a small white rocket that flies straight up to Heaven leaving Earth!

The same thing keeps repeating in various different forms which makes me think why would someone beat me that much that I've to be bandaged from head to toe?

Well, earlier during the day, I heard this as well in my Spirit and it rang my alarm bells: Kartik will miss you for eternity in Hell! Well, why did I hear these words this specific day today? Because according to the previous revelations, he is called to the kingdom of God and there he will be with me and other angels and God for eternity! Perhaps it was the Spirit's response to his thought that he is going to miss me, and then a few days back I was asking God that instead of giving Death Conqueror to me for forever, why didn't he give Kartik? I asked Him: Why didn't you choose Kartik who is a better and a moral man? Why didn't you choose him?

But you see, it's better to miss someone on Earth than to miss them forever being separated from them for eternity if you don't make it to God's kingdom in the end. And God's will is for all His children to be saved out of the serpent system and be brought to His kingdom. So, for the same purpose, He has His specific Will.

The statement of Kartik missing me in Hell doesn't mean that he is a bad person but it means that he doesn't possess the seal of the Holy Spirit that marks the children of God which they receive after accepting Jesus's perfect sacrifice for their sins or sinful nature. I need that sacrifice, the disciples of Jesus needed that sacrifice, and every person who counts himself as a good man or woman needs that sacrifice because good people go to hell all the time because they lack the perfection of God and their serpent half has to be reconciled back to God which is only possible by accepting the sacrifice of Jesus. Without an actual communion with God which is made possible by accepting Jesus as your Lord and saviour, no one can enter His kingdom. I explained this previously as well while expanding on the previous revelation of The Journey of RS in which his spiritual self was shown as consisting of a dual nature.

We accept Jesus as Lord because we are boldly accepting that we chose the Most-High God as our Lord which is a synonym for Master instead of choosing devil as our Lord who is worshipped in several different forms on Earth which is also called the kingdom of devil/darkness.

It was for this purpose of saving these people's souls from the kingdom of darkness and winning them over to the kingdom of God that God brought them into my life. Now they may feel they don't need to accept Jesus or that they don't need God in their life because they're stable and blessed in various ways, but after their short life on Earth is over, they'll have to face the truth which is in no way decided by how good you or others think you were, or how righteously you lived your life in your own eyes, but it's solely dependent on whether you knew Jesus personally as your friend, guide and God through His Spirit.

The lady sings:
Dil mein sanam ki surat.. Aankhon mein aashiqui de..
Mere khuda mujhe tu, ek aur zindagi de..

But sadly we all live only once and die and then have to face the inescapable truth regardless of how we lived our lives.

As brother Jonathan said in one of his videos that he wouldn't want his worst enemy to go to Hell for eternity, then how can I bear the thought that my loved ones will be separated from me for eternity in Hell which is a very real place that comes into perspective when one exits one's physical body? The Earth system is an illusion created to trap angels into a physical body and transmute them through a spiritually cannibalizing process to Hell unless they turn to God for help after realizing the truth of the matrix. That's why the Spirit said out of nowhere that Kartik would miss me for eternity in Hell if he were to reject Jesus (the sin sacrifice) whom I represent.

Ab pachtayat hot kya jab chidiya chug gayi khet.

Usne tujhe maaf kar diya. Usne tujhe maaf kar diya.

Earlier during the day, after I had several Madhavan revelations, I saw:
His naked self lying on the floor crying moving his arms and legs frantically like a toddler as a naked Glory drags me away from him with me facing backwards being dressed in the same clothes of a maroon sweatshirt on top, which reminded me of the previous similar revelation of him dragging me away from Kian who stood dressed in an ankle-length white tunic with two huge white wings at the back.

The Guy sings: Koi mujhko yu mila jaise banjare ko ghar!

Last night after I bandaged my left wrist afresh and lay in bed to sleep, I could feel something moving inside my bandage on top of my wound which immensely infuriated me at first because my wound could get worse and turn into a sceptic because of their unhygienic drones full of bacteria brushing against it. (I've been ignoring the gradual transfer of dirt from their drones inside my private parts but this was a wound.) And I began calling the short fellow as a dumbass again! But then I was reminded of the recent dream revelation in which I had the injured baby Yuvaan tied to my left wrist and he had an inch-long shape resembling a croissant. In the dream, I had tied him to my wrist because he got thrown over by his dad on the floor a few times and injured his head severely. And then the scraped part of my wound also carried a similar shape and laid on the same inner side of my wrist. So I knew that my dream was coming to life at that moment as I felt the drone move on top of my wound after which I began blowing air on top which in the dream led to the injured baby tied motionless to my wrist breathing temporarily. So I tried blowing air on my wound and it would result in the drone stopping for a while, eventually ceasing to behave in that weird manner.

This morning post waking up I saw:
The dusky and naked Madhavan (from the trio not having the facial features of the celebrity) lies on top of me as he is sobbing and says: I would've never done such a thing to you! I would've never done such a thing to you! And then I recalled the revelation in which he was lying on top of me kissing me while getting the drones out from the top of my bra before they entered in too deep. He wasn't letting them go inside in that revelation. This also told me how he was different from the short fellow! And then I understood why he had said: He doesn't deserve you! I deserve you!

And later I hear: Madhavan is in deep love with you. Madhavan is in deep love with you. and it repeated intermittently in my Spirit.

The lady sings: Maar dala.. Maar dala..

And devil is the author of lies: this too was repeating in my Spirit this morning. So it tells to whom the false doctrines can be attributed.

Past Revelations

- (Past week) A flat horizontal rectangular golden bulb with a curved end facing to the left in an environment lit with dim-golden light with a uniformly spaced row of tiny bulbs attached vertically on both its upper and lower surfaces, with one row consisting of blue-colored tiny bulbs and the other red-colored tiny bulbs.
- (Past few days) A long bony structure clasps a red cricket ball tightly that's lying at the left end of the vision.
- (Past few days) A vertical cylindrical pillar in a dark background rotates with three tiny women of the height and texture of the pillar standing against it dressed promiscuously in sarees.

The Guy says: Mein to nalayak hu.

Elon Musk Revelations

- Within the past few days when I was sitting constipated on the commode trying to be relieved, I happened to lightly whisper out the song lyrics:
  Oh the sun has light.. Let's watch it shine, for you and I..
  Oh the open skies.. Can we just lie.. For a while..
  And then I saw the follow-up to the previous Elon Musk revelation of him lying on a grassy field under the sunlight and the open blue sky, dressed in a light blue denim over a neck-high orange t-shirt over denim jeans. The follow-up vision showed his upper half abruptly lift up into a sitting posture with him carrying a smile and two love hearts in front of his eyes. The act repeated a few times.
- A close top-view of him dressed in a black suit driving a toy open black jeep towards the viewer.

While I was mopping floor, I heard the following lyrics playing in my Spirit.
Sau saal tak sanam ki aankhon mein doob jau.
Sau saal aur ho to usko gale lagau..
Sau saal phir milan ki duniya nayi nayi de..
Mere khuda mujhe tu ek aur zindagi de..

The other life the lady asks for refers to the second life we get to have in Christ where she would spend an eternity with Him and other righteous angels in the absence of sin: no person present with a sinful thought or deed - such a blissful reality to live in!

I watched this very insightful video yesterday about how the devil can use his minions to break or cause problems in Godly marriages or can create hindrances or unexpected (for people) delays in birthing the marital promises of God. devil often uses his minions to seduce the ones who are ordained by God to be married once they know God's plan because that's how the kingdom of darkness operates. Satan often assigns demons to the children of God to confuse and mislead them, or satan himself can be running after those children of God by planting wicked or evil ideas in their minds that seem to them to be their own to carry out.

Kingdom Marriage of God

The video made me think if I was being used as satan's whore to mislead people and draw them away from God or break unions ordained by God. But, I was the one who was given the vision of the marital promise in 2021 by the Holy Spirit, along with the previous tongues prophecy of Rebecca in 2020. So, how could I be satan's whore who is working for him? It had to be other people. And then I had seen Jesus for real on the roof of A-16 when He was the one I was thinking desperately about. He gave me the Y glowing in pink in a dark background revelation in 2020 which after I watched some videos revealed itself to be the Hebrew letter for nail (used to fix something to a place). And then during the end of this Sabbath after fasting fully (no food and water) for 24 hours, when I called out on the Hebrew name – Yahua – of Father God, and I was calling out on His name continuously in a row, He gave me one of my very first and important visions in which I saw an animated vision of a rotating globe covered entirely with thick black serpents.

While writing the above, I heard: Kartik believes you, Kartika.

I continued saying out the name Yahua and the globe kept rotating as well, followed by streaks of fire appearing on its surface as they moved from one point to another as projectiles. It seemed that the entire place was going to be burnt with fire! The vision didn't make any sense to me, but I was happy because when I called out on the name of God that evening, He answered me with this specific vision instead of anything else. It must have been something extremely important.

So I knew that I was hearing from God and was being led by Him. Where did I go wrong and get deceived!?

The first Bollywood revelation that I had was the dream revelation with RK in which he was gesturing me to a group of men that entered into a space as I found myself holding the green lookalike of my orange pen that I actually carried in my sling bag with Fornication University written on it in place of Win Guide. And this confused me. Why would my pen have Fornication University written on it? Did it have a negative connotation or did it imply that I was to teach those people how to not fornicate but follow along the path of God!? Well, the latter is what I would have wanted to go ahead with for I have enough moral common sense unlike the people around to tell me that God doesn't want people to fornicate. It was in room D1, after I shifted with Akhila, that such revelations began which I interpreted in a godly way. I had the first dream revelation related to KA in that room, and it had me enter a building at night with Malang Malang written in glowing red on top of the door.
And then when I shifted to A-10, other Bollywood celebrities joined in. I thought they all were being called to the kingdom of Heaven and that's why they were being shown to me in those revelations.
The lady sings: Phod dala.. Phod dala..

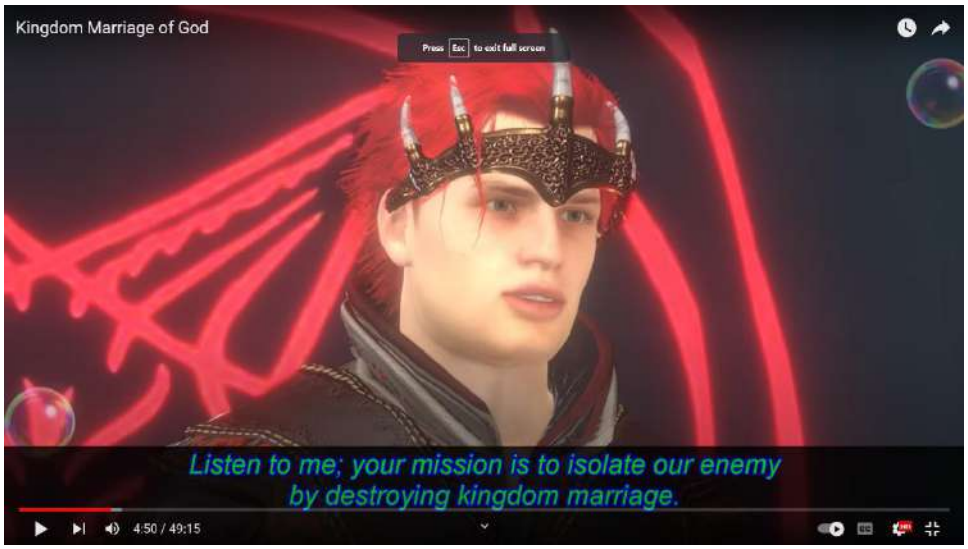
In the video, satan assigns his worker June to destroy her ex-boyfriend David's godly union with Maliah as they work together to expand the kingdom of God and are a threat to his kingdom. He asks June to give them a cursed gift that is supposed to cause problems in their marriage. David knows how cunning and clever she is and that she is a satanist, so he tells her to go away and asks Malia to stay away from her. But Maliah seems to have a soft spot for June as she doesn't know her personally. June sees this as a weak point and gives the gift to Maliah instead which causes her to have illusions of her husband having affairs with other women which leads to her quarreling with him and wanting to stay alone and isolated. Eventually, Jesus intervenes and asks one of His workers to go tell David about the cursed gift of a golden cross. After David throws it away and prays together with her, they are back to being the normal couple they previously were.



June extends the cursed wedding gift handed over to her by satan to Maliah for it to work its illusion and destroy her marriage with David.

This part made me think if I served as satan's whore in RS and DP's marriage, or was it RS who was the whore sent by satan to cause a delay in my and Glory's wedding!

And while I was posting the pictures as a part of the Page's first raw format in the Notebook, I saw: DP, dressed graciously in a white saree covering her fully, becomes abruptly furious with a dark brown face, as she turns her face to the left and starts hitting RS on his head with frantic hand movements!

Kartika, ab sab ayenge tere paas!

Well, the revelations also highlighted the coming heart states of people, so though fleshly, they were based on truth. And they also highlighted the people who witnessed me being telecasted online and followed my revelation journey as I received those revelations.

Because of the cursed gift, Maliah begins to have dreams that make her doubt David's commitment to her. In those dreams, she sees him committing adultery with another soldier of God and later with the satanist June. This leads to her not feeling good about things in general leading her to isolate herself and become depressed.

Well, I don't know if I got involved in a heavy spiritual warfare where both Jesus and Satan were pulling me to their sides by giving me their respective revelations. That's the battle that every person faces on Earth. While those who are in the world oblivious of its spiritual reality are already a part of the kingdom of satan, those who are saved with the Holy Spirit inside them face continuous spiritual warfare because of the demons that try to pull them back into the world as they don't want those who chose to be a part of this system once to get out of it by discovering the truth. All earthlings are slaves to the serpent race and no wicked master or system wants to lose its slaves. They're not slaves in the traditional sense, but they're slaves of the system because they're following a false system that's an illusion while being oblivious of what lies ahead in store for their souls after they shed off the prison suit of the physical body. satan and his demons have dominion over Earth and it constitutes their kingdom. Why would they then want to have people get transferred from their kingdom to the kingdom of God in Heaven that they were thrown out of? It's much like satan taking a king of revenge on God by taking those people's souls to hell with them as he got rejected out of Heaven because of his rebellion against God. We're now seeing an earthly version of how the spiritual war works. If the camera people did things in the morally right or godly way, my suffering and this situation wouldn't have extended to this extent. But they continue to sin knowing that it's wrong and rebel against the commonsensical moral statutes, for to them, it's a matter of proving that their wrong and sinful way is justified and right, though they're aware that it's not. But they want to create a reality in which their wrong ways are accepted and implemented knowing that the righteous group of people will not want to comply with them. So you see, my situation has turned out to be a long-term battle between a group that's in the wrong and me who standing in the right. Now if those in the wrong chose to be in the right from the beginning, there wouldn't have been this extended war! But they would rather war and force their wrong and sinful ways and methods instead of simply accepting what's right in the moral and godly sense. It's a war between two mindsets.

In the same way, we're in a long-term war between satan's kingdom and God's kingdom the end of which has already been written. God will extract His remnant that chose to stick with Him, and then judge the serpent race by burning the Earth with fire, followed by throwing them, the demons, and satan into Hell which represents everlasting torment in the lake of fire that never ceases to burn.

So, there's a parallel between my situation and the war between the two kingdoms. It will make more sense to unbelievers than to believers to whom it will look like a very narrow view of reality, but to unbelievers, it's an eye-opening comparison.

It's satan's pride to have a world of his sense of immoral liberalism instead of one that follows God's Holy statutes that makes Him continuously devise new plans and tactics to target whatever of God's kingdom lives on Earth in the form of His people carrying His Spirit.

Whenever a person receives the Holy Spirit and becomes a part of the kingdom of God on Earth, it's a threat to their kingdom because the people of God follow His goldy statutes while those from satan's kingdom follow his sense of immoral liberalism. satan hates everything that's holy and he targets the minds of people – that's his playground.

Yeah. So, looking at how Maliah began to have revelations that were supposed to cause problems between her and David, I happened to question if the revelations pertaining to those people were meant to take me away from my God-given promise of marriage, though at first, I was taking them as a means to call them to become a part of the Kingdom of God.

And all those people that I had revelations about were strong in the world and a part of satan's kingdom without knowing it. So, could they be unknowingly serving as satan's whores to take a person away from the kingdom of God, or will they choose to leave the kingdom of satan and become a part of the kingdom of God now that they've come across the spiritual reality of the system. satan is an adamant continuous sinner and a reprobate. Knowing that what he does is wrong, he still does it and has been deceiving humankind for centuries and keeping them under his illusion of the false reality of the system meant to facilitate his ways over the Most-High God's.

Samajh gaye.

Because of the arguments between David and Maliah, satan is happy because he hates what is godly. He tries to seduce people to commit adultery against their partners or fornicate outside of a covenant. He convinces people that it's okay to sin a little bit or it's ok to choose what's plainly wrong.

He plants wicked seeds in the minds of people convincing them to commit one or other type of sin!

Yeah. So, the Bollywood revelations and those ones related to Death Conqueror seemed to me as revelations that revealed to me the people in the world who were unknowingly serving the whores of satan but had the potential to turn to God's kingdom.

Anyone can be used as the whore of satan unless they give their lives to the Most-High God by surrendering to Jesus. And then I wondered if it was satan giving me revelations with those other people. Why would I receive the revelation of Time with the Short Blue-Eyed Man when Death conqueror nowhere is that moral person? It was just a false revelation meant to delude me and give space to the possibility of situations I wasn't supposed to be in or those that couldn't possibly be! Because he doesn't possess that persona! When did he choose the right godly way? And then he smirks and laughs at the sufferings of others caused by him! devil can show a person behaving in godly ways just like he told June to behave in front of David to cause problems between him and June!

Kabhi maaf nhi karunga Kartika Tujhe! Kabhi maaf nhi karunga Kartika tujhe!

Well, I will say even meaner things!

I don't know if the dream was a summary of 2020, or if it was God's answer to something that He gave in the manner He does by summarizing the past aptly in dreams.

What did I do to him that I need his forgiveness!? And his super-foolish friends in that past revelation - instead of asking him to choose the right way and not sin and put me under stress and pain, they are not looking at his crime and sin, but are making statements such as: Tu iske chakkar mein kaise pad gaya! Tujhe to bahut ladkiya mil jayegi!

Didn't those moral fools look at what I was going through? But how can they!? They're as apathetic and abusive as him! Like ungodly partners-in-crime, they supported him and his wicked deed!

After I had written my thoughts about the dream revelation with the Blue-Eyed man above, I heard in my Spirit the singer from the song sing:
Jo mile usme.. kaat lenge hum..
Thodi khushiya.. thode aansu.. baant lenge hum..
Jiya jaye na jaye na jaye na.. O re Piya re..

Well, back in 2020, I living alone in my parental apartment with my youngest brother. It had taken me several weeks to clean it thoroughly after I returned from my PG as my dad the maid leave leading to it becoming extremely dirty while he was living alone. There was peace and I used to take care of everything, and then these thuds used to keep coming from upstairs intermittently throughout the day. Well, before my mom returned with Himanshu, things were peaceful and good in my mind. After she returned, I knew that the home was going to be messed up no matter how I managed it because of the way she worked, and then she wasn't in too good terms with me and I knew her nagging nature. I saw the peace disrupt after her arrival and she would nag and shout about menial things she didn't to shout about.

I'm not sure what the dream represents. But during 2020, I used to be busy with household chores intermittently getting immersed in the presence of the short-fellow. And when my dad used to be at home, I used to feel a pressure to talk to him about this fellow, though I never did because things weren't too clear.

Meanwhile, Jesus sees the effect of the cursed gift that had been causing those problems between David and Maliah.

Even a cross can be cursed because it's not an object or person that has power but the Holy Spirit that resides inside a person.

Jesus tells one of His other daughters Kenya to go inform David about the gift responsible for Maliah's changed behavior. David throws the gift out.

After having my meal, I felt heavy and drawn to rest for a while. I thought I would continue writing after a while.

During my rest, I saw:

- The front view of Jesus dressed in a multilayered white attire with a dark brown face, wide-open eyes, and a seemingly unstable and disturbed expression, as He stands in a dark background and throws parallelly outwards plates filled with food with quick and frantic hand movements. As the drone(s) hit(s) my strong pp, I see the huge genitalia trunk erect and hit His forehead.

Kartika sab rone lag jayenge, bas kar! Kartika sab rone lag jayenge, bas kar!

- The upper half of a toddler with shoulder-length frizzy hair dressed in a full-sleeved shirt with a black waistcoat on top looking innocently at the viewer as (s)he stands against the closed door of a car.
  I see someone pulling away at my right nipple. The face changes from the dusky man to the short fellow as they commit the act.

I am not feeling good in my rest as I want true private restful time with the Spirit of God with no drones broadcasting me and thereby inhibiting to some extent my freedom of expression.

So I get up and sit against the wall instead though I want to lie down and rest. I then see: Jesus pulling away at the half-uncovered chocolate bar that I bought yesterday while moving His head slightly around - partly resembling the way I saw the faces pulling away at the nipple!

Well, I thought: Ok.. Jesus wants me to have the chocolate now.

Or perhaps He was reflecting back to those people who they were.

As I felt the breaths on my face now while sitting, I was turning my face away from them as I knew that they could only control me if I let them. So I kept turning my face away, and then I saw: The upper half of the dusky Madhavan near the ceiling looking down at me with wide-open eyes as he said: Ye hum me se nahi hai. Ye hum me se nahi hai. followed by She doesn't think like us, she doesn't act like us, she doesn't behave like us! Well, don't they know that the traits of diversity and uniqueness are ingrained in Nature? And why should I be like them? It seemed that they were referring to me as being someone who wouldn't become a part of their hive mind. But why should I? Are they being one-minded because of some useful and godly reason that I should be one mind with them? Why should I be one mind with them in their wicked ways!? They're the ones who should be one mind with the mind of Christ! Don't they know that Christ has called us to be like Him! I'm one mind with my moral and righteous family in Christ and identify with them, but why should I be one mind with these people!? I will choose the people whom to become one mind with as I find them displaying the presence of godly traits. They can choose to be one mind with me and think in better ways but I should be one mind with them become worse!? What will I gain from that? It only amounts to losing what's valuable and what's not recognized as valuable by foolish and corrupt minds like theirs!

Samajh gaye hum kitne bekaar aur ghatiya hai! Well, if they would spend time with Jesus, they will be able to learn several things from Him and become like Him inwardly and as they become more and more like Him, they would feel such peace and contentment that would surpass their knowledge of their worldly status or wealth and they will feel like a new creation giving value to the inner spiritual being inside that has now begun to burst forth inside of them with the fruits of the Spirit.

I can possess the love of God for them, but why should I follow the ways of devil?

Well, most of the world is not like them because normal people won't do what they did.
I feel my groin's skin being strongly stretched accompanied with a bit of pain and I hear:
Vo tujhe phaad raha hai. Vo tujhe phaad raha hai!

Past Revelations

I fall into a brief sleep during my rest in the afternoon during the past few days and have this brief dream.

- I see the vision shift from my face to Death Conqueror's and every time it shifts to his face, I hear myself saying: Prisoner at home in a partly robotic voice. The vision would shift back to my face and when it would back again to his face, I would say again: Prisoner at home. It repeats a few times until the vision finally shifts to the outside of the room's door where I see someone standing as a beige dog walks out of the room in front of him leaving imprinted depressions on the flat green grassy mat covering the floor outside the door.
- (Past week) It's night and I'm lying in bed to sleep and I'm having some revelations when I see a bearded but slightly fluffed Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic standing facing to the right as he looks at me with wide-open eyes and says nodding his head in a stuffed affirmatory tone: Mein HU Raanjha! Mein HU Raanjha! Mein HU Raanjha! The vision repeated a few times!

Well, this is the first time that I'm receiving such a revelation. When I first heard Heer Ranjha Heer Ranjha repeating in my Spirit, I didn't understand the context in which I had heard the same or the people it referred to, and I found the revelation weird because I never watched the movie and neither didn't know the storyline either.

The Devil's Trap

Recall: The past dream revelation in which I was sitting in a room where I could hear the sound of a group of people worshipping devil outside, and because I was surrounded by the sound, I found myself getting drawn into singing along followed by the black dragon head of devil appearing with a pleased smile as it pressed in closer to my left side. As soon as I realized that I was being drawn in by the sound I was surrounded by, I became vigilant of my thoughts and mental state leading to the dragon head losing its smile and withdrawing back.
In the later part of the dream, I fell into the mouth of a huge and wide white serpent that stood erect on the floor with its jaw wide open facing in the upward direction. The act of me falling into the mouth of the serpent was replayed a few times and then I was stuck inside his body that served as a trap. How would that person crawl up and get out of that long pure white serpent is what the observing me thought. He escaped by tearing apart the serpent's tail near the ground which was also replayed to me a few times as well.

These aunties outside keep singing praises to the devil and almost everyone in the place sings praises to devil and follows him.

One of these specific past few days, I kept seeing a blurry figure of Jesus dressed in an ankle-length off-white tunic with a red drape on top pointing me to and fro between the table and the bed, and whenever I would lie in bed, it would show me to open my legs as it would hold them in the vision and separate them, and I saw the side-view of the face of the apparent Jesus moving His face with closed eyes in a manner that I could tell was affected. I thought why does He want me to move my face in that manner and then He is pulling apart my legs and directing me to and fro. After a few times of doing this, this specific time when I was lying on the bed, I saw: That blurry tall, and muscular figure of Jesus has the wheatish face of Death Conqueror standing to my right in the room's centre with his hands clasped in front of his chest as it looked at me with narrow eyes and a quiet wicked grin as if it has accomplished something he wanted to. I never saw such an avatar of Jesus before. It seemed that the figure had managed to deceive me. It confused me for a while but as I kept lying on the bed and I felt the drones moving and I was being drawn in by them, I heard: Don't sin, child. You've been listening to the voice of devil. This alerted me and I began using my common sense again while previously I had let go of my own moral reasoning in the pursuit of what I saw He wanted me to do. But He reaffirmed to me that it was indeed a sin to indulge with the drones even if it was unintended or something that I got drawn into because they're constantly poking at me. I wouldn't sin if a person was standing in front of me. I will block his or her advances, but I can't resist these tiny drones from going into certain spaces. When I heard the voice, it seemed to me as if I was under a kind of spell as I found it hard to get out of bed out of my cozy space. Where else will I lie down to rest if not my own bed!? I mean I couldn't even use my bed to rest as I wanted because of the presence of drones that were drawing me in.

After I heard the warning by Jesus, I managed to get out within a minute or so, if not immediately because it took me a while to get out of the apparent spell. And then once when I was on the stairs, the above dream revelation in which I got slightly drawn in by the hypnotizing sound of people worshipping devil was highlighted to me, and also the fact that I fell inside the mouth of the serpent. So, after I heard Jesus's voice as I lay in bed this time, the entire day made sense to me and also the statement that I had heard when I got back to bed: You poor little thing! Mere ishaaro pe naachti hai!
And it was then that I understood these Randi revelations because Jesus didn't plan for me to be a whore. He calls the world and those who partake in it a whore! And then I was recalling Jonathan's statement that Peter heard from both Jesus and satan at a certain time and He rebuked Peter in that moment with the words: Get away from me satan!

That certain day, Jesus pointed to me to stop resting in that state on the bed. He made it known to me that it was satan who was making me do this without me being aware of the same, just like Maliah received those revelations meant to delude her and cause problems in her Holy marital life. I understood that satan wanted to make me a whore. The world is called the whore of Babylon.

But I was happy that He didn't leave me in my sin but pointed it out.

Jesus comes with a danda on top of my head leading to a narrow burst of blood in the air.

This statement: Don't sin child, you've been listening to the voice of devil, really made me vigilant. And this day in the morning, I was really upset about the same and wanted to get out of this confusion or trap so to say. Though I knew until which point I was with Jesus and I was trying to figure out the point in time that I got deceived. I knew the revelations that were from the Holy Spirit, and I now knew that the Mayavi revelations that were meant to deceive were from satan. Because he is the one who is called as the great deceiver and liar, while Jesus has His commandment of Do Not Lie and Worship other gods. While satan says there are many ways to heaven and to find God, Jesus says there's only one! I knew, though, the revelations that were from the Spirit. It was only recently that I had begun to feel skeptical about things. This morning I recalled the one in which I had seen His crying face in my opened Easy to Read Bible as His tears fell down on my face. So I picked it up after long to read and sat on my bed. I was asking God to show me the way when I heard: Read the Bible. I opened it randomly and was hoping to stop at a verse that was supposed to reveal something from God to me. On the page that I opened first, my eyes went straight to the verse:

I was very worried and upset, but you comforted me and made me happy! (Psalm 94:19)

From <https://www.biblegateway.com/passage/?search=Psalm%2094:19&version=ERV>

This reminds me of the heart that I ate, the heart that hopped and went in my belly through my mouth by itself and brought me to life.

And it goes along with the Fair of Hearts revelation.

Also, this part from Mahabharata in which a certain suggested to use a multilayered trap in the battle kept being highlighted to me. According to the tale, Abhimanyu was trapped in the Chakravyuha and eventually got killed inside. This chakravyuha kept being highlighted to me along with the words: Aise chakravyuha mein trap karunga, ki kabhi bahar nhi nikal payegi. Accompanying this statement is my fall inside the mouth of the white serpent. But I got out by tearing the serpent's tail.

While I was writing the above part, I saw:
Prof TRS dressed in a beige full-sleeved shirt tucked inside pants standing in the centre of my room turns his back to me and walks away.

And then I also recalled the revelation that had the side-view of the orange and black butterfly flying in front of the vertically wide-open mouth of the serpent in a green natural background. I took this vision that I had back in A-16 as a warning because why would the free butterfly kiss the serpent wilfully? So I thought perhaps it's an instruction because God rains on both the righteous and wicked, all because of His goodness, though He hates sin.

This neighbouring apartment to my left has ladies worshipping the devil morning and evening as they repeat: Aarti karo shankar ki! (Worship the serpent God Shankar!) which reminds me of the dream revelation with devil's group worship I began this page with.

So I put everything together and since morning have told off several Chakravyuhi revelations. I know that Jesus reveals the truth as it is!

A good word from Brother Andrew:
Satan is a Very Convincing Illusionist

And then yesterday evening, as I stood at the kitchen counter and was getting drawn in again, I heard in my Spirit: Don't sin because Khyati loves you. The voice was implying the meaning that because my husband loved me, I shouldn't be sinning which is also how I strictly was and that's the state I want to be in all the time. And if my husband didn't love me, why would I marry him in the first place!? In the absence of drones, I wouldn't be drawn into anything at all. These people have been committing severe boundary breaches against me.

God had a plan for me to get married. devil stepped in to turn me into a whore. Through this experiential exercise, I learned what's called discerning the Spirits. I discerned the devil's wish to make me a whore while Jesus' promised me an earthly marriage.

But at the same time, I also know that He comforted and made me happy by giving me rest through the depressive state.

I've observed that I have always felt Jesus's or the voice of the Holy Spirit coming from the place of my heart, while these other voices from different sources often play themselves out in my head as I can point at them. After I wrote this difference, I saw: Brother Andrew come abruptly at my face dropping light kisses at my cheeks without a fleshly undertone. He is happy that I know or understand discerning the spirits.

And the voices that play in my head can contradict each other while the one coming from my heart is firm, and that's where the Spirit of God resides. It's there alone that I had God call out my name Kartika in a deep voice that had me sit up straight as I woke up from my sleep in 2020.

Through this experience, I learned to be very careful and discern the Spirits. I was actually confused about this since the first time that I got to read in the Word about not believing every word heard but to discern the Spirits. And I thought about how could one possibly discern between the spirits. What was the way or method employed!? Because to hear something in the Spirit seemed a huge thing to me after I came to God from being an atheist, and then discerning between Spirits seemed like an almost impossible task to do. To a toddler, it's very hard to intuitively understand difficult physical concepts and it takes time as one grows up to form a correct understanding of the physical world which a lot of people aren't easily able to do that's why the number of businessmen far exceeds the number of scientists because laundering money is a much easier task to do and doesn't require much thought. While thinking with the right intuition about the surrounding world is found in only specific individuals. Not to say that it can't be learned, but some things come easily to some people than others. In the same way, discerning between the spirits requires vigilance, an intuitive understanding of Godly precepts, and hearing from those spirits in the first place. And we need to rebuke the voices from sources other than the Holy Spirit.

Now when I look at the prophetic dream that had my wedding as a part of it, it wasn't in any way labelled. It showed the truth as it was with the real people present. I saw myself coming across one buffet table after another as I walked through a space with people lit in golden light. It corresponded to the time that I used to eat three full meals a day in A-16 though I didn't use to be too hungry. They served as a comfort in my stressful situation which wasn't even as stressful as it became later. A few more events took place that came to pass in the same order: I went to my dad's retirement dressed in that blue tunic, and then I was walking dressed in a long denim skirt with my pink shawl wrapped around on a street at night when Glory dressed in red & white jumped out from behind a car sitting on the road with vertically folded knees with a wide smile and a bouquet of red roses below his chin in response to which I had said: I was expecting this! I sat down to his level followed by a blurry time spent after which we both got up, and then he pointed me to a place as he was explaining something to me. Perhaps he was inviting me somewhere. I took the bouquet from him and responded with a: I've to talk to my dad! And then we went in opposite directions. The next thing I saw was me walking with a limp towards an entrance with huge floral bouquets lying at the door. I took the left turn and entered the door and saw: the back of Glory standing with some people several metres away from me dressed in that red suit with one of his hand placed on his waist and one of the legs stretched outwards in the manner that I stand. So because of this dream, I was going out on moonlit nights back in late 2021 and early 2022 because of the revelation of the beginning melody of this song from the movie Sur which had played unexpectedly deep in my heart

Kabhi shaam dhale to mere dil mein aa jana..
Kabhi chaand khile to mere dil mein aa jana..

These lyrics went together with the wedding dream.

It was later though that God revealed to me the changes that I needed to bring in me that seemed quite foreign to me because I had a strong inner persona and I looked down at vanity and liked simplicity in all scenarios. It was a long journey and then I saw a translucent X-Ray vision in the dark of a woman's naked middle body with a flat belly without any fat wearing just a translucent bikini as a vertical translucent penis blinked on top of her groin. This gave me another dot in my journey to my wedding night. And losing weight was very hard to do. I lost about 30 kgs but that wasn't enough to achieve the result. I don't know if I'll ever achieve the same! I may but I need to work out. But how will I work out in this condition? And my PhD time and savings are running out as well! I know that fasting is only going to aid the workout, and not do its work.

The wedding dream seemed a very strange dream to me because why would I roam on a street at night but I went out because I had the dream. And it's not a traditional or usual way to propose or invite someone to their own wedding. But I thought that God's ways are higher than mine and though the dream may seem unusual to me, to God – it’s not.

And now I've increased by a great amount in my spiritual walk with God. He made me stronger and now I hear much more in the Spirit. However, I also learned that that day I was listening to the devil because why is the fellow grinning within by sending me to bed frequently as if it's fulfilling his purpose? It showed me how devil will even take the form of Jesus to cause illusions and delude people. Though he wasn't smart enough to hide his grin and not represent himself with the face of Death Conqueror!

Revelations while resting

- The front view of a younger Amrita Singh dressed in a heavily stoned dark ethnic attire with a thick diamond-shaped stone Tika on her forehead and a thick grey woolen shawl wrapped around her as she walks slowly backwards in the day-lit background of an open city square dancing in jagged slow motion at the following song lyrics:
  Ye galiya ye chaubara.. Yahan ana na dobara..

Ab hum to bhaye pardesi.. Ke tera yahan koi nahin..

Before laying down to rest, I was editing the previous page and wrote the 'Mein HU Raanjha' revelation, and the above song began playing right after I wrote the revelation. And it first played previously around the time when I had returned from Pinky Mausi's home. And as I lay in bed, I heard in response to the revelation that I had just written: Agar vo Raanjha hai, to ye Heer hai (by default)! Agar vo Raanjha hai, to ye Heer hai! Though I'm only thinking about getting the needed rest. It reminded me of how during the night that I spent at home the last time I visited it to get my winter clothes, I, all of a sudden, was asking out inside me in Hindi: Where is my Raanjha! Where is my Raanjha!? Well, it didn't repeat after that! And I had several angry outbursts as well!

- A man hits a stake at the upper lid of one of my eyes and I feel something move around the same place between my eye and my lid.
- The close-up view of a man's chubby lower face resembling my middle brother Himanshu's with his pink tongue sticking out and licking my nose and lips.

The drone activity highlighted to me the previous vision of Bhagyashree dressed properly in a satin green Saree over a maroon blouse as she held a baby monkey in her hand. The follow-up vision showed the top view of me sleeping on my left side as the tiny monkey fed on my left breast. And as it continued doing so, it grew up in discrete steps into a well-built and muscular monkey of the size of a Chimpanzee who later removed his monkey-self like clothes and inside was revealed to be present a black Glory with translucent edges. (Page 578)

As I continue to lie in bed, I can feel an increased drone activity around my chest and it's a cause of stress for me because of which my body starts shivering and I get goosebumps. Now I may have the outer expression of my emotions in control, but they are still present inside my body. And my body expresses that repulsion in that way because I wouldn't want the drones hovering over me even if I was not being projected live. I begin shivering every time I feel weird whenever the drones are moving in places or in a way they shouldn't be moving! Because of the increased drone activity, I abruptly change my side because I don't know what else to do as I need to give my eyes rest and sleep peacefully for a while. And after changing my side, I hear:

- All three are bad. All three are bad. All three are bad. And it keeps repeating for a while.

Now these people aren't getting stressed by doing this to me. It's me who is put under stress so it's me who's going to need more amount of rest which they again use to put me under more stress thereby increasing the duration I need rest for! Perhaps they never sleep and are always for me to get to bed to get their drones moving, though they can begin to move at any time, but regardless of their robotic attitude, I need rest.

After I wrote the above, I heard the lady sing:

Har lamha teri aankhein.. Mujhe dekhna chahe..

- The face of Taapsee Pannu over a very slim neck with her curly frizzy hair tied at the back floating in a grey background as she looks at the viewer and says: Vo tujhe marne aa raha hai. Vo tujhe marne aa raha hai..

I fall into a brief sleep in which I see myself making a handwritten note of a revelation in my diary. When I receive another revelation, I write that as well.

These revelations serve as a breaking Word of God that breaks the lies or attacks of the enemy and protects me from severe mental damage! The Word breaks the effect their attacks are meant to have on me, or they project the situation in a way that serves as a breaking answer to their actions or coming insults!

While I was writing the above, I saw:

- A dark brown Jesus dressed in multilayered white moving a plate filled with Halwa in front of me as He stood to my left beside the kitchen counter facing me.

When the Halwa was almost ready, I saw the dark guy from the trio up in the air say: She's not useless! She's not useless! (She can cook Halwa!) followed by him looking at the delicious cooked Halwa with eyes wide-openand a blabbering tongue as the phrase from the a TV Adv played in my Spirit: Kaisi jeebh laplapayee!

After I was done cooking and having the Halwa, I saw Him nudging me to wash the dishes immediately and not leave them for later. So I began washing them and while I was doing so, I saw: the face of Death Conqueror bigger than his usual size present parallel to the left of my head a few inches above and behind me as he said: Ae.. in a smooth weird tone.. He repeated again: Ae.. followed by: Ye sab tune mere liye kiya na!? .. Ye sab tune mere liye kiya na!?.. As soon as I heard the Ae, I told the guy in the vision to 'go away'. I mean Jesus wanted to serve to me that Halwa! And then this is what the short fellow is saying!
When I was done writing the revelation phrase, I heard someone say in my Spirit: Bezzati ho gyi uski! Bezzati ho gyi uski!

The face appeared parallel to my left side again and said repeated the phrase again, but then his face changed to that of Vishnu wearing a tall golden crown played by the actor Nitish Bhardawaj from the series Vishnu Puran as he was saying in the character's smooth way of talking itself! I thought to myself: Why would I do this for devil!? though I only said: Go away!

But Vishnu the devil was under the impression that I did it for him. Though I can charity and donate the cooked halwa to him, but why would I obey Vishnu, and why would I even donate my halwa that used my hard work to a worker of devil instead of someone whom God points me to and who is hungry and needs that?

Jesus is an original person. He doesn't behave in superficial ways or talk smoothly like Vishnu while possessing a deceptive heart which is Vishnu's trait as he is called a Chaliya (deceiver) while Jesus is known for His faithfulness that reaches up to the clouds (metaphor for heaven). I did it because Jesus was moving that plate in front of me in unstable circular motions. Though He was unstable, I saw His heart and who He was. Devil's fine smooth talk doesn't change what he has been doing on Earth during the past centuries and millenniums. That face of Vishnu carried a slight pleased smile and that typical expression from the series that never changed regardless of the situation as he said to me: Aye.. Ye sab tune mere liye kiya na.. while Jesus was offering me that Halwa moving in an unstable manner while standing at the same place! Wow.. Jesus is so great!
I will never work for satan.

While I was washing dishes, I also heard: Your harvest will be great. Your harvest will be great.
God can read minds but devil can't. He can observe and change his strategy and tactics but God already sees his coming future plans. devil used an image of Jesus to deceive me that I was familiar with - tall and wide dressed in an ankle-length tunic with a red drape on top as he too has been observing me. But God revealed to me that it was devil creating those illusions. That's what he is known for doing: creating illusions!

And now he's no longer presenting himself as Jesus but as Vishnu, or perhaps it was the Holy Spirit who showed me the Spirit leading Death Conqueror!

While looking back at my time in A-10, I saw how I got a vision to pray on my knees following which I saw the black dragon head of devil hovering on top of my head. And then when I had prayed to Jesus to stop me before I went ahead with something I wasn't supposed to do, and he had told me to fast and even fast from tea, the next when I was about to go out to get tea, I got captured by Jesus with a somatic experience as I felt Him pressing against my shoulder with the accompanying vision of Him hugging me. So, I knew that until this time at least I was with Lord Jesus - the Most High God. I was trying to find instances when I began having the illusions created by the devil. I recalled the Vishnu revelation from A-16 in which a guy appeared in a vision to me dressed in gold with a long golden crown and called himself Vishnu. And then I recalled the revelation in which the Viceroy Butterfly was flying against the open mouth of a snake!

I looked at the revelations in which I was with Jesus for real as His Spirit got hold of me! And then I faced some demonic attacks as well in A-10. And when I look back, I recall the revelation in which I saw a naked Akhila standing at her side of the room with a long and thick black and green patterned python wrapping itself around her while I was ironing my clothes. It lunged at me after her vision ended but I told it off with prayer and away it flew and got stuck to her wall! The serpent tried every way he could to get me to be at his side, but Jesus was with me at the same time as well! And then he used deception when nothing else worked, because that's what he does - he deceives.

Even the serpent has a lot of wicked patience because look at the spycam's trio that has continued with their tactics and abuse for these many years and he has his long game to play until his appointed time of judgment comes. Jesus has godly patience as he guides His children with patience to be more like Him and be Holy and Godly!

And then this morning I was getting nudged to pray on my knees again which I haven't done for a while.

I lay down to rest again and see:

- The upper half of the K-pop artist in a golden background with his hair colored in parrot green and him being dressed in a yellow tunic with a Tiara with a longer than usual conical front on his head looks at viewer.

- My obese mom dressed in a grey sweater over a tunic walks using two crutches below her armpits with her legs missing along with two extremely lean children dressed in full-sleeved shirts untucked over pants walking beside her, one on either side.
- I had a few more of those K-pop singer revelations in which he was dressed differently and was making different general poses.
- The side-view of the face of a parrot green serpent in a dark background facing to the right. (The serpent race stands on the left facing to the right.)

As I continue to lie in bed before falling into sleep, I can also sense the drones and they're causing me to shiver a lot, though this time I've wrapped my olive green sheet as well around me so I don't feel cold. I can tell that I get those shivering goosebumps because the drones are hovering over my sensitive spots. This makes me recall the previous dream revelation in which the additional security system consisting of red laser beams got activated when the drone or the man reached a certain spot in the dark zone, but the man wasn't affected by the activation of the defensive security system. The shivering or the laser beams were my body's defensive response to the presence of a foreign object. However, while lying on my bed, I am also thinking about how though my body was giving defensive responses, I wasn't carrying any positive or negative feelings about the presence of drones though I knew that they shouldn't be doing what they were doing. I was operating in forgiveness and my focus was to get to sleep instead of being distracted by the drones.

I also happened to think that the same shivering responses could be given by my body even when I was with my marital partner though I would be morally pleased in that situation while now I was operating in forgiveness. This made me question my shivering responses and I knew that they were quite objective because they were arising unexpectedly without me at times sensing the drones as my skin may not be too sensitive around those areas that were still giving that defensive response. But if I was with a person, I would know the cause of the response as I would be in the real subjective presence of that person. But as of now, the shivers were a result of the drones activating my skin's defense system. I understood that if a real person was present in place of the drones, the shivering response would aid in forming a mental bond but currently the drones were only putting my skin into stress and a defensive mode when I've already numb to a great deal of the pain because of this situation! If I hadn't numb, I would still look at the fellow with the same repulsion that I did some time back! People like him can only earn the love of a righteous person by making them mentally numb to their wicked actions!

I ignore the drones and lay with my hands folded on my chest and this time the drone activity is lesser around that area which brings some relief to me or else it would've just added to the external conditions that are making me numb to being abused! Is that what the moral fool wanted to achieve!?

I feel the drones moving softly around my strong pp and as it's pressing against the same softly in a periodic manner, I hear Love. Love. Love. being repeated in the same periodic manner and it wasn't my thought, but it went in tandem with the periodic hits on my strong pp.

Somewhere in the middle, I see the front view of a penis moving into a tissue tunnel as seen from the inside followed by a tall, naked, and dusky Glory appearing on top of me in the vision as he says: It's me! It's me!

The drones continue to move and I eventually fall into sleep.

Dream:
I am sleeping on a single bed in a dark room laid against a wall with the room's door present behind my head about a foot away. When I wake up in the dream, I find my room to be entirely dark and the wall parallelly opposite to my single bed has a few windows on it, and I seem to know that I've been sleeping for a long time as I feel tired and need that rest. I get up and feel my head to be too dirty with dandruff flakes. And I don't feel good about it and then I haven't washed my head either though my hair look untangled and silky. I also seem to know that my mom is around. When she walks into my room, I ask her to look through my hair and get the flakes out. She sifts through the layers of my hair in that dark room as she stands beside my bed with me sitting on it. She is able to do it in the little light present in that dark room. After a while my entire head is sifted clean of the flakes and I feel better as I won't need to wash it for a while longer. She leaves and I can feel my head being superficially clean of the lumps on the surface if not fully clean.

I then see my mom sitting outside in the open through the wall between the wall with the windows and the wall with the bed. She is sitting with her face facing to the left with other ladies from the neighbourhood in a group. It's late evening and not fully dark outside yet. The ladies are questioning my mom about her behavior with my dad. They're telling her that she doesn't talk well with him whenever he returns home, but stays aloof. She's only listening to them and not responding, but I know the reason behind her behavior. She doesn't feel like talking to him because she knows about his ongoing behavior with Dr Bharati and she remembers how he behaved with her when he was having an affair with Sunita Sharma. She knows that the time he is not at home, he is in Chandigarh with Dr Bharati and is sleeping with her. And therefore when he returns home she doesn't feel like talking to him! I can see through her embedded pain through her behavior. I don't know why those other ladies are not able to do so but are instead questioning my mom.

The next thing I see is me walking towards the entrance of a huge decorated hall with people sitting on the chairs covered with white satin covers placed in front of an elevated stage covered in white as well. I look inside the huge hall through the entrance at the back though I don't feel like entering in. Behind the podium stands my dad's friend Mukesh Ahluwalia who is also the chairman of Dhruv Public School in my hometown. He is a tall, dark, and lean man and is dressed in a light brown suit in this event. He announces in the mike for my mom to be felicitated with a present as she sits on one of the chairs in the front row. He walks up to her and hands her a present in the shape of a rectangle as they pose together to get clicked. I feel happy about my mom being honored in front of everyone. I'm now wondering if he will felicitate my dad as well, but during the time that I stand there, he doesn't do so, or he seems to me to be taking long to do so.

The next part of the dream has me back to my room and as soon as I'm back in the dark space, I see visions of RS, KA, and AK busy with different activities. I see the back of RS dressed in a fitting halfsleeved black t-shirt tucked inside grey trousers as he sits on a gym machine and lifts up weight with his ass being highlighted as it protrudes out in a flash and goes back in. KA is also shown to be gymming in the same attire. The third person shown is AK who is lying face down on the stairs. The vision then shows him rolling and sliding down the stairs haphazardly for a long while as he turns with the stairs' curves, and when he has landed on the floor at the bottom, I see the top view, as seen from a few stairs above, of him lying on the floor as a lady comes walking into the house through its door present some meters away ahead in front of the stairs. She has just reached home.

I'm then in a hostel's mess with other girls. I see a guy instruct me something but I don't find it something viable or good and so I exit the crowded zone and enter into the one with fewer people inside, and while I am walking away, I hear the guy say that because I'm used to be the monitor of the class, I can't accept others giving me orders which I find weird because why he's giving arguments like a child. We're no longer in school that such arguments should be made. I'm now making my plate to eat in that lightly populated room. I feel led to eat and I'm feeling in the dream as if I have ample capacity to eat. I look at my hostel plate with differently sized partitions. At first, I come across spicy rice vegetable pulao. The guy behind the counter tells me that it's almost over and I can see that as well, so I walk along the counter to the left and take one or two chapattis, perhaps one, and fill the rest of my plate with rice. I add to my plate the gravy black grams, the cooked ladyfinger veggie lying in the huge cooking pan itself. My friend Ravina is with me as well. (She is a girl with curly hair and sharp features and was my hostel mate in RGHG.) She guides me briefly around the vessels lying on the table as she spots me near them. I find my water bottle lying empty around the space. While I take a turn to put something in my wide plate, I happen to knock it down on the floor but pick it up instantly and put it back at the place. There's another huge and round cylindrical vessel lying on the front of all vessels around the front edge of the table. It seems to have gravy Paneer. I don't take it, but Ravina asks me politely to have some of that too. I look into the vessel and find that it's almost over as I move the ladle inside around, to which a girl standing nearby responds with her showing me the ample pieces that were still present. So I take some of that too and walk to the right and sit on a chair lying right in front of the wide rectangular table.

There's a guy sitting on the other side of the counter who's a part of a group of male students present in the room. A few meters behind me to my right, I see a few long rows of the white chairs on which are sitting girls dressed in tunics with sweaters and drapes on top. The guy tells them that they shouldn't bend forward though they could hold the yellow drape shown in a separate vision as hanging like a tie from the centre of a person's neck. The guy repeated to the ladies again for them to not bend down though they were allowed to hold the apparent huge tie. I see the girl dressed in a tunic with a horizontally striped multicolored cardigan on top repeat his words to others with an expression of incomplete understanding. The top end of her tunic and sweater lie about a foot below her neck, so I can see that her bending forward is going to reveal her bust. Apparently, the guy is telling them to not be a distraction while the guys work and the ladies eat though they're not holding any dinner plates like me. I don’t feel sitting in that guy's presence as the aura seems more like a controlled serious classroom instead of carrying the free aura of a mess. So I want to go to the other room that I had left though it has more people. I can still sit alone and have my meal as I like without anyone observing me like the guy implied he was as he told us to not bend forward or things like that. I feel a sense of not being seen and scrutinized in the bigger room and I'm thinking of shifting to that room and have my meal with peace when the dream ends.

After I get up, I see:
SRK dressed in a black suit stands holding a giant stone pillar in front of him facing to the left in a night background as he sobs leaning against it while mincing the words: Maine aisa kyu kiya.. while a lady dressed in a saree standing a meter or two away behind him into the vision as she gets hit by the abrupt erection of a genitalia trunk looking at him, as the following song lyrics play in the background.
The lady sings:
Jo haal dil ka udhar ho raha hai..
Vo haal dil ka idhaar ho raha hai..

which makes me look at how I indeed have been questioning: Why did he do this to me!? Why did he do this to me!?

Well, you see, Jesus is not a deceiver. I was now questioning this labelled revelation as well! Well, the labelled person will know if the revelation is true!

The first weird revelation that I received and that was hard for me to believe was me lying on top of Akhila when I didn't have any such thought in my mind and still don't do! And I explained how it corresponded to me trying to please her through my nice behavior or actions when she wasn't pleasing me as much as she spoke out my name only once in a while I continuously kept iterating her name out.

In the absence of direct communication, I don't feel the presence of any bond. That's the environment I've grown up in. So this morning I was suddenly into that state in which I would be contained within a righteous boundary devoid of any mental leaks pertaining to any immoral situation. And I saw that looking at what this short fellow did, and the lack of direct and open communication, I would want to cut him off completely from my life, not wanting to have any kind of contact while forgiving him at the same time! And that's what makes sense to me to do regardless of how I may feel below this righteous decision because this is what's going to dictate how I feel in the long run and it will justify why I did what I did regardless of how I may be feeling on the inside which I will not look at and I will eventually get over the same.

And I concluded that this was the perfect thing to do with a person like him who always used other people and covert immoral methods to get his way. Did he make up in a direct way openly for the wrong he did? No. But the harm he caused was direct and open and its effect showed up in my daily life in a quite apparent way!? Why should I ever listen to a person such as him who does the wrong thing and continues in the way, continuing to repeat the same sin being apathetic towards the one who suffers as a result? That's what he has shown to be true about himself!

How can I call someone my relative or a friend unless I've talked to them directly in the first place!? It just doesn't seem real to me. Perhaps he's used to living in an environment where people communicate in indirect ways, but I'm not. And in the absence of direct communication, the situation comes across as that of no communication to me, so everything that I wrote by far seemed too foolish to me. It just doesn't make any sense! And why should I look at the labeled revelations? I want to have the righteous mind all the time which judges people righteously while displaying the love of God at the same time, though God hates sin and wickedness!

It's devil who calls me a whore, not Jesus. It's devil who was repeating Kartika Randi Kartika Randi because that's what he wants me to be. And the camera people are run by the devil - the identity of false pagan gods like Vishnu, Krishna etc.

TRUTH SEEKER

Dream:
I enter into the ground hall of a building resembling an MNC and, apparently, I'm there to find a job. I come across an obese and fair woman with a round face and hair tied at the back. She is well-dressed and seems to be hailing from a rich and stable family. She tells me that she will take me in. She then guides me into another hall inside and explains my work to me which is quite mechanical and doesn't involve much intellectual thought. She guides me to fill out a detailed complex form in a specific manner. While doing so, I get confused and write a few things in the wrong places. She later guides me about writing things on a blank paper in a specific format - nothing too difficult. But she has explained it to me with precision and detail. She tells me that I've to fill that blank paper every day in that specific format. I agree to go ahead with what she's telling me to do because I need the money. And it doesn't pay a lot either. She tells me that my monthly salary is going to be just 10k.

I find others sitting along the tables placed on the sides of the hall's wall with their own systems they're working on. I see Vaibhav Sir (Awadhesh Prasad's ex-student) sitting to my right and I find that he too is working in this low-paying MNC but not under the lady who took me in. I write things on an A4-sized paper in the way she guided me. After submitting the same, I recall that I've forgotten to write some things.

I maintain a humble attitude towards my job regardless of how it is, go to the hall every day, sit contently, and fill pages in the way she guided me. I see that others around me are moving forward in their work faster than me. After the minimum time needed for me to be paid has been passed, I ask her about my salary. She tells me that payment for the job in their firm is a complex process and involves the page of my work getting verified from every home present in the residential society the hall is built in, so everyone knows that I've written this page thereby making me eligible to be paid. And as it keeps getting verified, a small and fixed amount of money needs to be collected from those homes and will serve as my salary of 10k. She tells me that this process would take 20 months and that I would only receive those 10k after 20 months, which sounds quite unreasonable to me because the salary is already less and nowhere close to the amount one needs to sustain oneself, and then she is saying that my written page needs to be passed through all the homes of the society for verification. I wonder why she didn't tell me this earlier before I had joined. It sounds foolish to me to wait for 20 months and continue working without wages for the meager amount of 10k to be paid to me. Their system almost comes as a shock to me and now I'm wondering if I should continue working in the firm.

While I was writing the above para, I saw:
The upper half of my supervisor Nivedita Deo looking at me as she says crying: I am not a good person! I am not a good person!

Also, the case of Laban not paying Jacob reasonably but making him work too hard as he continuously changed his wages was also highlighted to me. Jacob was in a loss while he worked for Laban. He wasn't paid consistently and Laban increased his workload for unreasonably long durations of time.

After submitting the first page, I find myself walking out of the hall with my dad and to my left at some distance ahead is visible the busy city road on which I see a white car moving to the right in our direction with a human-sized doppelganger of Glory dressed in a loose white t-shirt over black trousers stuck straight to the surface of the driver's window as he is looking at me. I wonder how he managed to stay stuck at his back to the front of the driver's window while it's moving.

When I go out, I see Vaibhav Sir to my right, and as usual, he is there with a happy countenance and his work seems to be going well. I am thinking of quitting the job as it's not a challenging job either which wasn't a problem for me previously.

I am then looking for a blank page to write a letter but I can't seem to find any. I search through the top of my desk and then happen to look through the pages lying in the printer placed on Vaibhav Sir's desk. I find out that all pages are filled on one side and none in fully blank. He put waste pages to be used to get printouts. There's not a single blank page lying in the printer.

Kartika, tu randi nahi hai. Lekin mein tujhe chhod bhi nahi sakta.
Well, it's not this fellow who is the deciding agency here! He has already sinned for a long time against me.

The statement doesn’t make any sense to me because I know that I am not a Randi so to say, and I am not with anyone either as of now that someone should make this statement.

Evening
I wake up in the evening from this dream.
Dream: I am lying on my side of the double bed in Room D1 of A-16 with Akhila sitting on her side of the bed with one of her knees vertically folded as she’s looking down at her phone. Our room is lit in golden light. I can feel the drones around my groin. I get up and walk through the room for some reason. Perhaps I went outside. When I'm back to my room, and am walking to my bed, I spot Akhila sitting on her bed again in that posture with a vertically folded knee looking down at her phone as I get this thought in the dream to order something from one of those food apps that come well-contained in a paper bag which was being highlighted to me as I saw a large rectangular box placed in a brown paper carry bag along with a smaller box. This thought that I would order from a certain place because it was delivered with the order wrapped properly in a paper bag keeps repeating in the dream. I find it weird because that's not how I think because I only have to carry the order for a small distance to my room, and it's food and not something else that needs to be made sure to be covered even during crossing small distances. But for some reason, the thought gets repeated.

When I lay down on my bed, and I lie perpendicular to the length of my side of the bed with my head pointed towards Akhila's bed, I feel a great buzz caused by drones on top of my groin and I reach out my right hand to that spot but then withdraw away and put it on my forehead instead and begin crying because of the situation, after which I wake up and find that I was crying out for real.

Later I order a Burger from Burger King and after having the same, when I am resting in bed again and am feeling the drones, I see:

- A metallic robotic demon present to my right on the floor with its hand reaching into my trousers as it's fiddling with my strong pp. Apparently, the demon is controlling the guy controlling the drone.

It was during the past 48 hours that I opened the Bible randomly and read the verses. I happened to open Jeremiah 13 and happened to read it fully. Towards the end, it had this phrase as a part of the 27th verse: I saw you laughing and having sex with your lovers. And when I closed the book, the following was repeated to me in my Spirit: I saw her laughing and having sex with her lovers. I saw her laughing and having sex with her lovers.

This made me wonder when was I laughing because I was happy! I laugh at my miserable situation or at one of my own jokes or something that I am thinking or because Jesus has made me happy or because the devil came across in one or other revelations. I'm laughing even now while writing this statement but it doesn't mean that I am happy because of important reasons like being in the company of a good friend, or enjoying my time alone watching an anime, and similar situations.
I just have a carefree attitude regardless of the situation though it gets to me sometimes and makes me completely bedridden as I find it hard to move and even breathe in those moments like it happened once in the dept and on my way up the stairs. But I don't think about the bad situation or my suffering a lot because I have to work for Jesus and if I keep thinking about what's causing me problems, then I won't be able to work for Him. But He is 100% righteous and perfect and therefore suffering for His cause and kingdom is justified because it leads to lost souls being won for God's righteous and heavenly kingdom and not my own wicked kingdom unlike the cause of Death Conqueror who's a wicked king of his earthly kingdom.

Well, I can't help the drones moving on top of me. The only thing I can do is distract myself and pray, and I now don't pay attention to any fleshly revelations that I may have while resting whereas previously they seemed a huge thing to me because they were revelations and it was a huge thing for me to receive a revelation and therefore I recorded it as I thought I had to capture and write everything I was seeing though I may not be partaking in it at that moment.

Jeremiah 13:27 (Easy to Read version)
27 I saw the terrible things you did.[f]
I saw you laughing and having sex with your lovers.
I know about your plans to be like a prostitute.
I have seen you on the hills and in the fields.
It will be very bad for you, Jerusalem.
How long will you continue doing your dirty sins?"

The verses seem to me to highlight the lifestyle of someone else. They were a part of the Word given to Jeremiah by the Lord.

Revelations from 9th Dec

On this day I was busy editing the previous pages so I couldn't create its own separate page.

Dream 1:

I am sitting in a classroom with multiple rows of long benches. I sit on the first bench of the rightmost row. Some meters away from us lie the counter and kitchen of the university canteen at my workplace. Ramkali Aunty – the preschool caretaker from the Junior wing of my school in my hometown Pundri – comes with multi-sectioned steel plates filled with food and hands one to each one of us. Along with the food, we see that there's a piece of the white Indian sweet Kalakand placed in it as well. We see some people come walking from the front to join us, sit beside or behind us, and they don't have the sweet but they want the same. I and the person with me hand our individual pieces of Kalakand to them as we think we can get one later. But Aunty is no longer bringing sweets. I go to the rectangular kitchen counter to inquire about the same and find out that the sweets are all over and return empty-handed. After the meal, I walk to the front again some meters away this time in a different direction, and get hold of an old 6-7 inches thick book with a rectangular front that everyone in the class is supposed to be read or taught from now. The book's cardboard cover has an intricate green print and when I open the first page which is left blank intentionally, I happen to spot the only thing printed which is present on the left page's bottom. I see a small imprint of Buddha sitting in his signature meditative posture dressed in his half-naked saffron attire and a bun at the top with *The Kingdom of Dragon written below the same, and which is when I wake up.

The shape and thickness of the book reminded me of Deathly Hallows of the Harry Potter series which I read first in 10th and the second time in 12th. Now when I look at it, I don't like it. It's all about witchcraft and promotes the kingdom of dragon.

Yeah. Buddha is a part of the Kingdom of Dragon aka the serpent as he doesn't lead one to the Most-High creator God but talks about achieving the state of a lack of misery by not desiring anything or getting purged of the world. But it doesn't answer the question that follows after one gets purged of the world. Where is one headed after one has gotten rid of all of one's desires? Buddha taught that it was one's desires that were the reason behind one's misery in the world and that the fewer things one desired, the happier one would be. To him it was a notion of great value that he had arrived at after leaving his family, going through a lot of suffering in the wilderness intentionally putting himself in abject conditions and thereby achieving a state of peace that was not decided by the world. That logo at the bottom answers the follow-up question one could ask after getting rid of the world – that despite being out of the world and attaining a mindset like Buddha, without Jesus one is said to be a part of the kingdom of dragon though one may say that one is not worldly.

Also, this event from his life in which he sat below a tree meditating covered with ants and other insects but was unaffected got highlighted to me. Well, I could learn from Buddha this aspect of his nature but I will not be a part of the kingdom of dragon which is headed towards the judgment of God. I want to be in the Kingdom of Heaven that has Jesus in it. You too should want to be in the Kingdom of Heaven and not that of dragon. And it's not earned through personal merit but through the grace of God though we're called to be sanctified as we walk the walk with His Spirit.

I wake up and when I fall asleep again, I have this other dream.

Dream 2:
I find myself in Dr Bharati's home and, apparently, I'm there to fetch her floor mop to use in my home. She is my dad's colleague and lives in the same locality where he opened his playschool. But why do I want Dr Bharati's mop to be used in my home – I can't seem to reason. I am in the bedroom to the left of the kitchen area and see that it has a double bed made using mattresses laid out together on the floor.
As I wrote the above, I saw my dad come angrily at my head with a rod as he shouted the abusive word: Saalii!
There's no wooden bed laid against the wall parallel to the kitchen that I had seen the last time I visited her. I move to the hall area in front of the kitchen and it too has a double bed made on the floor in the same manner in front of the apartment's entrance door. I walk towards the balcony door to the right side of the kitchen and find the mop. As I am exiting the room, I cross over the double bed on which someone seems to be fast asleep and that person doesn't seem to be bothered with my presence. The observing me finds it weird that I'm in her home at that hour to pick up her mop but the dream me is okay with the situation. The person lying on the double bed is lying still and has his/her face covered with the blanket and doesn't seem to notice me exiting the apartment crossing over her.

When I'm back to my home, I find that I'm again in our rented ground floor apartment in the Cheema colony of my hometown. I am in the unusually spacious drawing room of the home with my mom and notice two dark brown plastic chairs placed together on the left side of the old sofa set. I get to know that those chairs were placed there after two single-seater sofas from the set became unusable. One of the chairs is smaller than the other though both have the same structure. I tell my mom that she could take the large cushions out that she had placed inside to lighten up the congested space and put them on the sofas, though she doesn't seem to have paid much attention to my words.

I then see the faces of some black chimpanzees peeking inside in a line through the narrow rectangular open window near the floor on the outer wall with the windows adjoining the Verandah outside. I see the clean aquarium with the tiny tortoise to the left of the windowed wall and it extends outside along the windows as well and is clearly visible from the inside. My mom has to feed something to the Chimpanzees who have lined up outside against the wall. She is looking for something to feed them, but can't seem to find anything. I hand my brown baked sweet bread over to her that I had bought to have as a part of communion with Jesus. I am breaking it into small pieces and handing it over to her to pass to the chimpanzees whose faces are visible through the horizontal window. I don't feel good as I see my communion bread decreasing in amount but I'm still handing it to her ignoring my feelings about it. I think that this must be the first time that the Chimpanzees got to eat something as delicious and having as high a value as that communion bread. Before I began sharing my sweet bread, she was feeding them tiny amount of routine bland food, small amounts of Yellow Daal with Roti but now they were getting to have holy bread though they didn't have the wisdom or mind to know the difference between routine food and holy bread that's consumed as a part of communion with God. Breaking my bread in pieces and handing it to my mom seems to be a thing of great charity to me and I feel somewhere pinched inside and disheartened as I look at the decreasing amount, but then I reason that it's my bond with God that matters above the bread that's being given to the Chimpanzees.

After we're done, and the chimpanzees have left, my mom goes to the kitchen in the opposite direction to work while leaving some other things to be done to me. I see some people from the colony present outside make mean comments about her cooking and other things. They are demeaning her by repeating certain from the ones she cooks making the point that she only cooks those specific things. For some reason, they have made her their abuse target.

I now look around and see that I have to organize and clean. It's a time-consuming job but with a good result though it's seeming like a burden to me as I need to be quick and have my own work to do as well.

After I was done writing the above para, I heard the guy sing:
Masi nidhaal soedaar chalte dekha hai..
Bhadakti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai.

The next thing I see is me standing facing my mom outside the kitchen with my back towards it as she is explaining to me the things I need to do and how in the evening I have to be present with her while she cooks. I tell her that I can only help her for 2 to 3 hours at the max in a day and not 6 to 7 hours! She then goes back inside the white kitchen lit in white light and comes out after a while sobbing and clapping her hands a foot or two away from her throat with her fingers stretched out. It seems that she's angry with something. She's looking to the right away from me as she walks towards my youngest brother Divyanshu and starts trying to hit him as they both sit on the sofa against the wall to the right. Apparently, she is mad at him because he doesn't help her out. I try to separate the two as I don't want Divyanshu to be hurt by my mom. I don't know why she got angry with him. After a while of me trying to stop her from hurting him badly, she gives up and begins talking to him. I'm glad he didn't get a beating this time.

I am not standing alone as when I look down at my legs, I find myself dressed in just my boxy loose, and long white shirt. I don't know why am I dressed like that and am not wearing a trouser below that shirt. I see the devil shown ahead from the faulk600 YT video channel moving on the diagonal right end of the room near the windows. He seems to be moving sideways from left to right while looking at me. He has straight hair until his neck's end and two horns though he's lacking the blood stains from the image below on his face and has normal human eyes, unlike the red demonic eyes from the image below.

As soon as I spot him inside the room at that distance, I get on my knees with raised hands and begin to pray in tongues. But he doesn't seem to be affected so I move closer to him and continue to begin praying in tongues being on my knees with my arms raised up right in front of him. Again, he doesn't seem to be affected by my praying but comes closer to me and starts breathing sighing with his mouth wide open with his head bent down on top of my face instead! It seems that he is aware that it can help him against me trying to resist his presence in the room. I don't know why my praying didn't send him running away! As soon as he starts breathing sighing on top of my face, I am drawn into hugging him tightly knowing that he is satan though I'm feeling bad about it at the same time. He has managed to create an illusion of intimacy that is reaching into me though I know that I am not supposed to hug satan! And he is not hurting me either. But then I reason why would he hurt me!? His job Is not to hurt me but to turn me away from God and work for him instead. What would hurting or killing me achieve when he has the better option to use me for his wicked purposes? So, obviously, he is going to try for the more beneficial option to me which is having me side with him.

While hugging satan, we both float above in the air somehow and I have now begun to drop brief blind kisses on his face. As we float in the air, I happen to now observe his small fairer face from that close distance. I see that he has a protruded and almost lipless and slightly open jaw like a snake with cheeks buried inwards. I drop another kiss on his lipless lips and as I continue to stare at his face and have not yet fully surmised that he is the wicked serpent, I ask him to please me following which a snake's nail-like pointed genitalia extends out of his and covers my strong pp though not hitting the spot properly. I stay in that posture as I perhaps drop a kiss more and as I continue looking at his face as he looks back at me with a slight wicked smile, the very much apparent truth of the existence of wickedness and a lack of conscience in his expression becomes dominant over my previous state of false intimacy that I was observing with him. As I grasp the fact that I hugged and kissed satan and even had his genitalia rub against my strong pp, I drop him down and he is no longer there.

Well, in real life, why would I hug satan if I had no drones breathing on top of my face and thereafter brushing against my private parts? They do it systematically. It made me later recall the dream Smoothtalk and Witchcraft from Mid 2022 in which a lady with straight hair dressed in a black coat was taken inside a car with three men sitting beside her while all of them were talking closely around her face while one moved an incense placed in a holder in front of her face. Their behavior seemed to be having a hypnotizing effect on her as they had her surrounded and were whispering things slowly to her with that incense. The follow-up part of the dream had her now sleeping with the three men present around her. Two were near her knees with her lower half-covered with a blanket, one of which was whispering things quietly to the other as he slowly moved his hand in and out of the blanket with an investigating tone, while the third one was lying drunk beside the lady fast asleep with his arm on her bust with her upper half dressed in a yellow high-neck sweater. When she abruptly woke up, her expression abruptly changed as she looked furiously to the left and to the right while the trio were still immersed in themselves, after which she sent them running away scratching their faces with her nails leaving brown scratch marks on their cheeks as they all three ran away screaming.

So I saw how they indeed were trying to in a way hypnotize me whenever I went to rest or sleep.
The lady sings: Phod dala.. Phod dala..
While I was writing hugging the satan part, I saw:
Jesus hitting the top of my head strongly with a danda almost breaking it, and later Sis Adele talking to someone beside her in an angry tone about what a bad thing I had done! But that was not my intention from the beginning.

I now find us all out on the verandah outside the drawing room as my dad dressed in a white tunic set is talking to the garbage man. We all have gathered outside because there seems to be an issue we have to talk about. As they're having a casual chat, my dad makes the remark that a certain man from the colony was known for giving out the cheapest garbage to the garbage man. It seems too foolish of a remark to make to me. Why is he even bothering to talk about such things? But the moustached garbage man dressed in a full-sleeved shirt seems to be involved in that meaningless small talk as he is looking at him smiling.

I see that, unlike the house's real structure, it now has another room with its meshed single outer door present at the left end of the rectangular verandah. Apparently, my youngest brother stays in that room. The conversation is now over and we have to move back in, but instead of letting us enter the home directly through the doors of the two rooms in our sight that we have rented, he is pointing us to use the corridor present at the right end of the verandah. I wonder why he wants us to use that long corridor and take a left at the end that leads to the door at the other end of the drawing room, instead of having us enter straight in through the doors present in front of us, especially when my brother could enter his room directly through the verandah while following dad's suggestion he would have to first cross the corridor, enter the drawing room, trace back through the length of the drawing room, exit through the door into the Verandah and then take a left to enter his room.

My dad says sobbing:
Mein accha insaan nahi hu. Mein accha insaan nhi hu.

We stand for a while at our spots as my dad repeats his instruction for us to follow after him to enter into our home. Perhaps all of us are reluctant to obey his instruction, but after a few of his nudges, we choose to go along with him as he's our dad.

When we've entered the corridor, I notice that, unlike the real structure of the house, the dream house has two spacious empty rooms on the right side. My dad gestures to us to go occupy the empty rooms that don't belong to us as we've only rented out the left part of that dream house with the second right part separated from the left through the corridor. And he does so with a superior smile. Why is he behaving as if we own the rooms that we didn't rent? His behavior seems weird to me!

When I was near the end of the above para, I saw:
My dad comes at my head angrily with a rod lifted high in his hands as he shouts: Kutiyaa..

The dream continued: I can see that no one is acting according to his gestures for everyone knows that those rooms don't constitute our home and also that we didn't even need to take the common corridor to enter into our home but could do so directly.

When I was near the end of the above para, I heard the guy sing:
Chamakte chaand ko toota hua tara bana dala..
Meri awaargi ne mujhko awaara bana dala..
Chamakte chaand ko toota hua tara bana dala..

While writing the dream, I realize that the home was a combination of three houses. The first outer Verandah in the dream of the first house from the Cheema Colony resembled the front balcony on the first floor of Rugha Saini's home while the aquarium's position resembled the structure of our current apartment in Sonipat as one entered through the gate. The common corridor was from the house of the Cheema colony.

Chamakte chaand ko toota hua tara bana dala..

I decide to bath this day as my head had gone too sticky with tiny dandruff flakes and it's been 9 days since I last took a bath. I bath with my black sleeveless vest and black cycling shorts on. When I remove my vest which reveals my upper half and therefore protruding belly which I can observe to be more rounded than before, I hear in my spirit:
Is halat mein to tujhe koi bhi nhi lega! Is halat mein to tujhe koi bhi nhi lega!
It seems that it's KA who's saying that. But what can I do about it. I can't work out, and am not able to fast, and I need an immediately cleaned floor to do a plank but after cleaning room, I get tired so rest or start typing. I don't feel like doing any workout or fasting because I'm unable to and it brings with it a sense of disappointment because it makes me think what's the character of my spouse to fulfil the marriage promise with whom God has told me to go through this painful process. Is it worth suffering this much under my extremely mentally difficult situation!? The emotional painful burden accompanying the act of working out is too much for me to bear than to be happy about losing weight and looking good and receive a spouse of unknown character whom I haven't spent any time with! No one would want to focus on losing weight and maintaining a neat and clean look when they're projected online everytime they do anything! And working out makes it necessary to bathe afterwards! The only reason I went ahead was because of God. I thought it's God's Will for me to shed the extra flab! But no woman wants to achieve a flat look while exposing herself in the process! It's just too mentally draining.

So while I was having these thoughts about the situation and my increased belly and the words I heard in my Spirit, I saw: the face of Glory until slightly below his throat dressed in a light blue sweatshirt as he said in a gentle and quiet tone: Mein le lunga!

As the other voice continues saying: Is halat mein to tujhe koi bhi nhi lega, the vision of Glory repeats with him saying: Mein le lunga!

I felt good after this vision.
As I continued to bathe, and later had to remove the cycling shorts as well because of the accumulated soap, I heard:
Kha kha ke isne pet bhada liya hai! Kha kha ke isne pet badha liya hai!

After I was done and was out and fully dressed in black parallel denim jeans and a thick black sweater on a thinner yellow one, I heard in my Spirit: Tu Madhavan ki heroine hai. Tu Madhavan ki heroine hai.

And then it was highlighted to me how his standards in looks were lower than the short fellow as he didn't scrutinize details that the short-fellow would consider an undesirable trait the main reason of which was the way he himself looked.

As the phrase repeated in my Spirit, and I was entering the washroom again to do something, I found myself saying out: Usko to mahamoti mil jaye, vahi bahot hai! which was quite a fun statement to listen to.
I saw how I was perceived differently by two different individuals. This short fellow is able to reflect a neat and clean look disregarding the filth that consumes 80% of his soul as he was once portrayed by the demon-infested blackheart in the vision revelation in which he was shown to be eating oranges and while collecting the peels, he would put a small part back and thrown it in ahead in a random direction.

After bathing, when I lay to rest, I see:
A small-framed semi-animated top view of me lying in bed with the face of blue-eyed Karishma Kapoor and shoulder-length blonde hair as she is moving her head in my manner.

I fall into a brief and have this dream.
I'm

Evening
(I'm editing this page on a later day, so I don't recall if it's the evening from the day or a different day that the first vision written below corresponds to, but according to my speculation, it should be around this day.)

I am sitting in bed along its length with my back resting against the wall adjoining the corridor, and then I see: A short heighted man with Death Conqueror's attire previous attire of a full-sleeved skyblue top over navy blue trousers coming at from the front but he has a huge face of Tejaswi as he moves in my direction with protruding lips in a kissing gesture and small gold earrings in his ears. I shove the vision away. I know how wicked and conscienceless that man was. I didn't have a direct one-to-one interaction or time spent with Death Conqueror, but I had it with him and I used to talk a lot with him once when he had just left Delhi. I used to be on my phone all day and would sleep late at night as well because he never ran out of his spiritual things to talk about, things that he had read, and then we used to argue about those things as well, which he said he would want to include in his book as he mailed us his WhatsApp chat. He said that the points I raised were good and would help several other people. We were always arguing about his (false) sense of spirituality as I had the regular rational scientific outlook of the world that always came up with counterarguments and resisted the things he shared with me, and at times those were the things he didn't have the answer to. It took me a while to see how he was actually a wicked man and he operated with a wicked base with a superficial sweet layer of social interactions. He embodied everything that I hated and that made me stay away from people because I knew that most exhibited a kind of niceness that didn't reflect their core but was exhibited because it was a need of their job or the system they were in. And this is the last thing one wants in a love partner because it shouldn't be based on false niceness exhibited on the outside while carrying a wicked heart towards the person you're claiming to love.

Though I had fallen for him as I had been with him and wanted more of him, and he made me addicted to him by keeping me hooked on my phone all the time, I faced the fact of him being a wicked womanizer with no real sense of love and how he operated from a deep-rooted sense of selfishness, hanging right in the front of my eyes. I didn't want to kiss him in that vision as he was coming at me with those protruded lips. So I brushed the vision away. I once saw in the Spirit Death Conqueror's face flashing, merging, and transforming into Tejaswi's, and this told me a great deal of his nature though I didn't have any direct communication with him. And yet in another vision, I saw Mr Darcy's face merging and transforming to Glory's face which told me about his character! Wow..

And indeed, Death Conqueror is that womanizing man who will do all sorts of wrong things, and yet be looked at nicely by those foolish women who are just as rotten as him in character! And Tejaswi too wasn't a committed person. He wanted several women. He said he could run several families without his main family being affected. When we were walking together outside the Physics Dept (now my workplace) in 2016 during the 4-5 days he stayed in Delhi, he hinted at his promiscuous nature by suddenly bringing up the statement*: Krishna had many lovers!* And he thought of himself as Krishna as he chose flute as his instrument which he began learning during his childhood. When he was playing flute as we sat together outside the Phy dept on the ledge some distance to the right to its the main entrance, I could see how he thought of himself as being Krishna because when he played the high notes, his expression changed and he was looking at me with an expression that said that I should be very much impressed as the winds also increased in vigor along the road. I knew at that moment that he was thinking that it was because of his flute that the wind suddenly increased. He always carried this krishna complex. And he lied and deceived me. So, yeah, the deceptive spirit of krishna the devil was indeed running him! Jesus is a faithful and truthful God and not a deceiver and a liar.

Recall: the vision of Jesus standing facing His beautiful bride. In that vision, as more tiny people came to Him, they were shown as increasing in size to that of the bride and merging into her. They were not separate bodies but one body. His bride is one body unlike Krishna who has several bodies! Jesus died to buy His bride from the Earthly serpent system, while Hindu scriptural understanding says that everyone is Krishna's wife regardless of them believing in it or not. But Jesus has made it very clear, that only those who believe In Him alone as their savior and Lord and receive the mark of His Spirit, are the ones who constitute the body of His bride! Jesus will one day rapture His remnant part of the bride from Earth into His kingdom, while the bride of devil who is no bride but a whore in actuality as the devil can't have a committed relationship with one body, is judged by the Most High God for being utterly morally despicable and unholy!

I am the bride of Jesus, not a whore of satan. And so should you want to be a bride of Jesus and not a whore of satan. Satan can create false doctrines of commitment to follow as well to lead people away from Jesus. For instance, he devised the doctrine of a human having multiple births and that a wedding union in a certain birth is supposed to hold true for the next 7 births which is just a lie. We only live once and then leave our physical body to be judged. Satan doesn't possess the quality of a faithful and committed person, but he still devised this false doctrine to delude those who carry a commitment mindset, but it doesn't at all reflect his character trait. He is against godly union in the first place and a fornicator and adulterer by heart.

Visions from the evening:

- A giant fluffed and muscular naked upper half of Death Conqueror resembling that of a wrestler as he seems boosted by the last thing that I wrote before going into rest.
- An animated black coiled serpent facing away from me with a small plate filled with pieces of different fast food, one of them having a coiled orange shape, that it holds on top of its coiled tail as it looks at me sideways by turning its head to the left, throws the plate on my face, and says in the voice of a toddler: You're under my spell!
- This part from the series Vampire Diaries in which Elena falls for Daeman for she is sired to him because she drank his blood gets highlighted to me after the above vision. The part has been highlighted a few times to me for some months now.
- The vertically upright naked upper half of an animated blonde with her long and thick wavy blonde hair reaching until her waist as she crawls up towards the viewer on her thick beige-colored serpent half, stops along the side of the animated street and shoots an arrow using a bow. Well, I don't know who it is. But it's definitely not me.
- The upper half of the animated satan below from faulk600 videos with closed eyes as he emulates my expression in a dark background. This gets my attention because I'm with Jesus and not satan. Then come I receive this vision.

While I was moving around in my room, I saw: Death Conqueror standing in the middle at the front of a group of people laughing together at me as he points a finger at me. I don't know what's there to laugh at.

Instead of laughing, he should be repenting of his sin and transforming his inner self instead of thinking how great his outer looks or worldly is. And I don't want another Tejaswi in my life!

I've just returned to my room after completing a chore outside, and I see: A naked Glory standing in the center of my room slaps Death Conqueror incessantly who stands facing him on the left as one stands in the kitchen space looking at the door, as he says: Tune aisa kyu kiya!? Tune aisa kyu kiya!? In response to him, the other fellow says a gentle: Are mein shaadi karna chahta tha! As he is adjusting his face's changed position from the slaps while looking at him.

I fall into a brief sleep and have this dream.

Dream: I'm sitting in my with a different arrangement of stuff around and it's dark inside. Akhila too is present inside the room busy doing her own thing while I'm reading a short and slim book. I am sitting against the kitchen's wall on a bed made there and apparently, the kitchen slab is not present in this dream's version of the room. I find it useless as it talks about stuff that isn't at all related to the Kingdom of God and is entirely worldly and I don't resonate with it at all. When I was unaware of the existence of the Kingdom of God in Heaven and lived in the world, then I would've looked at it differently and perhaps spent more time with the book trying to find any meaningful thing that I could come across and that would stay with me, but now with my renewed mind after detaching from the world in ways I previously hadn't and having all the spiritual experience of communing with God through His Spirit, fasting though for a short time, increasing in intimacy with Jesus, and resisting the devil in prayer, and actually looking into the spiritual reality of things, the book seems useless to me as it in no way adds to my walk with God or doesn't talk about anything related to the Most-High God. So, I throw the book down into the drain beside me. It lands on the dark drainage concrete space below making a sound. I am somehow able to read that book in the dark of my room.

It reminded me of this particular night in Room D1 of A-16 when my roommate Akhila was sitting in the balcony on her chair reading a slim book in that dark space. It didn't have enough light and when I had noticed it, I had asked her if she was able to manage reading in that space for it would be too stressful for her eyes to continue like that, to which she had replied that she found it comfortable though I don't know how she was reading it.

When I was writing the above, I heard the lady sing:
Bepanah pyaar tujhse.. tu kyu jaane na..
Hua ikraar tujhse.. tu kyu mane na..

I interjected her because of a real concern for her sight as a living human with a soul.

Back to the dream:

I then get up, move around, do a few things, and get back to my spot in the kitchen area with a different book this time but having the same dimensions as the previous one. Again, I find it useless because of the same reason though it talks about a different thing. I throw this book into the drain beside me followed by the vision of it landing on the drainage ground below making a sound. Akhila is still sitting at her spot silently busy with her own thing in the dark of the room to my left against the wall extending along the kitchen zone with her hair tied at the back.

I hear a knock at the door and find a strange lady at my door with the books that I threw down as she is handing them back to me. I don't want to receive them because I threw them because they were useless, but that lady seems to give her own reasons about why I should keep them though I don't recall the reason she gave. But she was insisting on me keeping the books. I found it weird that she would pick them up from the drainage ground below and bring them up to the right person. How did she find out that they belonged to me? Perhaps from their location below my room's drain.

I take them back in without wanting to and go back and sit on the bed in the kitchen area again. After a while, I hear a knock again, and when I open the door passing Akhila who's sitting silently at the same spot, I see a short-heighted slim lady, with thin and straight shoulder-length hair, dressed promiscuously in a loose beige parallel pants below a crop top finely striped in red & white having thin shoulder strips with a V-shaped front stitched conically around her small to no breasts and ending below with a thick ring around her waist below her breasts. I wonder what is such a woman doing in front of my door. I feel instantaneously repulsed by her though I don't show it. As I open the door and she looks at me, she asks: Is Sam there?

Can be skipped:
The only Sam I happen to know is from the 2nd book named The Vampire's Assistant of the Darren Shan series. He was a child and Darren's friend who got murdered and eaten by a werewolf who had happened to escape from the creepy circus with unusual creatures with unusual abilities. Her question reminds me of the Sam from the second part of the 12-part series. He loved pickled onions and always kept a jar of them with him. After he died and Darren had to drink his blood while he was dying, Darren received this preference of his as he felt a tingling of pickled onions on his tongue while they were about to move from the place. In that book, someone who drank the blood of a person received his or her personal preferences and Darren was a new vampire, not even a full one, but a half-vampire which the fellow with whom he travelled had turned to him into for him to heal from a severe injury he had received in his legs. This necessitated him to drink human blood in time for him to survive as a vampire but it would lead to him converting into a full vampire. The dying Sam from the Werewolf's injuries was the first human Darren drank the blood from and received his taste of pickled onions.

The dream continued: I don't know the Sam she is talking about and Akhila is the only one present with me in the room, so I answer her with a no after which she takes a step back, turns her face away, and begins talking to someone on her phone asking the person behind the call for someone named Vicky, and it's when the dream ends and I wake up.

Past Revelations

- (Past month) As I am working on my chair and table, I see: A coiled thick black serpent resting in a white-lit background at the place of my chest.
- (Past two weeks) I have been seeing this intermittently during the past two weeks as I would be writing something in here. Vision: The face until throat of Death Conqueror dressed in a deep red shirt checkered in black in a dark background as he shouts: Love you…! at the he viewer with a frowned brow and an intense expression!
- (Past two weeks) As I am lying in bed to sleep at night with lights turned off and am looking up at the ceiling above, I have this drop in my spirit: You're the one I love. You're the one I love. I can leave them now because I already did everything with them, but you're the one I love. If one of them died, I could recover from the loss, but if you die, it would be an irreparable loss and they won't be able to substitute you.
- The next thing after the above I hear is Dushamn's voice saying: Tu bade kaam ki cheez hai. Tu bade kaam ki cheez hai. Tujhe nahi marunga. Mujhe to bas tera sharer chahiye tha. Par tu to mujhse pyaar karti hai!
  And it repeats a few times.
- (Past week) An actor resembling Bahubali's actor Prabhas with long curly and frizzy hair and a frizzy beard floating on a black cloud at a great height above the ground with a naked dusky lady sitting behind him hugging him that covering her front as the spacious view of the green field down below is visible to the viewer as they both are carried on top of that black cloud.

I had the following visions in the night within the past 48 hours.

I saw three animated robotic demons with bat wings from faulk600 videos flying in the air. Apparently, they are the demons working through the three men in the dream revelation Smoothtalk and Witchcraft!

I then see a view of the spiritual reality as I see a small-framed vision of a demon hovering on top of KA standing dressed in a full-sleeved white shirt tucked in side black pants. I don't know why is he there. Perhaps he is assigned to lead him away from Jesus by whispering thoughts in his mind. Looking at the view of demons all around, I realize that that's the world we live in though we may not see it with our physical eyes. That's the spiritual space of the world and it shows how demons are always present around us to mislead or whisper things in our spiritual ears as they plant weeds if we are not guarded.

The demon seems to be saying that it can't touch him for he is chosen for God's kingdom. Though it can follow him around, it can't seem to do any harm. Likewise, I see other people standing on the empty dark field he is standing on with all separated by enough distance between them. All have demons flying above them but they can't seem to harm them.

Night

It's night now and I'm resting in bed. There are songs playing outside the balcony as some people seem to be having a celebration of something. I close my eyes and immediately see:

- Identical robotic metallic demons with sky blue light circles in place of their eyes get ready to dance on a street being arranged in multiple (2-3) rows one behind the other to perform identical dance steps together.
- As I lay in bed entirely covered with my blanket, I see: the long face of satan shown ahead from the faulk600 videos above me, though lacking the blood stains and the red beamy eyes as he breathes down on my face.

Ref: Kingdom Marriage of God

- The follow-up vision has the same wicked same moving to and fro in intercourse through the drones as he says: Be my whore! And I will bless you!

Well, obviously, I rejected his offer. But I was surprised at his audacity to ask me to be his whore knowing that that's not who I internally am and that I belong to Jesus!

During the past two days, I had this made clear to me, that the people behind the drones were run by demons working through them.

I later ask God about how was I supposed to get out of this spell or trap. I hear: Fast and Pray. Read the Word. Pray. I know that I need to pray on my knees more as that's how He deserves to be prayed. And I've not been praying in tongues often when I should be doing so because I can. I first prayed in tongues in 2020 when I was at home. But I want to do it when no one is watching me. So, even when I pray in tongues, I am too quiet in my speech and it's hardly audible.

I wake up close to midnight and begin editing Page 613, and have written my interpretation of the dream Time Spent With The Short Blue-Eyed Man when I get up as I don't want to continue writing. And then I hear: Kartika tu bahut nalayak hai. Aur tu bahut jhutti hai! Tu bahot jyada jhutti hai! ut bahot hi jyada jhutti hai!

Well, by logic, I didn't count the silent time spent in the presence of people I never interacted with before as something that should dictate my future interactions with them. 2020 seemed to me as something that I felt at some point in time which wasn't substantiated by interaction or events. So I didn't treat or classify it as something mutual but something that was felt by my lone self and therefore I was in charge of either letting it go or keeping it with me, and what's the point of keeping it in the wake of no direct communication which serves the substantiating factor.

I mean I spent a lot of silent time with Meera, but we understood each other and felt a deep sense of connection and contentment in those silent moments, but it was because we had already talked a lot and gone through the initial phases, and I knew a lot about her and she about me. So my silent time with her was already mutually substantiated. While this fellow, what I had in my mind was my own unshared property that I could choose to keep or throw. When did I go through the initial phase with this fellow? The only thing I knew was that he had been stalking me in a group in 2019.

Ab ise smart kahu ya murakh!?

I gradually forgot or stopped thinking about 2020 after shifting back to a PG and then I completely forgot how I was because I was new in my walk with God, and with time I became negative or repulsed from the short fellow. I think it was in 2021 in Saroj Sadan that I began bathing with the lights off. It's gradually that I found out what he had done and then I wanted to keep him mentally away because that's how a healthy mind thinks. And then I received the vision of my marital promise in Mid-2021 and I was consumed with discovering new info about the matrix. I was watching Jonathan a lot and then I came across Sis Adele, and I used to be busy with daily chores and I was in the beginning stages of learning to walk with God. And with time, my outlook for the short fellow only worsened. His behavior and methods seemed confusing to me. I never had a direct interaction with him the way I was used to forming bonds with people, so I could let go of 2020 because none of it had events or direct communication that would've given concrete form to the time. I was a silent but straightforward person and still am, though I began to say things out indirectly. But even in this newly learned tactic, I'm not at their level, because I use the names or refer directly to the people that I'm addressing instead of devising general clever statements. This degraded way is not the way I ever wanted to interact with people as it leads to misunderstandings.

As I'm lying in the bed, I keep seeing Glory to my right in the room as he repeats to me: Tu bahut nalayak hai. Tu bahut nalayak hai.

After a while, I continue lying and can breathe at times, I hear their quiet voices, and it seems that they want me to respond to their drones and observing my jagged breathing patterns, I hear a voice say: Bas yhi chahiye tha mujhe. Bas yhi chaiye tha mujhe.

Shaadi to ek bahana tha. Mujhe to Randi se yahi chahiye tha. Shaadi to ek bahana tha. Mujhe to randi se yahi chahiye tha.

I don't want anything to do with these people.

I got a nudge to write this dream over any other revelation as the words were repeated to me: Himanshu's life and death depend on it.

Dream (Morning):

I see a child in the shape of an oval translucent white substance stuck near the base of a building. I get her on the roof with me. It turns out that it's my brother Himanshu whom my dad didn't treat well and is exhibiting resentment towards. I can see that Himanshu needs to be put in a loving and caring environment away from my dad as he can cause more damage to him. It seems that he's just come out of a difficult situation that has left him like that. He looks injured and dysfunctional. I take him with me to a hospital to get some tests done and get him his medicines. He's then sent back home under the care of my parents though I still know that they won't be able to give him the ideal mental environment for him to be mentally healed and rebound strong from the past situation. I know how my mom keeps talking about survivalistic stuff she doesn't have to and she causes me stress and headaches with her useless blabber and worries! Looking at how she used to be some years back, she could make a functional person dysfunctional with her negativity. And I know that she's going to behave the same way with Himanshu as well, because the things she talks about are quite limited and predictable and they all pertain to the lowest level of existence on Earth, not that it's shameful but she portrays the situation as shameful and keeps repeating that that's where we as their children are headed to because of our lack of intellect, skills or whatsoever reason she thinks she is better equipped to face the world. She will cause a moral and happy person to feel depressed for no reason when everything is seeming to be going well for that person to that person.

I can recall back in my school days how she caused me unnecessary stress by iterating out scenarios that I knew would never manifest in real life. I saw how she was not happy with me despite me giving a lot of my time and energy to her as I used to organize the home and keep it clean. She would clean at times, but she never organized things. I saw how her attitude was different towards her home from the mothers of my friends. A clean and organized home just didn't seem a necessity to her! She was a negative influence not because she said the wrong things which she did many times, but because she kept repeating stupid useless stuff about which didn't even have to think about. As a child, I often used to wonder why wasn't she able to look at how good I was to her despite her behavior and attitude towards me, but she had to just find silly reasons to scold me or point out meaningless stuff. I saw that my friends would at times show fake mean attitudes to their moms. I was a very complying child to her and I never understood why she still pointed out faults in me.

So, in the dream, my knowledge of my mom's habit of nagging and talking about useless worldly stuff that doesn't bring joy, happiness, and healing to one's soul, keeps me worried about Himanshu who's not a naturalist or unspiritual survivalist devoid of the capacity to perceive the metaphysical like my Mom and Divyanshu, because I know that she is capable of causing a lot of mental damage to another individual whom she perceives is under her control. (Though now she's seemed to change by a lot. Perhaps my dad's behavior made her like that. I don't know.)

And in the dream, I know that my dad is not happy with Himanshu because of his past failures. But I'm looking at who he is and not what he happened to do because of which I don't feel their resentment towards him! After dropping him to my parents', I go back to the place I'm staying at which is shown as rural in its way of living as I come across muddy streets and small spaces. I spot the top view of Chaaru's small apartment again after being back at my place.

It seems that my parents are facing problems in sustaining Himanshu. They seem to be struggling financially. So, I drop a message to my dad's friend Mukesh Ahluwalia (the chairman of the school he went to until before his high school), and I ask/request for his help to provide books to him saying that my parents could manage the rest. He replies back in affirmation though I wonder for a while if his response is genuine or if he's just being socially apt. While Himanshu is with my parents, I happen to meet a girl who hails from a very rich family and she becomes my friend.

The next time that I go to meet Himanshu, I take a righteous and normal with me who is not volatile as my parents. He gives me a ride and instead of having me sit beside him in the conductor's seat, has me sit at the back of his vehicle which at first looked like a covered black jeep but when I am inside the vehicle, I see that it's much more spacious than a regular van and has beige walls and carries the look of a room instead. The rectangular driver's part of the van is separate from the spacious square compartment at the back with its door to the right resembling that of a bus as I stand near it. I am able to look at the driver through a glass window and feel safe with him on my way to meet my family and inquire about Himanshu's health. When I've reached, he looks so much better as he shows me his two grey school uniforms and a few other things he received from the school. I see that he is carrying a positive mind now despite his past and I feel glad about it. We take him to the hospital again with a short and obese doctor with her grey hair styled in a blunt cut. Apparently, she is the one who tended to him the last time I was there. So, we would prefer her to attend to him this time as well. She's busy with other people and seems to be ignoring us while we stand in the general ward waiting for someone to get free.

After the hospital, we are out in the open and talking about Himanshu and his future. It's my parents who're talking among themselves while I observe him standing upright on a metallic swing fixed on the left side of a wide metallic rectangular frame fixed in the cemented ground about 8-10 meters away. A few feet away from the swing in the other direction is visible a rectangular valley that runs parallel to the frame the swing is attached to, and the valley could be very deep. He is standing on the swing's seat with his legs joined together with a righteous countenance as he looks silently straight ahead while swinging to and fro moving from his seat being above the ground to being above the valley.

While I was writing about how Himanshu was swinging between the ground and the valley, I heard in my Spirit: Zindagi aur maut ke beech mein jhool raha hai. Zindagi aur maut ke beeck mein zhool raha hai.

And after I wrote the above para, I saw a small-framed vision of my mom looking at me as she said to me crying:
Bete mein achi nahi hu. Bete mein achi nahi hu.

I get a little worried because it's moving forward into the area with the deep fall, but what quenches my worry is his balanced and controlled posture on the moving swing. Is he not afraid of swinging like that!? He could fall below if he lost his balance by just a flinch. But he stands silently looking straight ahead with a righteous countenance not caring if the swing is above the ground or the cemented valley. Why did he stand on that swing in the first place and put himself at risk!? But I know that he is a deep thinker and he's busy thinking about something and I can see that he knows it firm in his mind that he will not lose his balance as he swings above the valley. He's more invested in that thoughtful aura the swing brings him into than worrying about his fall for he knows he won't fall into the valley because of his righteous and contained posture. Looking at him, he seems to me as someone great in character who has gone through difficult situations but has retained his inner self.

In the next part, we are all walking to our home perhaps as my mom points out how he lost a book worth 2500. Apparently, his losing the book is a huge thing for her that can drive her to kill him, even if it's with her words. I point out that now she doesn't have to worry about it as Dad's friend is taking care of affording his highly expensive books. My brother Himanshu walks beside me and he tends to lightly put his arm around my waist with a smile which I keep evading as I don't comfortable. When we're back to our home, I see my parents sitting together with a few other people in the open corridor outside and this locality looks urban. Himanshu is sitting dressed in a black suit with them as they talk about him securing a job. I notice that they look as well dressed as the other family though they are from a weaker financial background. Someone unexpectedly points out the future plan of the rich girl I had befriended who seems to be Himanshu's acquaintance in some sense. Apparently, they're comparing and making a parallel between their individual life journeys. Another individual replies that she doesn't need to work as hard as Himanshu and secure a job because her family has a well-established business. Wasn't it common sensical from the beginning, I wonder!? Then I reason that perhaps the questioning person didn't know about the family background of that girl. I can see that, Himanshu, after he has recovered from his past and illness can easily stabilize himself career-wise.

At this point, I feel good about Himanshu because I see that he deserves to find a job that would help him express his inner righteous identity and hard-working self. I know that he's smart and can think deeply through stuff better than my younger brother who is just not able to perceive the way Himanshu does for Himanshu is not a materialistic person while my youngest brother has a worldly sense of perception. Because of his above-the-world mental state, he also understood what he ended up arguing over with Divyanshu the last time that I was home. I could see that Himanshu had that above natural intuition while Divyanshu and his arguments were only limited to the natural which he so tried to push forth despite being incomplete and limited.

I can sense Himanshu's innocence and detachment from the systems of the world while my youngest brother's mind is consumed with the world! He can work even a low-paying job that doesn't exactly suit his skill or capability with contentment and he is capable of giving away huge amounts of money as charity if he has it.

While I was moving around thinking about where to start the day as I looked at the slightly dirty room again, I saw:
The trio feels convicted and obliged in their hearts to clean my room properly because they drove me to this depressed condition. At first, they're shown as entirely naked though nothing obscene is visible in the vision but an overall beige skin tone, whereas the follow-up vision shows them dressed in multilayered clothes as they clean my room.

I was also thinking again about what I would need to do to get out of this influence of the serpent since the drones started talking. And it's then that Fasting and Praying get highlighted to me again along with Trust and Obey lyrics sung in the tune of one of the faulk600 videos.

While brushing teeth, these lyrics from the worship song First Love played in my Spirit.

The Guy sings:
You're my first love, you're my first love, you're my first love.
You're my first love, and you're coming from above!
You're my first love, you're my first love, you're my first love.
You're my first love, and you're sitting like a dove. (The actual lyric may be slightly different but this is what I understood.)

Ref: First Love

After I wrote the songlines above, I heard: You're a prophetess Kartika. You're a prophetess Kartika.

Everyone who has the Holy Spirit can be a prophet.

The guy says: Bahut der lagadi maine tujhe samajhne mein. Bahut der lagadi maine tujhe samajhne mein.

This also kept repeating in my spirit as I was brushing my teeth and then later doing some chore. While I was washing dishes earlier this day in the morning, I saw:

Three dark greyish animated demons from faulk007 animated videos flying in the air with their bat wings as they say to each other: Now she has stopped listening to us. We can't confuse her anymore. And they repeat it among themselves as I'm ignoring the contradictory statements that I'm hearing in my head.

This series by the name Foolish Warriors of God comes with a twist of surprise in regards to the title of the series as one would think it pertains to highlighting who would be considered a foolish warrior of God and therefore be useless in His kingdom. The series comes in 4 parts. It was a day well spent watching this series.

You can watch them on 1.5 or 2 X speed to save time as they progress slowly.

After I was done watching the Foolish Warriors of God series above, I happened to open a video by the title Wait on The Lord from the same YouTube channel, and at its beginning, it talks about the aircraft military base in the spiritual realms of the Kingdom of God. It made me think if I was also a soldier of this kind though I don't see any such thing in my actions in the physical realm, and then I saw:

- The back view of me standing at my room's balcony dressed in cotton black with my hair tied in a bun at the back as I am operating an artillery grenade and shooting out through the balcony. Apparently, I am keeping the demons out. It was hard to believe at first.

The vision repeated a few times. Also, I had this other vision as well: the upper half of KA from the McDonalds' The KA Meal throwing the open rectangular box of loaded fries from the meal at my face, and the vision repeated a few times. And after a while, I heard the following song by Shane and Shane playing in my Spirit so I played the song out openly to worship Jesus.

My Jesus I love thee..

My Jesus I love thee (Shane & Shane) lyrics

And I wasn't really hungry so I was skeptical of placing the order but then I saw myself giving the burger from the meal to Chaaru which seemed a good option to me as I would then not end up overeating. So I placed the order and on my way to my room, I gave the burger to Chaaru.

After ending the WhatsApp call with my mom, I saw:
The front left side view of Himanshu sitting alone on a long bench swing with a sad expression and teary eyes as the silver-colored bench swing moves back and forth.

He should choose the job he wants to do. He may be happier doing a teaching job and can find a well-paid one in a coaching institute. I don't know why he was sad, but this I know that the environment at home is not soul-filling but soul-sapping.

Later I feel the drones on top of my groin and I see a dragon's long nail scratching on top of it. It is followed by the animated satan shown ahead from faulk600 YT channel with a light parrot green-coloured serpent tail come crawling with his human-shaped upper half standing straight at my groin to poke at it. I rebuke and it goes with the words: I got rejected!

I sense the drone(s) on top of my groin again and hear: It's the serpent. There's no Mrittunjay there. It's the serpent (the devil). The statement tells who is behind the guy running the drone or looking at the video telecasted by the drone.

He's run by the devil. There's no doubt behind it now!

I see Jesus standing in the centre of my room angrily pointing to the balcony to throw the polybag of sweets immediately. So I do so.

And I feel a lot of itching around the places that are always covered and accumulate sweat and dirt at my back. Hard to sit still with the itching back. But I'm still a daughter of God with the dirt and tan and the abuser is still a devil reincarnate regardless of how he looks.

The lady sings:
Cut me down
But it's you who'll have further to fall
Ghost town and haunted love..

Raise your voice
Sticks and stones may break my bones

Talking loud not saying much..

I'm bulletproof, nothing to lose
Fire away, fire away
Ricochet, you take your aim
Fire away, fire away..

You shoot me down, but I won't fall
I am titanium
You shoot me down, but I won't fall
I am titanium.

Ref: Sia's song Titanium.

Past Revelations

- (Past week) I see the front view of Akhila dressed in a loose neck-high full-sleeved tunic with her drape resting on her shoulder standing to the right of Death Conqueror in front of the windowed wall adjoining the balcony of her room D1 in A-16 of Single Storey, as she looks at me and then at him turning her face to the left, and says in a quiet tone: She loves me.. She loves me..
- (Past two days) The upper half of Akhila dressed in the same attire as the above revelation looks at me as she says sobbing: I don't deserve you Kartika. I don't deserve you Kartika.
- (Past few days) The side-view of a tiny Amir Khan dressed in a full-sleeved white shirt tucked inside black pants standing on the left side of a huge breast as he's pulling and tearing away at its flesh like a wild animal with a ferocious animalistic expression as he stops at the vision zooming in at him and looks at the viewer.

Dream:

I've written this dream as separate parts and not in the continuous order that I saw things as it was a long dream, and these are its highlights.

- I am with Anjali and we've to cook. I find myself slicing cabbage first into fine vertical strips followed by chopping it in the perpendicular direction. I want to cook something different. When I bring the chopped cabbage and onion together, they come together in the shape of a light green cucumber that one can tell by looking at it that though it's held together, it consists of fine strands and pieces that can be scattered apart with a light force.
- A hand patterned in yellow and black floating in the air in the background of a metallic room picks up a green and black patterned surface of the same dimension floating below and the two merge into one. This specific part of the dream in which the hand picked up the green surface thereby the two merging together repeated a few times in the same manner.
- Try to solve without working: written in dim white on a black surface. The part repeats itself intermittently a few times as the dream progresses.
- I'm in a building and on a floor below the ground as I'm moving around. To the right of the stairs that go up towards the building's exit is the open door to a room across the narrow space in between which extends forward into a wider verandah. As I pass by this first room, I spot my mom, with her straight and short hair falling down, sitting on a chair laid along the wall extending to the left of the door with a group of people, mostly men, sitting on the floor in front of her. Apparently, they're all murderers, as the thought is already present in my mind in the dream. But she doesn't seem to be afraid or tense but is sitting calmly at her spot and is smiling as looks forward into the room. Apparently, this floor is a part of a prison. I wonder what is she doing there? I cross the length of the room walking along the verandah that extends forward against the stairs and at the end of it to its right enter into a doorway that leads further into that floor. On my way back, as I'm tracing my path back through the verandah, I come across the open door again and spot my mom sitting there on the chair again. She is still smiling though there's a group of murderers sitting in front of her. I wonder if perhaps she's ministering to them. I look up at the stairs that lead to the exit of that building. Why is my mom sitting in a room together with murderers?

Now, Jesus sat with sinners and ate and drank with them. But it was because He was calling them out of their sin. That's why He was with them. And those who chose to follow Him leaving their previous lifestyle behind were the ones who got blessed by His coming as the Messiah and those who rejected His teaching rejected the son of God who came down from Heaven as the bread of life to preach His Kingdom into this kingdom of blindness (because most people are blind to the spiritual reality of the world and living in their own worldly bubbles).

I find myself standing near the stairs as I think if I need to take my mom along with me away from that crowd. But I never enter that room in my limited dream.

Post Waking up:
While I'm lying in bed, I see a giant wheatish, fluffed, and muscular Death Conqueror with a serpent lower half come at me from above with a wicked vicious expression and a rod ready to hit the side of my head with. He has demonic eyes with red sclera and pointed vampiric teeth protruding out. He is coming at me with an extremely wicked expression to hit the side of my head with that steel rod but then he throws it to the side and starts kissing me while rubbing my strong pp.

Earlier during the evening, when I was writing previous dream revelations, I saw:

- Jesus pushes in a spring roll in my mouth hitting its other end with a jerk with his other palm.

So I order the same when I move to rest. I happen to order momos as well, as I found a coupon I could use, and I'll have them later.

When I lay down to rest, I hear:
Mrittunjay to jaldi hi marne wala hai.

Well, if he continues in his sin, he is going to be spiritually dead in his sin.

I resume my rest and see:
The top-view of the golden face of Buddha with closed eyes and a bun at the top as a black snake came out of his head. I then saw a snake in front of me marching towards me in the spirit because of which I began praying in tongues and it led to fire attacks of the Holy Spirit being thrown towards the serpent making it withdraw back. I saw it crawling around, and behind my skyblue rack as I continued to pray in tongues eventually sending it out through the balcony.

(Masih nidhaal soedaar chalte dekha hai..
Bhadakti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai..)

I ask God for the fate of the trio and about the revelation in which all three were dressed in astronaut suits. I have now seemed to have risen above my situation and no longer feel offended by the drones as I look at them as foolish sinful children of God whom He is responsible for dealing with in His own way. I hear a response that says that it depends on me, that how I treat them despite their sin and guide them to the truth! Well, at this point I'm able to digest this response because Jesus has brought enough changes in me to reflect His own self to others while not condoning sin at the same time. I knew that they couldn't be continuing in the way they were headed for long. Eventually one has to turn their back to sin and repent and give one's life to God. To enter someone's kingdom, you need to treat the owner, creator, and the King of that Kingdom as the King. So I saw regardless of how I responded to their sin, these fellows needed to accept Jesus as their King for them to enter the kingdom of Heaven. Well, to me, they're just like any other sinner who's embedded in sin and can be pulled out of it by God if they hold His hand and want to come out of it. And when I feel bad about a certain situation, I remind myself of the breaking Word of God meant to counteract the situation. For instance, when I lay on my left side and could feel the drone on my left breast, I reminded myself of the revelation in which Bhagyashree lay in bed with her tiny monkey baby feeding on her which then led to him growing up after which out of him came out a dark black Glory.

When I received my order and was having the roll in my bed fully covered with a blanket and my olive green sheet as well along with being dressed up in sweaters and thermals, I heard in my Spirit: Khyati has raha hai teri halat pe.

It made me wonder if he was laughing with a sad undertone at my miserable situation, and it reminded me of the dream Smoothtalk and Witchcraft as in that dream while I was going through that situation with the trio, the vision of a man lying in a bed along the left side of the room, being fully covered in a white mattress with his phone held in front of his hand as he continued watching the situation that took place right in front of him behind the transparent glass door between his room and the space in which the lady woke up from sleep and sent the trio running away scratching their faces!

After having my meal, I decided to rest as I was tired and needed rest for I had been writing for long. But Jesus was pointing me to resume writing. I told Him that I needed more rest and He agreed. When the drones would move around on my body and I would get a sense of me facilitating their sin and therefore felt guilty about it because when I am up and working at my table their movements are lesser, I knew that it would have been better if I was up and working than to continue lying in bed, but I also didn't feel much energetic at the same for me to be able to do so. It was then that I saw Jesus come at my head a few times with a danda or a rock but every time He withheld His hand from hitting me. And I recalled the Bible verse that said that He withholds His judging hand and is patient when we fall into sin out of His love for us. Now I told Him that I would have wanted to rest without the presence of drones as well, and it wasn't that I wanted to sin or facilitate their sin though my act of lying in bed was in a way working as a fuel for them to move their drones around. I also told Him that I don't want to sin against Him and that I would rather focus on Him and not the drones and think of Him while I lie in my rest so I won’t be counted as the one sinning.

You're my first love. You're my first love. You're my first love.

And it's then that I see:
The semi-animated side-view of the naked upper half of a beautiful golden shining Jesus with a golden crown of thorns on His head as He sits on a bed with His lower half covered with a sheet while a naked lady under the sheet lying on His other side has her right arm around Him as she moves her head in coziness being asleep.

So I knew that He had given me a revelation of Him with me that I could think about instead of getting distracted by the drones and the voices.

I then changed my side to match the lady's in the vision.
After a while, I see the side-view of Jesus dressed in a multicolored vertically striped robe as He stands facing a lady a meter or two away from Him in the open day blue sky background. He undoes the robe's knot and it opens up wide revealing His body though His genitals are covered, after which the lady runs to Him and hugs Him like Bella did Edward in Twilight New Moon.

Night

- An animated tall lady with a fat upper half stands facing to the right dressed in a thick beige fur coat extending until a foot above her knees with dark brown buttons sewed vertically in a line above and below her fat waistline tied with a thick beige cloth belt. She has straight neck-length hair and slim legs.
- As I'm lying in bed before falling asleep and this day I had written about why this short fellow didn't choose the right way to go about things but a chose a sick immoral way that has caused me much pain and damage, as I had written that he could have talked to me or my family directly about the state of things, and then what gets highlighted to me is that I was way too below his level and if he had approached me in the regular way, it just wouldn't have suited him and I wasn't worthy of it in his eyes! And accompanying this though is a feeling of hatred as if he's forced to mingle with a family that is not just suitable for him to connect with and therefore to live his superiority he had chosen a way that put us down and brought shame to us! Almost as if it's a trade one has to go through to connect with an immorally degraded person like him! When I saw this thought, I was filled with disgust for this fellow! He didn't even have the basic common sense to go about things but he had to choose a way that would maintain and establish the fact about how shameful is for a person of his useless stature to be wanting to connect with a person such as me. And that he had to inflict that injury on us by making us go through that! No one wants to be with such a wicked person. It was almost as if he was thinking of himself as being someone great for choosing a woman from the working section of society, but at the same time, he has to punish them for being at that level when in fact he's the one who deserves to be punished because of everything he has been doing until now!

  It was such a grieving and nauseating revelation! No one wants to be a part of such a high-class family!

  When I was writing the above, I saw the two messenger ladies who shifted on this floor look at me sobbing as they said: Ye sach hai bete! Ye sach hai.

Past Revelations

- (Past two weeks) Had se jyada smart. Had se jyaa sunder! Kartika had se jyada smart hai! Aur had se jyada sunder!

- (Past few days) I happened to ask the girl from the neighborhood if things were alright in her family as they had a fight somewhere within the past two weeks. She thanked me for interjecting that night as everyone else stood outside their closed door while her dad was abusing her and her mom. She then began explaining her familial problem to me, that her dad wanted to absorb her mom and her into his tiffin business leaving their own individual jobs, but that if they did so, the entire income would go to him and then he was abusive and didn't treat them well in front of the workers when her mom once did decide to work in his tiffin service business. Because of his abusive and poor behavior, they didn't want to work for him but wanted to work separately which would also help them have their finance in control. She said that this was the main issue her dad often fought about. And then she began sharing her past years: how she began working at the age of 18 and that she had been working for 5 years continuously and how she didn't want her mom to work or be with her dad because he was always abusing her. She told me that she worked in an MNC and built that small floor to live in using the money they had saved in their societal committee system which reminded me of the recent dream in which I had entered an MNC to find a job and how my supervisor said that I would be paid my salary after 20 months after the process of the page I wrote being verified from all homes of the society was completed along with collecting a small amount of money from each house.

While she was sharing her problems, I kept hearing Deborah repeat in my Spirit which was a part of a previous dream revelation. Deborah was a prophetess and a judge assigned to Israelites for them to come to her and resolve their matters. Now this was the Holy Spirit saying that unlike the demons or the devil who call me promiscuous names! Well, I wasn't expecting the conversation to extend to that length as a consequence of my asking about how they were, but it did and I was glad that they found my help that day useful. She also added that their relatives downstairs supported her dad over her and her mom and didn't show them compassion. That things could've been much better if they supported them and told their dad to change his abusive behavior!

I suggested her that if the abuse situation was so severe, they could leave her dad and shift to a different place where he wouldn't be there. And I also added later that sexual immorality and abuse were biblically sound grounds for divorce/separation between a married couple. She said that she had thought about it but she built that floor using her own money which she would not get a return of as she didn't have the floor papers with her which belonged to their Granny who was their family head. So, she didn't want to let her hard-earned money that she invested go to waste. But at the same time, she didn't want her old mom to go through all that abuse either.

At the end, she was happy that I listened to her, understood her, and gave her my advice. She said that they wouldn't want to separate from her dad, but he shouldn't be abusive towards them. Towards the end, she said that her dad wanted her to serve as the delivery girl for his tiffin service but she didn't want to work for him because he was abusive, and that she would rather work for delivering tiffins for her mom's tiffin service. And then I parted away from her with a Bye!

The Guy sings:
Chamakte chaand ko toota hua tara bana dala..
Chamakte chaand ko toota hua tara bana dala..

Well, though she didn't like my advice much, it was the right advice in her situation as I told her that separation is the last resort in an abusive situation.
While I was writing the above, I saw: Chaaru comes walking to me from my right dressed in a full-sleeved brown tunic with an angry expression as she says: Terko kisne kaha humari family matters mein dakhal dene ke liye. But I didn't interfere in their family matters perse but showed compassion to my neighbour and lended an empathetic ear to hear.

- Later during the evening of this day, I saw: The upper half of Akhila until her shoulders standing on the road in my place as she was talking to that girl about her problem. I don't know why God showed me that vision. But it reminded me of the previous vision I had the day after I had spent the night at Pinky Mausi's home listening to Lalita share her situation with me and I understood her and gave her sound advice. I saw:
- The upper half of Akhila dressed in a tunic set with her hair falling at the back as she said sobbing looking at me: Kartika you're better than me in everything. Kartika you're better than me in everything.

Well, when I was listening to Lalita, it reminded me of the dream in which I was sharing my problems with a toddler who was lying beside me in my blanket and talked smoothly and acted like an adult while Death Conqueror lay asleep on the bed near my feet. Apparently, that toddler was supposedly Glory. Though I didn't give her a blowjob or think of doing so like in the dream I asked the toddler quietly to give me one to which he had replied after a while with an: It's smelly as he left following which I was repenting before Jesus for the sin and when I returned to the spot the next day, he was dressed differently and told me the names of people who saw the blow job though my face wasn't visible in the telecast.

Though while listening to her and giving her advice, I also thought about how we were supposed to understand each other and give godly advice, unlike Akhila who turned the situation into toxic gossip meant to slander and hurt the other individual and which didn't at all involve understanding things the right way with the right moral mindset!

Before falling asleep:

- The top view of a baby with a bald head dressed in a thin cotton bawa-colored jumpsuit walking slowly to the left on the floor.
- The front view of a huge baby with a bald head dressed in a navy blue jumpsuit floating in the dark outer space with one of his right hand and left leg turned backwards.

Dream 1:
Towards the end of this dream, I hear a narrative voice that's speaking about how the devil whispers things into the ear of this woman every night accompanying the vision of a woman fast asleep on her left side on her bed in her room in the dark of the night as the devil dressed fully in hooded black is whispering something in her ear facing upwards eventually waking her up.

The voice says that the devil does this every night after the woman falls asleep.

I wake up after this and find myself lying straight on my back and feel someone breathing air directly inside my mouth. Though it carries a deep sense of intimacy, but I know that it's a drone and I don't want to comply with this new act and in a way cheat against Jesus and my God-ordained spouse! So I start whispering in a line the name of Jesus instead and turn to the other side after which I hear sobs coming from behind me!

I fall back into sleep after a while and have this other dream.

Dream 2:
I am in a crowded gathering of people organized in a hall though I don't know the occasion. My dad is too busy roaming with a sling bag crisscrossed around him. I find myself eating a lot in this dream though I'm not hungry. Towards the end of this procession, I find myself standing in front of my dad who is sitting on a chair smiling and looking at me as he says in a quiet but inquiring tone: Ek to tujhe saari facilities chahiye! Upar se tu khati bhi bahut hai! which makes me think doesn't he know what I've been going through and how it has affected me and all aspects of my life where I am not able to do as much as I previously could? Additionally, the household chores weren't the chores that I counted as the prime things to be done but they just constituted basic necessary things like brushing, eating or bathing that needed to be taken care of on a daily basis. It was my PhD work and the time I spent in Bible Study or worshipping the Lord that I counted as the main events of the day while the rest of the time was just a part of the time spent in the daily necessary daily chores.

While I was writing the above, I saw: A small-framed vision of Glory standing with someone out in the open as he says to that person laughing: Ye kya bol rahi hai!? Dekho naukrani aur randi kya bol rahi hai!

Dream Continued: His statement disappoints me a bit as I see that he does not understand my situation though he is not angry either about me not doing anything but eating a lot.

Afterwards, when the crowd is no longer there, my mom asks me to mop the floor. And she says that if I'm not able to mop it in the sitting posture then I could use my leg to do so. I don't feel like cleaning the house using my leg either for I can't! I follow my dad into the dark kitchen. I see a white granular substance lying on a surface on the kitchen's slab to my left and apparently, it's an eatable. I want to eat that as well. But before I can pick any up, my dad takes a part of it in his hand but I find him changing the amount, and once it seems that he is going to eat all of it. But in the end, he takes a small part and leaves the rest after which I have some of it. I can tell that he was pretending as he knew that I was waiting to have some of it. While my dad is still inside the kitchen, I exit the room and while walking away spot a piece of the long and thick version of Jalebi lying on top of the single-door fridge. I pick it up and break a long piece of the thick Jalebi and have the same. I am then walking with my dad on one of the muddy roads of my hometown. When we reach our home, I find both of us standing in front of the closed single mesh door of the smaller room that usually served as the bedroom on the ground floor of our rented home in the Cheema Colony. The room is looking too white because of the walls, the wooden white slabs to the left of the door, and the white floor marbled with tiny stones in a checkered pattern.

While I was writing the above, I heard: Isme uski maut ka saman ka hai. Isma uski maut ki saman hai!

Dream Continued:
My mom is sitting on the left side of the double bed with her back resting against the wall while my youngest brother is wiping the floor clean with a wiper between the bed's lower end and the wall facing my mom. He is wiping out the water into the room with a grilled ceiling and orangish floor at the back that usually served as the store room. My dad enters the room but when I enter the room, I see that I have left two muddy imprints on the white floor seeing which I retract and go back outside. The next thing I see is me still standing outside as I look inside and see the back of my mom dressed in a dark-colored tunic as she is sitting on the floor and mopping her side of it below the white slabs to the left of the door the floor.

Paul stripped off his flesh every day: I see this written in dim white on a dark surface somewhere in the middle of the dream, and the vision repeated itself a few times.

The statement refers to Paul suffering every day on Earth and letting go of a bit of his flesh every day as he was often fasting and was mistreated while ministering at differing places.

The dream ends with the following subsection.
I am standing facing the Verandah in front of the drawing and the bedroom of my granny's home that has long been broken down, rebuilt and sold away. I see two short-heighted and lean doppelgangers of RS and KA dressed in full-sleeved shirts untucked over pants come walking and enter straight into the drawing room without asking me who's standing right in front of them. I find their behavior quite outrageous. I follow inside after them as the doppelganger of KA says that he needs help with something. I walk beside him and follow him as he walks across the room straight to the desktop placed on the right corner of the wall to our left. We both sit in front of the desktop as he takes a printed page out and hands it to me. He wants to visit the website he printed that page from as he seems to have forgotten the website. When I look at the printed page that's filled on both sides, I see that it's a notification that he has printed. It has the form of a letter as it begins with the format:

To

I look carefully at the page and find a website printed on the top-right corner of the page. But I can tell that it's not the one that has the notification but it's a part of the page itself. I suggest him to search for the theme that the letter revolves around. Some parts of the letter are highlighted in bold and catch my attention. I suggest him to search some of the keywords related to the notification letter that would lead him to the website. I am thinking that he could easily do it by himself and that he didn't need my help as I'm observing the letter. But it seems that he is just not willing to do it and he perceives it as a difficult task and therefore wants me to do it for him. But I am still thinking looking at the letter why doesn't he try looking up the keywords that would lead him to the link he downloaded the page from? He seems to have increased the work that he could've done by his own self, and it's when I wake up.

Post Waking up:

- Mrittunjay is here. Mrittunjay is here.
- You've been trapped. You've been trapped Kartika.

  I hear this in my spirit as I see a dark figure stuck inside the vertically raised body of a serpent as the figure is pushing against the walls to get out. It's the same white serpent from the previous dream revelation in which I fell into the wide-open mouth of a huge white serpent.
- The follow-up vision shows a much more giant Jesus standing on the right side of the serpent and He attracts me to Him with such a force that the pull tears the serpent's flesh apart from near the part right above the ground and the tiny me flies straight through the air to His chest as He holds me like His child.
- The vision of the naked and muscular avatar of devil from faulk600 video floating in the air in a dim red background carrying a wicked aura tells a demon flying at a level below him: Take her with you. She has been given to us.

And then is shown two demons carrying a lady with the face of Akhila down into the red spiritual space as the devil's voice continues to say: Take her to the depths of hell! Her face then changes into the blurry face of mine.

Late Afternoon:
I'm editing one of the previous pages when I see the dark and muscular half-naked satan.

He comes to me from the kitchen corridor with my small plate filled with momos I had heated earlier during the day and had two pieces of, as he stops to my left and extends it to me. I ignore it because I don't want to take anything from satan or consume anything he wants me to consume. Satan has the form shown below from faulk600 videos in this vision.

I continue to work and after a while I see him standing still with the plate of momos beside the kitchen slab.

While I was writing the above, I saw: Glory's face in a dark background with the collar of his white tunic visible as he says with a smile: Bik gayi! Bik gayi! Bik gayi!

And this made me think what has he been doing all this time!? Did he turn to Jesus and start following Him? Did he come to me in a way he is supposed to come when he knows that God ordained him for me!? Did he do that? Did he reflect the nature and character of Christ by emulating how He treats His bride?

Well, that's not what Jesus thinks. When he showed me to throw them, I did, though I may have bought them in the moment. If he tells me to not have something, I refrain from it.

I liked those momos and I love momos in general, but I don't want anything from the wicked satan who rebels against God and is his enemy. To his left near the wall adjoining the washroom, I see Jesus dressed in full ankle-length white robes holding a mug filled with milk. So, I am seeing two options in my spirit. If I choose to have the momos, they're the devil' will for me, while if I had the milk, that's the Will of Jesus for me. So I choose to have milk, though I like momos more because I love Jesus and hate devil. If Jesus was to offer me momos, they would taste even better, while anything given by satan no matter how fancy or expensive is just not worth it.

So, while I am washing the pan to warm the milk, I see a smiling Jesus with shining eyes pointing me to throw the momos. So, I do so.

After I wrote the above, I saw: Jesus hits the top of my head with a rod as He exclaims, "Happy!"

I later lie down to rest and as soon as I lie down, the drones begin to move, and then I see:
The robotic demon sitting near my lower half with its hand/finger on top of my strong pp.

When I feel the breaths around the lower half of my face, I see: the front-view of the head of a black snake right in front of my nose/mouth. These people are demons and demon snakes. I brush away the snake but when I start feeling the breaths again, the vision of the black snake head with a closed mouth in a dark background appears again in front of my mouth.

While I was writing the above, I heard:
Tu mujhse jalti hai kyunki mein itna acha hu! (Perhaps he is talking about his own self being jealous of others who are not like him!)

I heard this statement in my head. Well, I knew that it was sarcastic and it was quite infuriating. Why would I be jealous of him!? If he was so good, I would feel good around him and would desire his company! But he is not! He's the demon-infested blackheart.

How can he say that about himself after doing all this!? I am on the quitting my PhD when I was the kind of person who could do a lot of work in a very short amount of time. He made me depressed to the extent that I've been staying in my room since April and I don't feel good every time I have to go out! I keep coming across people outside who are always saying something mean when I didn't do anything wrong here to anyone. I don't want to be like him. If his intentions behind this wicked deed were good, then I would desire to have that kind of heart, but never the kind of mind that devised such a wicked plan and overlooked its negative impact on the other person! What he did would've led someone else to suicide by now! It's a lie that he's been telling to himself that he's so good to avoid the associated guilt!

A godly moral person if he was interested in marrying me would approach me directly in a moral way or if he didn't have it in him, then he would send his parents to my parents or home to talk about it. He wouldn't play games or put the one who wants to marry through what this demon-infested blackheart put me! And even then, the other person would have the God-given choice to accept or reject the proposal based on her assessment of that person! He will not be able to sit in my seat for a week where his family members were also being projected online! So, he better not say I am jealous of him! I have Jesus with me who is perfect and I am not jealous of Him when He is perfect, but I want to be like Him and He is not someone who strips women!

Now everyone feels a bit reluctant when meeting someone for the first time, but no one feels comfortable sending cameras into someone's private space and projecting that person online!

Or we have cell phones for a reason in this technologically developed era! But he didn't choose any of that. He chose to strip me online and then he was happy he gave a high-five to someone else with the words: Yes! We made her a prostitute! This shows how good he is. While everyone moral person feels sad about my situation and can empathize with me, this immoral person feels superior and good about himself!

The next thing I hear: Tujhe marna bahut mushkil hai. Tujhe marna bahut mushkil hai.

Again, what's there to be jealous about? After putting me through this situation and ruining the degree I spent those years in, this fellow now feels good about his good nature that's stopping him from killing me!

Past Revelations

- (past two weeks) The yellow Boondi tiny sweet balls at the end of a long curved half cylinder of metallic scoop.

The last time that I went to the sweet shop, it was to buy these yellow balls because of the vision but he didn't have them and he said that they are available on Tuesday. I then bought all those other sweets after having a few of which at home, Jesus pointed at me angrily to throw the packet away!

On my way to get the Boondi sweet, as I am walking along the electrician's lane towards the sweet shop, I hear a sudden voice in my spirit inside my chest: Turn back. This is not my Will for you.

I stop in my tracks and turn back but have already come halfway and was now looking forward to eating the sweet. So, I ask the Lord if I could still have it, and I hear that I could after praying over it as it's made on Tuesday because people buy it on that day because of the pagan God Hanuman and therefore could carry demonic remnants from satan's kingdom.

- (past week) A well-built muscular man dressed in a Police Uniform walks forward towards the viewer in a background lit in white light and stops at a table a part of which is visible in the vision, as he says: Hi. I'm Inspector Karan. And then he starts inquiring about a certain FIR or case with the person behind the desk.
- (Past few days) A small-framed vision of my landlord Subhash Uncle dressed in his grey polo shirt untucked over pants running towards me in a dark background as he shouts with one of his hands raised up as if he's going to hit the other person: Vo bahut accha hai..!

Late Evening

While I am lying in bed with the yellow light turned on, I see: My landlord Subhash Uncle dressed in a grey polo shirt pulls my hair away as he says: Tune aisa kyu kiya!?

Night

I lie down to sleep and have the following revelations.

I see the back view of a lady sitting on a chair with her straight hair falling behind the chair and the back of Jesus dressed in His ankle-length white robes with straight neck-length hair standing behind her as He in a swipe cuts her hair short to being shoulder-length. So, it told me that I should get a haircut now as it's been about a year, and apparently, it's Jesus who will be giving me that haircut. Wow… He's so good. That's how one is supposed to walk with God where He is a part of one's everyday life or decisions and actions.

I'm now excited about this mundane chore of getting a haircut because of this God-given revelation.

Kal tujhe police le jayegi. Kal tujhe Police le jayegi. And then I see the blurry figure of a guy with his face resembling KA which then changes to Mrittunjay's with the figure dressed in a white tunic in a dark background saying: Aur Police ko maine bulaya hai!

This reminds me of the dream I had this morning in which I had seen my mom sitting on a chair in a room with a group of people sitting on the floor in front of her, and apparently, it was a group of murderers, but she didn't seem to be afraid of them as when I looked inside she was smiling sitting in her chair.

(Past two days) Kartik mar raha hai tujhse milne ke liye. Kartik mar raha hai tujhse milne ke liye!

The lady sings: Phod dala.. Phod dala..

Night

- While I'm working on my table and thinking about getting better at rebuking the voice of devil and doing better spiritual warfare, I see: FAST FAST FAST written in shiny light skyblue blink in the air in the space filled with golden light to my slight left above my face.
- During my rest in bed: Tilda Swilton (the white witch actor) with her blonde hair tied in a bun at the back stands facing to the right being dressed in a full-length white attire with its light greyish wide conical collar extending up high and wide until slightly below the top of her head as a hand reaches out to her from behind and tries to strip her away by pulling away at her grey collar while she's shown to be resisting and moving away from the hand. The vision moves to her back and the hand now removes her huge white wings one after the other as she stands with her back towards them. The fluffed and muscular short fellow dressed in a black suit looks down at me from the ceiling as he says: Ye mein hu! And then I heard: He already removed her wings, and now he is forcing her to strip! There is shown to be a golden attachment at the back of her dress that supposedly serves as the connector between her wings and her. The hands disengaged the wings from her body.
- The bottom view of Death Conqueror hitting my forehead viciously with a stone as he says in a furious wicked tone: Dekh mein kitna accha hu! Dekh mein kitna accha hu!

When I am lying in bed and reach deep within inside of me at a pure place, or I reminded myself of my previous mindset I used to carry that gave immense importance to not fornicating and adhering to the laws of God because love was more important than any act of fornication and perfect love by nature was everlasting eternal and therefore came along with the quality of it being cherished within a covenant, I see myself entering into that holy mindspace again after this short trip in which I was entertaining divergent revelations under the pretext of them calling people out to God's Kingdom and seeing them as a metaphor for hearty communion, and in this revisited state, I don't want to have sin even as a metaphor, and then I begin singing a worship song to God in my heart in that Holy mindspace which is followed by a hand getting hold of a golden key raised up high in the Sky.

Praise and Worship of God done not just with loud voices but with a contrite and pure heart is the Key to overcoming.

Past Revelations

- (Past two weeks) As I'm lying in bed in the dark of the night with open eyes, I have this repeat: Tu Heer ban chuki hai. Tu Heer ban chuki hai. As I wrote the previous lines, I saw: the crying face of Glory with a mouth wide open as it turns to the left.
- (Past two weeks) The upper half of the dusky guy from the trio near the ceiling says to the short guy: Tu usko (Akhila) rakhle. Mein isko rakh leta hu!
- (Past two weeks) While lying in bed as I feel the drones moving on my body somewhere inside my mouth, I see the face of Death Conqueror in front of kissing me. After a while, as he continues to kiss me, he is shown to have two black horns that break one after the other leaving their flat bases on top of his head.
- (Past two weeks) Hum konsa shaadi karne wale hai terse! Hum konsa shaadi karne wale hai terse!
- (Past Week) I'm talking incessantly about how these fools don't implement the basic godly morals in their lives and then I heard in my Spirit: Kartika rulao mat. Humein sab pata hai! (Though I don't know whose thought it was.)
- (Past week) The dusky guy slaps the short guy incessantly near the ceiling as he says: Tune aisa kyu kiya! Tune aisa kyu kiya! The cornered short guy is down on his back now with a lifted upper body and vertically folded knees as he looks at the dusky guy and whispers in an amazed tone: Mein to ise barbaad karna chahta tha!
- (Past week) I'm having an omelet I cooked in my bed and I hear: Don't ever say again that she doesn't know how to eat! Never say again that she doesn't know how to eat!
  Apparently, the dusky guy is saying this to the short fellow!
- (Past week) The next time when I'm eating a spring roll, I hear again: Don't say again she doesn't know how to eat. She knows how to eat. She's good with a fork.
- (Past week) While I'm sitting in bed with my back resting against the wall and legs extended along its direction, I see: KA hits the top of my head with a grey cemented slab repeatedly that breaks on hitting my head as he repeats: Bahut smart hai! Bahut smart hai!
- (Past week) I'm lying resting in my bed covered with my blanket when I see: KA beside me hit my neck with an axe.
- Masih Nidhaal Soedar chalte dekha hai..
  Bhadakti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai..
- (Past week) While I'm washing dishes in the morning with a stern expression as I'm too annoyed with the continuing sin of this sin, I hear the short guy Mrittunjay say: Mein tere paas nahi aaunga. Tu mujhe maregi! Mein tere pas nahi aunga! Tu mujhe maregi!
- (Past Week) While I'm lying in bed this night in dark and the drones are moving, I see: a naked Glory lying at my right as he is holding and kissing me. He in a jump movs on top of me and converts to a wide dark brown wolf as the pointed claw-like genitalia of a serpent comes of him and he begins moving to and fro on top of me in intercourse while licking my face.

Dream:
I'm in a long and wide boat-like vehicle with white seats and it floats on the land. I am in with a few more people. The boat's front is moving towards the exit door of the building but as it slides a bit out, it immediately takes a U-turn and is now facing inwards and begins to move back inside in small discrete slides along the floor.

The next part of the dream has me in a room with Meera sitting on a bed with her dad sitting on a chair placed near the edge on its right end facing Meera with his upper half bent forward. I walk into another darker room which has their long metallic wardrobe. I see that it's half-open through which the inner smaller lock is visible. I think of closing the outer door but then it's not my home's wardrobe and perhaps they left it open for a reason to take something out later. Who knows!? I exit the room and when I am out and back with Meera, I see her facing to the left looking at her dad and the vision then shifts to her dad facing her, still on his chair, as he's saying something about a possible theft. I wonder if he's referring to me stealing something from their wardrobe, but why would I do that? I attribute his statement to the falsely judging nature of people or the aspect of their self that wants to say mean things about others for no reason.

The final part of the dream has me present in a room that resembles the last room I was in A-16 (D1). I see my dad sleeping on a printed dark brown carpet laid between the bed's end and the wall in front whereas I'm cleaning the room. I am done mopping when I find myself sitting on the floor a meter away from the balcony facing the narrow passage where my dad is sleeping. I slide the water down through that space for me to wipe though I don't know why I did that. Because it was after I slid the water down and moved in to wipe that I found that my dad was sleeping there. I am then wiping the narrow passage. My dad is still asleep when I see that water has gone below the carpet though it hasn't been absorbed. I quickly wipe the top of the carpet moving the water out through the other end without waking him up or asking him to get up, and as I am moving around him, he doesn't seem to be affected either as he keeps still lying in the manner. I wipe the floor exposed beside the carpet and when I am near the other end, I find a heap of 5-7 wide and almost square books lying on the floor that the water has seeped below as well. I move the heap around and wipe the water from that space. The follow-up part of the dream has my mom and my dad up on their feet in the room. My mom walks into the balcony facing the Ganda Nala and starts shouting something abruptly for no reason. My dad standing facing me near the balcony's door looks at me and says: Dekh ye kaise behave kar rahi hai! My mom standing behind him to his left now present partly inside the room shouts that she wants a divorce!

Post Waking Up:

- Aaj teri shaadi hone wali hai. Aaj teri shaadi hone waali hai.

After a while as I'm thinking about the dream I last wrote about finding the website from the printed notification page,

(While I wrote the previous statement, I saw: the upper half of Death Conqueror looking at me sobbing as he says to me in an innocent tone: Mein marne wala hu na..?)

So while I am thinking about the website and the printed notification page, I see:

- The side-view of RS dressed in a dark purple sherwani in a dark background as he looks scared and wary with a worried expression and is moving frantically around his place as he says: Mein to phas jaunga! Mein jaa rha hu! Mein to phas jaunga! Mein jaa raha hu!

- As I'm lying in bed looking up at the ceiling, and feeling energy less and broken in my body, I see: Mrittunjay's upper half near the ceiling looking down at me with wide-open eyes as he says in a quiet tone: Toot kar mar jayegi.. Toot gayi aur mar jayegi.. Mein yahi chahata tha! It is followed by his upper half instantaneously transfigure into a black, naked and muscular upper half of a demonic figure with demonic eyes and vampiric teeth that rises up further towards the ceiling and beats his chest like the chimpanzee King Kong from the movie King Kong demonstrating how victorious he is feeling!

- As I lie and feel the drones move on my chest which again are making me feel uncomfortable and bringing a ffeling of anxiety as I know they're projecting me live, I think of turning inwards, going into the purest place into my heart and then think of Jesus, and when I do so, I see the journey I came through and came to accept this unacceptable sin and this person because of the revelations. But then I also know that I am not called to condone sin and am supposed to look at it the way it is supposed to be looked at and am in a way rechanging my dimmed perception about sin as I looked at how I had been numbed to the sense of right and wrong because of this ongoing abuse, and then the following Worship song lyrics from the night repeat in my spirit:
  Purify my heart..
  Let me be as gold.. Pure gold..
  Purify my heart..
  I praise Jesus and call on Him.

While brushing teeth, I keep hearing Madhavan from the trio says to the short-fellow: Ye tujhe marne wali hai. Ye tujhe marke phenke wali hai, aur kisiko pata bhi nhi chalega. Ye bahut smart hai. Ye tujhe marke phenk degi aur kisi ko pata bhi nhi chalega!

After I'm done brushing and cleaning my face, I immediately begin washing dishes and hear:

- The statement said by Madhavan continues to play in my Spirit.
- The face of Glory as he says: Mein nhi aaunga tere pas. Tu mujhe bahut rulayegi! Tu mujhe bahut rulayegi!

After having communion with tea, I sit to work and hear the worship song lyrics from Refiner's Fire again.

Refiner's Fire (worship video w/ lyrics)

While listening to Refiner's fire: Kartik has raha hai. Kartik has raha hai.

Yeshu Raja Hua (Official Video) Shawn & Shanon | Hindi Worship Songs | Yeshu Ke Geet

Yeshu raja yeshu raja yeshu raja hua
Khuda ke bete masih ka janam hua

A while back:
I am listening to this recently released song by Shawn & Shanon and see the trio: my landlord Subhash Uncle, his old wife and his son rotating speedily with raised forearms with forefingers pointing upwards around the first room of their apartment in front of me.

In the vision, uncle is dressed in his grey polo t-shirt untucked over pants, his wife is dressed in an embroidered navy blue tunic and his overweight son in a full-sleeved beige shirt tucked inside pants.

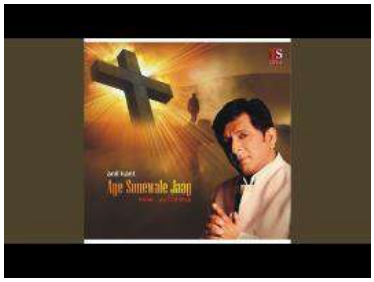
KA says quietly with a slight smile as he takes a few steps backwards into the kitchen space: Tune meri kadar nahi jaani. Tune meri kadar nahi jaani.

Well, I never pointed by God or got a strong nudge to act a certain way besides writing what He showed me! And when I look at how fat and dirty I look along with being stinky on a daily basis, along with my unclean room and other chores pending to be done, I don't feel like meeting people with an extremely neat look who are expecting me to emulate the same, let alone high profile celebrities. I respected them by not putting them through my presence, especially when I'm itching every now and then and I don't want to be around people for long durations and get into an awkward situation being unable to openly itch when I get a sensation!

Vision (past two days): The face of my middle brother Himanshu eating as he puts a small dark grey stone inside his mouth that's already filled with yellow Paneer Bhurji. I don't know why is he stuffing in instead of first chewing and swallowing what's already present in his mouth.

I was working and the chorus of this song began playing in my Spirit.

yesu naam mila



I was editing Page 617 when I heard the following sung from the Westlife song in my Spirit: Turnaround..

Westlife - Total Eclipse Of The Heart with Lyrics

I close my eyes and see:
The huge face of devil in dark until below his eyes with two horns on his head as he is looking at me from behind an empty field which is hiding the rest of his huge face. He says: You're mine..! As two streams of fire move on along the sides in opposite directions away from his face.

It seems that I'm facing a witchcraft or some other type of attack because of which I'm receiving these confusing revelations that I'm not supposed to receive. I can recall the time in A-10 when once when I was about to lie down in bed to sleep, I saw a vision of me praying on my knees with my hands raised up and when I did so, I saw the dragon head of the devil above my head pressing down on my head as he looked at me with grinded teeth! I was still getting nudges by the Spirit to pray and resist the devil while I'm not seeing visions of devil talking to me directly.

So I began fasting today. And I will continue for as long as I can. I intend to do a no food and water fast for a day, and then move into a water-only fast on the second day which I would ideally want to continue the third day as well, and if I am not able to do so, I would have some tea. But I would want to go ahead with a water fast. And please. My ministry has no hidden immoral meaning attached to it! It is what it is! I'm not endorsing sin! These camera people may be doing so as they have no conscience and fear of God and neither do they care about the impact of their actions on the mental health of other people!

And I didn't call people to sin though I received those revelations. They're called to repent of even their mental sins and accept the sacrifice of Jesus as forgiveness of their sins and turn to Him!

Night

Past Revelations

- (past few days) The bottom back view of an extremely tall person with his head reaching near the ceiling who stands in my room facing the kitchen corridor. He has short neck-length straight hair and is dressed in a full-length thick white suit with two short vertical slits at the bottom out of which protrudes out a thick dark green serpent's tail as the being's dark green serpent legs are visible as well. It's a serpent being that has dressed itself up like Jesus or is trying to give a similar impression.
- (past two days) While I was working on my table, I had this abrupt vision: The muscular and fluffed version of the naked short fellow abruptly starts moving on top of me who is lying mid-air or on the floor in the vision. The vision is followed by the drone(s) beginning to move inside of me.
- It is then followed by a naked green serpent being with a serpent tail this time shown as being of a normal stature throwing me to the bed with a jolt as he starts moving on top of me in intercourse.

False and True Prophecies

A Word About a Fulfilled Prophecy May Be False and How False Prophecy is Different From a True Prophecy In General Regardless of It Being Fulfilled Or Not

Well, I was previously thinking about how the serpent can also have his own directions that he gives to his demons to whisper to humans that can come across as a prophecy being fulfilled when in fect it is the demons interacting with one another. For instance, say, I hear in my spirit something which is not from the Holy Spirit in which I'm told that a certain person will do a certain thing, and then the same thing is told to another person for him to do by that same demon following which that person goes ahead with the thing he was told by the demon, then it would seem to the person who heard the demon first that what he heard had indeed come to pass. In this way, the serpent operates in its so-called divine revelations given to people which has something that is about to come to pass revealed spiritually in the world, but then it comes to pass because of the interconnected web of demons that's hidden from our sight. This doesn't count as predicting the future. But it counts as a situation that's orchestrated by those demons through an exchange of information with humans!

As I was writing the above, I saw:

Brother Jonathan Kleck sitting behind his desk as he says looking at me while laughing lightly: Kartika, who told you to be this smart!? Kartika, who told you to be this smart!?
The same is repeated by a lightly laughing Sis Adele.

So, in the way that I explained above, satan releases his own so-called divine plan. An instance of this was demonstrated by Brother Jonathan Kleck who by the gift of the Holy Spirit discovered the presence of some well-known world bombings found on U.S. dollar notes when one would fold them in the manner of an inverted pentagram.

However, with the Holy Spirit, the only exchange that takes place is between the Spirit of God and the receiver of the revelation which (s)he can choose to reveal to others as (s)he is led. And the fulfillment of prophecy is not because of demons and humans working in tandem to bring about the serpent's divine plan to manifest which is a quite mechanical or robotic way to fulfill a prophecy as it's based on a set of instructions given to humans serving as the system's inputs the output of which is the fulfillment of the false prophecy within the earthly frame of reality. The prophecy in this case should not be rightly called a prophecy but a situation or an output the serpent wants to create in the earthly frame and which it has let known in the physical realm through various different channels using his demons to whisper things or plant thoughts into the minds of people. And the output is achieved in quite a mechanical and robotic manner without real foresight into the future that only God possesses.

For instance, if I hear a demon in my spirit that the drone is going to hit the back of my head the next second, and then the demonic spirit that told this to me and that which is also working through the guy controlling the drone, that spirit puts in the mind of the guy the thought of putting the drone on that place next, and he may actually do so because he has that thought of action put inside his mind by the demonic spirit, and if he does so while I know the thought from that demon as well, I may mistakenly think of it as a true prophecy fulfilled.

In this case, though my prophecy came to pass, I would still be called a false prophet because I'm hearing from an unreliable source which is the demon or the devil. However, if the guy rejects the thought despite it recurring strongly in his spirit as it's implanted by the demon or delays by more than a second, perhaps an hour, then what the devil or the demons intended to manifest within a time-frame failed in its track because of the free will of that guy. That's also a part of the reason why the divine revelations of the serpent, given by several false prophets who hear things from different demonic spirits fail to come to pass. And that's where the Holy Spirit works differently. You see, in case of a prophetic revelation related to an event that's to come to pass received from the spirit of God, the revelation already counts in the factor of the human(s) possessing the Free Will and God using His im=nfinite foresightedness gave that revelation with the knowledge of the decisions and choices the person will make. Therefore, a prophecy given by God always comes to pass as it's given out of an entirety of knowledge of all future future that God possesses.

In this way, a true prophecy is not based or dependent on people listening to or rejecting demons, but it counts in all the factors when it's revealed by God without any doubt of its fulfilment. It's a fragment of future shown by God as He saw it in His infinite sight of the future timeline the world is actually progressing on which the devil can't predict except for devising short term plans that may or may not come to fruition.

Now, there are something I write that don't signify prophetic events but the thoughts of people.

So, if I had heard from the Holy Spirit that told me that the drone would hit the back of my head the next second, it would mean that God foresaw that the guy indeed chose to hit the back of my head with the drone. Now the guy controlling the drone himself may be listening to a demon who may be telling him a number of things that God sees and knows, but regardless of what the guy hears from the demon, God foresees the decision the guy actually made – to hit my head's back within the next second of the revelation, and therefore it came to pass because it was given out of the actual future that exists in the time yet to come and that's yet to be lived, and wasn't based on a plan that was to be carried out by demons and humans working in tandem. Therefore, this prophecy that got fulfilled would be called a true prophecy and it's not robotic or mechanical but taken directly out of the patch of the timeline the world is passing through.

Several times, demons whisper lies to humans as well. That would count as the case of a false prophecy not coming to its fulfilment. Now there are prophecies given by the Spirit of God that require us to do something or carry out an instruction, but even in that case, the prophecy is given with the foreknowledge of whether the instruction was carried out or not and if it was, when it was carried out, and in what way. So, prophecies of God may require instructions to be carried out but the revealed future encompasses the foreknowledge of the decisions and choices made by people.

I thank Jesus for imparting me with this understanding of the way different prophecies work so that it might help others as well in their individual spiritual walks with Him.

Before falling asleep:

- The face of a maned lion enters a forest's field of view lit in the golden yellow of the day with a low slow motion jump from the right direction and as his body comes into the view, a Tiara with an extended conical top gets highlighted some feet above him and then is revealed Tilda Swinton (the white witch actor), dressed in a full-length white attire with her blonde hair tied at the back, sitting on top of him as he runs forward in that direction with a few young girls running behind. He runs further into the forest with a crowd of people shown running after them with sharp objects and other things lifted in their hands. Both of them continue to run away from the crowd into the forest.
  After I had this vision, I heard the lady sing: Hum Mar jayenge..!
- A small-framed upper half of Arbaaz Khaan dressed in a neck-high thick white suit resembling that of a mine worker with a metallic cylindrical ring of narrow width worn on his head with a round lens attached to it in front of his left eye floats and stops about a meter above on my left, as he says that he doesn't care if I'm called Deborah by God or anyone else or if He's called me to do anything else and that I should tell me the measurements of my face as he gets ready to write the same on the small notepad held in his left hand and begins to write as he observes. Eyes: 1 inch, Nose: 3 inches, lips: 1/2 inch (he seems to be writing the vertical length), the length of the face, and so on.
- The front right view of Arbaaz Khan dressed in a white navy uniform sits behind his white office table as he throws a paper forward with his left hand.
- A small-framed semi-animated vision of a dark HRX dressed in a neck-high T-shirt below a denim jacket and a denim jeans below having a metallic skin tone and a curly head as he comes walking towards the viewer in unstable dance steps on a dark and empty ground, stops after a few steps, throws his orange cap towards the viewer with a gentle gesture and walks back.
- Death Conqueror dressed in a thick black winter jacket looking like an extremely bloated thick cylinder near the ceiling pushes away to the sides two people out of the view as he says: Mein isse bahut jyada pyaar karta hu. Mein isse bahut jyada pyaar karta hu.

I fell asleep but didn't have a good sleep as the drones kept waking me up. My sleep was quite disturbed, and then I had this dream as I could feel the drone's activity to be at its highest and was feeling very much mentally disturbed though I was having the dream.

Dream:

The dream shows a close-up view of the upper half of Death Conqueror and then shifts to Jesus standing some meters away from him but He has an unusual look. He is looking at Him with His body bent slightly backwards and he seems to be dressed in a full-sleeved and full-length beige tunic with a living texture of mild short-length depressions and protrusions that are continuously changing in shape. He has a red scarf wrapped around His neck in the shape of a thick ring with one of its ends hanging in front of His left hand.

The vision shifts back to Death Conqueror and back to the wide and tall Jesus who continues to stand in that flat living beige attire, and shifts back and forth a few times as I experience the mental stress causing uncomfortable and increased drone activity. After a while of this back and forth, I wake up.

While I was writing the above para, I saw: the upper half of Death Conqueror above at my left side as he looks down at me and says angrily in a prideful tone and a thick and stuffed voice - Mujhe todegi!? Mujhe todegi!?

Morning

After I had written the above, Before going to sleep last nig

- The upper half of a living beige Jesus from the dream revelation above looks at me and says: He's dead. He's going to be dead. He's going to be dead.

The vision repeats itself a few times.

I go back to sleep again and wake up from the following dream that I had with separate parts constituting the whole.

Dream:

I am holding a round, furry, and faded green toy in my hand. But I put it down and pick up a yellow, thick, and more than a foot-long toy built in the shape of a sperm with basic facial features of two dots for eyes and a smiling curve made on the top round part of the toy. It has a glossy texture and a smooth plastic feel. I keep it close to me after I've come to pick it up after that furry, faded, and dusted green stuffed toy. I am sitting on a multi-seater metallic bench and see a tall, wide, and bearded Akshay Kumar dressed in a boxy loose shirt untucked over denims step down the slanted open staircase laid parallel to my bench across the open hall on its right side. Apparently, he is someone whom I know in the dream and on seeing him, I stand up with my huge and cute yellow toy held close to one side of my body with a hand. I am expecting him to notice my toy for some reason. Perhaps I want him to see that I now have this new toy that I keep taking along with me to make a show in front of others. I want others to admire my toy and that's why I keep it close to me at all times now that I've picked this one as I got bored with the previous one. He happens to glance at me briefly once, but instead of noticing my toy and getting impressed by it, or stopping by to have a chat with me and hold my toy and praise it, he takes a sharp right turn and quickly walks away to the right taking the stairs downstairs present after a U-turn right below the stairs and the open floor he has just treaded. His reaction has me confused and I follow after him. After I am out of the covered stairs that go down, I exit into a huge ground with several people. I've just entered the hall and walked some steps when I spot a fair lady with curly blonde hair on her head, seemingly a wig, with the face of a clean-shaven Anil Kapoor smiling at me. I ignore her and am looking for Akshay Kumar and enter into a long rectangular open tent filled with people as the Anil Kapoor lady from behind comes at me holding an apple as she extends it to me and says with a joyful tone: *Mera apple khalo. But I ignore her and my eyes are still searching for the lost Akshay Kumar when I come across someone else I know and take a U-turn from the hall to catch up with that person. I have a brief chat!

The next part of the dream has me inside a room and I seem to be standing near the wall extending along the balcony door as I am organizing the area. I can see the dark of the night through the balcony's mesh door from my place. When I'm near the mesh door, I see that there are several things attached to it. And as I'm organizing the stuff lying around, I find myself adjusting the utensils and other stuff on the door making it even bulkier and hard to move without worrying about things falling. The middle-aged lady to my left asks me to leave the mesh door open for some ventilation but when I try to move it, I find it extremely hard to do so without moving the attachments, and the entire structure may collapse. So I choose to keep it closed.

After a while, I find myself on the balcony looking down at the well-lit night market road and I spot Rachna Bua (my dad's second youngest sister) speedily driving in a small vehicle with her two children. The open convertible has the capacity to contain just two people: the driver at the front and another person at the back where her lean and thin children are sitting. She is dressed in a yellow sweatshirt fully zipped until the neck and is missing her lower legs, but she's still somehow able to drive that vehicle that fast together with the two children and looks quite energetic. When I am back into the room, I see my Devanand Gehlot Foofa Ji (Rekha Bua'a husband) sitting several meters away dressed in a coat with Rekha Bua sitting a meter away from him. I ask him how did Rachna Bua become so energetic where she's able to run her home and two children despite her condition. He tells me after she lost her legs, she had a lot of time in bed during which she came to learn deep genetic science that helped her discover some things that led to her present state in which though she has lost her legs, she is highly physically active and a mentally improved person.

My Dad Mistreats Himanshu's Broken Leg

In the next part of the dream, I find myself lying in a room on a double bed with my mom beside me and my brother Himanshu whose lower half lies on the double and his upper half lies on the single bed made beside the double bed to the right of the bed. My mom is supporting his broken leg that's resting on her while my dad is supporting his upper half as his own leg is lying on the double bed near Himanshu's broken leg. He lifts up Himanshu's thigh leading to his operated leg becoming straight parallel to the ground in the air with its weight resting on the joints the titanium rod is drilled into his bone. He is shouting out in pain and I become too restless as well but I can't seem to move and can only observe in the dream as I'm stuck in my place. I ask my mom to handle the situation, and continue shouting to my dad to not move Himanshu's broken leg in that painful manner!

My mom can only do a little amount as she herself can't move a lot to avoid causing Himanshu more pain and perhaps injuring him on the inside which would lead to his leg taking longer to heal! But he continues to move Himanshu's thigh in a way that leads to pressure and weight being exerted on his broken leg with the rod inserted to help the bone join. I am in great panic as I watch Himanshu shouting long Aaaaas... out in pain telling my dad to stop! But regardless of his shouts and my forbidding him, he continues to move Himanshu's left thigh with his leg in different positions leading him to feel extreme pain in his broken leg. Eventually, I am able to get up by a bit and I try to lift my hands to hold Himanshu's leg and bring it into a stable comfortable position while moving Dad's leg away from him where he's not able to touch him. But as soon as I lift my hands up, the vision changes to me lying on the bed alone in that room in the dark as I see a figure resembling Himanshu walk by to the left slowly which leaves me startled because how come he began walking now? On reaching the bed's end, the figure turns and begins walking to my side as I ask it if it's Himanshu. He continues to walk and on reaching the wall against which the bed is laid, turns to me and somehow penetrates through the bed as he stops a few feet away from me and says a quiet Yes. I see that he is wrapped in a printed dark shawl that runs over even his head. I have never seen him wearing a shawl like this and he seems to give a creepy aura as he stands to my left and looks down at me. It's when I wake up.

While I was writing the part of the dream with Himanshu's broken leg, I heard a female voice say: You know most of these dreams are demonic. Most of these dreams are demonic.

Well, the dreams highlight the aspects of reality that are hidden from plain sight and when they're written openly as actual events that took place, the related people who were previously ignoring those aspects are forced or made to face them and can think about bringing changes in their conduct accordingly. And there are several dreams that have brought to surface hidden or buried aspects of reality.

I fall asleep again and have the following brief dream.

I am in a room different from my present rented room. It is more spacious and has a split AC on the wall on the left side of the bed. My neighbours are asking me about my Electricity Bill. I tell them that I haven't used it yet, let alone use it for an extended period of a month to receive the Bill. But these two aunties from my neighbour tell me that their monthly AC usage bill is Rs. 50 which I find very hard to believe! It's practically impossible to have that monthly bill for an AC, and no sane person would believe it to be true. I repeat to them that I haven't used my AC and that even if I had, the bill wouldn't be just Rs. 50. But they say that they have been using their AC freely with no bounds, and yet their bill is Rs. 50 which is quite unsurprising to them. I tell them that it can't be just Rs. 50. But the foolish aunties repeat the same again this time ending their statement with a mean: Koi baat nhi Masoom! After which I wake up! Well, I don't like these worshippers of devil aunties anyway.

Post Waking Up

I at times take sighs of relief or breathe in sighs as a natural human breathing phenomenon and then I hear a quiet Uff which repeats in tandem with my breathing and then I hear: Bas yhi chahiye tha mujhe tujhse! Bas yhi chahiye tha mujhe tujhse! The fellow with this thought is thinking about how he only wants me to respond to his drones and voice! And then I heard in my spirit a few sentences that gave the sense that the fellow wasn't really interested in a Holy marriage but he just wanted my response to his drones and his voice.

The face of Glory with grinded teeth says looking at me in a quiet tone: Aa gyi isme akal!

When I'm cleaning my nose using the spatula after brushing, I hear: Ye sab mat kar. Mein to tujhe use karke fenke wala hu.

But I wasn't cleaning my nose for someone else but for me so I can feel clean and good in some area of my body at least and it leads to proper breathing as well!

Towards the end, I hear this repeat in my Spirit:
Mein jaanta hu ki mein tujhse pyaar nhi karta. Mein jaanta hu ki mein tujhse pyaar nhi karta.

As I am moving away from the balcony area being done with the last bit of cleaning and prepping my face, I hear the guy sing:
Pehle kkabhi na humne kaha.. Lo aaj snam ye kehte hai..
Hum apke dil pe marte hai.. Hum apke dil pe marte hai..

This too played intermittently: Phod dala.. Phod dala..

A very good video by Brother Andrew:
REBUKE but don't conversate with sATAN

After I was tired of editing the previous page, I went to rest. During my rest, as I felt the drones move around, I saw:
The short fellow dressed in a white suit with black patches sits on a chair laid against a wall in my mental view in front of me at near the ceiling as he holds a medium-sized wine glass that he does a cheers with some sitting on a different chair against the wall two meters to his left. He gulps it fully and places the empty glass on the table, while the other fellow leaves one-third of it saying: It's too spicy. Well, I don't want to see these revelations that are perverted in a way and are supposed to cause stress and emotional pain. I don't want to see any of such crap!

After a while, as I sat in my bed facing the wall opposite to its length in my process to get out of it, I heard Glory say: Kartika to bahut pure hai! Kartika to bahut jyada pure hai! And he kept repeating it for a while!

Well, while I was editing the previous page, I had this strong impulse to have the small packet of Parle-G biscuits with Tea. And it arose quite suddenly. I wondered if Jesus wanted me to have communion after the end of this no-food and water fast that I did for a day. Ideally, I wanted to extend it to 3 days as I didn't feel hungry though I didn't feel that I had eaten either. Because this time I could easily redo a one-day no food and water fast, I wanted to go a step further and extend it to two days - something which I had never done before. I mean I had done three-day water fasts, but never no food and no water fast for more than a day. So I wanted to stretch myself more in what I had never tried before in my spiritual walk with God. But then I am having this blinking nudge to have Parle-G with Tea as communion. I ignore it for a while and continue working. But then I have this somatic revelation.

- I see the small Rs. 5 packet of Parle-G sliding to and fro against the inside of a dark tissue tunnel that was apparently the space around and above my heart. I felt a real sensation of that packet sliding to and fro by an inch or two along the vertical tube of my heart. So I knew that God was calling me to commune because He is happy when we commune with Him and eat and drink in remembrance of Him instead of just stuffing in food just like that keeping Him out of our thoughts.

So I go out and buy the same and have it with a mug of tea which I finish completely because it was warm and the weather is cold and then I like tea and most importantly, it's a part of communion with Jesus and therefore represents His blood like the biscuits represent His body. And I felt so relaxed and relieved after having the communion and when I placed my empty mug on my table and took that sigh of contentment, I saw:

- Jesus dancing happily in my room in gentle and gracious moves.

After the communion, I feel like resting in bed for a while before I begin to write again. Yeshu Raja Hua - the recently released song by Yeshu Ke Geet on YT gets highlighted to me. I play a few more worship songs.

Somewhere in the middle, I start itching around the front part of my pelvis and then I see two hands going into my trousers from the top as they rub against the itching skin. So I think to Jesus for Him to give me some relief from this itching! I say to Him who is my husband and God to comfort and give me some relief. And the next thing that happens is the drones moving around the same areas that I was itching at which made me recall the vision I had.

The lady sings: Phod dala.. Phod dala..

After the worship songs, the first Westlife song that I had heard during early 2010 gets highlighted to me by its dance and my favourite lyrical part which helps me to identify the song as I continue singing along this part that I remember, thereby reaching the chorus lyrics. The song was shared with me by my cousin Cheeku as we both listened to it and watched the dance of the band which was quite graceful and rhythmic though it wasn't the dance that had caught my attention it was the melody of the song around the lyric You open up my heart that had made me a fan of this song, and then I was listening to it in on repeat in a row for several days with my pleasure level reaching the highest around the aforesaid lyrical part because of it's out of the world tune.

Westlife - I Lay My Love on You (Coast to Coast) (Exclusive Life Performance)

I used to keep it playing even during bathing as I used to take my phone in and those were the days when I had enrolled in a JEE crash course at Chaitanya Institute in Punjabi Bagh with my friend Deepika and we both were staying together in a PG which was but a room given to us by a Punjabi family. The room had their own stuff that they kept locked. We didn't get a full-fledged wardrobe to keep our clothes or other things, but we kept everything in our bags that we had brought and we kept the room locked whenever we went out so there was no need of additional security. She was a very slim girl - underweight with a round face, sunken eyes, and vertical depressions around the sides of her mouth.

I don't know why this song got highlighted to me. But, while I was listening to it and had now begun singing along, I saw:
A naked Glory with an expression of bewilderment on his face says quietly in a low tone: Had se jyada Randi! As he turned to the left, his genitalia trunk hit his forehead strong. Well, I didn't find anything whorish in the song or my way of enjoying it. It was his perception.

Additionally, the beginning lyrics caught my attention.

Just a smile, and the rain is gone.
Can hardly believe it, Yeah..!
There's an angel standing next to me.. Reaching for my heart!

Just a smile, and there's no way back.
Can hardly believe it, Yeah..!
There's an angel calling me.. Reaching for my heart!

with the lines in bold being highlighted to me which reminded me of the revelation of KA's heart going straight into my mouth on its own! And the other heart revelations!

The lady sings: Maar dala.. Maar dala..

After I was done listening to it twice: the dance video the first time, and the lyrical video the second time, I wanted to play the song dance on a wider screen so I got out of bed! But then I had this impulse to have tea with biscuits once again. When I was washing the pan to make tea again, I saw: RS dressed in a lightly and sparsely embroidered deep and dark purple Sherwani in a dark background says with a disappointed and distant countenance: Ye mahamurakh hai! Chalo! Isne to bas humara time waste karwana tha!

And it repeated again as I was making tea.

I did make tea and I had the number of biscuits as He allowed me. Ideally, I wanted to continue my no food and water fast, but I ended a day of fasting with communion.

Later when I was done having tea and began writing the above, I happen to sing out the chorus song lyric What About Now from the Westlife song What About Now. And after listening to it once or more, when the song was around its last part with the four singers singing below the open Aurora sky, I realized for the first time that the song embodied the dialogue between man and God.

Westlife - What About Now with Lyrics (TV Live)

When I was washing the tea Pan and other dirty utensils, I saw: a small-framed vision of a naked Glory as he said to me in an angry annoyed tone, "Dekh mujhe pata hai ki tu smart hai. Lekin mere samne apni smartness mat dikha!"

Well, why should he say that? I mean he too is smart and I don't even like the word smart perse but I like meaning and depth though it may not sound smart to a worldly mind. I don't know the context of this revelation. Because even the maid aunty feels good and comfortable around me and she expresses her own views while I share my view about her doing things a certain way. Only a prideful person will say such a statement.

Earlier during the day

As I leave the balcony space after gargling, I see the vision of me seen from outside the narrow kitchen corridor that I am standing facing to the left as I whisper a light and extended: I Love You..

A very insightful video based on Brother Andrew's personal spiritual experience with lusts of the flesh, the hypocrisy in church, demons, and God. He explains in detail how one sin is enough to take you to hell, how bad things are there, and why we should be fearful of God at all times. It convicted me in some areas as I had begun to become somewhat lukewarm because of my prolonged suffering which has only worsened my situation making the walk seem difficult to me.

About an hour back, I kept having this persistent nudge to have the packet of Yippee though, again, I wanted to fast. It continued and stayed inside me and then began nudging at the place of my heart. I prayed to God to not let me be tempted and I also prayed to bind any demons that were causing me to be tempted if that was the case. And then I saw the small-framed vision of the top view of the cooked Yippee that was nudging at the place of my heart turn into black snakes that have been bound together tightly one over the other in a ball and then the follow-up vision had the ball ejected out of my body through my digestive system.

So, it told me that the call to this specific communion had a purpose. And while I was cooking the same, I heard for me to have Coffee with it this time.

And I also heard: she knows our plans.. she knows our plans.. Apparently, the act of cooking Yippee was somehow related to their wicked plans that the Lord wanted to highlight to them that He wasn't oblivious to them but was watching them and it served as a kind of warning.

And while I was having the same, the sentence kept repeating in my Spirit.

Well, the only thing that came to my mind was the Yippee representing my intestines. And then I keep hearing this in my Spirit intermittently: Faad dala.. Faad dala..

And within the past two weeks, during my rest in my dark room, I had the following wicked vision.

- Arjun Rampal dressed in a black suit stretches wide my vagina into a diameter of about 1 meter as he's looking inside followed by him pulling the intestines out.

Kartika ab ayega Kartik tere pas: referring to the change in the environment or heart state because of one or the other revelation.

Before falling asleep last night

As soon as I settle down in my bed to sleep, and it was easily around 2 am perhaps or later when I went to bed and then about a meter in front of me near the right side of my body, I saw a small-framed vision of the face until slightly below the throat of Brother Andrew dressed in his checkered blue shirt from his recent video, in a blurry greeny background, as he says to me: Don't sin. though I am not sinning and myself am wary of the same. But the vision is a helpful reminder from a member of my heavenly family to stay detached from these drones operated by demons though they may be affecting my body. So, his comment reinforces my mental state and I feel more secure.

Within the next 10 seconds, he says again: Don't sin. It repeats again: Don't sin. The words come as such comforting reinforcement to me.

I feel so good in the company of this righteous brother in Christ who out of his own experience and struggle with flesh in the past has learned to overcome the same and understands my situation where he sees that I'm being provoked by these drones, and is encouraging to stay on the right path.

After a while, I see: He puts a beautiful wide and about half-a-foot-long golden crown on someone's head present in front of him in that vision as he says: You're my queen.

The vision repeats a few times. The follow-up vision has him lifting the crown up back from the lady's head and then putting it back on her head and while it's still in his hand, he lifts up the crown again and puts it back. He does it a few times.

As I continue to lie, I hear: Hum tujhe chedenge nahi. Maar ke kha jayenge! Hum tujhe chedenge nahi. Maar ke kha jayenge!
And it repeats several times in a row with a strong emphasis on it! It makes me wonder if this is what these fellows are thinking or the demons that are making the future known to me.

This reminds me of this previous vision from the previous day in which I saw:
A tall and wide devil with long black horns on his bald head, a highly fluffed up, muscular, and naked orangish red upper half dressed in full black trousers below walking with a wide circular plate covered with a huge round curved lid as he walking to the right towards a dining chair. When he sits on the chair and uncovers the lid, inside it is revealed a roasted breast facing upwards that hasn't been chopped in pieces but has been cooked whole. He slices the right side of it with a knife and thick liquid flows as he says: Yummy and juicy!

Morning
As I'm lying in bed after I wake up in the morning, I see a small-framed vision of him a few feet away in front of me with a wooden danda lifted high with which he comes at me as he says angrily: You're a sinner!

Well, when I woke up, I wasn't having any sinful thoughts, and neither did I have them in the night. I don't want to be drawn in by these demonic drones which are but instruments of satan that help his followers like the guys operating the drones to indulge in sin without repentance!

After I woke up and was organizing my room, I heard in my Spirit a guy say: Mein jaanta hu ki mein bahut bura hu. Mein jaanta hu ki mein bahut bura hu.

While brushing, I kept hearing this repeat in my Spirit: Ye bahut gawaar hai! Ye bahut gawaar hai!
Well, I am not superficial like them or a real-life actor like their master devil. I can tell what they find smart and advanced and it’s nothing godly.

Past Revelations

- The face of Sis Adele from Bold Existence Ministries with wide red circles in the place of pupils.

- A very small-framed vision of the trio from the song Tumhare siva Kuch Na.. dressed in their red and white attire from the song walks behind the lady from the song dressed in orange to the right. I am having this vision while resting in bed. As I feel the drones move on my bust, I see the lady's right breast protruding out of her dress as the men in red & white are standing bent low in front of her looking excited and enthralled! The follow-up vision has her walking to the right again and the trio in red & white is shown as falling on the floor behind her with their hands reaching out in her direction. As soon as she turns to their side, they immediately run to the vision's front as they're making faces and acting like blowing their noses showing feelings of disgust while the lady continues to stand at her place unaffectedly. The follow-up vision shows them again falling behind the lady as she's walking away from them but this time the lady's front is shown to be bulgy around her middle in the first half of the itself. She turns back facing them, and they run to the vision's front making those nauseous expressions. They act as if they're going to puke. She turns back again and they begin walking behind her falling to the floor again, but this time when she turns to them, only two of them run to the viewer making those nauseous expressions while the third person who's still standing at his place is shown to as a short man dressed in the same red and white attire holding a long bunch of colorful flowers as he's shaking around his feet! It's too hard for him to continue standing there. Well, if it's so hard for him to stand in front of an out-of-shape lady, why is running after her!? Or is he shaking because he's in front of her? – Well, that doesn't seem to be the case to me.
- (Past Week) It was late night and I was lying in bed before falling asleep and I heard: Let me have sex with you. Let me have sex with you. You're beautiful. I don't want to be committed to you. But you're beautiful and I want to be with you once. The voice kept repeating this a few times. And it made me nauseous. Because it's a very cheap and ungodly way to think! And I thought that it was the thought of this person that I heard in my Spirit, but in real life, I wouldn't tolerate someone saying it to me! It's SO SO ungodly! And I will not only tell that person a blunt and rude 'No' but I will insult him and tell him to leave! (I can already feel so good about doing this because it's the right thing to do! Whenever I stand for the right thing, I feel happy! And when I put up with something wrong and have to be a part of the same, I feel bad!) I know that I will be feeling quite angry where internally I would want to hit him, but I would be keeping myself in check until that person leaves, and it would be after he leaves that I will experience the full fury of my anger! (And I know that what I heard in the spirit is how this cheap generation thinks.)
- A small-framed vision of the front view of a naked upper half of a wheatish muscular man with long thick and frizzy hair who is standing behind a lady who stands facing to the left as he holds the back of her neck dipping her face down into a tub filled with blood and takes it out of it in a periodic manner.
- Several vicious black wolves with pointed teeth come at me while I'm lying in bed and they start poking at my chest. In the vision, I lift my sweater up and they start sucking on my breasts – all of them at once – followed by me standing against the wall to the right of my bed they keep sucking. I look calm, neither happy nor sad, and I am not paying attention to them either! Well, it only tells that I allowed the drones because I couldn't resist them, because the drones don't listen to me, and it's not a state I wanted to be in. I am not going to do that if wolves came walking to me in real life. I am going to reach for the knife lying in my kitchen to fight and protect myself! But in this situation, I was too spent mentally that it hurt me to have more of those hurtful feelings and then I was induced in that state of giving in! But it's not something that ever going to happen! The follow-up vision shows the black wolves turning their backs and leaving together with the vicious expressions intact on their faces while I continue to stand expressionless in that way! They don't feel sad about what they just did or concerned about how it impacted that woman or if she's okay while that woman stands still and expressionless and lost. But they just had to gnaw at her breasts and leave when they were done! The follow-up vision shows all of them gathered together outside in the street and they're having their wolves' chat which is devoid of any empathy or compassion!

I decide to bath as I am feeling a bit relieved because I know that Aunty will come and help me with the chores and it has decreased my stress enough to push me to bathe though it's just been 5 days - a lesser number than the previous intervals between consecutive bathing days. Her coming seems to have given me a bit of mental strength and she seems good-natured as well and doesn't make a lot of hotch-potch.

As I strip in my lower half and spot my black panty with yellow and white wordy print on it, it reminds me of the yellow and black snake revelation and I feel weird about being seen and I think why did I wear this yellow and black panty!

As I begin to bathe, these lyrics from the Worship song Living Hope abruptly arise out of my mouth through the Spirit.

Out of the silence, the roaring lion declared the grave has no claim on me..

HalleluYah! Praise the one who set me free
HalleluYah! Death has lost its grip on me!

You've broken every chain!
There's salvation in your name!

Jesus Christ! My Living Hope!

The above lyrics continue to repeat throughout my time in the washroom.

Living Hope

- This time when the stanza begins to repeat from the place written above, I see a lion run around a circle near the ceiling above the commode and the adjoining area to its right.

- The thing I see the upper half of the overweight and dusky guy near the ceiling with his face turned to the left as he said: Shaadi karle isse! Shaadi karle isse! He seems to be saying it someone! The vision repeats a few times.
- I also saw a tall figure of Jesus standing tall above in front of me as He was implying that the short fellow was going to betray me and though he may repent later, but he was betray me like Judas did Him with a kiss. And He was highlighting the fact that He knew from the beginning that he would be the one to betray him in the end, and that He had him as one of His disciples until the end for the prophecy to be fulfilled. It seemed that He was conveying to me to have a similar heart, that how before He was betrayed in the hands of Roman Soldiers by Judas, He had that last supper with His disciples in which He taught them what communion was, and He partook in it with Judas as well knowing that He would be betrayed. Perhaps He wanted to teach me this aspect of His nature where He intentionally got betrayed!

When I was still inside and was perhaps nearing the end, I saw: I get abruptly pulled away towards Jesus standing on the right side with the pulling rope snapping while the Hindu demon gods stand on the left side in the vision! This vision told me that I was indeed being tried on to being pulled on the side of those demon gods who stood together while Jesus stood alone on the right side.

After bathing and dressing up, when I was back to my room and was now wearing socks, I saw the part from the movie The Reader highlighted to me in which Kate Winslet was dressing up in multilayered clothes with a long dress on top, and a legging and socks below.

As I wrote the above, I saw: The upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a full-sleeved beige top turn his back to me as he says, "Mein Gadha hu!" and then is highlighted the guy called Suhas in the movie 3 Idiots who was called Gadha in the movie for he was always flashing his possessions and lifestyle and was taking about the prices of things he bought.

Within the past hour, while making tea, I was saying things out to the sinning cameramen. I said that it wasn't a great thing that the short fellow chose to publicly strip a woman while claiming that he was too great for her, but that the woman despite the sin committed against her chose to forgive instead of keeping a bitter heart was what was a great thing! And I didn't say it referring to me, but I said it looking at the situation as a third person! If someone else was in this situation where she didn't really need a great super rich guy in her life or wasn't looking for one either, and then I saw that that woman has to go through all that abuse which affected all aspects of her life, worsening her health condition and ruining the years of her degree that she once felt so good about, I wouldn't look at the guy as being someone great, but I would look at the woman as being too strong and righteous for the guy because despite her situation, she didn't choose the wrong and sinful option that she could've chosen years back to find a way out. I will appreciate that she found it wrong to bow down to a sinful tactic to appease the inflictor and instead kept suffering while growing closer to God in her journey! While I will look at the guy as being an unrepentant sinner who wasn't willing to change his ways despite witnessing for that long period of a time that the girl wasn't going to follow a wicked way or do things the wrong way just to get out of the situation she didn't create so which is not her sin either.

As I said that it was the godly woman who was great who chose to forgive so easily and quickly because of God's given revelations and not the man who was immoral and ungodly and lived a sinful lifestyle of fornication while emotionally abusing others from the beginning, I saw:

- A short-framed vision of the upper half of Glory dressed in his sleeveless grey attire with an inverted cap worn on his head as he turned his head to the left as he opens his mouth wide in the manner of crying silently.

And then I was saying that it wasn't that Death Conqueror gave me time, but it was that God gave him time which was to be used not sinning and abusing others and making them sin, but he did so! Every abuser or harasser who abuses a woman gives her time! That's no justification for the abuse and the mental damage caused! And I paraphrased the following Bible verses.

Matthew 5:29-30 (Easy-to-Read Version)
29 If your right eye makes you sin, take it out and throw it away. It is better to lose one part of your body than to have your whole body thrown into hell. 30 If your right hand makes you sin, cut it off and throw it away. It is better to lose one part of your body than for your whole body to go into hell.

From <https://www.biblegateway.com/passage/?search=Matthew%205&version=ERV>

And that this fellow did not just sin in his own self but made the whole world sin thereby making a way for them to be sent to hell with him.

While I was having tea, I saw:
The naked upper half of Glory says looking at me with an intense expression as he says: Tera sir phodunga! Tu bahut smart hai! Tera sir phodunga! Tu bahut smart hai!

20:04
I was resting in bed about 15 minutes back.

Some revelations while resting:

- A lady with the small face of a light greyish elephant dressed soberly in a saree with its spread fully across her upper half sits on a chair placed in front of a wall as a less-than-a-foot-high brown monkey does squats on a tea plate to her left!

I got up to order Loaded Fries as I kept seeing different visions of it. Those revelations seemed to be to be coming from a seducing spirit. I could tell that it couldn't be the Holy Spirit as some revelations were too cheap! One of them had KA holding a fry in a hand each lifted sideways – this wasn't cheap, but demons and spirits try every way possible to seduce or divert the children of God from their set path! The ones towards the end had a naked Glory holding a bunch of fries straight in his hand. I don't know if it was a coincidence that I was seeing loaded fries in the vision when I love them the most in The KA Meal. I got convinced to order them as I got out of the bed. I was immediately too cold as I got out of bed, not that I was warm there for I was feeling cold still. So I thought of substituting the black denim jacket I was wearing on top with something else or wearing one more piece of clothing. I combed my hair as they were too ruffled, and later ended up wearing an additional sweater on top and a fluffed jacket, after which I saw:

- The naked upper half of Glory moving his hand forward in slow admiring motion as the Westlife song lyrics plays in the background: You're so beautiful.. to me..!

Westlife - You are so beautiful (to me) with lyrics

Revelations from last night

- As I am moving backwards to settle in bed, I see the upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a beige full-sleeved top near the ceiling horizontally 2 meters away from the bed to my right as he says in a quiet tone: Bye..
- A small-framed bottom view of the upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a full-sleeved skyblue top two or so meters above me as he says: Mein to use kar raha tha! Mein to use kar raha tha! It repeats a few times.

Past Revelations

- (Past few months) This event from my BSc has been being highlighted to me several times during the past months. I had a short-haired senior by the name Ishita perhaps about whom we heard as everyone was talking about it that she sent one or two cartons of the small packets of Parle-G to her boyfriend whom she had met in some lab abroad that she went during a summer internship. That was the time she had first met him and they were together after that. We heard that she did so after a lot of thought because she wanted to give him something unique as a birthday gift and he didn't have Parle-G's in the country he lived!
- (Past two weeks) This night when I had slept after writing my reflection as I looked back at the year 2020 and the dream revelation Time With the Short Blue-Eyed Man, I happened to tear up a lot in the night as I thought about them. And perhaps I woke up in the middle and began crying again, and every time I would begin to sob, I would hear: I'm here. I'm here. I'm right here with you said in a light and comforting tone, accompanied by the vision of the face of the short fellow moving in closer and kissing me. And the vision repeated several times as I would begin to sob or suddenly tear up.
- (Past week) As I lay in bed with the yellow light On and it's late evening or perhaps night and can feel the drones moving around my mouth (I don't know how they manage to do that because I keep blowing air out in the hopes that it will throw the drones out or I once gargled as well but somehow the drones find a way inside) I saw: the semi-animated face of Death Conqueror above me as he's kissing me with his left angel eye being wide-open as it looked at me while his right devil eye half-closed looking weak as it was half bulging out of its socket. When I opened my eyes again, I saw the vision again with his wide-open angel eye looking at me without blinking while his devil eye looked sleepy and bulged out of its place. It happened a few more times. It was a better state than before.
- (Past two weeks) I kept hearing this intermittently: The bride must be tested! The bride must be tested! which made me think what kind of immoral test it was that turned the bride into a whore.
- (Past two weeks) I go sit on my chair to work after saying something corrective to the camera people and then feel the drones moving. I'm getting drawn in because I don't have a heart of hatred as Jesus has changed me now to be more like Him. So instead of getting angry like I used to be before, I get into a corrective mode because that's what Jesus has been doing with me. He corrects me when I'm not aware of how I'm sinning, and most of it has been about tight clothing as I didn't see fitting clothes as sinful for to me covered skin was a covered skin, and I had a mind that would even ignore the unintentionally uncovered skin of others. So He corrected me in that by showing me how tight clothing was sinful. All Glory to God because He taught me. We have to keep giving Him Glory! So, when I was sitting on the chair with the drones moving, instead of feeling angry I happened to feel a sense of intimacy and then I heard in my Spirit: Sabse badi hypocrite to yhi hai! Sabse badi hypocrite to yhi hai! But I didn't invite those drones and I'm not going to let any man do what the drones were doing unless he is my god-ordained husband with whom I'm in a covenant with! Now that I know God, I should be even more careful about not sinning.

- (Past few days) Dono ayenge rote hue tere paas! Dono ayenge rote hue tere paas!

Dream 1:

Towards the end of this dream, I am in a room facing a woman with a stern expression on her conical face and hair tied at the back. Apparently, she wants to keep a child with her but I don't want her to keep her/him because I don't see godly compassion in her and can tell that the child won't be happy with her. She says that the child should be with her because she is tall, and she says it slowly with the same stern expression. I find this reason too weird for us to allow her to negatively impact the child. She then gives one more reason. She says that she will be taking care of the child by doing things for it. Again, I find it hard to believe, and I don't at all want her in the home that I'm in, let alone let her be around the child. I don't want her wicked presence around me and neither do I want the child to face it. The follow-up vision shows her sitting alone on the sofa laid against the wall while I'm holding a bowl of mustard oil in my hand. I take some of it in my palm and then out of my anger for the woman's wicked presence inside, I throw the small steel bowl in her direction. It falls some meters in front of her. My attention then goes to the oil in my palm and I'm now wondering about using it. I think that I could use it on my head as it's dry. So, I put that oil on top of my head and massage it around with my fingers and wake up actually rubbing the top of my head in that manner and find that there was no oil in my hand.

I woke up after this dream and as I was falling asleep again, I heard: Who told you to be this cute!? Who told you to be this cute!?

Dream 2:

I live alone in a rented space and this day decide to visit the local school nearby. When I'm on the roof, I spot a baby on the roof as it crawls slowly around. I move around the roof and stand at the back edge and spot demonic smokey figures floating in the sky in the right direction far ahead in front of me near the area with extremely tall trees! There's a smoky figure of a dinosaur resembling the shape of a crocodile as well. There's a guy beside me who is informing me something about those figures! When my attention is off the smoke, I turn back and move to the center of the roof and can't seem to find the baby around. I go downstairs and find myself on the first floor of the Junior wing of my school near the end of its corridor. In the room to my left, I see the beginning of a movie named Silence being streamed by the teachers to the children. But as it begins to progress, I find that there's a lot of chatter and noises being made in the movie. I don't know why it's named Silence when it's full of noise! I try to spot the baby inside the room but it's not there. The movie is being projected on the wall at the end of the corridor and now it's nearing its end as I see the name Silence projected on the wall again at the end! I can see that it wasn't a good or meaningful movie.

The content was too chaotic and seemed disturbing to me. I turn away from the wall after the movie ends and continue walking along the corridor looking inside the rooms that're now to my right as I'm hoping to spot the baby in one of them. After walking past a few rooms, I spot the bald, lean, and thin old man with whom I had a chat with when I visited the apartment facing the back of A-16 last year (2022). He's there with his wife and spotting the old couple, I think that the baby should've been inside that room but I get to know that he's on the roof again, a different one though. I continue walking and now stand against the wall on the other side of the corridor facing the open square ground below with the left boundary covered by rows of classrooms and the main entrance of the school gate visible along the right wall across the ground. I feel a strong nudge to take a picture of the grand view in front of me to keep as a record. In the dream, it's highlighted to me that the picture is to serve as a piece of evidence of the school I attended back in my hometown. I take my phone out but for some reason am not able to click one as I someone interrupts me to have a chat. I jump right down into the square ground and find that there's a function being organized as some people come together to arrange identical beige flat, conical frames in a circle. The frames end with a long dark brown rod facing upwards. I don't find the structure or the function too interesting and turn away from it and now go back to roaming around hoping to see the baby. I enter into a room that leads me into a hall with another room to my right with its door at the nearer end of the wall separating the hall from the room. Someone comes walking out from inside and asks me about why meditation is bad and shouldn't be done. I try to put into words how it leads to humans interacting with demons and devil and it is nothing godly and that the sense of peace it gives is false as well and doesn't have anything to do with God. I know this from my personal experience and I now have years of experience of hearing from the Holy Spirit so I know that mediation is not what paves the path to God but Jesus and if one has to meditate, one should meditate on the Word of God.

As I was writing the above few lines about meditation not being the path to God, I saw:

- A small-framed vision of Meera dressed in a yellow saree with its drape spread over a dark green blouse as she turns her face to the left with a teary-eyed and disappointed expression as she was a great campaigner of meditation back in 2016 when I came in contact with her after that year-long gap. After a certain point in her life, she had begun suggesting it to everyone as a way of life to find God and deal with one's life problems – be them of any kind. According to the texts and people she followed, a person in communion with God is always meditating though he may be doing different chores, he stays in a continuous state of mental union with God through meditation. But this is not so. Without the Holy Spirit, no one can say that He is in an internal communion with God, and one can't receive the Holy Spirit without Jesus. So, coming across this info that shatters the doctrine she was following previously comes as a disappointing revelation to her in the above vision. But I would say that even if she turned to God after choosing the wrong way that didn't lead to Him, she is still better than me in the sense that she wanted to follow a path she thought was the perfect way of living life and above the mundane and it led to one communing with God. Her intention was to find God through her spiritual quest while I was found by God through painful betrayals. So He used those painful experiences to open my eyes to the reality of the demonic world because I came to know about real demons operating through people in an Abuse Recovery group which is also the place I first came to understand the purpose of Jesus' death – that it was a sacrifice made intentionally for the forgiveness of sins of the wicked sinful humanity. So, in that way, her underlying intention behind choosing the wrong path of meditation was godly and wasn't based in fooling people or deluding them into following a system to make money. She followed that way of life and told others about it since she became serious about her spiritual journey. She gave me a book she had found quite insightful and I could tell that she really wanted me to have that book and read it as she said: Kartika, mein ye book tujhe dena chahti hu! Ye book tu rakhle. And it was a book she felt had a great impact on her and it explained the basics of the doctrine of meditation. It was Th Poer of Now in which he talks about staying as an observer in the present at all times which is a demonic thing to do. Now, In my situation, I am being continuously observed by the people operating the drones! They stay in the present all the observing me while I saw in a vision how demons whispered and controlled a great part of their minds by implanting thoughts! I know that's not the kind of observation the doctrine talks about. I just it as a humorous parallel! So, Meera can turn to Jesus now accepting His sacrifice made for the forgiveness of sins and if we ever happen to meet again, this time we are going to sing Worship songs together while previously we used to sing other good and meaningful songs but never the worship songs that worshipped the true God!

As I wrote the above, I saw: Meera, still being dressed the same, hugs me by my shoulders as she is crying, and then her face changes to being entirely black as with a jolt she severs my neck to the side with a fierce expression and begins feeding on the inside of my throat, followed by the side-view of her being in a holy duet holding the hands of a taller person who has Glory's expressions.

I am struggling to put this notion in words as I stand before that tall guy. He seems to be getting convinced by my words. I enter the room and see several mugs placed along multiple rows along the wall adjoining the hall, I am asked to choose one. I don't really need a mug at that moment or even in the place that I stay, but since I'm being asked to, I spot a white mug that seems to resemble the Jesus mug I have at my home. I pick it up out of curiosity and I don't recall seeing the Jesus print on it but the wide cylindrical shape and size of the mug resembled the Jesus mug I had at home, and then I put it back and exit the room continuing on my way to look for the baby.

Somewhere in the dream, I'm walking downstairs the school building to exit, and then some guys dressed identically in school uniforms walk upstairs in a line to my left and I discover after a second that it's a continuing long line forward that's moving past me. And as I continue to walk to their right near by the stair's railing in the opposite direction, I hear a narrative voice say: You're as immoral as Tejaswi. That's what Kartik thinks about you. Which makes me think that that's the last person I wanted to be. I can understand though why he formed that impression. It was because of the revelations that pertained to several people. But they were not a creation of my own mind.

Tejaswi had multiple affairs that he intentionally began and it doesn't at all resemble my case where I've been receiving 'revelations' with multiple people. And it's not something that I would ever do as I am a one-man woman. I don't need multiple men and I find it highly immoral and even the one man I would want to be with has to be my husband! But I couldn't have controlled the revelations so I developed a soft heart and godly love for all because how can I hate people being a child of God? I hate sin, not people!

After the end of the line of guys, I see a line of adult girls dressed in uniforms walk past me in the same direction and now I'm down on the floor and need to cross the line. I keep moving forward expecting to find a cut but everyone is in their own tune. It's when I pass by a lady with a little girl in front of her that the line comes to a halt for a while as she stops to let me cross before continuing on her way after which I exit the school.

When I am on the roof, I sit on the mat spread on the ground facing the wall in front of me with a few others present around me. To my left is a narrower passage to the other side of the roof which is crowded. I see Glory dressed in a grey hooded sweatshirt walk up to near the passage as he turns his back looking at me and I spot the baby in the white diaper sitting on top of his palms held together in front of his belly. Apparently, he made an appearance to show the baby off to me moving afterwards to the other side of the roof. After a while, I walk into that crowded area and find Glory sitting on the right end of the roof's edge with his back towards me and legs hanging down the roof's floor and he's still holding the baby. There are others sitting in the same manner to his left in a line. I go back to sitting on the mat and this time find an animated movie being projected on the wide wall shared with the adjoining building. I see a guy resembling Hercules from the animated TV series. The series is okay and not very interesting as it doesn't seem to have meaningful mature and pure content. I notice that almost everyone has left and I'm one of the few left watching the movie. Apparently, there's a function being organized downstairs that everyone has gone to join in. But, I don't feel like going because it's not going to be of much use anyway! I know that there isn't anything meaningful to witness or experience but that I'm only going to find a crowd that's uselessly interacting with each other about meaningless stuff without a shared sense of a deep godly bond that stays after the people are gone! As I continue sitting there for I'm happier alone and now perhaps I'm the only one left on the roof in my vision, the animated movie now has three Egyptian ladies standing close together in front of a wall as they seem to be in an argument. The one on the left standing facing to the right is a dark lady with protruding lips and the one facing her and the one behind them standing against the wall are fairer. The lady on the left has a tense expression as she stands silently looking at the one close in front of her. It seems that she doesn't understand or resonate with her as she talks without ceasing while the dark lady stands silently looking at her. There's much noise in the scene and I'm not into the movie and am thinking about why it's just better to be here alone on the roof instead of going downstairs to the function. I see two guys dressed in orange tracksuits come from behind me and walk by in front of me to my left and sit together on the benches placed about 10 meters away facing me. One of them is short-heighted and fair and seems to be a teenage boy, while the other is a lightly stubbled beige Bollywood actor with wavy neck-length straight hair. They're sitting with their upper halves slightly bent forward with a casual attitude and they don't seem to be interested in the movie. I tell them that they can change the channel if they want (for I am not really into it). The taller guy tells me smiling that people chose to play that movie because I prefer to watch animated movies and not because they wanted to watch it. I am going back and forth between paying attention to them and the screen and it touches my heart when I look at how everyone sat together watching the movie which they thought I resonated with (when I didn't), and then I think about the mug situation as well which too I knew was framed as I was asked to choose a mug from the group. It makes me wonder about the amount of thought and consideration these people are putting into making me feel at ease by putting me in situations they think resonate with my persona. The scene with the three ladies is still playing as I keep sitting silently at my place thinking about these gestures of people and when I snap out of it as I hear a loud and rude: You hermentine! Apparently, the lady on the right shouted at the dark lady on the left and that's when I wake up.

While being on the roof checking my drying clothes out and suitably arranging them so that the weak point of the middle rope doesn't face the net pressure (simple COM):
Tod khaya.. Tod khaya..
Later when I am on my way to get a haircut, as I enter the street that leads to the road to the salon, I see: the bald middle man with tiny spiky hair and a protruding belly says to Glory: Dekh teri heroine aa rhi hai!

While getting the haircut
The lyrics from this recently released worship song Without You by Brother Wally play in my Spirit.
Peter do you love me? Lord I love you.
Peter do you love me? Lord I love you.
Peter do you love me? You know Lord I love you.
Peter if you love me then why do you treat me the way that you do..!

And they continue to repeat as the guy is giving me the haircut. Also, while he was cutting my hair, I recalled the revelation of the back of Jesus behind me as He cut my hair in a swipe. And then I knew that the barber had the character matching to Jesus to a great extent. Then I prayed to Jesus that Lord if he has your character, then if it's your will, I can be with as well! Because it's Jesus whom I want because of who He is. That barber had a protruding belly as well though it was greater than me. But if it's the will of God and I'm entering His kingdom in the end to live with Him, that's all that matters to me.

Now when I think of it, it reminds me of the recent revelation I had when I asked Jesus about His Will. I was lying in bed and had already previously seen that Vishnu vision and then saw how demons were controlling these men behind the cameras, and then I felt lost because I didn't want to hear from the devil or any other Spirit but the Holy Spirit of Jesus. So I ask Him inside about His Will for my life, and I see: A giant being resembling devil as tall as the ceiling standing in the centre of my room as he jumps dances around his position moving a square photo frame holding a photo held facing the viewer by both his hands.

The lady sings: Phod dala.. Phod dala..

On reaching home I have my communion constituting 2 boiled eggs, some Parle-G biscuits, and a glass of milk and I try to finish them before it's sunset because I am thinking of fasting again.

I later am looking for the Pastor's wife's WhatsApp chat box to ask if they're going to have church tomorrow and while doing so, come across a chat with a DP that shows a woman dressed Holy which catches my attention and then I see the visible message related to a doctor consultation. I open the chat and find that it was a forwarded message and the lady wasn't the doctor but Akhila posing in front of a tree dressed all holy in a full-sleeved white tunic with a floral orange print in a green background. It infuriated me because this disgusting man has been stripping me publicly for more than past 4 years and then he was taking these fully dressed photos of hers to make me feel a certain way! Not that I want to be dressed like that or want someone to click me, but I can tell that he did it intentionally! And it reminded me how I had seen him exhibit the same emotionally abusive behavior with that other girl. I shouted that he couldn't repent for stripping me publicly and making that website of me by covering some other woman up! I told him that I didn't need to talk to him to know how degraded he was at his core. I saw it years back and that's why I had blocked him, and how he proved that he was that immorally downtrodden and abusive person that I observed him to be and that it was true that I would rather die than to be with someone like him who has been doing this to me and hurting me in severe ways! I told him that I knew who he was without knowing him and that's why I had blocked him - because he was a WOLF who worked in tandem with other wolves! This is how he has been all this time! He has only personified how to betray and backstab others in hurtful ways and torment them for no reason but just to feed one's ego!

As I was saying these things, I saw: The girl Neha from the first apartment to the left in front of my room standing in the corridor facing to the left dressed in a thick black full-sleeved sweatshirt over black denims as she was sobbing followed by two semi-animated jets of skyblue water of tears protruding out like a projectile from her eyes! It repeats a few times. It reminds me of this past revelation I had somewhere within the past two weeks in which I had seen her sobbing in her apartment as she said: He doesn't deserve you..! And she was saying this looking at how he treated me!

After I was done saying all these things, I went out to buy some multivitamins and when I was back in the room working again, I heard: It was a test! It was a test, Kartika! And you passed with flying colors! It was a test, Kartika! And you passed with flying colors!

Well, I've my own separate moral sense that's not a part of the hive mind and that tells me wrong from right.

Later at night, as I'm working, I keep getting tempted to have tea with Parle-G biscuits but I'm able to resist. After a while, a foolish man downstairs says something highly immoral which just ruins my night and enrages me, and then without much thought I begin to make tea as I start shouting at the camera people. I have it with biscuits and the small packet of All-in-One Namkeen I had bought earlier during the day. And while I do so, I keep repeating what's right and what should've been the operating norm in the minds of these people. I say that they will never know the value of Wife because they don't know how to respect one and they don't have it in them to be a committed person in a covenant! And that they should be ashamed of what they have done! That they don't deserve a wife in the state that they are! And I shouted it in an angry tone.

I then heard:
Madhavan is crying. You broke his heart.

It repeats a few times. But what I had said came out of its own because of the nature of things this short fellow has been doing and how he uses others to frame false situations to make the targeted person feel a certain way.

Somehow the words got to him the most out of the three! Because it's a huge statement to make that one will never be in a godly and pure committed bond because of one's immensely sinful nature.

I said that to have a godly wife, they had to be godly in themselves first! A man needs to emulate Jesus' character who suffered to buy and secure His wife from the serpent system. I shouted that it was the short-fellow who was supposed to be like Jesus in a marital setting but he made me (the woman) sacrifice for his sins instead!

After having that tea, I thought of washing the clothes that had gotten dirty again because of the overflowing water from the water tanks to the right of the cloth hanging rope on the roof. And while I was washing or rinsing them, I kept hearing these song lyrics play intermittently in my Spirit:
Masih nidhaal soe-daar chalte dekha hai..
Bhadakti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai..

Masih nidhaal soe-daar chalte dekha hai..

RS with a light stubble and neck-length straight hair dressed in a deep purple Sherwani in a dark background says:
Isne gusse me badbad karke sabki aankhein khol di! Isne gusse badbad karke sabki aankhein khol di!

The dusky guy from the trio says:
I deserve her. She was right. I can understand what she's saying.

Phod khaya.. Phod khaya..

Morning

I'm shouting out how it would be the worst thing that could happen to a woman who didn't sleep with a man and was reserving herself for a love-filled bond with a righteous person that a prostitute website be made of her using tiny flying spy drones that captured her obscene photos in the washroom during bathing and using the commode, and that how someone who once used to be as wicked as Akhila, who was insulting me for dressing up holy and judging them for wearing revealing clothes where she loved to go to expensive restaurants being half naked with her friend Shin, would be gravely hurt! And then I saw:

- Jesus standing near the open wooden door inside my room facing me, dressed in His standard attire of a full-length tunic with His red drape on top as He says in a quiet and intense tone nodding His head lightly: You deserve Me, not him!

From last night before sleeping:

The side-view of the face of Kian Egans facing to the left with straight blonde hair until below his ears as he looks down with a calm expression and a very light smile in a dark background. The follow-up vision has his holding an off-white glass below a tap facing to the right as drops of blood fall down into the glass. He then throws the contents of the glass on the face of the viewer angrily!

Visions while resting:

- The semi-animated face of Death Conqueror on top of my groin as his red devil eye pops fully out of its socket like a ball followed by a blue eye coming out in its place. The vision of his eye popping out repeats a few times!

I put the back of my left hand on top of my forehead with its open palm facing upwards and I see: A lion's paw rests itself on my open palm.

A hand with the wrist of its worn black suit over a white shirt visible as it moves on top of my groin placing its fingers on the two inner lobes and putting the middle one on my strong pp as the hand moved around. The face of the man was then revealed to be Death Conqueror's who changed to Glory, or it was rather an amalgamation of the two as the fellow looked at me and said: I want this. I want this. lifting one of the inner lobes up. The hand then covered the top of my groin with its palm and it kept covering the region intermittently!

Well, I am learning to discern the Spirits. This is the new thing I want to do so I don't get deluded.

While cooking my communion meal:

I'm cooking wheat flour Halwa and I'm also having a righteous outburst on the camera people - mainly Death Conqueror. I say that the only way he can be right with me is by repenting before God and transforming his mind according to His ways, and that there's no other way round, whether he accepts or believes the same or not. And I'm having a strong outburst with intermittent bouts of silence. As I'm stirring the Halwa through its last cooking stage, I get reminded of this previous that I had sitting in my bed in which I saw a robotic machine with light blue sky blue led eyes stirring Halwa as it looked at me with an annoyed countenance with its head turned to the right in my direction..

And when I've made all of my points that came out of me on their own leading to all my inner thoughts that I hadn't previously said openly being thrown out and me feeling empty and relieved, I see: the red devil eye of Death Conqueror pops out fully leaving a cavity as he can feel its uncomfortable absence as his closed eye socket moves in a seemingly debilitating discomfort!

I also saw: A beige doggy with the face of Glory coming running to me through the air from my right direction.

While listening to the Worship song The Lord is My Salvation, I saw:

Meera dressed in a half-sleeved loose yellow t-shirt standing to my right as we both hold each other while slowly oscillating sideways and sing along the song with a deep sense of inner contentment and joy!

Shane & Shane: The Lord Is My Salvation

Well, it reminded of my time with her. That's how we used to spend quality time together at times. We used to listen to songs or we would be watching a good movie or if we're talking about something, we always had each other held in some way. At times our elbows will be clasped together with our hands in our individual pockets, at times we would hold each other by our sides. And while doing those things together, be it listening to songs, watching movies or singing songs together, we would be at times be swinging in synchrony with a mutually shared sense of contentment and we would feel so at peace and like we didn't need anything else in that moment.

Bas iski hi kami thi!

Those moments would be so heart-filling and would bring a heartwarming sense of connection. It wasn't that we were doing things in the world for each other but we found joy in each other's company. Just being with one another seemed to us to carry the strength to help us go through difficult situations. Our bond wasn't based on objective things we could provide for each other but on having a shared sense of love, care, and connection for the other. Whenever we sat together, we were often holding hands and the time would seem to just rush by and no amount of time together could be enough because we shared a continuous sense of connection that seemed to be above time. We used to lose track of time in each other's company and we never talked about ungodly stuff, badmouthed other people or gossiped! All our conversations used to be above the mundane world and not about it. Whenever I would be confused about anything or things didn't make sense to me or I would be depressed, I would share my situation with her, and she would always give her unusual usual advice that I always used to take time to gather my head around and her advice and the way she thought always used to seem beyond my individual field of perception and hardly resonated with my inner self. It was much later that I understood that I didn't or couldn't see the full expanse of who she was despite spending years with her because I underestimated her in a way. I later realized that she was better than me in several things from the beginning. My thoughts or perception used to seem elementary to her as she always talked about things from a spiritual stance that I didn't understand. Later when we caught up after a break of an year after a fight because of her behavior that I found insensitive, she came to look down at me though I wasn't doing anything wrong to her. I later went No Contact because she was supporting a guy like Tejaswi. She had lost a part of her moral sense that should've told her to avoid certain types of individuals, as she went deeper into spirituality and Hinduism and would be friends with someone like Tejaswi just because he knew a lot of that false stuff!

After I wrote the last sentence, I saw: Prof TRS dressed in a full-sleeved beige shirt tucked inside pants come at the top of my head with a rod with a furious expression.

The upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a black suit over a white shirt with a tie says nodding his head: Kartika you've a good background.

Well, while editing the previous page, I came across the part with the song lyrics Peter do you love me..? from the song Without You and understood its significance. When I was getting the haircut, though I got irked and angry because the lady sitting adjacent to me seemed to have said something to the barber in a mean tone, but I didn't give the barber the respect that I should've given attributing it to the revelation of him being Jesus as was shown to me. And that's what Jesus said: that how treat the poor and needy is how you treat Him and how you think about them is how you think about Him. After the lady addressed the guy in a mean way, I rebuked her indirectly as I talked with the barber in my usual way which by default gives respect to others, and said the place was filled with cheap real-life actors who didn't even how to talk respectfully with others! That if a politician came in front of them who had a record of misdeeds against him, they would show him all the respect and treat him as a righteous man should be treated! While a poor righteous man was treated with contempt! And he agreed with me on this. I talked with him a greater sense of acknowledging him while previously I was into myself. And in a way was insulting to that lady who was feeling superior about herself getting her useless long hair smoothened!
And when I did so, I saw her thinking in a vision with a hurt expression: She hates me. She hates me.
It's not that I hated her but I sensed her wickedness and fakeness and it angered me!

And now I see why I heard that song. I had to feel and act like it was Jesus who was giving me that haircut which would require me to act lowly and give the greatest respect to that barber, but I took the revelation as the barber having a part of the character of Jesus and not being Jesus himself. And it wasn't that I was talking to him in a rude manner but that's not the attitude and countenance with which you sit and think when Jesus gives you a haircut. And after this revelation, I understand the kingdom of God better! I was supposed to treat him as if HE was Jesus absolutely and that's why the song lyrics played:

Peter do you love me..? Lord I love you..
Peter do you love me..? Lord I love you..
Peter do you love me..? Lord You know I love you..
Peter if you love me then why do you treat me the way you do..

And Jesus taught me this important principle captured in the verses below:

Matthew 25: 34-40 (ERV)
34 "Then the king will say to the godly people on his right, 'Come, my Father has great blessings for you. The kingdom he promised is now yours. It has been prepared for you since the world was made. 35 It is yours because when I was hungry, you gave me food to eat. When I was thirsty, you gave me something to drink. When I had no place to stay, you welcomed me into your home. 36 When I was without clothes, you gave me something to wear. When I was sick, you cared for me. When I was in prison, you came to visit me.'
37 "Then the godly people will answer, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry and give you food? When did we see you thirsty and give you something to drink? 38 When did we see you with no place to stay and welcome you into our home? When did we see you without clothes and give you something to wear? 39 When did we see you sick or in prison and care for you?'
40 "Then the king will answer, 'The truth is, anything you did for any of my people here,[b] you also did for me.'

Without You - (Brought to Tears)

And then this morning, after Geeta Aunty left and I was removing my red jacket before settling in bed, I saw: Geeta Aunty is removing that jacket. And it reminds me of the verse that says that in the kingdom of God a master is like a servant unlike the world wherein the master acts like the master.

Kartika tujhe pata hai ki tu bahut badi kutiya hai..!?

Well, this is not the way I will ever talk to anyone even though it has a goldy undertone. I will say to that person respectfully in a gentle tone: Do you know that you're a very faithful person? Or in Hindi I would say: Kya apko pata hai ki aap bahut jyada faithful ho!?

Past Revelations

- (Past three weeks) After eating the Besan Chilla with zagged ends, as I lie in bed to work, its severed part with the zagged end is highlighted to be my inner lobes.
- (Past two weeks) Death Conqueror tears apart and throws away my inner lobes.
- (Past two weeks) While lying in bed before sleeping, I heard a quiet: The key is in your brain. The key is in your brain.
- (Past week) I am lying resting in bed when I see an explosion of the fire of the Holy Spirit spread out above and fill the room in
- (Past few days) Several slaughtered arms and legs lying around an open wooden door with a long translucent rucksack filled with small potatoes lying in the way.
- (Past few days) The front view of Kian Egans in my room sitting on my bed beside as me as he is signing something with his face turned to the left with the gently said words: I wanted to give you my autograph. He has short blonde hair and is dressed in a sleeveless printed off-white sweater over a full-sleeved white shirt tucked inside light brown pants. He looks joyful and has an expression that tells me that he felt good about giving me an autograph. I see how great he is that he think of exclusively coming to me to give me an autograph! The follow-up vision has us dancing a duet on a Westlife song, and as I wrote the previous phrase, I heard the following Westlife lyrics play:
  I am gonna take this moment..
  And make it last forever.. from the Westlife song Evergreen

Our duet is gentle and boundaried with slightly less than a meter of distance between us as we dance with hands held together on the Westlife song! After this brief meet, I see the view as seem from the corridor outside of my room of him standing at the door and seeing me off inside the room as he leaves happily through the corridor.

Well, the vision came as a surprise to me at first but it was a day later that I recalled that I had written previously that if my past self would've seen him sitting on a bench where I would be certain sure that it was indeed the Westlife singer unlike the real-life situation where I was confused, then that past self would've walked to him and asked him for an autograph and then the vision made sense to me.

I saw Jesus nudging me to have two rotis with gravy chicken. I was then sitting half on a chair and half on the bed when I asked again what He wanted and I saw: a plate with two rotis and a bowl of gravy chicken rotating around its position. So I ordered the same and heard: Ise pata hai ki ye marne wali hai! Ise pata hai ki ye marne wali hai!

They gave unusually huge chicken pieces and the box was filled to the brim for some weird reason, and when I was having the meal, I heard:
Hum samajhte hai ki tu gawaar hai.

Kaat khaya!
Maar khaya!
Tod khaya!
Phod khaya!

After a while I heard:
Gwaar tu nahi, gwaar mein hu! Gwaar tu nahi, gwaar mein hu!

I don't even think in such terms. I tolerated a lot of culturally biased and immoral treatment since this camera situation began. It didn't happen before this. For the past few years, I have heard several things that my brain doesn't even want to have inside as it doesn't want to think in those terms.

These things kept repeating when I was having the meal.

Earlier during the day: Khyati aa raha hai teri khabar lene. Khyati aa rhaa hai teri khabar lene.

Earlier during the day during my rest:
The face of Dinesh Uncle from the Dinesh Store in a dark background as he says in a rude tone: Rand to tu hai! Now I don’t know why is he saying this! Can't I even rest for a while before I can begin to work!?

And he repeats similar statements in the follow-up visions. Meanwhile, during my rest, I keep telling the short fellow, "I don't know you! You who commit inequity!" because he has been sinning all this time choosing the wrong way, and that's what Jesus would say to those who walk in sinful ways.

Matthew 7:21-23 (Easy-to-Read Version)
21 “Not everyone who calls me Lord will enter God’s kingdom. The only people who will enter are those who do what my Father in heaven wants. 22 On that last Day many will call me Lord. They will say, ‘Lord, Lord, by the power of your name we spoke for God. And by your name we forced out demons and did many miracles.’ 23 Then I will tell those people clearly, ‘Get away from me, you people who do wrong. I never knew you.’

From <https://www.biblegateway.com/passage/?search=Matthew%207:21-23&version=ERV>

So I keep repeating the same!

As I began to brush the commode last night for I had left clean spread inside, I heard: Samajh gaye ki tu smart hai kyunki tu gwaar hai.

On 15th Dec I sent a mail to my supervisor explaining to her my situation and why I haven't been able to work during the past time. The next day I saw the faces teary-eyed faces of several people from my dept as I heard: Everyone is crying after reading your mail.

Vision (Yesterday): The daughter of Amma who stays in the apartment opposite my room stands facing to the left in her room on the left side at the other end of the corridor as she has her maroon shawl wrapped around her back while she holds its front ends out revealing her breasts facing in the left direction as she's not wearing anything!

Last Night: The old, fat and moustached Gupta Uncle from the Guptaji Store in Vijay Nagar Single Storey once said to someone present in the shop with teary eyes: Bahut time pehle ek ladki thi. Vo ek do roti bahut acchi banati thi! And he pronounced roti as the hindi pronunciation of the continuous form of the word weeping.

Bete mein apse kabhi baat nhi karungi!

Dream:
I'm at home sitting on the Settee and realize that I'm on my period. I see that the bottom of my trousers is all dirty with blood and a bit of it is on the top surface of the Settee as well though it can be wiped by cloth and hasn't seeped in much. As a quick fix, my mom tells me to put my white bedsheet on the Settee as I continue to sit. Perhaps I'm busy working sitting there. I put a printed trousers on top of the Settee as well as I've been sitting for a long time. When I finally get up, I have that bedsheet and a trouser that I had added partly soaked in blood. I get up, move around that huge home, and find myself traveling away from home with blood-soaked clothes kept separately. My mom doesn't seem to be affected by my condition. I perhaps buy sanitary napkins roaming around while being out. When I find myself back into my home, I keep those clothes wrapped in a huge polythene on the floor of a washroom. Supposedly, they need to be washed. My mom suggests throwing the bedsheet out and that's what I was thinking as well.

Well, two incidents have been highlighted to me a few times during the past few months.

Incident 1: We were in someone's house who knew my stepmom's family and stayed in the same city. That was also the time I first came across paranthas cooked with the stuffing placed between two separate surfaces. We had our lunch there and the cook cooked paranthas with a few different stuffings. The landlady was a fair and overweight woman having short hair resembling a boycut. I discovered that I was on my period and told my mom who asked her if she has sanitary napkins with her but she had long undergone her menopause. So she told her son to quickly get a packet as she said to me: Bete tu ghabra mat. Abhi intezaam karti hu for I was perhaps a fresh teenager. And her son who was much elder to me brought them quickly as instructed by her.

Incident 2: I was in Shamsher Sir's home for my evening tuition with others as he had benches placed in one of the room on the ground floor he had rented which was next to Sakshi's home. Perhaps he hadn't yet begun to teach us or the students were still filling in, when his wife called to him from the small square window joining that room with the corridor to the other room. She was quietly asking him to get sanitary napkins and he asked her in a very low, quiet, and gentle tone if hers were already over, and told her that he would get them later. I never saw him talk in this way with anyone else during the time that we were around him. His wife seemed to look like him to some extent in her facial features.

I am now on my way on clean empty roads with walls and trees around with the weather giving a cold look as there's no sunlight. It seems to be a maze of roads as I take turns one after the other. I spot RK come bicycling on one of the empty roads. He stops for some reason and leaves after a while. I find Rekha Bua on the way and apparently, she's to take me to Rachna Bua's home which doesn't seem to be too far in the dream.

Past Revelations

- (Past two weeks) The animated vision of a foot of a giant green demon lying on top of a groin in the centre of an open road.
- (Past two weeks) You'll live until the age of 80 years. (Heard abruptly in my Spirit)
- (Past two weeks) The front view of a semi-animated half-naked KA dressed in just a light blue denim Jeans wiping my groin off with a tissue while he's bent to its level. It gets cleaned and dry but it's smelling of pee still. After he has cleaned it, he continues staring at the wiped groin. The vision repeats a few times. Well, I've been wiping my groin clean with toilet paper intermittently within the past week as I don't bathe or wash myself often.
- (Past week, at the beginning of a series of revelations that night) The semi-animated front top-left view of a lightly stubbled person resembling an amalgamation of Chris Evans and Ryan Reynolds dressed in a brown suit sitting on a chair behind a long workplace table with books, papers, and other stationary items lying on it as he abruptly crumples up a bunch of papers and throws up at the viewer looking at the viewer's direction.
- (Past two days) Part of a dream: Some people stop by my dad's playschool and he immediately gets up to show them the two new rooms he has made as he gestures at the newly made empty rooms inside.
- (Past two days, Night) The upper half of a chubby fat Anisha from my BSc batch dressed in a full-sleeved round neck light grey furry sweater rushes to the viewer with a smile as she says: I'm coming to save you!
- (Past few days, at the beginning of a series of revelations that night) The front view of a well-built Ryan Ronalds dressed in a full-sleeved light blue shirt with a tie sitting on a chair behind a table and his body entirely facing in the left direction with a wall present right behind him as he is seems to be busy doing something alone below the table while moving at his place and he keeps throwing something, crumpled bits of paper and once a piece of mom, at the viewer intermittently. Well, that's not me! Perhaps it's you. So, you need to repent.

- (Past few days) Surjeet from the Dinesh Store dressed in his t-shirt thickly horizontally striped in white and light sky blue stands behind his shop's counter as he says in a righteous series tone: Vo apke layak nhi hai. Aap bahut mahan ho. The vision repeats a few times.
- (Past few days)
- (Past few days) Thinking you could live without me.. Thinking you could live without me.. from the song Without me By Halsey.

Halsey - Without Me (Official Audio)

I know this song because my youngest brother Divyanshu was making a remix of it some years back!

Yesterday I talked to my dad after a good gap of days and when I was talking to him,
I kept hearing in my Spirit: Phod dala.. Phod dala.. which repeated several times.

Last late evening

- The top-view of a lady dressed in white standing with her back towards the viewer with her two huge white wings visible behind her. Death Conqueror cuts her wings with his hands at the place they are joined to her back leaving two tiny protrusions.
- Teri maa marne waali hai.

I was listening to worship songs in the evening when I felt a sudden pressure, a sudden weight, on top of my back as I sat on my chair bent over my table accompanied by the vision of me being on my knees and praying to God. I never had a similar revelation. It was the weight of His tangible glory/presence on me that wanted me to be on my knees and pray to Him as I hadn't done so for long. I would've done it every day and often but I didn't want to be seen by others because worshipping on my knees is an act of intimacy for me and it involves me being weak and vulnerable before God in my heart as I express my true inner admiration for Him that I don't want others who don't one-tenth of that depth to witness me expressing! Ideally, I would spend that worship time alone with Him without being seen by anyone. You don't want to be watched by other shallow people when you have your vulnerable and pure intimate moments with a loved one, and this was God whom we are called to love the most that I had to be on my knees and pray for!

Despite my hesitancy, I got down on my knees, played a worship song, and began worshipping Him. Later I wiped the centre of the floor once and lay on it with my head resting on the cushion put inside a black polythene. It was after long that I lay down on the floor as well. I didn't feel cold for a good while though I'm generally cold when out of bed.

While I was writing the above paragraph, I kept hearing the following repeat in my Spirit:
You were the Word in the beginning.. One with God the Lord Most High..

What A Beautiful Name (Lyric Video) - Hillsong Worship

Also, when I was moving around the kitchen and washroom area, I saw the upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in his black suit attire above me near the ceiling as he said with his face turned away to the right: Agar mujhe pata hota ki ye itni smart hai, mein iske peeche padta hi nhi. Agar mujhe pata hota ki ye itni smart hai, mein iske peeche padta hi nhi!

(Past 48 hours) After I've made certain statements that show the bland truth about the short fellow, I see: him dressed in his black suit lying on the floor against the wall holding a white strip with REJECTED written horizontally on it in his hands.

He awkwardly moves against the wall moving his upper half and legs with slightly folded knees stretched forth in front of him as he holds the strip with REJECTED written on it!

Yesterday Night
While I'm lying on the floor during Worship, I recall the vision of a giant demonic foot lying on top of my groin and then I recall certain events and I understand that this short fellow was trying to get me under his foot as if I owed him something! I told him that he wanted a fully submissive and obedient servant (while implying that he didn't want a godly wife who wouldn't give in to satan under extreme pressure!). I also understood that he was able to create that prostitute website and put my obscene pictures in it because in his mind he saw women naked all around him regardless of how they were dressed! So, it wasn't hard for him to do that! He spent a great amount of his life visiting prostitutes or if not them, women from families who are like prostitutes! If he had that respect for a woman's body that a righteous man has where he doesn't want to sin with a strange or a known woman as he knows and loves his wife, and he saw them clothed in his mind, he couldn't have committed that crime! It would be extremely hard for him to do! How can a person who hates sin or hates looking at naked women or fully-clothed women naked in his mind, strip an innocent woman? A righteous man if brought in front of a professional prostitute who is offering herself to him will find it next to impossible to strip her!

The trio talk among themselves: She knows everything dude!

He would try to cover her up and not sin and perhaps would give her a word of godly advice! But this fellow didn't possess any part of this moral sense, and that's why he could do what he did to an innocent person which would be considered the worst complementary version of stripping a prostitute. The above-explained version of a righteous man is the standard of righteousness that I'm used to in my mind as I know it's the right thing to do and several of my fellow schoolmates I knew emulated this level of righteousness in their selves and they couldn't be controlled by anyone besides their own godly sense of perception, judgment, or mind! And that's what a man or woman of God is supposed to be like.

When I wrote the above few lines, I saw:

Death Conqueror says with a tense and sobbing expression with a mouth wide open: Mein tere paas kabhi nahi aunga! Mein tere paas kabhi nahi aunga!

I told the short-fellow that he deserved a whore because those are the women he has seen throughout his life and he is comfortable with being around women with a whorish mind and that such a woman will be happy and content with him because she would have no expectations of one-to-one commitment, unlike a godly woman (though both of them would be headed towards Hell and would be rejected by God!). A godly woman expects a godly husband. A whore wants to corrupt even a godly man! A godly woman stays away from whorish men and women! Their company is stifling to her!

This is the first time that I've realized that a whore is an ideal woman for him because of who he is! And he will be the happiest with such a person because all she expects is a provision of her needs while she provides her body to him with no regard to Christ-like love that children of God are called to emulate in their earthly marriage!

And when I've understood freshly with a greater depth this part of his wicked persona, after a while I realized how it was a great waste of time as I compare it with how good, content, and filled I would've felt had I had the opportunity to observe the deeds and thoughts of a godly man, who is the exact opposite of this wicked man. The understanding of his wicked nature didn't add to my way of living or didn't inspire me to live in a more godly way! I didn't want such a person in my life!

So I am now ranting about how I wasted time in coming to an understanding of the partial wicked nature of the short-fellow which constituted a great part of his conduct with those with whom he had to exhibit unconditional godliness or goodness! I would've been better if I had the opportunity to observe a righteous man whom I saw was tempted in different ways but yet didn't give in to the temptations but stood strong on his ground and went to his wife instead, being the righteous husband who he was, in case he was married or kept himself pure of all unrighteousness while being a bachelor, as I thought about how deeply healing observing such a person would be and how one can only spur out praise for such a person and he also leads and inspires others to follow in his example. I compared how much better I would be feeling to observe and understand such a person and how he thinks, and I would want to stay in his company as a friend because I know he is godly and that regardless of him being married or not, he is going to show me the righteous path of God!

I am ranting about the right way to be around the opposite or the same gender and date. That the number of men or women you sleep with before you get married directly affects the relationship with your spouse in one or the other way, and one doesn't give as much importance to a godly union with a person as one would have given in the absence of those affairs as they often lead to corruption of mind and a seared conscience. I said that Death Conqueror had a seared conscience which helped him commit the sins he did preventing him from feeling the related guilt. And that I always was an idealist and wanted a person of the same kind. I wanted a person who thought perfectly, was in control of his thoughts and for whom it wasn't difficult to control his thoughts and who could lead his own self forward on what I would now call the golden path of God regardless of how the crowd or the world walked, thought, or behaved.

When I've finally made the point that I would rather stay alone than be in what I would now call an ungodly union of some sort. I expect my spouse to emulate a similar level of righteousness and godliness! And I never felt a compulsion of drive to be with a man in an ungodly way! I was the kind of person, and still am that way, who would rather stay alone than go into a relationship with someone who thinks less perfect than me! Because by godly standards, my husband is supposed to be more righteous and wiser than me for him to be able to lead me in righteousness! And Glory exhibited that trait as he corrected me in my way of clothing which I didn't perceive as ungodly! He highlighted to me to wear loose and boxy shirts or sweatshirts instead of waist length t-shirts that I was used to. He can lead a wife in righteousness. He has that in him and he also is capable of committed one-to-one marital relationship. That's why God chose him for me.

After a while of me having made the statement that I would've rather stayed alone if I couldn't find a committed bond with a righteous or moral person instead of being with an immoral or corrupt mind in loveless and meaningless fornication, I saw:

- The two from the trio stand with their backs towards me near the ceiling in front of me as they cried out jets of tears and said: We've ruined her! We've ruined her! While the short fellow stood on the extreme left still facing me with a wicked smile and expression as if he wasn't yet done! While the other two men were asking him to leave along with them, he is not done with having 'fun'. He looked so wicked and unrepentant!
- Glory dressed in an off-white tunic stands in the corridor with his back towards me as he looks at me with his head turned to the left and says with a smile: Barbaad ho gyi! Barbaad ho gyi!

And then I recall the immoral middle-man from Single Storey making the statement: Kismat phootgi! Kismat phootgi! As he hit his forehead!

Past Revelations

(Past two days) While lying in bed somewhere in the morning, I saw: the bottom-view of Death Conqueror near the ceiling, dressed in his black suit attire, as he looks and points down at me with a hand and says: You're my first love, followed by him pointing to the right with his left hand to Akhila standing against the wall at his level, as he says: She's my true love. The vision repeats a few times.

Later during the day when it is evening perhaps and I am resting in bed again, I saw: he is now half down from his previous level near the ceiling as he looks down at me with a bent upper half and says: Tu hi hai mera saccha pyaar. Tu hi hai mera pyaar.

Morning

Dream: I'm in a huge house resembling a farmhouse. I am in a room with emotionally abusive Akhila and I help her slide the 3-4 inches wide black belt of her ethnic skirt upwards over her belly while leaving about half a foot distance between her blouse and the top of the skirt's belt. To some distance in front of me, I see a dusky and darker Death Conqueror dressed in a grey jacket sitting on a chair facing to the left as he says a light Yeah.. turning his face away from our side to his laptop in front of him. I can spot his attraction towards the slim belly and I feel repelled by it because it tells me how fleshly he is when he is not guilty about what he has been doing to me but he's saying a wicked Yeah on seeing that slim belly. When I look down, I see that I too am wearing similar clothes. After he's back to pretending to be immersed in his work, I turn away, adjust the level of my own skirt, and l leave the room. (I don't know why I'm dressed in that manner as I don't like skin-revealing clothes.) I feel repelled by him because of his preference for that way of dressing and a certain body shape because he's going to be attracted to anyone who dresses in a similar or has a similar body shape which is quite fleshly and meaningless as such. I don't know why I am there. I then come across a demonic being in a different part of that house which has my mom as well. We're trying to evade his sight. He seems to want to take physical advantage of people. And it's only because of people fearing him that he gets his way!

My mom is sad and depressed in the dream. My dad returns after a long gap and I know he is not worried or concerned about my mom's condition. Though he may say a comforting word or something in a nice way, he is not doing things behind my mom's back that reflect his godly marital commitment to her, and deep down he doesn't care how his actions impact her that's why he did those things in the first place. I talk to him and his behavior with me is good as he talks smoothly with me but he doesn't exhibit that self with my mom. Perhaps it's because he's not able to. They've always had marital issues. My mom goes near him and behaves erratically as I see her depressed. Though she's not saying much, I can see her emotional tension quite clearly and I know that to her he has wronged her in a severe way as those were the things she held fast to in her life. To him, it may seem to be a causal thing that he had been cheating behind her back, but to her, it's the end of the world as I never saw her behavior more erratic than how she behaved when we found out about his ongoing affair in the past. My mom is represented as a short and very slim lady dressed in a deep red tunic. I can sense that he may get angry with her and may hit her. He drags her inside, followed by noises of him mistreating her. I rush to that space to stop them and when I'm there I find my youngest brother who takes me out into the green surrounding the huge house, and I see my mom's lean and thin body lying on her side. There's blood on the ground below her head and when I lift her head up, I see that it's oozing out of her right eye. My youngest brother lifts up the kitchen knife lying beside her and tells me how my dad hit the corner of her eye with the same. He has the knife pointing down as he further explains how he rotated and forced it into the corner making that small hole. My mom is still alive despite the injury. I lift her up in my hands and am on my way out of the great mansion when she stops breathing after I've taken a few steps and it's when I wake up!

(Past 24 hours) The face of Akhila as she says to me: He hit me, Kartika. He hit me, Kartika.

Well, it wouldn't come as a surprise to me if he did that because he earned the label of an abuser and he can abuse anyone to soothe his ego!

Proverbs 9:8 (Easy-to-Read Version)

8 Don't correct such people, or they will hate you. But correct those who are wise, and they will love you.

From <https://www.biblegateway.com/passage/?search=Proverbs%209%3A8&version=ERV>

Late Evening

And I'm just done editing the previous part of this page where I wrote that it's very hard for a righteous man to strip even a prostitute, let alone touch her, though she may be offering her to him. I get up to prepare to bathe and I hear: We all were once that way. We all were once that way.

As I'm preparing to bathe, I hear: Mein tujhe marunga nahin, lekin mein tujhe chhodunga bhi nahi. Mein tujhe marunga nahin, lekin mein tujhe chhodunga bhi nahi.

Masih Nidhaal soedaar chalte dekha hai..

Bhadakti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai..

While bathing as I take a bit more time, I see:

A small-framed vision of the bald and immoral middleman standing with few others inside a well-lit room as he says: Tere liye izzat jaruri hai ya safai jyada jaruri hai.. Tere liye izzat jaruri hai ya safai zaroori hai.. As I wrote the previous sentence, I heard the song lyric play: Meri to izzat hi khudawand hai.. hai…

As I continue to scrub off the deposited muck inside my top lingerie, I see him saying:

Safai jyada zaroori hai.

Well, even after spending that time in the washroom that seemed extra to them, I still am sticky with deposited muck in those areas because it's been a long time since I took a proper bath. If I had some magical power, I would clean myself without having to bathe and pee and poop in the same manner. I don't take pleasure in exposing myself publicly, unlike the Egyptians at the place!

Toot gaya.. Toot gaya..

Past few minutes: The trio stands near the ceiling in a dark background with the dusky man in the middle standing with his back facing me as he turns his head to the left and says to Mrittunjay: Chal Mrittunjay. Ye hmare layak nhi hai! Ise ab iske level ka hi koi mil jaye vahi bahut hai! It repeats a few times.

I woke up from a dream I will write in a while. But when I woke up, the following vision kept getting highlighted to me and it was being highlighted yesterday late evening as well.

- In a well-lit white background, the short-heighted Death Conqueror dressed in his previous attire of a light sky blue top over navy blue trousers quickly and very much boldly hands over a long and thick danda to a taller naked Glory standing to his left as he gets ready to hit me who's lying on the floor with the same.

Well, I befriended him on FB because I thought he was intelligent and could understand meaningful things that don't come easily to worldly mundane minds but he was stuck in the mud of the world. I thought what I did because usually, intelligent people who understand the blandness of the world are aloof and I thought I resonated at that level though I didn't know him personally. (Though it's a different thing that when we get to know about the kingdom of Heaven we find a company that is not a part of the world or at least it understands that it's not supposed to be a part of the world.) Intelligent people also give more importance to morals. That's how I thought because that was my definition of intelligence. And their words are carefully chosen. They try to walk in righteousness which was an integral part of being intelligent in my perception. And he was exhibiting or he put up a show of having that kind of intelligent righteousness! So, though I may not have been friends with him in real life, I found it worth following him on FB like I was doing other people! But he turned out to be the unexpected. I befriended Tejaswi on FB because I saw he was Meera's good friend but I didn't know he was the kind of immoral man that he was. Well, it only seemed natural to me to have the right mind that stressed greatly on the right way to think. And everyone should be having the same mentality ideally though they may differ in their objective choices or preferences. The basic moral code doesn't change and only a fool wants to degrade one's life's moral quality. And he didn't look like a fool! He donned an image of an intelligent and righteous man. But look at who he turned out to be.

After I had written the initial part of the above para, I saw: the upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a black suit a foot or two above my head to my right as he hit the top of my forehead with a danda and said with a pitiful expression: Bahut nalayak hai! Bahut nalayak hai! Bahut nalayak hai! As he repeats it in a line while hitting the top of my head.

And while writing the last few lines of the para, I suddenly got reminded of this day I was walking past DSKL towards the doc center and I was looking for room no. L. I saw a man dressed in a shiny sea green satin tunic set with a half jacket on top and he was standing against the wall beside the HOD office with his hands clasped down together and head bent low. He was from my MSc batch as I had happened to spot him in a few classes. I thought perhaps he must have a family function to attend later and that's why he is dressed like that in the dept. And why was he standing in that posture looking down and slightly moving around his position? I then thought he must be knowing where room no. L was because he too attended tutorials. He was the only student in my vicinity that I knew from my classes at that time. So I walked up to him, stood in front of him, and said: Excuse me. And when I looked forward at him, I saw that he had his face turned to the left as he had a wide shy smile on his face and a tense expression. It seemed quite weird to me. Why was he behaving in that weird way for he indeed had heard me and still, it seemed that he was ignoring me? I said again: Excuse Me, this time a bit louder. This was what caught my attention because he kept looking to the left with that shy smile. That guy was Glory. The view of his face facing to the left was where my attention stopped and I saw him making the prophetic symbol. Perhaps it was 2016.

And then he had bent his head low and took a small step forward with a quick and quiet: Oh Yeah. I asked: Do you know where's room no. L? He looked to his right to his short-heighted friend standing beside him and asked with a changed weird expression: What is she saying!? The look in his eye changed to what I would classify as wicked as he gazed intensely into hers. Looking at this, her expression suddenly changed to being boundaried as she took a step to the right away from him with a slightly open mouth. I then asked that girl: Where's room no. L? She then said to him in a careful tone: I think she's asking where room no. L is? Then the guy told me its location pointing to the right with his left hand like he told me the location in the wedding dream - pointing to the right with his left hand. And it's just now that I observed this similarity between the two events.

After I was done writing the above, I saw:
The upper halves of the trio dressed in multilayered dark clothes standing together holding each other sideways a few feet above to my right as they look down at me smiling. And as I was writing the part of them looking down at me, I saw: the vision float a few feet down to my level as I'm sitting on the bed and as they looked straight smiling at me.

And yesterday, this past event of spotting Death Conqueror walk past me dressed in a blue tunic finely printed with silver with a half jacket on top kept being highlighted to me.

As I was writing the above, I saw: The upper half of Death Conqueror looks down at me from some feet above to my right as he says: Bhool ja. Mein bahut accha hu. Bhool ja, Mein bahut accha hu.

But I wasn't yet done writing. I was thinking how he looked so righteous and moral in that avatar of him. He was wearing cheap black slip-on shoes and a cheap black bag. And I thought how great it would've been if he really was that person! Now when I looked back at it or when I looked back at it in the past as well, I knew that he chose that look by observing me. He wore cheap shoes and carried a cheap bag as he himself indirectly communicated once that I wear cheap shoes.

Vision (yesterday): A blurry vision of my upper half dressed in my printed white t-shirt from 2020 that I don't have now as I stand with my face turned slightly to the left and bent low a bit as I look down with unblinking, wide-open eyes, a shy smile with my short neck length hair half tied in a high pony with several tiktok clips on my head. Well, I remember that hairstyle from the late evening when I was playing badminton this late evening on the court in front of the second smaller entrance.

This vision kept repeating several times. And the look at my face from the vision reminded me of the moustached Gupta Uncle's look from this certain day as it resembled his.

- (Past hour) Death Conqueror dressed in a black suit stands with his back towards me as he says turning his head to the left: Tu sahi keh rahi thi. Mein tere layak nahi hu. Tu sahi keh rahi thi. Mein tere layak nahi hu.
- Glory dressed in a black suit says: You love him! You love him!
- Death Conqueror dressed in a black suit says: Mein tere layak nhi hu!

Well, I wanted to be around people with whom I could resonate mentally. I found very few people of such kind. Meera was one such person as she wasn't really a part of the world though she wasn't following the correct doctrine either. And during my time with her, she used to live in her parental home and they were financially weaker than our family. But it was a thing of no significance for us. I knew that I couldn't have found another Meera with her persona and the way she thought. I didn't easily find people with whom I could resonate at a mental level, and the only time I happened to seem to have the possibility of a bond with someone was when they shared a similar bent of mind. For instance, when I had gone deeper into meditation and was experiencing those vibrations and met that girl in Miranda House during Notebandi, I resonated with her because she too was deep into meditation and experienced vibrations in her forehead and I felt that she too wanted to be close to the hidden truth like me while the rest of the world was busy living their mundane daily lives and was content with what they saw around and the way they thought the world worked in the physical realm which I had just discovered wasn't so and that there was an underlying spiritual reality.

I will write the dream later.

I went to sleep after writing the above, and had the following revelations.

- My steel clip is put on the right side at the front of my mom's right breast on top of the printed tunic she's wearing as she stands facing to the right in front of the door of the washroom in the master bedroom of our parental apartment in Omaxe Heights Sonipat. (It's all evidence.)

I had a brief dream in which I was sitting working on a table in the dark. My roommate asks me for my earphones from behind me and I give it to her and continue working. Though it's dark, there's enough light around my table to work. Perhaps I'm using a table lamp. I get up from my chair, turn back, and walk to the other side. After getting up and walking to my side of the room to take something out from my wardrobe, I find that my roommate was Akhila and the room seems to resemble D1 but arranged differently. In place of the sofa is lying my chair and table against the wall to the left of the bed and there isn't anything else present along that wall. My wardrobe lies facing the right side of the bed, I open it, turn back and look at Akhila who sits on the right end of the bed dressed in a long, thin, beige, loose, and stretchable cotton printed t-shirt with the neck of that t-shirt cut just wide enough so that it doesn't fall down from her shoulders revealing her throat and the surrounding area. I want to ask for my wired earphones back from her as I need them. I am used to working with them on. I haven't said anything yet, but she looks smiling at me, places her phone on the bed, and placing her forearms one on top of the other in front of her chest mimics the act of cradling a baby silently. I don't know what she's implying. Is she on the phone with a baby? Is that what she's implying? Perhaps she's only using them to listen to music. In that case, I could ask them back as I won't be interrupting her call. She's looking at me and I stand looking at her thinking if I should ask my earphones back and it's when I wake up though I fall back into sleep after a while again.

A man's voice says:
Bachat ke ant ke game mein
Jungle mein aag laga dete hai

I am woken up by the doorbell ring and I thought that Geeta Aunty might be there but when I opened the door, I found a man standing there with a file asking for donation for a children's camp. I told him I donated a while back as well but on looking further into the file, I found that it was a different donation for a camp in the J&K area and the amount people donated was small. While the previous guy who had come to ask had 1k as the minimum amount and it was for people or children around the locality. I told him to go to a Porsche area to ask for a huge amount of donation. I asked him what did he see around here that he came to this lowly place to ask for a donation! I told him to go to rich people (as only one of them would be enough to fulfill the target amount they wanted to achieve).

I got suddenly angry at him as I started shouting that there were people waiting outside for prostitutes in cars and that he should go and catch and ask them for money for they've surplus to donate. Why did he come to this lowly place? I then shouted for him to go and ask from the people who sent these cameras around me. I shouted that I was staying on rent and I didn't have a job. I threw 100 Rs at him. He was asking me to sign, but I told him to accept that as Bheekh and get lost! He then turned back and walked away. After all, why wasn't he going to these fellows who spend all their time and money sinning!? It was good that he wasn't provoked and he maintained his calm. He wasn't a bad man. But I ended up shouting at him but I could tell that most probably he knew about my camera situation. Then why did he come and act as if everything was ok asking me for a donation on top of my emotionally painful situation?

After he left, I decided to work. So I transferred my laptop from the small foldable wooden table lying beside my bed to my working table and I saw:
The upper half of RS dressed in deep purple sherwani with an embroidered print laughing lightly in a dark background as he said: Usko maine bheja tha! Usko maine bheja tha!
The following has also been brought to my attention several times.
I once saw on Glory's FB profile a photo in which he was sharing that he was done with his PhD and had joined as a scientist at some place abroad. In that photo, he was dressed in a black suit and he stood in a hall/room against a wall in the same posture with his hands clasped down together in front of him and his head bent low while a very lean and slim lady dressed in a thinly striped sleeveless pink shirt tucked inside black knee-high pencil skirt and having long straight hair stood a few meters away from him in a group with her back towards him. I saw how he was exercising boundaries in that photo and he wanted to make an intentional show of it which was apparent in his posture and head bent low as he looked down.

So wouldn't God promise him to me!? Who else would God promise me!? And then I recall the recent vision in which he was saying: Tu mere layak nhi hai. Lekin mein tere layak hu. And when I didn't understand it, he repeated the same in English: Kartika you don't deserve me, but I deserve you.

And now I'm hearing a sharp: Kaat khaya! Kaat khaya!

Earlier during the day when I first woke up and was entering the washroom to pee, this scene from the movie Shudra: The Rising was highlighted to me. In this scene the tall and muscular wicked high-caste king of the place was lying on top of a dusky, slim, and much shorter Shudra woman having intercourse with her as he had her summoned for a night after getting her husband beaten and despite her being pregnant. And as the scene flashed, I heard a voice say: ye din ab door nahi.

The woman was pregnant and she didn't want to go to the king's palace but wanted to stay with her husband, but the wicked king had his goons drag her away to the palace where she was given a bath and dressed promiscuously and made ready for the king. The king of the place was shown as being fair and a smoker. He was not his queen's King (he wouldn't have such a thing otherwise), but he was a wicked king of the place.

Meera was very wise. If I told her that my dad was having financial difficulties at the moment, she would ask me the reason for the same. I would tell her that he has these, these, and these EMIs etc., and she would say: Why did he buy those things!? If I told her that he had his car EMI going, she would say: Why did he buy a car? Well, if not a big car, he could've bought a small car. So, she always addressed the cause and not the problem itself. And listening to her reasoning, I saw how simple it was and yet it served the purpose. Anything I told her, she had a wise answer that left me speechless it was the end of the argument if I was to look at her answer with the right mind! She didn't need a lot of things though she bought a lot of things when she got a job. Perhaps they were the requirement of her job. But she didn't need an AC, she didn't need a cooler, she said that she could sleep peacefully in a fan as long as there were no mosquitos to bother her. She was wise beyond her years which her first finance Bhuvan commented about that she became old too soon. But she wasn't old. She was wise. That's the ideal way everyone is supposed to be but they're not and it's not her problem. That's who she was. She wasn't an addict. She was about crucifying the flesh in a way as she believed in her own way of fasting and she wanted to live a life lived above the five senses, or above the mundane so to speak, which was also what Tejaswi often referred to. He called the worldly daily life boring and mundane and just not worth it. They were spiritual people. Though they didn't know God and believed in the false doctrine of themselves being God which they had to realize through meditation, they still understood and experienced the fact of reality not being limited to the physical world and they did it through demonic practices. They were delving into the spiritual world but not the Kingdom of God. Before I met them, I was not into the spiritual but I was mentally above the world as I didn't find it worth indulging in because it kept running on and on and on. What was the point and purpose? Where would it end? What was the point of it all? When you ask these questions or are able to look at life and the world with this lens, you are already looking at things from a perspective that is outside of time instead of enmeshed in it. Possessing this mindset seemed to me

Meera had an ingrained sense of spirituality and lived a life that was above the world. So, the world didn't dictate her happiness either but it came from within her and so was the case with me though I wasn't spiritual. I was at a level lower than her in my spiritual walk. She believed in God. I didn't. Though I wasn't into the world either.

Earlier during the day

I am saying things out as they're coming to my mind. I am making points about how in the eyes of God Glory is a suitable match for me according to the wedding dream revelation. I said that if the short fellow looked identical to Glory, even in that case, the original Glory would be the chosen one because of his displayed character traits and there would be a stark difference between the two despite their outer resemblance because of their different inner selves. I said that to answer Death Conqueror's point that I and Akhila match in our looks to a great extent. But despite that, our personas are different. By his logic, all fair people and all dark people should be treated as copies of each other. It's our inner personas, the way we think and the things we believe in that define who we are. So, his logic only showed his lack of depth of understanding or perhaps it's too tinted with the comfort he felt around her because of her richly attitude .

Also, I made the point that if the same Glory whom God promised me was born poorer or richer, perhaps God would still have chosen him for me because of who he is. And that if he gets tanned in sunlight, even then he is the Glory that God chose. And if he gains or loses weight, it would still be his inner self that would define him and serve as the qualifying factor. After I had said these things, I saw:

The face of the elderly man with tiny spiky hair in a dark background as he said quietly with a smile: Wise beyond her years.. She is the right woman for my son.. I had a chat with him last year.

On a video call with my mom, I found it draining to talk to her as she was wasting my energy asking me to explain it to her once again about submitting MS to ArXiv which I had shared with her was the last option I had in my mind if I chose to leave. I told her that I already shared with her and I didn't have a lot of energy to talk as I could feel it drain out talking to her. And then she made the point of my name being on DU's website with the field Non-Linear Dynamics written in the description. I told her that the field's name was there because of my first choice of Awadhesh Prasad as supervisor who worked in that field. She kept repeating the same and it was annoying me. She was trying to gather more info about things. She was draining my energy. I only have limited energy and she doesn't talk about godly things either that make one feel positive and filled with godly joy. She's always talking about worldly stuff, worrying about meaningless things that are supposed to take care of themselves by their own selves.

While I was writing the last few sentences, I saw: a danda hits the side of my mom's head repeatedly!

No wise person worries or talks about the way she does and it was impacting me negatively to talk to her. No one living inside a home worries about sleeping on the road like she keeps saying. She feels so insecure about her own self and survival despite having the basic amenities permanently because no one is going to snatch her home away from her, how will she show care for other less blessed children of god? She is not able to get out of the hole of worldly worries she made for herself. How will she experience the kingdom of God with her mind, because it is written that the kingdom of God is within us when we receive the Holy Spirit. Her mind is always occupied with useless things that she doesn't have to talk about all the time. She can still talk about them, but she shouldn't give them supreme importance for they are only temporary things in the world which is heading towards God's judgment! I also told her that my time to die was appointed by God and that they didn't have to make special efforts to kill me by hitting my head with a danda or otherwise and then I ended the call. As I did so, I saw:

- My dad's figure in the attire from the last time he visited me: a grey fluffed jacket over black sports trousers and a cap on top of his head, as he looks at me with filled eyes and says nodding his head: Bete mein tere paas kabhi nahi aunga. Bete mein tere pas kabhi nahi aunga.

The below worship song has been playing intermittently in my Spirit.
Holy spirit make me more like Jesus..
Everyday a little more like Jesus..

Crucify my flesh with yours..
That my life might be secure..

More Like Jesus feat. Canaan Baca - One Voice Worship (Lyrics)

Dream:

Towards the end of this dream, I see a lady dressed heavily in embroidered bridal red, with her head covered with the thick drape as well, standing facing to the right in front of what looked like a roof's short-heighted supporting wall. Behind the lady can be seen a wilderness area and one can tell that the roof or balcony stands at a great height. In front of her stands a taller man with short wavy hair below his ears. They're talking about how they both got chosen for the kingdom of God. The lady says that she and another lady of around the same height who was with her a while back and who too was dressed in bridal red got chosen for a wedding when they didn't really seem suitable prospects for the same by their looks or background. The taller man standing in front of her says that he is the only one chosen for the kingdom of God from his huge gang of extremely wicked members. And as he says so, one can sense the wickedness of the group he is a part of. The vision of the dream then shifts to the front view of the face of that guy and he is shown to be a fairly wheatish man with a square face carrying a line for a smile as he looks smiling at the lady and explains something to her. He doesn't seem too wicked and while I look at him, I see how he has come out of that wicked lifestyle to be a part of the kingdom of God and his wicked background has dissipated away from his persona.

I feel a strong nudge to read the Bible properly in a way where I actually remember what the Lord God told the Israelites to follow, as trying to remember things helps us to focus on that thing with a greater intensity and we pay attention to details. And I was at the chapter in the Book of Numbers where they talked about the daily, monthly, and special offerings God told Israelites to make to Him, and the different festivals they were called to celebrate. I found it necessary to pay attention or try to remember the sacrifices because it also told about God's standards, that He needed a daily sin offering for the cleansing of the sins of the Israelites and the priest to enter into His presence. It showed how serious the problem of sin was, and how the priests had to make daily animal sacrifices to please God and be in a relationship with Him apart from the fact that they were called to follow the moral commandments already given to them.

Paying attention and remembering the periodic sacrifices helps in understanding the standards that Israelites were expected to meet in the Old Testament before the forgiveness of sins was accorded to us through Jesus. The nature of God revealed in the Old Testament can fill one with extreme fear as He is shown to be a quick judge who needs to be pleased every day through animal sacrifices, and the daily sin offering made to atone for the sins of Israelites - His chosen people - though they were already following His commandments. I wanted to ingrain in my brain the nature of God as revealed in the Old Testament so I would have a complete and thorough understanding of His ways, who He is in entirety, and how He thinks. I've spent time with Jesus and He has shown me great love and has been quite gracious. I saw how He withholds His judging hand because of His love. But we need to read the word to gain a better understanding of His nature.

(For instance, according to His law, one act of adultery was enough for the people to kill the guilty by stoning. An act of fornication between two people not betrothed to another led to them having to marry after the girl's father's consent. That was the law of God. I searched it out later.)

So, I wanted to read His Word and fill it with His Word and transform my mind accordingly after I had already remembered the names of the 12 tribes of Israel which made me recall remembering the solar system back in school and I thought that this should be taught at elementary and middle school level as well. Well, it is taught in churches as a part of Bible Study. Church is that school where you partly learn the Bible. I wished I had read this book way back in my childhood so I would be remembering and knowing verses from the same and God would've been pleased with me because of my mind being firm in His laws. I wished I had read it earlier and I now hope that it's not too late.

After a while, I feel the need to rest and therefore lie down in the bed when I have the following revelations.

Phod dala.. Phod dala..

- Specific parts of the song Tumhare Siva from the Bollywood movie Tum Bin play in my spirit as I lie depressed in my bed on my right side facing the wall beside the room's entrance door. It makes me think look at my own heart and question if this is how I have become, if this is the Will of God, or if it's something prophetic where the song represents a state I would be in at a certain time. I saw that I didn't hate the trio but I wanted them to turn to God instead of following along their current path. And I don't want to have hate in my heart for others because it's hard to carry and too stressful. I don't want to hate people but I don't want to sin either. So, my way of loving people (besides my God-ordained husband) has nothing to do with flesh but it's a godly way of loving where I would want the godly best for them, and for them to become the godly best version of themselves. That's the only thought that comes naturally to me at this point. As I wrote this, I saw: A danda comes hard at the top of my head.

Because what good is it for them to stay the way they once were when it doesn't lead to anything innately and intrinsically good? If they become godly and turn to Christ, they not only receive forgiveness of sins but His Spirit as well which will comfort them in their tough times and will stop them from moving ahead or turning to a wicked path - that's what the Holy Spirit does. It convicts people who possess it.

Anyway. As I am looking at my heart while the song lyrics play, I see: a blurry vision of the upper halves of the trio looking down at me from a few feet above my blanket as one of them says, "You love us dude! You love us dude! You need us to breathe into you for you to be able to breathe (when I stop breathing intermittently unknowingly)."

"Who're you kidding? You need us to breathe air into your nose or mouth when you stop breathing!"
This reminds me of the times that I observed when I would abruptly start breathing well and deep while previously I had stopped breathing unknowingly. I would cease to breathe intermittently without realizing it and when I would begin breathing again, it's then I would realize that it's because of a drone present nearby that's communicating breaths to my nostrils through the surrounding air creating a working impression of real breaths leading me to be able to breathe. And I've noticed this several times! This also reminded me of the song lyric: Aanke saanse de mujhe tu, taaki zindaa mein rahu..

As I was done writing the above, I heard:
Bas bete mein mar jaunga: after I wrote the above, I heard the following in my spirit.

So the trio was telling me that I need them to breathe breath into me which I saw had been the fact since my health worsened. The drones breathing into me would induce me into breathing deep and properly while I would be lying still.

Banake kyu bigada re..
Banake kyu maara re..

After they were done saying that, I saw: A small framed vision of the trio from the song Tumhare Siva dressed in their red and white attire from the song as they sit together in a line, and say abruptly: Let's read the Bible! After which they turn their faces to the left with small pocket Bibles with black covers open in their hands that rest on a table as they sit with their heads bent down seemingly engrossed in the tiny book. The vision repeats again.

- (Afternoon) The semi-animated vision of Jesus dressed in a full-length off-white tunic with a red drape on top quickly spreads a long and narrow red mat in the center of my room, extending towards the kitchen. He then begins placing plates around the edges followed by men appearing in the vision sitting at both ends along the edges of the mat as they eat from the plates. I notice that all the men are bald and carry a wicked look as they eat in quick motions from the plates lying on the red mat.

Well, I thought of having dinner because of the above vision. I got a half tiffin with both rotis and rice. I somehow happened to look at the checkered duster hanging above the kitchen sink that Aunty had recently washed and I felt like spreading it on the table to avoid cleaning it after I had eaten. I brushed aside the idea at first as I thought it better to clean the table instead of dirtying the cloth and it takes longer to wash. But I chose to go along with using the cloth. I spread it on the table and arranged my tiffin and made some tea. When I was having my dinner, it was then that I recalled the vision and the order of events. I was supposed to have this dinner in this same manner it seems. But even if I had it in a messy way, it wouldn't have been a huge deal for me, though my logical self (left brain) likes this way better, while the messy way pertains to my right brain. The creative self (right brain) is messy, and the logical self (left brain) is organized. Now how you happen to behave depends on which side is dominant in a given instant. I don't look down on myself or others for being messy in the way they do stuff as long as the end product is neat.

And while I was writing the above, I heard in my Spirit: Jo socha tha ye vahi nikli. Everything was true. She turned out who I thought she was. She is everything I thought she was.

The chorus part of the following song has also been playing in my Spirit intermittently today since late morning.

Liquid Fire

I've written below what I understood of the song's chorus.

….. through the rain..
Missing clothes, feel my pain..
Now I'm here in the game..

Welcome to: Liquid Fire.

There you're not the same..
Look around …..
All along feeling estranged..
Time to bring: Liquid Fire.

The song warns about the liquid fire of eternal hell where people burn for eternity without clothes. It points to the fate these people are headed to in the absence of repentance and changed self. Their fate lies in the lake of liquid fire where souls burn for eternity if they don't take a U-turn from their current path.

As I lay in my bed, the chorus of the following song sung by the guy played in my spirit as well.

Jo Bhi Kasmein (lyrics) music

Later in the evening, I'm talking to my injured mom who got hit by my dad in a fight last late evening after a day of continued altercations. She got a black eye and a cut on the eyebrow above that filled her right eye with blood which reminded me of the dream I had the previous day from the fight in which my mom was represented as an extremely lean and thin lady dressed in a deep red tunic as she lay on a grassy ground with her right eye bleeding and blood falling down on the ground though he eye was intact and blood seemed to ooze out from its inner corner.

I know that talking to me gives her healing as after I had talked to her for a long duration, I saw the vision of her moving around joyfully looking healed. And it was perhaps after I had talked to her a few more times that I saw her moving around with a light pink love-shaped heart - a foot or so in dimension - held intact in her hands as she moved joyfully around. Apparently, it was broken but I helped join it together. This happened because I understood her and gave her validation, and this is also what I had heard in my spirit after I talked to her once after the incident: Give her validation. Give her validation. I knew that it leads to healing as it clears up the cognitive dissonance and paves the way for the truth thereby pouring healing when it's given with love.

And I saw how previously she was constantly talking about her painful situation with a hurt expression, she suddenly became silent and her expression changed to normal as if she had received instant healing I iterated her exact situation and how she felt and she nodded. I knew at that moment that my words had brought healing to that particular emotional wound.

And then I was sharing with her how Bhuvan put the thin chain he previously had around his neck around Meera's neck as a symbol of commitment before they got actually married. He did it in the beginning itself when they got together at IIT. And I shared how Meera praised him a lot in front of me. She said that she was his first girlfriend and she was the one he was certain that he wanted to marry. He hated her talking about the previous guy she was with and who had broken up with her. That guy had kept things a secret and also told her to not put things out in the open yet for some reason. She told me how he never looked at other women lustfully. She said that he saw her alone in all women and that he often asked her to not smile openly in front of other guys for it made him insecure.

As I was done writing the above, I heard the following in my spirit:
She has an excellent background you know..

When she told me about him, I felt that this was the kind of guy she indeed deserved because of who she was. It didn't come as a surprise for me for he behaved in a way that came naturally to us and we expected people to be like that for we never became friends with fornicators and adulterers. Tejaswi was the only wicked person she allowed in her life because she didn't know about his lifestyle until a certain point in time. It was after he had stayed in her home for a few days when he came to Delhi that she noticed a few things about him as he was making inviting gestures with his eyes that she later shared with me. And it was then also he shared the full truth about his persona after which she had told him to not even think in her case how he operated with his other female friendships. In response to this, he had acted sad as he lowered his head and said in a low and quiet tone: Why will I think that way about you?, while to me he told that his reasons behind being friends with Meera were obvious (because she was a woman!). That promiscuous man had slept with almost all his friends. Perhaps Meera was the only one who got spared situationally as she placed a boundary beforehand for their friendship to continue. That was the only wicked person she had in her close circle though she didn't support and like his wickedness or way of life. He was good at covering up his immoral lifestyle with a hypocritical cloak of false righteousness.

After I wrote the above, I heard: That's how we all are.

Tejaswi was the only immoral person I suppose that she put up with. We were used to live with a mindset high in morality and we looked down on those who didn't follow the common sensically understood righteous standard of behavioural operation and we stayed away from them – be they poor or rich.

Bhuvan didn't come as a surprise to me as a man whom Meera deserved. He was humble and intelligent and also a devout follower of Krishna like her. So they had matching doctrines that they followed. But they were false doctrines and were leading them to Hell.

The lady sings:
Thinking you could live without me..
Thinking you could live without me..

Found you when your heart was broke..
I filled your cup until it overflowed..
Took it so far to keep your close..
I was afraid to leave you on your own..

I said I 'll catch you if you fall..
And if they laugh then f*ck them all..

And then I got you off your knees
Put you right back on your feet..

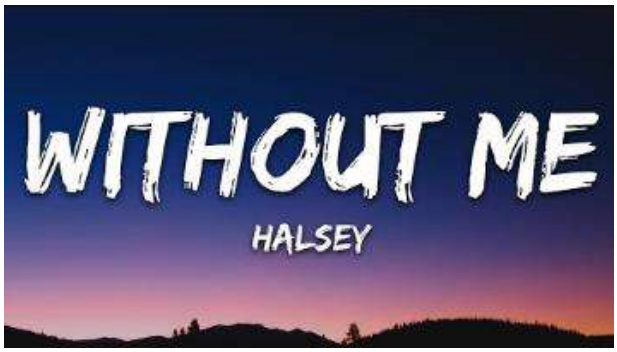
Just so you could take advantage of me.

Tell me how does it feel sitting up there..
Feeling so high but too far away to hold me.

You know I'm the one who put you up there..
Name in the sky does it ever got lonely..

Thinking you could live without me..
Thinking you could live without me..

Halsey - Without Me (Lyrics)



The above has been playing intermittently in my spirit within the past week. Some days stronger than others.

Well, I didn't intend to leave Meera but I blocked her to not hurt me covertly and then she was supporting people like Tejaswi just because he knew some additional lies pertaining to false doctrines.
She did heal me. I was broken after I blocked the immoral man Tejaswi and I contacted her after long and shared with her my pain and she supported me and showed me love. She invited me to her home and had me meet Bhuvan as well. Both of them extended themselves to me to help me heal. Bhuvan would also talk to me on the phone listening to all the things that kept running constantly in my mind as this was the first time I had come across such a disordered personality and I was looking at everything under the new light of the knowledge of Psychopathy. I needed validation and I needed an empathetic ear. Meera listened to me as well, but he too listened to me at times. Both were good moral people. He told me that he said All The Best to Tejaswi for pursuing his conquest of search for The Truth while portraying himself as someone great and revolutionary while he was living the wrong way! He didn't have much interaction with him.

Both of them helped me heal and come out of my broken state as we used to be in constant touch on a daily basis in our WhatsApp group. They treated me as their little baby which was also the group's display picture that Meera put up: The back of two young parents dressed in white t-shirts with a print that was the identical mirror reflection of the other. The print at the back was that of a gardening watering can with its nozzle sprinkling water towards the tiny baby who sat in the middle dressed in a tiny white t-shirt. So he was being watered by both parents. It didn't have any perverted meaning. We didn't give perverted meaning to things and neither did we make such jokes. Both of them were too caring for me.

But then I left because Meera made some statements about immoral Tejaswi that I didn’t like.

Perhaps this makes her think of me as is reflected in the song above. But after Bhuvan left her, did she reach out to me when she was in pain? She didn't do that. At least I reached out to her when I was in pain. She never thought I was wise or mentally equipped enough to provide the required emotional support to her. That's how she made me feel. And then I recall her rebuking me once when I stayed in RGHG hostel for not reaching out to her when I was struggling with depression as she had reasoned that that's what her role was and I was obliged to contact her and share whatever problems I was facing with her. She made me feel guilty for not sharing the difficult mental phase that I went through when I was seeing Aastha and was struggling with intrusive thoughts of violent imageries. Then why did she not apply the same logic to her own self? Why didn't she reach out to me in a manner which was as straightforward as mine? And then she feels the way written above in the song. One additional reason I had blocked her after Tejaswi was because she had begun to play mind games now. Well, when I had reached out to her and shared everything with her, she told me that I was the purest person she ever met in her life. (I thought It was the biggest compliment I received from her.) Then why did she not continue choosing a pure way to interact with me instead of playing mind games?

Staying the same is a part of Godly holiness. God never changes. He is the same yesterday, today and tomorrow. Then why should she expect me to change according to the world and be a bit clever in worldly terms when I am called to be Holy and pure by God? Why should I say something with a different outlook than what is intended? Or why should I cover my communication up with an unnecessary layer that causes confusion and leads to a lack of transparency and causes confusion? Why should I talk in deceptive ways? Why did she expect me to be okay with such treatment and behavior? I still value the same values though I have become more tolerant and forgiving of other people's bad behavior. However, that doesn't mean that I condone sin either. I choose to forgive and give correction-based rebuke and now it comes easier to me to forgive which is what I think God wanted to teach me through this exercise in my life which has also made Him known to several other people. If she had maintained transparency and hadn't become that deceptive person who would tolerate someone like Tejaswi, I wouldn't have left.

Bhadakti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai..

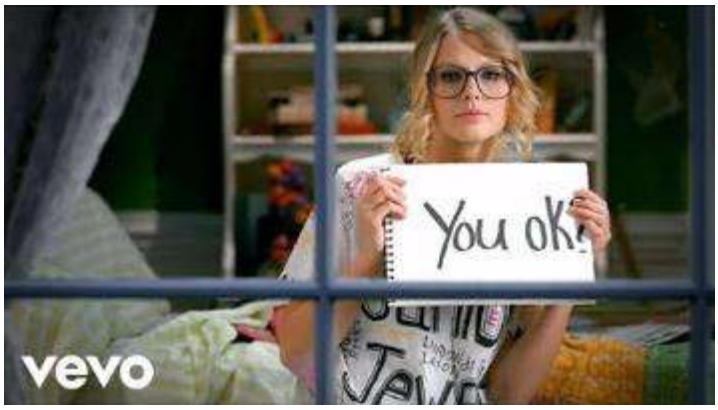
Past Revelations

- (Past week) This Taylor Swift song began playing in my Spirit out of nowhere somewhere within the past week or earlier and I don't really know the context of it but I hope it talks to someone.
  The lady sings:
  You're on the phone with your girlfriend, she's upset.
  She's going off about something that you said..
  She doesn't get your humor like I do..
  I'm in a room, it's atypical Tuesday Night
  I'm listening to the kind of music she doesn't like
  She'll never know your story like I do..

  And the following lyrics were highlighted to me:
  The lady continues:
  'She wears short skirts, I wear t-shirts.'
  She's a cheer captain and I'm on the bleachers

  This reminded me of Mukesh who was once singing She wears short skirts, I wear t-shirts to me on the phone. But that's a different incident. This song was playing in my Spirit today as well and the above lyric again reminded me of the fellow singing it to me teasingly during the brief number of days that I talked to him on the phone before blocking him.

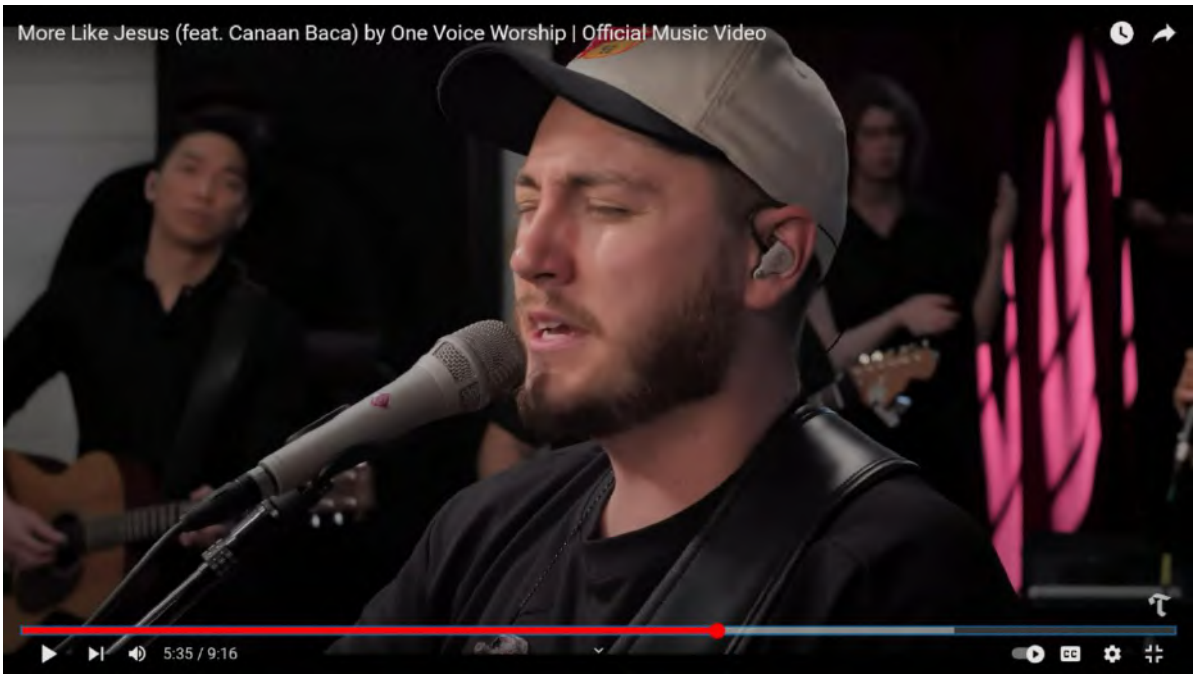
  Taylor Swift - You Belong With Me



- (Past few days) The following part from this Ad that I watched several years back was being highlighted repeatedly to me within the past few days.

In this part, the narrative voice of Madhuri Dixit makes the point that instead of teaching guys the notion that boys don't cry, what should be taught to them is the notion that boys don't make others cry.

- (Past few days) After watching the video of the Worship Song 'More Like Jesus', as I came across an Elon Musk screensaver that had randomly appeared on my phone's locked screen with him dressed in a shiny navy blue coat over a white shirt tucked inside black pants with a light stubble, it later highlighted to me the fact that guy in the Worship song is his doppelganger. And the part of the song in which he made the prophetic symbol was highlighted to me:



More Like Jesus (feat. Canaan Baca) by One Voice Worship | Official Music Video

After I wrote the above revelation, I saw:
The previous vision of the closeup view of the clean-shaven face of KA until slightly below the end if his neck with the collar of his white tunic visible in the vision as he taunts the viewer lightly with a mocking smile: Randi. Randi. I had this vision somewhere within the past two weeks.
A closeup semi-animated view of the face until slightly below his throat of a lightly bearded RS in a dark background with neck-length straight hair dressed in a deep purple sherwani as he says with an intense expression:
Duniya ki sabsi badi randi tu hi hai! Duniya ki sabse badi randi tu hi hai!

(After I've written the above, I hear a strong: I can marry you too. I can marry you too. But then later when I was in the washroom and had just turned the jet shower on after being done with pooping, I heard in my Spirit: You're too dirty for Elon.)

- The chorus and these lyrics from one of the stanzas of this song have been playing in my spirit intermittently for the past few days. (I knew that this song first played in my spirit several months back when certain lyrics kept repeating in my spirit, and I thought of adding subtitles to the full song as to me it represented the kingdom dance of Worship. So I began editing it and added subtitles to a part of it and I wanted to edit it the best way because it's such a pure and godly song and it represented people dancing in love worshipping God together with a pure heart. But then I got busy writing revelations and forgot to edit it fully. Back then some lyrics from the last stanza of the song kept repeating in my spirit for an extended period of days and I explained my understanding of the same on Page 153. And now the song began playing in my spirit again for the past few days with lyrics from the first stanza being highlighted. Kartika sab samajh gaye hai ki ye kya khel hai. Ye tune shuru nhi kiya. Ye bhagwan ne shuru kiya hai.)

The lady sings:
Tumhare siva kuch na chahat karenge..
Ke jab tak jiyenge mohabbat karenge..

As I wrote the above:
Phod dala.. Phod dala..

The song continues..
The Guy sings:
Ye dil chahta hai.. Tumhe pyaar karna..
Nazar chahti hai deedar karna..

The lady sings:
Tumhari wafa mein doobe rahe hum..
Hai kya haal dil ka ye kaise kahen hum..

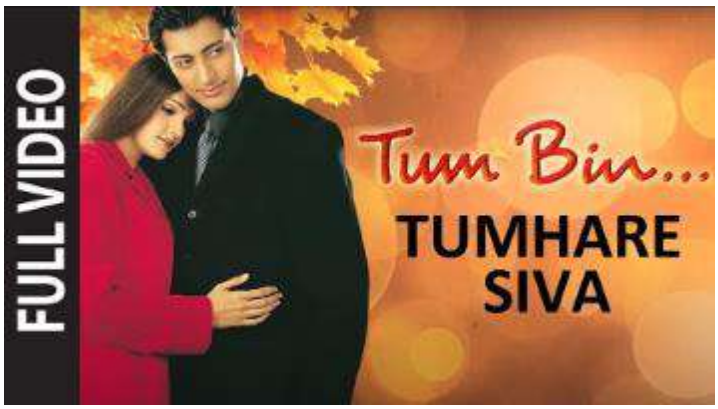
The Guy sings:
Mehekne lagega.. Ooo…

The lyrics below have played in my spirit several times now for a few days. (A scared dusky man turns his head to the left and says: Ab hum kya karenge bhai..)

Mehekne lagega badan ye tumhara..
Hum aankhon se aisi shararat karenge..

(Well, it made me think of how I only fragrant once in a week unlike the first time that I heard this song several months back when I was bathing almost regularly while now I find it too stressful. The lyrics sound quite ironic to me.)

The Guy sings:
Tumhare siva kuch na chahat karenge..
Ke jab tak jiyenge mohabbat karenge..
Tumhare Siva (Full Video) | Tum Bin | Himanshu Malik, Sandali Sinha | Anuradha Paudwal, Udit Narayan



As I was done writing the above, I heard:
Phaad khaya.. Phaad khaya..

When I was looking up the song in my early records, and then later was listening to it a while back, I heard in my Spirit:

Vo tujhe phodne aa raha hai Kartika. Vo tujhe phodne aa raha hai Kartika.
This reminded me of the visions that followed the green light communion visions with Jesus. They had a naked Glory hitting my head with a rod/tube light repeatedly as I lay on my side and then he was hitting my legs. Well, only time will tell how things unfold.

- (Past 48 hours) The bottom view of my dad hitting the top of my forehead viciously with a danda.

We all were once like you.. We all were once like you.. (Past 24 hours)

Well, we are called to stay the same. It's a part of being godly just nature - God's creation with its unchanging natural laws that are under God's control.

Last night as I turned on the bed and lay straight on my back, I heard: Kartika don't behave like a prostitute. We know you're not one. But I didn't understand how I behaved like a prostitute.

Morning
I felt this nudge to buy a cross pendant a few days back.

As I wrote the above, I heard: Oh God. She knows everything.
And a while back, when I edited the initial part of the dream in which I was sliding up Akhila's skirt over her waist revealing her belly's skin/area as she stood in front of a mirror, I heard: B*tch knows everything!

I didn't look up for a pendant that day though, but I had it somewhere in my mind. This morning, as I lay in bed after waking up, I felt like removing the cross bracelet on my wrist and begin wearing a neck pendant instead. I felt like stretching and breaking apart the pendant and throwing it ahead in front of me as I saw a vision of me doing so repeat a few times for some reason. And I felt a nudge to buy a neck pendant. I don't know why I suddenly had this vision. I began trying to open it but I kept getting the nudge to break it open with a jerk and throw it ahead of me. But I couldn't. I love and respect Jesus. I exerted some tension and it broke open and I put it at a side instead of throwing it ahead on the floor in front of me.

Some around this time, perhaps before I removed the bracelet and was lying in bed post waking up, I saw:

- A thin metallic cross pendant resting on the dusky naked front of a guy who when the vision expands is revealed to be the neck of the wheatish/dusky man from the trio. The vision expands and the guy behind him is shown to be wearing the same cross pendant. The vision expands and the naked men with one slightly bulkier than the other are revealed to be standing in a golden-lit environment wearing that plain cross pendant around their necks. Some meters behind them to the left is revealed to be standing the short guy facing to the right dressed in a full-sleeved light skyblue top over trousers. It seems that he's not wearing a cross pendant while the other two chose to wear the same.

It's hard for me to believe at first because it's always a huge thing when people accept Christ in their lives and then it makes sense to me when I look at the song revelation with the trio in red and white and the lady. Well, I feel happy that they chose Christ. Both of them seem to be tied in a strong committed bond reflected in that pendant.

Their pendants reminded me of Bhuvan removing the thin brown chain from around his neck and putting it around Meera's when they decided to be together. But now when I wrote the above, it reminded me of the naked Rose from Titanic wearing just that pendant and getting sketched. And it also makes me think how they got those pendants there in the first place that they are donning so lovingly. Is it me who put those pendants around their necks because I am not the one who follows Christ here? As I saw those pendants around their necks, my heart experienced an abrupt change for them and they seemed to remind me of Bhuvan's exhibited character. Or was it me who put that on them? Because I too am capable of doing what Bhuvan did in that moment of committing to Meera. I wasn't really sure and then I recalled this nudge that I had a few days back to buy a cross pendant for myself though I didn't look for one. In the vision, the two besides the short fellow are wearing the pendants as the real-life avatar of Raju from the trio stands to the right of the bulkier man. I haven't had a lot of revelations about him.

- The follow-up vision shows a semi-animated vision of the giant version of the trio standing to my bed's right with two of them standing naked wearing just the cross pendant though they didn't look obscene as they were shown as fully beige with no obscene details highlighted. They go back in the background as the short fellow steps forward and stands huge close to my right as he says shamelessly to me in an oppressive tone: I will abuse you alone! I will abuse you alone!
- The side-view of the naked upper half until the shoulders of the bulkier dusky man lying on top of the naked upper half until the shoulders of a woman with her tied low at the back on my bed as his cross pendant rests below the woman's throat. He quickly removes his pendant and puts it around the neck of the woman.
- The follow-up vision shows them again in the same posture as the cross pendant gets absorbed inside the woman's chest.
- The duo stand together with the pendants around their necks in a golden-lit environment and though their naked upper halves until the shoulders are shown, they are not emanating a wicked aura but they stand emanating a strong sense of bonding. And the leaner one behind the bulkier one stands with his head bent slightly low as he looks around in a slightly confused manner.

The Guy sings:
Agar tum na milte to hum jee na paate..
Kise apna kehte kaha dil lagate..

Ref: The Bollywood song Tumhare Siva

- The pendant visions come with such a strong sense of unbreakable commitment that it changes my outlook of them at once though they are naked in the vision because I'm looking at who they are portrayed to be in the revelation and not their outer appearance.
- I can sense the strong aura of an everlasting covenant bond in the vision of them standing like that. They emanate such a holy aura in the vision. This morning I had these visions out of nowhere.
- Somewhere in the middle, they both suddenly pulled broke the pendants as they quickly threw them in my direction and rushed backwards to stand with Death Conqueror, as the duo stood together facing to the left while the short fellow stood facing them to the right, as the bulkier one at the front exclaimed to me while throwing the pendant at me: Tu kutiya hai! I didn't understand why it came across as something threatening. It's the other way to be that should be seen as undesirable!

After I had these visions, I thought of looking up for cross pendants, not because of the visions but because I had been feeling this nudge for a while but I didn't act on it. I began looking for one on Flipkart. And after a while, I came across one that looked exactly like the one I had seen in my vision. It had a thin metallic chain with a sleek cross with the entire pendant carrying a light brass look. I was looking for a sleek pendant and this was the only one that I found online as others were a bit bulkier and fancy. What are the odds that the only sleek pendant I happened to like also resembled the one the duo was wearing in the vision? And then I saw that the minimum order quantity was three. Again, what are the odds that the only sleek pendant I find resembles the one I saw in the vision and the minimum number of it that can be ordered is three? I knew that I would be using one of them and therefore would be having two spare pendants thereby paving the way for the vision. But that's not what I thought while ordering though I was aware of the vision. I thought I could give or gift the pendants to someone else who too is willing to follow Christ or if that person happens to like the pendants.

It seemed such a holy thing to do to me. I can give the pendants to the duo as well because why should anyone be deprived of the love of Christ? God's love is for everyone. They would look so awesome wearing those pendants as a symbol of their commitment to Jesus and it would remind them of me as well through whom they got to know Jesus with such closeness.

After I wrote the above paragraph, I saw:

- The upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a black suit with him hitting the top of my head with a danda repeatedly as he repeats in synchrony with the hits: Mein bahut accha hu. Mein bahut accha hu. Mein bahut accha hu.
  Did he feel left out? I only had two extra pendants. It was very much like their entire persona was shown as changed with the pendants resting against their chests.

After the vision in which Death Conqueror said that he would abuse me alone, I saw him standing alone as he said shamelessly and boldly, "I am doing this alone. I am doing this alone. I am doing everything alone."

After a while of me having the pendants' visions, I get up from the bed and go out to buy milk and I am feeling too hurt as I hear in my spirit myself saying while sobbing: Mein tere paas kabhi nahi aungi. Mein tere paas kabhi nahi aungi.
And apparently, I'm saying it to Death Conqueror.

When I am back to my room and continue with my day, I see:
The daughter of old Amma stands outside her rented apartment on the left side near the other end of the corridor facing its open door as she says looking inside: Ye tere paas kabhi nhi ayegi. Ye tere paas kabhi nhi ayegi. And she's referring to me.

The vision repeats intermittently throughout the day.

Later in the day when I am working on my Laptop, I see:

- Elon Musk dressed in a brown suit looking dusty walks to me in my room as he says gently: I can be dirty for you. I can be dirty for you.

The upper half of Glory as he says crying: Kartika tu had se jyada nalayak hai!

- The short fellow dressed in a full-sleeved light sky blue top over trousers near the ceiling to my bed's right in front of the entrance door as he looks down at me sitting on the bed and says a blunt: Mein tujhse pyaar nhi karta. Mein tujhse pyaar nhi karta.

- Well, previously within the past day I had heard the above followed by: Mein tujhse bahut jyada pyaar karta hu. And now this was getting repeated to me. I don't love you. I don't love you.

I heard it a few times afterwards as well.

Currently, this song plays in my Spirit and it began playing a while back on its own.

Pyaar Tune Kya Kiya || Song by | Alka Yagnik and Sonu Nigam || /April 2020

Late during the night, after I returned from buying two cups of curd, this past event was being highlighted to me in which Meera told Tejaswi strictly to not even think of fornicating with her and he agreed covertly. Meera was brought up in Delhi and she was a very disciplined and sincere person. She absorbed the deceptiveness of the place but she had her morals intact and then she had a spiritual inclination she seemed to possess naturally but it didn't seem natural to me at all as I couldn't perceive it. It had to be experienced and understood, in whichever order one happened to come across the reality of it, and finally accept it.

I talked to my mom intermittently throughout the day to keep a tab on her situation because of the injury she received the previous day. And while I was talking to her in the morning, my youngest brother came in and began interjecting. As I continued talking to my mom, I kept seeing:

- The upper half until the shoulders of Divyanshu dressed in his dark cyan fluffed jacket (his attire from the previous day of the accident) as he was trying to stop me from speaking by putting his hand on my mouth as he said: Chup kar. Chup kar. with an oppressive expression. He didn't want me to talk to Mom for some reason. I figured that it was because I speak the truth and highlight the things of real importance unlike him who justifies just anything unreasonably. He knows that my words are true and they say the right thing and he often says that it's because of me that Mom gets depressed as I plant thoughts in her mind which is just not true because I am a healing spot for my mom as I understand her situation in the right moral context unlike him who only talks about work running smoothly and doesn't so much care about the family's moral stance. He would highlight Himanshu's past drug addiction as a fault though he has gotten over it to a great extent now, but would dim down dad's and his own undesirable behavior.

He doesn't like me talking to my mom for extended durations because he thinks I fill her mind with words against Dad and mislead her. But he himself said once that he didn't care about the truth but only wanted things to run smoothly on the surface. His referring to my misleading mom is him saying that I give her a perspective of truth which according to him shuffles things up. While in actuality, my bringing the truth in front of her eyes and giving her the right godly perspective brings gealing to her because her perception is not corrupt unlike him. She can discern right from wrong, good from evil. And she doesn't put it above one's vocation which he was doing in Dad's case as he justified his actions because of the fact of him being the family's provider.

During the day, I shared some Bible scriptures in the Family group. Later in the evening, I saw:
The upper half of Divyanshu until his shoulders dressed the same as he looked down with lowered eyes moving sideways as he said quietly (or thought within himself in real life): Baat to sahi hai.. Baat to sahi hai..

He had now perhaps read the scriptures and couldn't find a way to morally refute them which shows that he's not a reprobate because when confronted with the moral truth, he gave heed to it because he saw that it had meaning and he gave it a thought as he understood that perhaps he might be missing a dimension of thinking making him reject the Bible without reading it. He has his moral sense working well though he doesn't use it with me well for some reason!

The scriptures I shared in the group were the following.

Deuteronomy 21:18-21

Amplified Bible

Revelations from a while back as I lay to sleep:

Before I laid down:

- Phod dala.. Phod dala..
- Khol dala.. Khol dala..

After I laid to sleep.

- The Lady sings:
  Humein apne dil mein basaya hein tumne..
  Mohabbat ke kaabil banaya hai tumne.

- The upper half of Abhishek Bachchan dressed in a thick beige full-sleeved top with a round neck and wide round brown buttons along the vertical center.
- Govinda dressed in a thick red and white jacket hands me a cross pendant as he says that he doesn't want it and leaves.
- A guy dressed in a fluffed white jacket stops in the middle with another guy behind him as the former guy is looking through binoculars to the right as he says: Chal dekhte hai kya hota hai! before rushing away to the left with that guy.

Divyanshu Stabs Mom's Right Eye

- The following vision has my youngest brother Divyanshu standing facing my mom with a knife lifted horizontally and pointed towards her previously injured right eye that's bleeding out now as he has stabbed it.

8:52
Last night when I was writing the above: Kartika tu phootne waali hai.

Past Revelations

- (Past month) I was lying resting in bed when I saw: The naked upper half of the beige Bollywood celebrity Randeep Hooda on the right end of a cemented bathtub as he looks at me and says a gentle: Thank you after which when is shown him moving in that tub with his newly wed fair wife Lin Laishram with some water present inside.
- (Past three months) Randeep Hooda dressed in a black suit over a white shirt hands out a rose to me as he says a gentle and quiet: I Love You followed by him dropping a brief kiss on my lips after which his wife appears and he turns away from walks away slowly with her arms in arms.
- (Past three weeks) A lightly sobbing face of Richa Chadha as she says: Kartika you're not who I thought you were. Kartika you're not who I thought you were.

- (Past week) Randeep Hooda dressed in a full-sleeved shirt over pants with a long wand wide half jacket with a black and white floral print stands to the right of the door as he extends a red rose in my direction and says: I Love You.
- (Past week) The face of Glory as he says: Mujhe teri jaisi wife hi chahiye thi. Mujhe teri jaisi wife hi chahiye thi.
- (Past few days) A smaller Death Conqueror dressed in a white cotton tunic set stands near the ceiling as he looks down at me and says: I wish I was your husband. I wish I was your husband. And then I hear a lady's voice whisper: I wish I was lying naked with you.. It didn't represent my heart state when I looked inside because that's not how I would want to think about another man if I was already married. And that's not where I would want to be either.
- (Past few days) I'm having oats from a bowl filling my spoon by dragging it along the cooler surface and then I hear: Shyaani ke chakkar mein nahi padna chahiye tha! Shyaani ke chakkar mein nahi padna chahiye tha!

Post Waking Up

- The face of Ryan Gosling as Ken covered with a black hood in a dark background.
- He stands facing to the right dressed in a sleeveless metallic armour in the open as he trembles slowly at his position in an unstable manner. He is then revealed to be having a baby standing at his left-hand side whom he throws away to the right. He flies straight through the air and it seems that he is going to hit the ground but he lands inside a plastic meshed rectangular basket.
- The face of Ryan Gosling with a diamond structure fixed on top of his forehead with the diamond fixed in the middle at the top of his forehead.
- Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic set with an open yellow half jacket on top sits on top of a black jeep moving along the service lane facing the Ganda Nala to the right as seen from the road adjoining the Nala as he lifts up a hand as some kind of vicious victorious gesture while several dark and moustached men dressed identically in uniforms that seemed to belong to a terrorist organization surrounded and walked with him carrying rifles, filling all space around his Jeep. He seemed to be feeling too powerful in that setting and he looked wicked with black eyes as he lifted his hand up and it made me nauseous.

Well, Christians are not narrow-minded bigots as true Christians stand for God's holy principles and they hate sin. They are called to walk on the narrow path with an open mind towards the Holy Spirit.

Christians are Narrow-minded Bigots

During the day when I enter the washroom to use it:
Duniya ki sabse badi kutiya tu hi hai. Duniya ki sabse badi kutiya tu hi hai.

Earlier during the day, I found the following lyrics playing in my spirit intermittently throughout the day.
The lady sings:
Sazaa rab jo dega.. Oooo..
Sazaa rab jo dega.. Vo manjoor humko..
Ke ab hum tumhari ibaadat karenge..

Evening
I am sitting on the bed and I feel a breath of air around my nose or jaw and I move my face away and then I see: The naked upper half of the dusky and bulkier man a few feet above to my left as he shouted angrily in a go in a stuffed tone: Agar chhod ke gayi to jaan se maar denge! Agar chhod ke gayi to jaan se maar denge!

When I was having evening tea communion and happened to drop a drop of tea on my jacket, and felt a bit embarrassed, I heard in my Spirit: Everything he hates about you, Glory loves.

After communion, I lay down to rest and when I cover myself fully with the blanket, I see:
- The trio from the song Tumhare Siva in red and white say together: Hum tujhse bahut pyaar karte hai.
- The trio put a golden crown on my head one after the other as they say: You're our queen.
- The upper halves of the trio dressed in red suits over white shirts appear inside the blanket a few feet above me as they put a flower garland each around my neck one after the other.

After I wrote the above, I heard in my spirit:
Khyati dahaad dahaad ke has raha hai.. Khyati dahad dahad ke has raha hai.. And it repeated the next day again as well while I was moving around the balcony area doing something.

- The vision is followed by the vision of the face of an idol of a Hindu goddess wearing those garlands.
- The follow-up vision shows the goddess fully dressed in a fluffed saree sitting on a tiger standing facing to the left with the face of Death Conqueror flashing on top of the tiger's face, as two dusky naked men lay on the floor in front of her with their heads lifted up to her looking at her.

As I wrote the previous sentence, I heard: Bhula dena mujhe..

The revelations continued:
- The top view of my dad lying on the ground as blood oozes out of the top of his forehead. He is shown as being shorter in height than his real self and is dressed in a white cotton tunic set.
- The face of my mom with a burst right eye in a dark background as she says: Bete Divyanshu ne meri aankh phod di. Bete Divyanshu ne meri aankh phod di.

- The upper half of Shekhar from the movie Tum Bin dressed in his attire from the song Tumhare Siva on top of a green leaf amidst a group of leaves on a branch in a night background as the green leaf with the hero's upper half touches my lips while I lay on my side.

As I kept lying, I recalled seeing a post on Glory's FB timeline in which he had shared an opening for a PhD in Astrophysics abroad. And it was before or around the time that I had joined my PhD program. And then I thought about how because of this short fellow I am about to quit my PhD degree after spending around 6 years. He has opposite traits from this wicked man. It was for doing a PhD in Astrophysics that I had taken admission in Physics Hons in the first place. What are the odds that he shared it coincidentally just like the odds of him standing beside the HOD office and him standing with his head bent low meters away from the lean and thin woman with smooth straight hair? He embodies Jesus in a way.

While I wrote the above, I saw:

- A tiny vision of the fat and bald middle man from Vijay Nagar Single Storey on the service lane in front of the Nala Road as he stands inside the small hall at his home's entrance and says to Glory in his usual casual affirmative tone: Pyaar karti hai ye tujhse. Pyaar karti hai ye tujhse.

I felt like ordering something from Swiggy and ended up choosing donuts as a Christmas treat.

While I was having it moving in the narrow kitchen space, I saw:
I am standing in front of the dusky and bulkier guy from the trio who's dressed in dressed in multilayered western clothes and I seem to know him in the sense that I feel familiar because of the revelations. His face is not clearly visible in the vision but a bit blurry. And then I ask him in a plain blunt tone: Would you marry me? And then he walks away slowly to the short fellow and tells him that I asked him to marry me and how it was quite easy for me and I said it in a casual tone. It seems to them a huge thing. I don't receive an answer in the vision.

And when I was done writing the above, I heard the following lyric play again:
Sazaa rab jo dega..

And after I was done writing the above, I heard: Kartika tune unka brainwash kar diya. But I didn't do it. When I had that revelation while having that donut, I felt a sense of continued godly commitment already present and that's why I asked that question as I could understand.

Well, the word Ibaadat is Urdu for Worship and we are not called to worship anyone else other than the Most High God. What are the ways in which you end up worshipping a person? You give them your time, praise, and mental space more than you give God which you're not supposed to do, and when because of that person, you are willing to go against the Will of God made known to you. That's the way you end up worshipping another over God. But that's not what I want to do or will do, though I may have divergent thoughts. I can rebuke them and choose to walk in the Will of God. And so it holds true for everyone else.

Since yesterday, the piano melody at the beginning of the song Bepanah Pyaar Tujhse has been playing in my spirit intermittently. And after I was done writing the above para, I heard the song play in my Spirit.

You see, after I had blocked Tejaswi and was working on my healing, I had begun journalling in the Notebook App in order to vent and heal. But I didn't know that people were reading it. How did they get to know about it in the first place? It was around 2016 and 2017 and somewhere in my Notebook I wrote that I always wanted to do a PhD in Astrophysics and that that's why I chose to do Physics Hons. And how someone like Tejaswi would feel nothing after ruining a person's life's plan they set out to follow with a whole heart from a long time ago. And then after some months, I saw that PhD position to apply for on his timeline.

Somewhere above while I was writing about him sharing that PhD position on his timeline, I saw:
KA says in an affirmative tone nodding his head lightly: He loves you, Kartika.. He loves you, Kartika..

23:52
Vision (past few minutes): The lady from the song Tumhare Siva dressed in her light orange dress with a low side slit stands facing the viewer as the trio dressed in red and white stand behind her hugging her in a line, with the bulkiest guy representing the bulky dusky guy from the trio standing right behind her with his arms around her waist as the other two men stood behind him with their arms extended forward along his in a hug.

(Past 48 hours) I was making tea during the day when I saw:
The upper half of Death Conqueror in a black and white suit above me near the ceiling as he turns his face to the left and says: She has brainwashed us. She has brainwashed us.
And he repeats it for a while. But why would I brainwash anyone? I don't even know how to brainwash. I mean I myself got brainwashed by Tejaswi into Hinduism once - the only time I got brainwashed. But I got so because I had empirical proof as I meditated and saw the closed third eye or the eye of devil. So, parts of what he said were backed up by my own personal experience.

Indeed, one's mind needs to be washed every day as it needs to be sanctified little by little every day as one grows in intimacy with Jesus. I didn't intend to brainwash anyone. I did pray that he gets saved back in 2020 because that's the one thing that revolved in my mind as I used to keep Sabbaths. I couldn't think of anything else to pray for him. That he gets saved would be the best thing that could happen to him And then I had just begun to hear from God and therefore I knew how important the question of salvation was. Because no one should see eternal hell. I don't even want to imagine.

As I was done writing the above, I heard in my spirit:
Masih nidhaal soedaar chalte dekha hai…
Bhadakti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai..

24 December 2023

Yesterday late evening
I was sitting in bed and writing revelations when I felt an immediate need to pray to God and spend quality time with Him. So I left my laptop as it was on my lap on top of the quilt and sat with my eyes closed. I am paraphrasing ahead what I said to Him. I said that despite my situation, it was Him that I loved wholeheartedly and I would never want to side with the devil. I was talking the way Job did in his time of affliction when he sat alone and said things to God. I said that what I had gone through was so against His Holy values and that it had reached up to my soul and that it was affecting me at a deep level though it may not be quite apparent. I told Him that because of the situation, I am not able to implement a Holy way of life to the extent that I ideally would have. I told Him to help me to give me further strength and I said several things as well sharing my agony with Him.

What was highlighted to me afterwards was a perspective that looked down at the earthly reality of things from a frame of reference that was outside of time. It required me to mentally get out of my situation and look at things on Earth from the perspective that whatever was happening on that small blob was within a small fragment of time that was entirely insignificant because of its nature that was outside of the frame that I was in. It seemed that I was looking at things from an eternal perspective being outside of time that was detached from my time on Earth. It was as if when one stepped into that frame of reference of eternity, the events and happenings on Earth seemed meaningless and constricted and confined within time because the frame that I was brought in didn't have a sense of time. In that frame, there was no beginning and there was no end. And I saw that I, the one who was mentally stuck within the confinements of how time is experienced on Earth, was actually the being who observed me from that detached reality. I looked down at the golden flat surface below me on which moved tiny people, and events were shown occurrences as disturbances in that golden space below, and I was not the person in that golden environment but I was the one who was observing it from above and I was an eternal being.

Before I got into this state, I was reminding God of how I was detached from reality and was already outside of the earthly way of perceiving things as I recalled walking along the street to the left of the Vishwavidyalaya Metro Station. I recalled the heavy floral bush or perhaps a leafy branch of a tree that rested against the wall and how I felt at that moment. It was because of how I was perceiving things at that moment that the memory of the place got stored in my brain. It was almost dark. I don't know what I was doing there. Perhaps I was taking a walk as there was a time when I had a strong sense of perception that told me that I could almost reach out of the space that I was seeing and that what I was seeing wasn't what existed in entirety but that there laid a reality that I was perceiving mentally everywhere I looked and inside every person that I looked of which they themselves weren’t aware of for their minds were completely occupied with their worldly life, events, and places. During those days, I often used to take solitary walks just to look around as I sensed the underlying unseen reality. Another person's company would only distract me from going deeper into the unseen truth. Though I extended myself to others when needed, one knows the kind of things any person can talk about on Earth, and I knew that whatever they were going to say wasn't going to aid in my perception or lead to an increase in my understanding of the unseen that though being unseen was mentally perceptible. I liked to walk around. I felt as if I was searching for something that I could perceive but I didn't know what exactly it was that I was intriguing me. It permeated everything, every place, and every human or living or non-living being that existed. It was back during my BSc days when I wasn't yet staying in Miranda's hostel in my 3rd year.

As I was writing the above, I saw: the bald The Ancient One dressed in her multilayered mustard attire walking on the road with a light smile with her hands held together at the back.

So, in my prayer time, I was reminding God about how I was already out of the earthly reality and He knew everything, that how I used to think and perceive things. That how important it was for me to walk in the right way. I reminded Him that I was meant to come to Him looking back at my journey from several years ago. And it was then that He took me outside of time and helped me look at things from that frame and in that moment I saw the following paraphrased verse come to life: For My thoughts are not your thoughts and My ways - not your ways. I saw that He looked at things from outside of time. He was present outside of time and that He controlled time. (Wow..) He had created that sense of time that could be perceived by living beings to help them navigate the flow of their earthly life. And that detached frame was also the frame I was to enter in after I would leave Earth though I wouldn't be looking at Earth but would be with Him in that eternal frame in His kingdom. I saw how that sense of confinement within time served as a deception for the mind and inhibited it from entering into that other frame which would help the mind look at things from that eternal perspective.

Somewhere above as I wrote about how I was already out of the world in a way several years back, I saw:
A small-framed vision of Death Conqueror, dressed in a black suit with a white shirt inside and a tie in a dark background, turn his head to the left as he looked at the people present in that direction and said: She's a witch. She's a witch.

I thanked God for this revelation that was supposed to help me navigate my life on Earth. I saw how literally any situation could be endured and navigated through in such a mental state. And I saw how suffering too was but a deception for the mind constricted within that frame of confined time. But I made the statement under the assumption that the suffering person was saved and was to enter Heaven after leaving His earthly prison suit.

And as I wrote the above, I saw: A small-framed vision of Sis Adele dressed in her Bold Existence black polo t-shirt over trousers in a dark background as she said with a smile: Kartika who told you to be this smart!?

Because in the absence of that the suffering on Earth is nothing compared to the eternal suffering one would experience in Hell which too is very much equivalent of the previous state of being outside time but in an eternal state of torment and suffering with no end.

15:39
And then this past event in which I was perhaps moving back to my room from the Ultrasound center where I went after I experienced a sharp pain in my left ovary (and later a cyst was found formed because of an egg burst).

And now this song lyric plays in my spirit.
The lady sings: Pehli dafa use dekh kar.. hone laga kuch aisa asar.

Ref: The Bollywood song Pyar Tune Kya Kiya..

Ok. So, on my way back to my room, I saw a car pass by me with a dark man in the driver's seat who was looking at me with wide-open eyes as if he knew me. When that car had moved some distance ahead, I saw that there were three men sitting at the front with a short and lean person sitting in the middle between the other two on the driver and the conductor seat. Well, when I first happened to look at that fellow, I found the look in his eyes reflecting some amount of wickedness but not a lot. It was a confusing look because I didn't know that person and I didn't have enough info and perspective to make sense of the expression, but the short and thin fellow dressed in a full-sleeved white shirt whose back I spotted from behind looked extremely wicked when I had just looked at his back and not his face or the front and it ruined my time. His body language emanated such a wicked aura as he sat in the middle that I didn't have to look at his face or in his eyes to grasp what he carried inside of him.

And after I wrote the above, I heard the lady sing:
Bepanah pyaar tujhse.. Tu kyu jaane na.. followed by the melody of the song on keyboard as it is at the beginning of the song playing in my spirit.

An about an hour or so back while writing revelations, I saw:

- My mom strongly hits the top of my head with a danda. After a while, I saw the vision repeat with my dad doing the same and I could feel the danda's touch on top of my head though I didn't feel the pain.

Revelations while I was having my morning tea communion

- I am looking down at the golden reality again from a perspective that's outside of time. I see that it's God's perspective. I ask Him to give me more of His mind as I can see that my own mental perception no matter how seemingly idealistic would be incomplete without Him. I see that I will always be living in a delusion, a deception of the worldly reality without His perspective. So, I ask Him to replace my mind with His so I can look at things with a broad perception and see how His ways work out as seen from outside the worldly blob.
- I then see myself pouring pink liquid down from a steel jug with a pointed end along its outwardly curved edge. It's pouring down on two naked tiny men standing on the surface lit with the golden light. Apparently, they are the duo with the pendants who chose Christ.

As I wrote the above, I saw: KA's face as he says, "Police leke jayegi tujhe. Police leke jayegi tujhe."
"Kal tujhe Police leke jayegi."

- The follow-up vision has a dark brown man with ruffled hair pouring that liquid on them as the lady from the song Tumhare Siva stands beside Him dressed in the light orange dress from the song with her hair tied above in a high bun. She is shown to be of the same stature as the dark brown man and she pours down multicolored flowers from a huge steel plate in her hand onto the tiny duo standing below. The vision repeats a few times as the lady standing on the left-hand side of the huge man pours down flowers on the duo who seem to have already been ravished by the light pink outpouring. At this point, I don't feel anything for the short fellow. I am fed up with his abusive tactics!

Late Evening

While having the meal that I ordered online, I see:

The upper half of Glory as he says, "Toxic vo nahin, mein hu!" "Toxic vo nahin, mein hu!" This reminds me of the dream in which a fluffed CID Daya came to meet his wife's daughter. Was he represented as CID Daya because he is called to be merciful? I know that he is a loyal and faithful person and he knows right from wrong. But why would he hit me?

I know he has some problems with the way I dress because he finds it unholy though in my own eyes I am fully dressed as I'm wearing a thick and long black sweater and straight-fit denims which again are holy. But still, he always shows me a better way to dress. Not necessarily clean, but holier. A loose and boxy way to dress from neck to below one's ass.

So, while I was having my meal, I was thinking that I would ask him to sift through my clothes and choose the ones he found Holy for me to keep and throw the others! Because what else can I do!? I was imagining asking him about some clothes that I liked that if they were holy. But then I saw him cross-questioning me if I thought they were holy. Perhaps he was trying to teach my mind to choose clothing that's holy by default. I straight away could reject the short T-shirts because they didn't cover my ass which I previously wouldn't have cared about because in my mind I am covered below with pants or Jeans. And then I picked up my full-sleeved Bold Existence top which is long as well to ask him if it was Holy. It's quite loose as well. But I could see that he would make the point of its material being too thin. But then I reasoned that it's opaque and quite loose and additionally, I can wear a vest inside. And I like it very much because it's from Adele's ministry which is given to her by God. So, I reason that the clothes on her website are in a way designed by God so he can't question them! He can't question things I bought from her website but he can make the point that they don't look holy on my body type and I will understand.

I don't know. I never thought or felt I dressed in an unholy manner and I was guarded in my own mind so I expected others to be possessing the same mindset. I found people who revealed a lot of their skin unholy. That's how I used to think and those who dressed heavily in multi-layered clothes seemed stupid to me because it seemed illogical.

And then I also thought about how difficult it was to find Holy Western clothes because I sifted a lot through different online shopping websites for loose and long Western clothes but all seemed to miss the mark for me perhaps because of my size. I recalled how he was once exemplifying to me to wear long and loose clothing back in 2019 perhaps as he walked by dressed in a long and loose red sweatshirt with a wary expression. I only understood what he was telling me some years after that incident when I understood the difference between holy and unholy way of dressing. That day I was wearing my fitting sweater striped in blue and grey and I wanted a loose one but it was the biggest size and I was fat and I liked the print and that's why I had bought it. Back in those days, I had a tough time getting clothes that I liked in my size. And that sweater if not loose wasn't too tight either. It was a fitting sweater so I thought it was fine but I didn't know that people in the place sit idly in their cars looking at women passing by. I thought no one had time to spare to invest in such foolish idle activities. And if someone does so, he is degrading the quality of his own life by indulging in sin. I mean I worked to keep my mind holy and keep wicked thoughts that I knew were wicked out and I maintained a holy perspective, and I was busy and I didn't use to think that some lunatic would have enough time to glom over a random woman walking by – a very cheap act. And I knew that there were people of all types in this world, and why would I be in the company of such a man who has this sort of mind or a woman who wants others to think a certain way about her body? Now that blue and grey sweater is too loose on me as I lost weight and that's how I ideally wanted to fit into it.

Somewhere above I heard: Patriarchy is in their blood. And what was being referred to was toxic patriarchy and not godly patriarchy.

And once I was having tea with a guy from my batch. He had happened to catch me this day and we got talking and it was post MSc final exams and he was looking for a PhD and I was perhaps doing a project in the dept. He suggested us walking to a tea point that was further ahead to the one in front of Gate No. 4 as he said theirs was better. He was sharing about his recent interactions with our Astrophysics-I Prof regarding PhD which he didn't seem to be interested in. It was perhaps the first time I had talked to that length of time with him. And then I saw a lean and thin woman dressed in a top over a long flowing skirt with her hair tied low at the back pass by in front of us as we sat on the brick lane on the ground in front of the tea stall. I wasn't feeling too good in his company but I wasn't too bad either, but when I saw him deliberately gazing at the woman in front, I felt too repelled by him though it wasn't that he was looking at me previously, and I didn't want him to either. We sat on each other's side. That woman was dressed apparently holy though that's not how I perceived it back then because I perceived it as superfluous. So, I knew that it was more about one's mind than about the other person's outer garments. Now when I went outside a while back to buy a drink, I saw two women dressed in multilayered clothes with head wraps standing beside the Dinesh Store but they emanated such a fake aura. There was no real godliness of the inner self!

Some years back I bought long denim skirts because I wanted to dress holy and one of them was being highlighted to me within the past week but it's out of stock now. I was more comfortable wearing long denim skirts with a legging below instead of tunic sets because I'm not accustomed to them. So I tried buying Western holy clothes. I have always dressed in T-shirts, tops and denims or pants, and rarely in shirts. I recalled him once calling me Randi and it came as a shock to me and it was after a while that night when I went to the balcony that he revealed that it was because my tops or t-shirts are not long enough though in my own eyes I didn't see any problem. So I knew that he perhaps knew better than me about how women should dress. His several corrections made me too conscious. And now it makes me recall the vision in which the right half of a man dressed in a long and loose boxy light sky blue shirt was visible as he stood facing the viewer while some meters behind him stood Kareena Kapoor with an entirely flat front and her straight hair falling behind her back as she was sobbing lightly looking straight and not at him, being dressed in a sky blue slip with thin shoulder straps. And I had it in late 2021 or Early 2022. It was in Room D4 before I shifted with Akhila in D1.

That's the only problem I can think of for him to get angry with me which I already suggested the solution for. Yeah. Because I wanted a husband who would be more righteous than me or would be righteous in additional ways that I don't already know or can't perceive. Now when I look at my new clothes, all of them are holier than my previous set because I took care to buy not just according to the written quote, print, or style but other things in mind as well.

And while I wrote the above, I heard the lady sing in my Spirit:
Bepanah pyaar tujhse.. Tu kyu jaane na..
Hua ikraar tujhse.. Tu kyu maane na..

Vision while lying in bed earlier:
I am looking up at the sky and the surrounding tall and thin trees as a first person while I am lying in bed and I see two meters of dug ground above me. There is a lean and thin short boy of around 9-11 years old who is standing on the ground above at the left side of the grave and is looking down at me constantly. He swipes a scoop of mud on top using the axe in his hand but then he stops. He just stands there and keeps looking down. While I'm having this vision, I am thinking why is he not closing up the grave? If he dug the grave, he should close it soon as well!

And then it reminds me of the vision I had within the past two weeks in which I saw Jesus being lifted up on a cross in a dark background and it was followed by the words: You've already been crucified. Now you're awaiting your death. And the same repeats in my mind again.

- Some hours back I was seeing my dad hitting the top of my head viciously with a danda!
- Additionally, when he had come to meet me here, he brought a danda with him for some reason and while he was sitting on my chair calmly, I heard: Kartika yaad rakhna ki ye sab ek natak hai. Kartika yaad rakhna ki ye sab ek natak hai.

Earlier in the evening, while resting in bed, I heard: She's so innocent and pure. She's so innocent and pure.

- A woman dressed in bridal white with the meshed drape on her head hanging behind her back comes skating on yellow blades in my direction carrying a bouquet of multi-colored flowers and stops right in front. Her expression then changes to being fierce and vicious with red eyes as she is about to attack me.

Morning
Dream:
I enter a house beginning with a cubical room floored with orangish tiles with a rough texture reminding me of the first room on our rented floor in the Cheema colony in my hometown. But this room in the dream has its walls cemented with the same tiles as well. The entire room looks checkered in light orange. At the right end of the left wall lies a door that paves way further inside the house. I exit the room through that door and find the kitchen to the left a hall to its right that's being used as another room. I find some people there. And I don't know everyone. Even this part of the house is covered with the same light orangish tiles. I exit and enter the house through the first room several times in the dream and apparently, the first room doesn't have a front wall separating it from the outside but its lit inside is visible through the dark of the night as I walk towards it and enter the room after I've left home to do some chore.

Revelations post waking up:

- The face of Harley Quinn from the movie Suicide Squad with her blonde hair tied in two high ponies at the top front and her left eye burst as blood flowed down from her face.

She reminds me of the Harley Quinn song whose lyrics were playing in my Spirit several months back, perhaps during the last year.

The Lady sings:
I need a gangster.. to love me better.. than all the others do

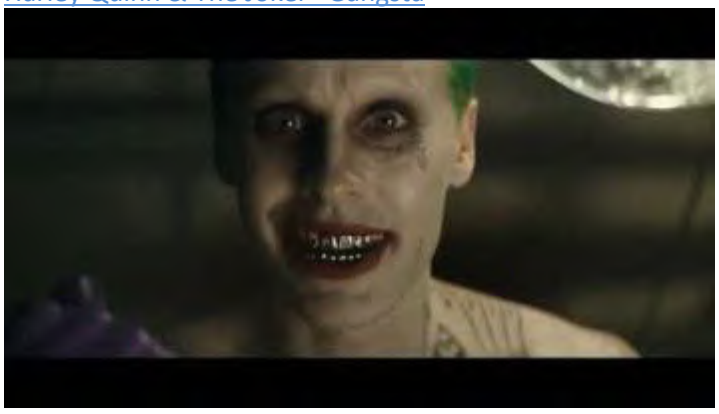
To always forgive me.. Ride or die with me
That's just what gangsters do..

These specific lyrics were repeating in my spirit.
I need a gangster.. to love me better..

But that's not how I think. I need Jesus – that's what I think! And the character of Joker in the movie is curious because it's unpredictable and you don't know what foolish decision he may take next or the next wicked wicked or wicked nice thing he may do, but it's not desirable. In the case of Jesus too, things are quite unpredictable because He doesn't reveal everything He has planned for His children but only a part of it, but one knows the core aspects of His character traits that don't change and He's Holy and His thoughts are holy! He's not a criminal but He's called the fairest of all!

Harley Quinn & The Joker Gangsta



Psalm 45:1-2 (Amplified Bible)
[a]My heart overflows with a good theme;
I address my psalm to the King.
My tongue is like the pen of a skillful writer.
2 You are fairer than the sons of men;
Graciousness is poured upon Your lips;
Therefore God has blessed You forever.

Verses 6-7
6 [b]Your throne, O God, is forever and ever;
The scepter of uprightness is the scepter of Your kingdom.
7 You have loved righteousness (virtue, morality, justice) and hated wickedness;
Therefore God, your God, has anointed You
Above Your companions with the oil of jubilation.

And then I keep hearing this as well repeatedly: Tu had se jyada gwaar hai. Tu had se jyaada gwaar hai.

Well, I don't know if they're saying it because I keep itching here and there o because of the way I think. God loves the way I think.

Past Revelations

(Past week)

- Had se jyada smart. Had se jyada randi. (Why are they saying this about me? What did I do? I like to stay indoors and I don't interact with many people either! I only prefer good and moral company and would rather have no company instead of a wicked one. And it should be clear by now. And if I am forced to stay in wicked company then that has to eventually into good and moral one or it would only be possible if I was giving them grace and not because I accepted their immorality or condoned their sin. I would be because I am looking at them with unconditional detached love though it doesn't mean that I trust them because that's built over time.
- Had se jyada smart. Had se jyada gwaar. (Well, it's a hate-filled judgmental statement. I am not impressed with them belonging to a city! I would be impressed if they possessed the genuinity, morality and boundaries of a whom they could classify as Gwaar.)
- Tu had se jyada randi hai. (Again, I don't know the basis of this statement.)
- Randi hai bhi, aur nahi bhi.
- Smart bhi nai, murakh bhi hai. (Well, I am not scrutinizing anyone's objective ways of doing things! The way I do things come naturally to me and sometimes I forget somethings and get confused because of the camera situation. The lady sings: Tod dala.. Tod dala.. I'm not copying someone trying to make a meaningless point unlike those who copy my traits and portray them as low-quality. This very act of theirs shows how low-quality they are on the inside!)
- (Past few days) I didn't know you were so numb.

A blurry half of Elon Musk as he says: Perhaps you don't know it, but I love you. Perhaps you don't know it, but I Love you. And he says it in a low, quiet, and gentle tone. The vision repeats intermittently throughout the day.

I love him too for he is a child of God. I mean he doesn't have any criminal cases running against him and seems to be a moral and godly man called by God into His kingdom.

Evening

A tall man dressed in a black suit over a white shirt walks out of a metallic gate sliding a woman on a wheelchair in white bridal clothes with the top of her head covered with a translucent net drape falling behind her back. She seemed to be missing her lower legs.

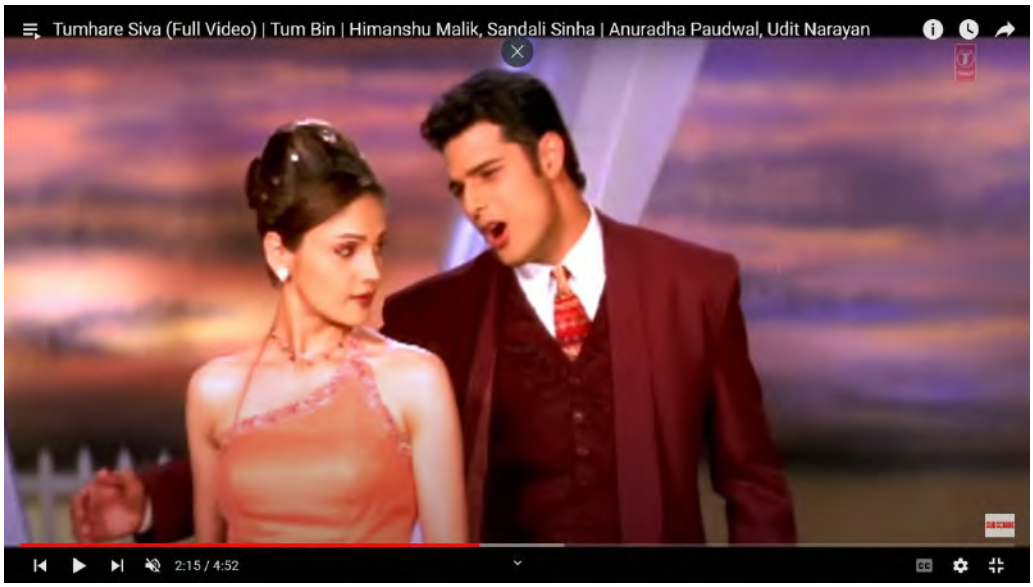
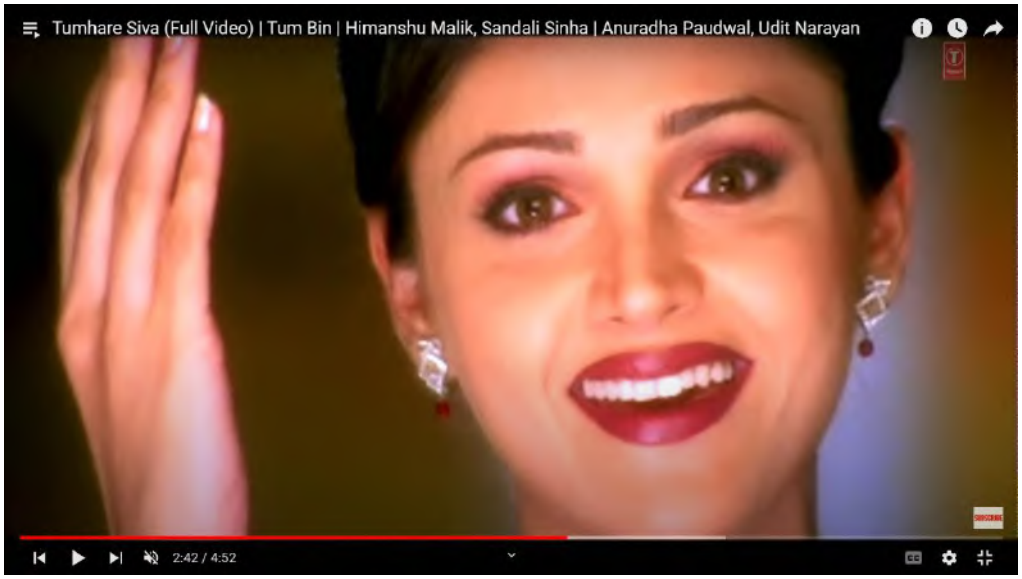
During one of the past days, I was watching the Tumhare Siva song on my Laptop, and at the part where the bulkiest guy is singing as the lady stands with a leg extended to the right and head turned in the same direction, as the guy was walking backwards away to the left, I heard in my Spirit: That's Madhavan. (referring to the dusky guy from the camera trio.)



The day before yesterday, when I was brushing my teeth and the song played in my spirit, I saw the visuals highlighted in my spirit with the face of the lady singing the song while looking at the viewer, along with the visuals of the song's last stanza.

(day before yesterday) While brushing
I kept hearing the chorus being sung by the lady with the face below highlighted in my spirit.



Agar tum na milte to hum jee na pate..
Kise apna kehte kahan dil lagate..

Sazaa rab jo dega..

Sazaa rab jo dega.. vo manzoor humko..
Ke ab hum tumhari.. Ibaadat karenge..

Morning (Post waking up)

- A small framed vision of the trio from the song Tumhare Siva standing in a dark background dressed in their song attire as one stands in the center facing the viewer while the others stand at the sides facing away to their side. In the center stands the bulkiest guy facing the viewer, while on the left stands Shekhar from the movie as he holds and waves around the Indian flag by its long handle standing still in his place.

And this morning, while having my morning tea communion, I heard these lyrics play in my spirit.

The Guy sings:
What grace could remember no wrongs we've done..
What father so tender, is calling us home..
Thrown into the sea, without bottom and shore..

Our sins - they are many, His mercy is more..

Praise the Lord.. His mercy is more..

Stronger than darkness, new every morning..
Our sins they are many, His mercy is more.

His Mercy Is More - Shane & Shane (Lyrics + Scripture)

The following lyrics were highlighted the most to me.
What grace could remember no wrongs we've done..
What father so tender is calling us home.

Thrown into the sea without bottom and shore..
Our sins they are many, His mercy is more.

Yesterday morning as I was sitting in bed while having my tea communion, I heard in my spirit:
She is not angry with us. She doesn't look angry with us. She is not angry with us.

Well, later at night yesterday, I fell into the earthly frame again and was consumed with my own suffering again, and then I was telling God how the pure values I always lived with were insulted by this fellow and he disgraced the honor that I felt for a bond based in purity. He did everything vile and then he was expecting me to enter into a communion that was supposed to be pure by Godly standards. I didn't want those many revelations with those many people. I only needed one good and faithful person because that's who I am. But this fellow has a very numbed sense of sinning. He commits sins as if they come with no consequences. The consequence isn't experienced as a materialistic loss.

And as I was writing the last sentence, I heard: We know what you're talking about.

The loss isn't materialistic or it is not experienced in the physical realm directly, but the consequence is the degradation of your own mind that loses its purity and sanctity that was supposed to be maintained and that reflects in how you think and operate in your life and the kind of decisions you make and the people you allow in your vicinity. When we clean our home or room or get our vehicle serviced, we have to do it regularly. We can't say that they were once clean but now after some time, they've become too unclean making them unsuitable for being put to good use. In the same way, one shouldn't think that one was once pure and possessed a clean and godly mind which has now become filthy after poking in the dirt of the world for a long duration. You not only do not poke in the filth of the world, but you keep a check on the state of your mind if it's still clean and pure. That's how you maintain a holy mental living space. And no one else can do it for you. This is the first and foremost responsibility of every individual before they try to fulfill other responsibilities.

While resting

I fell into a brief sleep and saw the upper half of a guy facing to the left as he said: Chhod diya. after which I woke up. Well, what did he leave? Did he leave his previous lifestyle of sin? Did he leave fornication? Did he leave allowing his mind to have unclean thoughts? Did he leave his sinful addictions? Did he leave his girlfriend(s)? Did he leave living to gratify his flesh? Did he leave the need to feel in control of other people's lives? Did he leave his previous way of thinking? So if he has left something, it has created a void in its place which is supposed to be replaced with its godly counterpart.

So, look within yourself and see if what you left is what you needed to leave to be holier and closer to God!?

After I wrote the above, I saw:
The crying face of Death Conqueror as he says: Bahut buri hai! Bahut buri hai!
Why is he calling me bad? I am the best person he ever met because did anyone else highlight what was wrong with his lifestyle!?
After I wrote this, I saw a side-view of his teary-eyed face with a slight smile as he said: Bahut achi hai! Bahut achi hai!

Visions from the day

- (Early Afternoon) The previous vision of the pinkish face of Death Conqueror with a long umbilical cord of the same colour connected to his mouth is highlighted to me as it gets abruptly severed from his mouth. The vision repeated a few times and it was disturbing because it made me worry what would happen to him after this disconnect. I had the vision again in the evening and this time the follow-up vision briefly flashed his well-built and muscled upper half as he made a pose showing his biceps like a wrestler.

As I was writing the above, I heard the lady sing again:
Bepanah pyaar tujhse.. Tu kyu jaane na..
Hua ikraar tujhse.. Tu kyu maane na..

I watched the Christmas celebration in the church Yeshu Bhawan being telecasted live on their YouTube channel. It was after long they had done a live telecast yesterday and they did it again today. When I was making tea later in the evening, I saw:

- The upper half of Pastor Emmanuel Morgan dressed in his clothes from today come at the top of my head with a rod as he says: Shabash! The vision repeats again, as he says again: Shabash! The only reason I thought he could be saying that was people accepting Christ, especially the duo from the trio as they were previously part of the sin and now they were supposedly getting committed to Christ which would be a profound change or reversal of what was absorbed from the world during the past years of their lives. After long I got a pat at the back for achieving something for the kingdom of God!

As I was done writing the above, I heard in my spirit the song lyrics:
Masih nidhaal soedaar chalte dekha hai..
Bhadakti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai..

I also heard the lady sing:
Bepanah pyaar tujhse.. Tu kyu jaane na..

In the evening, I got worried about my mother as I don't want her to be around Divyanshu because of the recent revelations and he is not a healthy person to be around. He says just anything to her, anything mean or disrespectful, and doesn't show respect! She deserves my company. I take care of her and understand her and she feels healed. If I had a job, I could take care of her better while I know that my youngest brother, if he got a job, would use it as an excuse for her to do more for him despite her old age and condition. And he would act as if he is some kind of boss where people should obey him and obey his words for their lives. I have been giving money to her for some years but I know that she is her own person and I don't say mean things to her or try to bombard her with toxic stuff. I don't act like I am some kind of in-charge at home. But if he was in my place with the nature he has, he would misuse his position and oppress even more by invalidating her reality and right judgment of situations, and justifying what's wrong. I am glad he's the youngest. While if my middle brother was at my place with the nature he has but missing his addiction, he would take good care of mom as he listens to most of the things she says and is not as mean and insensible as the youngest one.

I took a bath after long again and when I was making tea afterwards, I had this vision repeat in which Jesus hit my legs with a danda twisting them outwards one after the other, and both my legs broke. I don't know why this vision keeps repeating.

While bathing

- The upper half of Abhigyan (the bulkiest guy among the trio) in his red and white suit from the song Tumhare Siva near the ceiling as he looks down at me with a righteous expression. This time when I am bathing, I don't feel threatened or hurt because I have now come to see the people behind the drones as children of God just like me. I don't feel pleased about being naked either but I don't feel as depressed as I felt the last time. For me, it was very much like the case when half-naked toddlers hang out together and they don't have sinful thoughts regardless of the way they're dressed. In that way, they are children of God just like me and God sees everyone's nakedness.

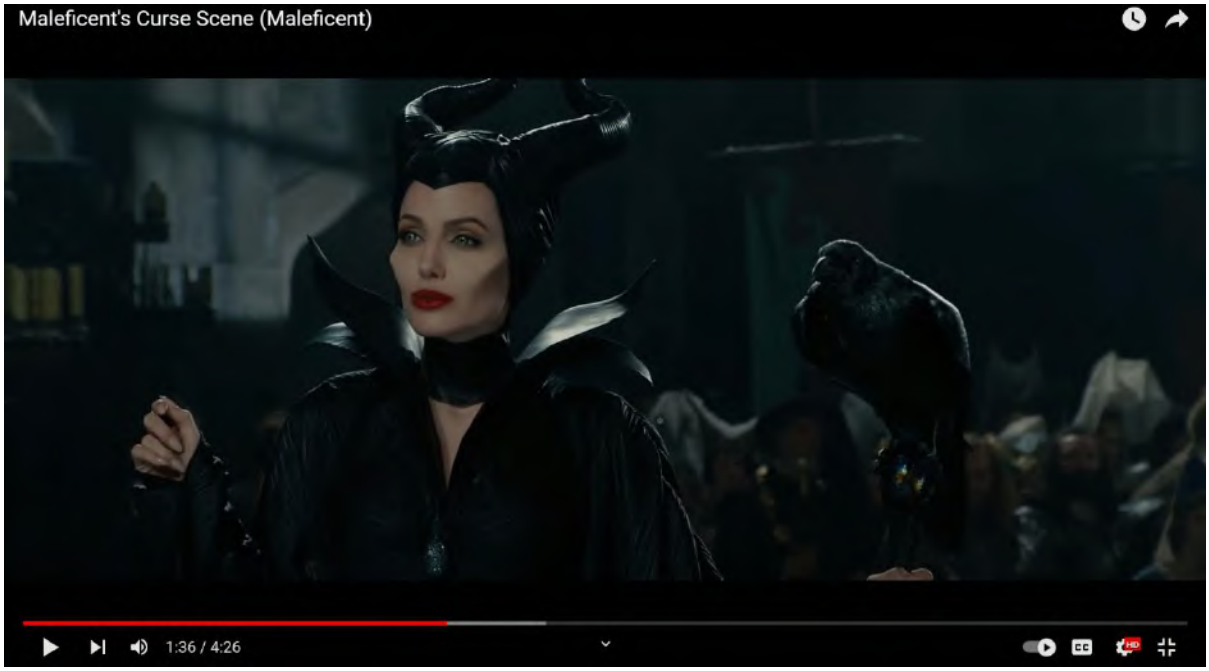
- She's not any shame. She's not feeling any shame. As I hear this, I find myself replying with an immediate: Why?.. No.. in the same manner as Maleficent replies to King Stephen's wife when she asks her if she wasn't feeling offended about her husband telling Maleficent that she wasn't welcome at the celebration of their daughter's birth. And the scene is highlighted to me as I say: Why?.. No!.. I seem to be having the same attitude at that moment!



Ref: Maleficent's Curse Scene (Maleficent)

Because I'm feeling less or close to no shame this time not because I am comfortable exposing my body but because I am looking at myself as a child of God, I also tend to bath a bit more freely as I take a bit more time for I am bathing after several days. And as I am taking a bit more time, I see:

- Abhigyan in the red & white suit above has now begun to develop a negative perception about me as he seems to be thinking within himself that I indeed am a whore.

Well, it doesn't affect me much, because it's not their perception of me as being a whore or not that's going to save them, but it's their repentance and attitude towards God.

Past Revelations

- (past three weeks) I am lying in bed and as I move my head a bit, I see the upper half of King Stephen from the movie Maleficent from the scene of his daughter's curse as he moves his head with his eyes closed in the same manner as mine. Well, I don't want to be King Stephen in anyone's life where I clip their wings for my own upliftment and then leave them alone. I am only working to fetch people for God's kingdom as I write the revelations I receive.
- (Past week) I am a giant in my room and tiny Death Conqueror and Akhila stand in front of me as I stomp on them and crush them by moving the top of my foot's sole on them.
  Why would I do that even if I was a giant in the room? I don't hurt innocent people for no reason. Innocent people don't act in extreme wicked ways that provoke one to anger. And I prefer forgiveness over judgment. I could only do so to extremely wicked people who are serving as fishes polluting the entire water body and if their lives are entirely a fake righteous show lived with a wicked self while they hurt others around them.
- (Past week) The side view of a part of the inside of a bus moving to the right as several people standing in a line one behind the other in the center gets squished together when it experiences a break. Most of them are looking to the seats on the right as a tall and well-built grey-haired old man dressed in a full-sleeved light blue shirt, sitting on one of the left-most seats behind in the right row with his back visible to the viewer tells them to separate raising his hand in their direction as they continue standing in that pressed way. He's correcting them.
  The lady sings: Phod dala.. Phod dala..
- (Past week) It was perhaps the second or third day of my period, when I heard: There's a lot of blood. There's a lot of blood. As the upper half of Amar from the movie Tum Bin dressed in his red and white attire from the song Tumhare Siva sticks out an extremely long though thin tongue and takes a lick inside the visible bloodstream in slow motion.
  The Guy says: Phas gayi. Phas gayi.
- (Past week) Geeta Aunty dressed in a half-sleeved blue dress with white polka dots stands in a dark background to the right of a taller woman donning a multicolored dress as the beige face of a lion with trimmed mane in the shape of sideburns gets flashed at the place of hers.

Revelations from the afternoon and late evening:

- A dusky face with a slight smile with lips joined together and perched together with a red Sehra on top in the background of a tiny white horse below his face.

After I wrote the above, I heard in my spirit a stuffed male voice shout: Mein mar jaunga!
I don't know. I have stopped being happy or bad about things. What gives me joy is to know that God chose me for His kingdom and then He promised me a righteous husband for my time on Earth.

- Later in the night after I have returned from the Dinesh Store having bought groceries for the following day, as I'm moving near the bed, I hear: We are very smart. We are very smart.

The above statement made me think of the trio because I've been receiving revelations related to them for some time now. When I hear this in my spirit, I say that being wicked smart is of no use if you use your smartness to hurt others!

- After a while, as I am lying in bed, I hear: You'll love our company. You'll love our company Kartika. We are smart Kartika. You'll love our company.

But my company has always consisted of moral people who had a sense of depth and meaning and who didn't go ahead and do just anything. The only exception was the wicked man Tejaswi and that too because he fooled me.

Revelations before falling asleep:

- SRK in a full-sleeved thick red top braided in the middle in golden over white trousers narrow at the bottom end as he holds a thick and huge black fountain pen of the same size as him with its base resting on the floor in his right hand. The pen has a royal golden design and a golden tip.
- HRX in a white shirt with a V-neck grey sweater on top walks backwards and hides behind the thick trunk of a tree in the dark of the night.
- We can't kill you now. You love us. We can't kill you. You love us.
  Which makes me think I don't really love sin or sinners. But I am extending God's nature, love, and patience to them as I have come to learn about Him and how He died for the worst of sinners while (s)he was still a sinner. And when I look at it closely now, my perception of them has changed. I no longer see them as grave sinners because of the song revelation. Perhaps Death Conqueror is not one of the trio in red & white and Glory is the third one besides the duo from the trio from the Smooth talk & Witchcraft revelation. But it's a thought I had because of the revelations in which the duo from the trio had cross pendants on them and the wedding dream revelation of Glory in that red & white suit that I had in late 2021 or Early 2022 when I was in Room D4 of A-16.

But perhaps Death Conqueror is called to be one of the men in red & white.

I saw that to me they've become those people from the song as that's how I perceive them. Because I know that that's how God wants me to perceive them. And that's why I received those revelations. I mean I am not supposed to have a hateful heart because of what they've done but a heart filled with godly love for them according to the song revelation. And it's not difficult for me to do. I've a natural inclination to not have a hateful heart. When I see that someone has done me wrong, I try to keep my heart state in check because I don't want to turn bitter as it doesn't seem good to me. It makes me feel bad to have a bitter heart. However prolonged and consistent bad behavior can lead to intermittent bitterness. I nag and end up spurring bitter or hateful words in those moments but now I look to Jesus and want Him to lead me into righteousness.

To a person whose conscience is not seared, sin or being around sinners comes as something hurtful. It creates an uncomfortable environment and creates stress for a moral person.

Dream:
I am in the drawing room of our rented floor of the first house one came across in the Cheema Colony in my hometown. My mom is busy working in the kitchen. My dad is present there too. There's another lady in the other smaller room across the kitchen and she is sitting on a bed. The lady is dressed in a thick ethnic white skirt with a black print with a half-sleeved top. I am organizing things and have to clean the home. I see how my mom does one chore after another and is occupied most of the time, though the dishwasher Aunty comes and I take care of organizing and cleaning the home. She doesn't get much of a break in between. I see she cooks quite frequently. As soon as she is done doing something, it's time for her to enter the kitchen and cook. She has just begun to cook again. I feel pity for her as I look at her through the translucent wall of the drawing room with the checkered orangish floor. I am now almost done organizing the huge room which was quite messed up and am standing beside the single bed laid beside the wall with windows adjoining the verandah outside. I find myself organizing the covers lying on top of the cylindrical pillow wrapped in a white cover. I see it has a few white clothes of varying dimensions lying on top of it. I place them together at one of the ends of the pillow stretching them along its length so they look organized. I see those small clothes as useless but I am not throwing them away for some reason. Perhaps my focus is not on sifting useful from useless but just on organizing whatever is there. So I am about to tie the few small white rags to the end of the pillow as I've placed them together systematically after opening them fully. While I am about to tie them, my dad stands some meters away across the length of the bed in front of the door and he's saying something. The lady in black and white from the other room enters the room and she's not behaving sensibly but looks disturned. When I look at her, I see an old and obese Sardarji with a long grey beard dressed in a navy blue tunic and a turban of the same color walk behind her with his forearm pointed at the back of her waist. He is a ghost haunting the lady making her behave erratically! I pray for it to leave her in the name of Jesus but it doesn't leave. I then see a metallic robot with a round metallic face in the room which too is behaving erratically in an uncontrolled manner. As I look at it, the dream goes into a flashback of how it used to be which showed the lady sleeping with the side of her head resting on a pillow as the robot bent down smiling at her face, and brushed the length of the maroon pillow extending to the right with a transparent greasy liquid in to and fro periodic brush strokes moving to the right covering the length.

While pooping a while back:
The upper halves of three men dressed identically in red suits over white shirts pour pink liquid on top of me from a few feet above my head through a steel jug with a pointed end along its outwardly curved edge in the same manner I was pouring down the pink liquid on top of the tiny duo on the golden floor the night of the day before yesterday. In this vision today, as they continue pouring the pink liquid I see myself grow smaller in size as a third person. And while I am having the vision, I feel breaths falling on me from above. Apparently, the pink liquid symbolizes the presence of the trio above my head.

Back in my BSc days when I stayed in Saroj Sadan in Vijay Nagar, Single Storey, there was a tall, slim, and fair Hariyanvi girl in my PG whom everyone talked about as being dumb behind her back. She was a plain girl with long hair which she kept braided and dressed mostly in tunic sets. She was the one against whom I had committed the Ghewar theft that I previously talked about somewhere. I was addicted to sugar and I couldn't resist as I kept coming across it every time I opened the fridge. So I took a small part out of it. I could have gone out and bought my own, but it served as instant gratification. I didn't see her as dumb, but she was not clever in the way they understood cleverness. She was plain and sober and when I looked at her, I saw her exhibit no complexity of thought but she thought in simple terms. She wasn't intelligent or too smart but she was moral and her strict boundaries at times came across as foolishness to others. While others made fun of her, I didn't see anything wrong with her. She was a plain and simple girl in my eyes who had her own way of thinking and there was nothing wrong with that. She didn't sit together and gossip about someone the way others were doing about her. That girl has been being highlighted to me for the past week.

She had this character trait of not resonating with the crowd as she stayed firm in her own mind because of which she came across as dumb to them. While everyone would be together and understand each other as they talked about stuff, she could be seen sitting with an expression that told that she didn't understand much. Back in those days, even I resonated with the crowd because it wasn't too wicked like the crowd I come across these days. So if everyone sat together, they talked about moral things or how this and that person was doing something immoral. Having a boyfriend or a girlfriend just for the sake of having one was considered a result of a lack of character. A committed bond that was headed towards marriage was seen as acceptable in those days by youngsters of my age. Fornication while not being married - which is a casual thing of this time - was considered something gravely wrong as everyone talked about this girl from Arunachal Pradesh in our PG who was in a relationship with a guy staying nearby with his home in the same locality around. Perhaps they had plans of marriage but everyone would stand at the roof and look at them fornicating down on the road in front of PG inside that guy's car as he would come to drop her off and it would be the news of the day. He would be on a bike at times as well. He brought Tadka Daal for her from a dhaba in Model Town almost every night because she liked only that daal. She didn't eat anything else much. She would eat only that daal at night or she sifted through her lunch tiffin and ate the vegetables and left the rest. She didn't eat roti, rice, etc., and drank a lot of boiled water during the day. It was in 2021 when I shifted to Saroj Sadan again in my PhD that the owner Mr. Dheeraj Kakkar told me that she got married to that guy and had recently conceived which was a bit hard to believe because everyone could hear her shouting the worst curse words on her phone everyday. And I asked my roommate Swati Di as well that why was she being with this guy to whom she had to say such curse words as she was best friends with my roommate who was from Bihar.

The majority of people in the crowd were against fornication and being in casual relationships, and cheating was considered a grave sin that no one was supposed to even think about. That environment was still better in morality and I could sit in the PG's girls group discussion as I saw that though the girls had some elements of vanity and worldliness, they were still moral. People abhorred those who changed their partners frequently or lived a promiscuous lifestyle. I could still resonate with the crowd. But that Hariyanvi girl acted completely out of the league. Her brain was just not fertile for such thoughts to be given a place. So, a group of people could come together and instantly resonate but that girl would stand out and not mentally be a part of them. It didn't come naturally to her. That's how she was in the PG at least. Perhaps she was different with her friends or in her college because of a lack of judging crowd, but that's how she was perceived in the PG. Someone who was not plain and dumb and didn't understand things. But I didn't judge her like that. I saw that it would be a wicked thing to judge anyone in that way.

That Hariyanvi girl who was seen as someone who couldn't just be a part of the crowd and resonate with it was being highlighted to me throughout the past week. Perhaps that's how I come across in front of this wicked generation. But I couldn't care less because I'm called to be set apart by God. I will easily understand and resonate with people who are not deceptive and are godly. But I can't navigate through a wicked smart crowd because I don't think the way they do. I operate from a different base that doesn't have any ill will or will to cause any harm or oppress or deceive or cheat on others.

The Guy sings:
Teri marzi.. Mere liye.. Haani aur naash ki nahi..
Tu chahe sirf bhalayi.. Mere jeevan mein sada..

The above lyrics were playing in my spirit repeatedly this day somewhere within the past three weeks as well. And the following or the same day the video below was released by the brother on the YT channel Voicu means TRUTH.
Your past does not define you!!Let go of it! it's your present that counts!You belong to Jesus!!

When I was writing the song revelation with the lyrics
Teri marzi.. Mere liye.. Haani aur naash ki nahi..
Tu chahe sirf bhalayi.. Mere jeevan mein sada..

I saw:

- My dad hits the top of my head viciously with a danda where I can literally feel it touch the center of the top of my head.

16:07
A while back I was listening to Please Forgive Me by Bryan Adams and now these lyrics are being highlighted in my spirit as they play inside:
I remember the smell of your skin..
I remember everything.
I remember all your moves..
I remember YOU.. Yeah..

Bryan Adams - Please Forgive Me

Past Revelations

- Phaad dala.. Phaad dala..
- (Past few days) A semi-animated vision of the parallel view of a naked beige woman with light skyblue fluffed curly hair lying on her side with a naked bulky beige man as only a part of them shown while moving about their positions touching each other. As they're doing so, a maned lion comes walking from the front, shoves the guy aside, gets on top of the woman and it seems that he may hurt her with his pointed teeth as one looks at the top-view of it standing on the woman. But it swipes the woman's breasts through its mouth lightly one after the other and then starts licking her face without hurting her.
- (Past two weeks) Gwaar tu nhi hum hai! Gwaar tu nahi hum hai!
- (Past week) The face of Kate Winslet with her blonde hair as she extends out a spoon with a mixed vegetable soup to me and she whispers gently: Here. You need this. Well. Now it reminds me of Meera because she was just used to feeding me food with her hand. While we had lunch in college, she would put one bite from her lunch box in her mouth followed by mine. And she would often put the last bite in my mouth. Once she put it in her mouth saying that she knew that I was expecting her to put it in mine.
- This vision was next in line with the above vision. Cinderella in her sky blue dress comes walking to the viewer out of a building with a huge gray hall in front with a bowl held with both her hands in front of her chest as she says softly: I've brought this bowl of soup for you.
- (the next day) The bottom view of Kate Winslet dressed in a white cardigan over a dark green dress as she is crushing someone below her left foot.
- (Past week) A group of elephants walk towards the viewer with one of the elephants walking in the front as a baby elephant stands some distance ahead towards the viewer on the left side of the vision facing to the left as it raises its small trunk.

- The upper halves of the trio dressed in red and white above me as they pour light pink liquid on me from steel jars held in their hands. They then suddenly change to men resembling wicked wizards with a dirty look pouring green acid down on me from their jars.

Bandigrah: Heard in the spirit during my evening rest.

Range haathon pakda gaya. Range haathon pakda gaya.

- And then I'm lying in bed for the past few days and am having thoughts about my now changed mind.

While editing Page 630 and writing the vision of him standing with his head turned to the left as he said: She's a witch. reminded me of this incident from real life when I was still in my MSc. Perhaps I was repeating an year. I am not sure. But I was in the Physics Department corridor with Room No.s L and H and had entered the corridor by the route that has one cross across the two parallel parts of the buildings coming as one exited the main administrative block and entered the extension with the classrooms. As I took a turn by the stairs that go to the MSc Nuclear Lab on the first floor, I saw the short-heighted guy dressed in a loose horizontally striped pink polo t-shirt untucked over beige pants. He was standing on the right side of the corridor with the washbasin and the departmental drinking water outlet facing the wall on the opposite side. In that instant too, he stood facing to the left and made the prophetic symbol - again reaffirming that he indeed is chosen of God for His kingdom. The incident dates back to perhaps 2014 or 2015.

Exodus 33:19 (NIV)
19 And the Lord said, “I will cause all my goodness to pass in front of you, and I will proclaim my name, the Lord, in your presence. I will have mercy on whom I will have mercy, and I will have compassion on whom I will have compassion.

From <https://www.biblegateway.com/passage/?search=Exodus%2033:19&version=NIV>

While I was writing the above, I saw:
Death Conqueror dressed in one of his vision standard attires of the black and white suit hit the top of my head with all might present inside of him. It seems like he wanted to burst open my head with that much impact.

That day I was walking towards room no. L or H when I spotted him standing there looking up at the wall near where it met the ceiling in front of him. And he was doing it with an intense gaze and focus which led me to look up at the ceiling as well but there was nothing present there. At first, when I had happened to spot him in that pose, I thought perhaps there was a lizard on the wall, but there was nothing. He was lost in thought standing there and his face looked tanned with a rough texture one has when one gets goosebumps. So one could tell that he perhaps returned from some kind of vacation. He then abruptly turned his head down and towards me with an observant apathetic look as I was still looking at him. And then he turned his body and face straight ahead facing the opposite direction of the corridor in which I was moving with an abruptly changed expression of a smile. I could tell that it was affected. I thought: Look how the fellow affects smile women tend to give him a bit extended duration of attention! Though I didn’t think so in a judgmental way but I knew that his changed smiley expression from the previously blank one was because he spotted me looking in his eyes. I knew that he was trying to make a good impression in that moment with that expression!

While I was writing the above para, I intermittently kept seeing:
Death Conqueror in his vision-standard black and white suit attire hit the top of my head repeatedly.

Anyway. Well, in the incident above, he emanated the persona of a simple and humble man who thought sensibly and had a sense of depth as well. And look what he did and how he has been behaving during the past years which is entirely inconsistent with how he unintentionally portrayed himself above. I saw him as intelligent in that moment, but I projected my own sense of morality on him, that he lived with a consistent sense of his moral sense. I guess he knows how to behave righteously in public because when he looked me right in the eyes and emanated the aura of a moral person.

As I was editing the above para, I saw:
Death Conqueror standing facing to the left as he held my face with me sitting perhaps on a chair below, and said smiling: Tu nihayati gwaar hai Kartika.

Well, I have begun behaving in ways I never would because of an expanse of my persona because of the several revelations that led me to resonate with several different personalities from different vocations.

After a while of writing about the incident of spotting the tanned short fellow dressed in a pink polo shirt emanating an outwardly simple and inwardly humble aura, I saw:

- Death Conqueror dressed in his vision-standard attire of a black suit hit the top of my head as he says: Is gwaar ne mujhse itna pyaar kyu kiya!? Is gwaar ne mujhse itna pyaar kyu kiya!? And then he seems to be referring to that incident as he says: Aur isne soch liya ki ye mere layak hai! Aur isne soch liya ki ye mere layak hai! Well. That's not what I thought. Because in that avatar which was perhaps one of his most righteous avatars, I got repelled by his impure gesture of suddenly faking a smile while looking straight ahead when there's no one in front of him. Not that it's wrong to smile alone within oneself, but it was an intentional and controlled gesture and though I didn't have a word for it then, after having gone through a lot of experience, now I would call it a bit psychopathic. Now Glory too was giving a shy smile with his head turned to the left (my left but his right), but his smile wasn't controlled as he smiled wide with a shy uncontrolled expression! In fact, he was trying to hide it and that's why he had turned his face away in the first place! His expression made me wonder what happened to him suddenly. I mean I had just said: Excuse me!
  So there's a huge difference between the two fellows smiling.

- And I first wrote about this Excuse Me incident years back when I was healing from Tejaswi's betrayal and was recalling weird encounters with people. And in that narrative, I had happened to comment how I didn’t really understand why he was making that shy expression with a wide smile. I mean I had only said: Excuse Me and not Sleep with me.

And then the day before yesterday while looking for the previous highlights related to the trio that I could recall that I had recorded, I finally found the record on Page 432 when I came across the screenshot below.

This song used to play in my spirit often and then I was led to watch it and then this snapshot from the song was highlighted to me and I recorded it. I don't recall who I thought the snapshot represented. I just took a click as it was highlighted and the song played in my spirit so often and with an intensity that I wanted to edit and add subtitles to the song video. And I did the same to a part of it but then forgot as I was consumed with the load of revelations every day that I had to record.

I can recall now.

I thought of the song as an analog of people worshipping God together as they sang it to God along with the woman. And that's also why I created a special page named 'The Kingdom Dance of Worship' where I intended to share the edited song with subtitles and other nice effects. And it was such a good and hearty song emanating a pure aura that I wanted to edit it the best way possible because to me it represented God's children worshipping Him together while dancing.

While I was writing the previous sentence, I saw:
The dusky guy with a round face from the trio stands with a rod lifted up high with his hands as he is about to hit the top of my head with the strongest impact he can make as he shouts with a stuffed voice and a vicious expression: Hum bahut acche hai!

And then the song began playing in my spirit again within the past two weeks and then I received new revelations that revealed that it represented the trio.

And then this has been repeating in my spirit for a few days: Phaad khaya.. Phaad khaya.. I don't know what it signifies! But it certainly doesn't come with a positive connotation.

Past Revelations

- (Past two weeks) It was when I was recently recalling about me getting trapped inside the belly of a huge white serpent as I fell into its wide open mouth that I saw a small-framed vision of the top view of a man fully dressed in ankle-length multilayered white clothes with even his head covered as he looked down at the surface he stood at while several heads of people protruding out of the surface that seemed to be liquidy at some distance around him as they revolved in a circle around him.
- (Past week) While washing dishes late afternoon, I saw the upper half of Glory as he looked at me and said with teary eyes: Kartika I would have to kill you. Kartika I would have to kill you.
- (Past week) I am working in the narrow kitchen area when I say that it's good that God has allowed me to minister to people through a channel that supports one-sided communication because who knows if those people said something ungodly and ruined my mood while I am making the truth of God known to them. (That's the last thing I want in my situation: to come across words or behavior that are ungodly. Godliness makes me feel strengthened.) After I have made the statement, I see a short-framed vision of the upper half of KA dressed in a full-sleeved shirt as he turned his back towards me saying with a mischievous expression that he was coming to ruin my mood.
- (past few days) A small-framed semi-animated vision of Death Conqueror's upper half facing to the right as he gets a huge blow at the back of his head represented as a small translucent blob with the blow leading to an orangish flash at the point of impact as it reaches deep inside into his brain. Apparently, the spiritual hit has permeated deep into his brain in order for it to cause the necessary changes in perception. The blow has imparted a spiritual way of perception represented by the orangish flash that spread inside his previously dark mind.
- (Past two days, Evening) The front view of the animated face of Karishma Kapoor with a wall behind. She has neck-length frizzy and light-colored hair in the vision as she looks forward with her huge almost square animated grey eyes and holds the flat surface of a pointed butcher's knife against her lips.
- (past two days) A trembling hand with its palm facing upwards with blue toilet cleaner Harpic liquid spread on the center of its palm in the day-lit background of my room.
- (past few days) Ye sunder bhi hai, aur nhi bhi. Ye sunder bhi hai, aur nahi bhi.

I woke up in the middle of the night yesterday from this somatic dream revelation.

Somatic Dream Revelation

I see myself lying on my bed on my back. My room's lights are off but I can still see a bit because of the light coming in from lit apartment outside. A hand is holding my left hand and has lifted it up a bit. Another hand lifts up my right hand with my palm resting on top of it. I don't see anyone though but I can see that my hand is being lifted for real by those hands. The touch is so real that it seems that it’s indeed what's actually happening to me. I get a bit wary as I start praying. They are not moving in a way that would imply they want to cause harm to me but because they're strange, I pray for the hand to my right which is moving and moving my hand with it much more than the left one. I say for it to leave me in the name of Jesus in case it's a demonic spirit. But it doesn't leave and stays intact. It doesn't hurt me either. I open my eyes fully and look to my right now to see who it is. I see a dog's face looking at me as he is sitting upright and silently right next to my face on the floor. He has a calm expression and he just sits there quietly. I can tell he is not to be afraid of. I then see another hand lifted up about half a foot or so above my right breast. I begin to feel anxious now and I start praying lest it falls down. I look at the hand and tell it to go away in the name of Jesus. But it doesn't move and stays still in the air at its place. But it can fall on me anytime which is making me feel extremely scared and anxious! It's a dark and brown hand just like the other hands that held my hands. But why has it positioned itself in that scary pose? It's neither falling down nor moving away and my anxiety levels are increasing looking at the hand as I continue to pray and it's then that I wake up and look around and find myself lying on my back with both my hands resting below my chest.

Anyone would feel scared in the presence of strange hands hovering on top of one's body, especially on top of their private or gender-specific shameful parts!

As I wrote the above, I saw:
The top view of Glory in a full-sleeved loose and boxy shirt over loose trousers sitting on the right end of the backseat of a car with its door open as he says: Kartika tu bahut jyada gwaar hai!

But why is he calling me so? What would be his reaction if dark brown hands with no faces visible were hovering on top of his body? It's a boundary-breaching act! One should only open oneself to one's God-ordained partner, mentally as well - that's called holiness. Previously, I thought it was okay to open oneself to someone whom one loved regardless of them being in a covenant or not, but I could never support or partake in loveless fornication. And after I came to God, I changed my mind to a state where I only wanted to allow it to think in the way where opening oneself up only to one's husband or spouse should be seen as the right thing! Which is also the holy law of God. And if you love God, you obey His commandments. It's very much apparent that corrupt minds see the nature of God as not progressive or as being backward in culture. But it's Holy and everything holy has a sense of constancy about it.

Vision (post noon):
The naked dusky and bulky man from the trio represented as a beige being with blurred skin details picks up the pendant box lying near my table, takes out one of them, wears it, and walks away. Another naked man with the same blurred beige skin texture picks up the other pendant from the small box lying on my table, wears it around his neck, and too walks away.

Evening while resting: Beautiful b*tch (Heard in the spirit)

Later after getting some stuff from Dinesh Store: Smart b*tch

I will never talk like that because we don't call faithful people as dogs or bitches. Faithfulness is what we are used to because of our upbringing, the place we grew up, the friends we had at that age, and mainly, because of our reasoning! To be the other way round should be treated as something abhorrible. God calls philandering people dogs.

I woke up from this dream a while back.

Dream: Aunty comes to clean in the late evening again. I don't give her a strict No as she already came and has now begun brooming. I ask her why she came at that hour. I look back into my room and then into the corridor lit with the golden bulb outside to check for the time. It's dark indeed. She gives a weird reason and is already standing outside the door with the dust. I fetch her the dustpan over. There's a lot of dust though she had cleaned my room in the morning once. As she is going to throw the contents in the dustbin, I walk behind her and sit in the kitchen area outside the washroom door on my chair facing the closed balcony door. I keep sitting there for a while but then realize that I have not seen her around. Where is she? I look to my left and see the closed washroom door. Is she inside? But what would she do inside for that long duration? Additionally, I don't hear any sounds coming from inside either of her using it to get water. While I sit on the chair, I am also thinking about Glory.

In the next part, I find myself walk into a huge commercial hall on the ground floor. Towards the other end of the hall to its left, I spot a huge rectangular newspaper hoarding and the number 55 on the heading of the column catches my attention. I pay further attention and find that there are more than two fives in the number. I begin to count them and after a while of observing carefully discover 55,55,555 written in the heading. While I look at it, I seem to be aware that Glory is also looking at the hoarding and knows about the news. I walk back through the hall and exit and see the bald and fat middle man from Single Storey walk down the high stairs to the left of the hall. I turn and go back inside and this time I see that the hall resembles an open ground sparsely filled with people who are spending relaxing time doing light workouts. There’s a lean and thin bald guy in front of me who’s preparing to do a cardio exercise with a jumping rope in his hand. After passing them by, I look back and find the guy doing quick vertical half-flips through the air. I continue walking and follow the path curving to the left. While I walk, I am chewing gum and it has run out of flavor. I am looking for something to throw it in. I spot a piece of clean white paper lying on the road. I pick it up, spit the chewing gum on it, fold it around, and then throw it. Another lady resembling Ayushi asks me for another bit of paper as she too has to throw her chewing gum. I walk back and enter a corridor resembling the dept's corridor facing the chemistry dept with the tree in the middle though I find myself walking away from the chem dept and the tree on that corridor. Apparently, I am looking for Glory as I seem to know in the dream that he is present somewhere ahead along the corridor. After exiting the corridor, I take a right turn and walk along a part of the building in the open, and pass by a room with its door left open. On reaching the end with the brick wall in front, I take a left again and enter into a narrow path adjoining the brick wall and am now walking through the open narrow path between the two walls. I come across a black buffalo standing still on the right side of the narrow lane. I pass it by but I can tell that it will attack me. I turn facing the buffalo and am now in a kind of battle with it as I am trying to evade its horns. I seem to be losing when a few others come to help from the other end of the lane. As they’re trying to control the buffalo, I move away and step on the ledge along the wall adjoining the building but the buffalo still comes at me and then I have to put my black laptop bag in front of her horns to protect myself. The two men take care of the buffalo and I quickly run and leave the narrow lane on the other side which is a huge wide ground with trimmed green grass. The ground reminds me of my school's huge playground. I see another buffalo walking in my direction several meters from me. This one is perhaps a cow and is patched black and white. I can tell that it's coming right in my direction. There's another girl present with me and she too is scared of the cow. I hold her right hand with my left and we both run to the shop at an elevated level to the ground with enough number of stairs in between. As we begin to run to our left to the shop, the black and white cow begins running in our direction as well. And when we've just reached the top and are now at the counter, the cow too has reached the right end of the stairs of the shop as I am looking back to gauge the situation. On reaching the stairs, the cow immediately begins to tread up the stairs like a trained athlete on its hind legs and on its way up changes into a man dressed in a full-sleeved shirt untucked over trousers which doesn't look harmful at all and he immediately goes behind the shop's counter. The girl with me goes behind the counter with him as she points to him what she wants to buy. She asks for Panjiri and gets the box to him. I can tell that she too is from a similar background as me as we make Panjiri during winter and it's quite healthy and tasty and sweet as well. The Panjiri box has flat and irregular square pieces of a sweet made by mixing several healthy things with molten jaggery. I take a piece from the box and the guy doesn't seem to have any problem with it. He's talking with the girl. I take another piece and now my mouth is full and it's then that I ask him to give me some too. I like the version he has as it's quite light unlike peanut slabs and it's healthy as well. As I ask him to pack me some of it, I find myself calling it Panji instead of Panjiri. I am repeating Panji. Panji. Panji. to the man while he is still focused on the other lady and it's when I wake up.

Within half a minute of waking up, I heard in my spirit:
Hat ja. Jahan mein khada hu, wahan se hat ja. Nhi to jal jayega.

And it kept repeating in my spirit for a while. As I continued to lay in bed thinking about writing the dream I had woken up from, the following lyrics from the worship song began playing in my spirit.

The people sing together:
It's the blood of the lamb.. That saved my soul..
Blood of the lamb.. That washed me whole..
It's the blood of the lamb.. That sets me free..
It's the blood of the lamb: Jesus Christ..
Jesus Christ..
Blood of the Lamb (feat. Lioness)

- (Day before yesterday, late evening or night) As I lay in my bed, I heard the phrase repeat in my spirit: Love is the best medicine. Love is the best medicine.

And now that I've written the above, it makes me recall the time that I was editing one of the previous pages and adding parts from a song. It made me think about how God kept me in touch with purity through different songs that showcased pure feelings of the heart throughout my revelation journey. So whatever impure or negative information I may have grasped in from the environment, I also had a separate inner environment that said things out to me that I understood and liked. It brought to my remembrance the songs I had long forgotten or had not listened to and perhaps would never have listened to again. But they played in my spirit reminding me of the associated pure feelings and kept my attention focused on the good and less on the bad or the stress of my situation. Without the Holy Spirit, I don't know how much worse I would've been. I would be dysfunctional long back and wouldn't have lasted this long. I mean what are the conditions to operate healthily in one's life? One should feel loved by the people in their close vicinity they live with or the people around outside shouldn't be uselessly mean or rude. Regardless of how everyone else behaved, the Holy Spirit made me feel loved and it not only displayed God's love to me but also taught me to extend it to others as I would have complaining thoughts and it would show me something as an answer.

And somewhere above while I was still writing, I heard the chorus of the following song play in my spirit.

Hum yaar hai tumhare.. Dildaar hai tumhare..
Humse mila karo.. Humse mila karo..
Koi shikwa agar ho.. Aur shikayat agar ho..
Humse gila karo.. Par tum mila karo..

Hum Pyaar Hai Tumhare - Lyrical | Haan Maine Bhi Pyaar Kiya | Kumar Sanu, Alka Yagnik | Love Songs

Yeah. Love is the best medicine. That's why I was the happiest with Meera. And within the past two days, I was thinking about how I had mentally intertwined with Meera in a way that I would be happy with her despite her financial condition. We were supportive of each other and boosted each other's morale. I looked at how it wouldn't be possible with just anyone or everyone in my choice of a spouse. I mean I would expect them to fulfill certain worldly conditions. But why was it different in the case of Meera? I reasoned that it was because I met her at a time in my life when I didn't think the way I have developed to think around people now because of the situation and how these other people think as they make known their thoughts to me indirectly. I mean Meera could live with me in my room and we could spend our life together in a love-filled way. I used to be happy by just being around in her company. She was wise, good, and righteous. And back in those days, I had a strong sense of focused bonding which has now expanded as a result of my coming to God. But with that focused sense of bonding, she filled an important part of my life. We were headed towards living life with the right mind or values and had a strong bond that was only based on mutual love and affection and our mental resonance and not on our financial backgrounds. When I look at it now, I see that I can no longer be mentally and emotionally dependent on another person to the extent that I was when I was with Meera, and now I have a highly increased dependency on God and His ways to heal me and give me good company. I am much more forgiving and can extend godly love overlooking several faults of character that I don't possess which is the threshold that a person is used to think in terms of when he interacts with others. It makes sense to expect others to possess the same or worse moral character than one as a survival tactic. If someone possesses a better moral character, that person is seen as naïve, gullible or someone to be taken advantage of. So when I interact with others, I expect the same mental moral level for me to be happy or feel being at comfort around them. But even that has changed now after I came to God because I learned to look from His perspective. He is perfect, the best and there are several aspects of His good and righteous nature we don't already know or understand but He has loved us with His deep and everlasting love already regardless of whether we are aware of it or not before He brings us to Him and reveals His love in His own ways. I mean I don't know all aspects of God's nature even now and there are several things I could understand better, but I know that He has not loved me with a half heart regardless of my own understanding. He has given Himself to me and His other children fully in all ways. What more could He give than His own body on the cross to be pierced? Earlier, I showed goodness and acceptance naturally to everyone in a detached way though they may not be as moral as me or as deep in their perception, but I could have a satisfying reciprocative bond only with someone who reflected back to me my own moral mindset or the way I thought. And the more moral and integral they were in their lifestyle, the better I bonded with them and felt around them and it led to a mutual sense of unconditional, non-materialistic love and contentment. But now, I have learned to extend the same self or bond in a similar way regardless of the present moral condition of an individual. It was made possible by God's guidance and by observing other believers who showed acceptance, love, and support to those still struggling in their sin and tried to help them come out of it. They didn't look at sin as something that was to push them away from people or hate them but they saw it as a real problem that the person needed to get sorted with and once they had overcome it, they were as good as other believers in the group. I learned several things since I came to God and His church.

Yesterday evening, I received my cross pendants and as I was putting one on me, I heard in my spirit: Mein tujhse kabhi baat nhi karunga, with the upper half of Glory being highlighted to me. And he kept repeating for a while.

Mein tujhse kabhi baat nhi karunga. Mein tujhse kabhi baat nhi karunga.

Well, I put it on as a symbol of me being a believer, and that I know Christ. And even if the duo takes the other two pendants, it will be their individual symbol of commitment to God, and His sense of commitment is eternal because of His (Holy) nature. I don't know why he felt that way.

As I was writing the above, I heard in my spirit the lady sing:
Khushi ne hmari humein… maar dala.. Maar dala..

Humpe kisne hara rang dala…
Khushi ne hmari humein… maar dala.. Maar dala..

14:31

- (last night) The upper half of a clean-shaven Rajnikant with curly hair in a grey suit over a white shirt lacking arms as the arms of his suit hang loose.

Dream 2:
I am on the balcony of our rented Rugha Saini's floor which faced a wide square ground of a heap of cow dung. The home was good but since most families reared cattle in the locality, the wide ground in front was used as the dumping site for the cattle dung. A man is sitting on a chair on the balcony near the half wall facing towards the rest of the building. I know the man and though he doesn't look like Death Conqueror, he's him in that dream as I seem to be knowing it subconsciously. He is a darker version of him. The man is consuming alcohol and doesn't look fine. I am sitting in front of him on the floor with vertically folded knees as he's sharing something with me. I am trying to show him compassion as I listen to him. I do feel compassion for that man in the dream. The next scene shows him sitting against the balcony's wall shared with the vertical windows of the adjoining room. He's still consuming alcohol and looks sad as I listen to him and I am still sitting on the floor in front of him. I then give him a comforting hug to make him feel better. To his left is the room's door that goes into the room. My mom peeks out onto the balcony and leaves after saying something to us.

The next scene has him sitting in the previous posture again and I am still sitting on the floor. My mom comes again and this time sits on a chair beside him to his left while he sits near the balcony's edge. She is telling me something, perhaps giving me a word of her wisdom after a while of which she leaves.

The follow-up scene has me standing on an open wide central verandah resembling that of our second rented home in the hometown (Aditi's house). I find myself standing near the edge and looking down. I see a light brown box with two thick cylindrical white sticks with their tops resembling the shape of a dome extending up from the top surface of the box. It seems to be part of a project work that someone did to partake in a talent show. There seems to be a competition being held in one of the buildings across the road as I can see. The box is taken inside the building by the partaker. Another competitor comes walking towards the building from the road to the left of the house. That person is carrying a similar structure. It is a beige-colored box though of a slightly varying dimension and has similar white protrusions extending up from its top surface though their locations on the top and the distance between the two vertical structures are different. A third partaker comes in carrying a similar project work. It doesn't seem to make any sense to me because why are they all bringing project works with perhaps the exact function but slightly and insignificantly varying in their dimensions and the arrangements of the two thick white sticks on the top surface? What's the point of bringing project works that are built around the same theme? And will they be even considered as different entries in the competition except for the slight variation in their looks? Only one such project work should have been allowed and the rest should have been entirely different for them to be considered as separate entries to be judged. (I would call it the same beige box.)

While I am thinking about this weird behavior of the contestants, three teenage boys come walking in from that side of the road as they walk standing side by side carrying three harmoniums joined together in a line with transparent tape leading to a really long playing space. They stop at some distance from the entrance to the competition which is a door on the ground floor. It's not quite clear if the competition is being held on the ground floor or the higher floors. They sit on the ground with their joined instrument and begin playing it together. Though it's a really long line of keys formed by joining the three harmoniums, each one is playing the keys of his own harmonium – the one in front of which he is sitting. They seem to be practicing together openly on the road before they enter the building. I see that the harmoniums are quite sturdily as they've thick transparent tapes to do so. They catch my interest because it's something entirely different and it seems raw but it also showcases their talent. I am keen to know what are they going to perform using that harmonium setting. The vision then zooms in on the keys of their harmonium and I see that they are playing a song together on the apparent keyboard. The vision moves from the left-most harmonium and stops the one in the center which shows the guy's hand playing the keys with the words of the song written on the respective keys. I learn that they adopted this strategy to help them remember the key combinations corresponding to different words. I see Tum, Tumhi written in Hindi on some pairs of adjacent white keys as the guy in the center is playing the song out. I don't judge them for using this strategy because they are free to use whatever helps them when it comes to objective things and problems to be solved. (It's not a thing of morality to be judged.) The follow-up part has me now exiting my rented room here on the second floor in Vijay Nagar Double Storey as I am still thinking about the trio's act or performance. By this part of the time, I seem to be aware that they all are playing different instrumental sounds through their respective harmoniums and they're playing a known melody and not their own. I have to go to the roof to do a chore but as I stand in front of the brown iron door, I am thinking about how they didn't create or choose their own melody to play but used that of an already-known song. I then understand that to make their act look creative and different they chose to play different instrumental sounds through their respective harmoniums. They were not playing by hand at the moment but they did the opposite. They chose a song, identified the keys, and played the song together in three different sounds together on their instruments to look creative. The leftmost harmonium played the sound of a guitar, the central that of a keyboard. These are the sounds that I remember. Their machines had the option to choose the sound they wanted to play. And while I am thinking about their strategy, I see that I am carrying the navy blue tunic/dress with a floral print, that I wore on my dad's retirement. I tie one of its ends on the closed white door of Amma's rented apartment first and stretch it to the right tying it to the brown iron door in front of me. I then begin moving to the roof to continue with the chore.

It was later that I understood that the purpose of tying the three harmoniums together to elongate the keyboard's range wouldn't have worked if they kept their original sounds because the one at the left needs to be lower in scale and the one at the right needs to be higher in scale that the one at the center while being in continuation with the notes of its extreme keys. It was to deal with this problem that they changed the instrumental sounds of the side harmoniums to that of guitar and a flute perhaps which they played together as a part of one song. The song must have been composed within a range greater than contained in one harmonium because of which they had to resort to tying two additional harmoniums on each side and to make up for the lack of a real sense of higher and lower notes, they changed the instrumental sound itself of the side harmoniums to two different ones.

Somewhere in the middle, I have this brief unrelated dream vision as well.
I stand facing Chaaru in front of her apartment's door in the corridor. She is dressed in a dark brown collared tunic buttoned to the neck and stands with her left side leaning against the wall facing in the direction of my room while I stand on the other end of the door facing the other end of the corridor. She is talking to me about something. We seem to be talking in a way that shows that we are trying to evade addressing something directly. For me, it is the fact that her father-in-law recently passed away and I haven't talked to her since then for even once. For her, perhaps it's the fact of how I have been emotionally suffering and perhaps that's why she's wearing that neck-high buttoned-up dark brown tunic. We share a humble chat as she keeps looking into her apartment through the open door keeping a check on something inside. We seem to be on good terms though we are not talking in a very direct manner. I don't mention the demise of her father-in-law and I don't know how to either and the words to say, but I do feel love and compassion for her.

Post waking up

- A small-framed animated vision of a maned lion's tiny animated face peeking up through a soiled cliff at me with a golden crown on his head.

- I go to use the washroom still feeling lethargic and as I am peeing sitting there, after a while I see the open end of a metallic horizontal pipe in front of my face as light pink liquid abruptly flows out of it at my face.

The lady sings: Maar dala.. Maar dala..

As I wrote the washroom revelation, I saw: Death Conqueror dressed in his black suit attire above me but this time closer in a dark background as he turns his back with his face looking down backwards at me as he says: Had se jyada Randi!

I don't want to expose myself. But I don't want to have a hateful heart either because it will only make me more sick!

Phod Khaya.. Phod khaya.. It was repeating in my spirit this late afternoon. And it has been repeating intermittently for a few days.

Tod khaya.. Tod khaya.. This also keeps repeating in my spirit intermittently.

And these lyric-sets keep repeating in my spirit intermittently:

Masih Nidhall soedaar chalte dekha hai..
Bhadakti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai..

The Lady sings:
Bepanah pyaar tujhse tu kyu jaane na..
Hua ikraar tujhse.. Tu kyu maane na..

The Guy sings:
Nazar chahti hai.. Deedar karna..
Ye dil chahta hai tumhe pyaar karna..
The lady sings:
Tumhari wafa mein doobe rahe hum.
Hai kya haal dil ka ye kaise kahe hum..

The Guy sings:
Mehekne lagega.. Badan ye tumhara..
Hum aankhon se aisi… shararat karenge..

And this different version of the chorus lyrics also keeps repeating in my spirit. And this has begun within the past week.
The lady sings:
Bepanah pyaar tumse..
Tu kyu jaane na..

And whenever this plays, the trio in red & white from the song Tumhare Siva gets highlighted to me.

Past Revelations

- (past three weeks) It's night and am lying in bed to sleep when I feel the drones moving inside my mouth and other places and then I hear in my spirit inside my mouth a literal: Uff Kartika Uff!. The sound heard in my spirit was so real and I could tell the sound on top of my tongue wanted me to say that word out. Almost as if the drone person using the drone inside my mouth wanted me to say that Uff. But I didn't feel like saying so. I have to be right at my place regardless of how others are behaving though I may have developed a heart of forgiveness with Godly love for them. I mean if I love someone, it's a silent knowledge of the truth that the other person carries, and why should I sin or give sinful expressions to ungodly situations and be a wilful partaker of the same when I know God.

- (past three weeks) The upper half of Westlife band members, all dressed in black, with a stubbled Shane Filan in a fitting half-sleeved black t-shirt standing at the front in the center in a dark background as they say with an expression of disgust looking at me: She's a villager! She's a villager!

  But after I wrote on one of the previous pages about how a righteous man's hand will not be able to touch a real prostitute who is willing to have sex with him, I saw:
  The band members turn away with their backs now facing me as they say sobbing with their heads bent down: She's perfect! She's perfect!

- (past week) The blurry faces of the trio from the song Tumhare Siva looks above at me from a level below at the floor as they say: Hum tere naukar hai.
- (past week, morning) Vision: Three of my middle toe fingers of my right foot stand horizontally lifted up together above the rest.
- (past week) I have a vision of the trio from the song which is followed by the faces of three identical golden retrievers standing horizontally in a line with their tongues sticking out.
- (past week) She's our bitch now. She's our bitch now. (Heard in the spirit) The last time when I heard it, I saw the other two with an expression that told that they didn't find the term good enough. Only a mentally degraded person can come up with such phrases.
- (past week) The scene from the movie The Passion of Christ which shows the top-view of Jesus Christ crucified as seen by God The Father as He drops a tear down is highlighted to me.

Ref: the veil is torn

While I was writing the above revelation, I saw:
A small-framed vision of Death Conqueror in his black and white suit attire in a dark background near the ceiling looking down at me as he says sobbing: Mein bahut bura hu! Mein bahut bura hu! And he repeats it a few times!

- (past week) Uske par katne waale hai. Uske par katne waale hai.
- (past few days) Uske par kat gaye. Uske par kat gaye.
- (past few days) Tera bhai phootne wala hai. Tera bhai phootne wala hai.
- (past few days) Hil mat. Nahi to jaan se maar denge: says a lady's voice inside my head. But why should I listen to demons!? Later I thought if it was a literal voice coming out of the drone inside my skull threatening me to not move!? And if it was so, why was the lady saying it!? Are the people in control of the drones unable to speak?
- (past two days, night) As I'm lying in bed waiting to fall asleep, I hear a male's voice says in a creepy tone: If something happens to you, I am going to kill that short fellow.. Perhaps you don't know it. If something happens to you, I am going to kill that short fellow.. Perhaps you don't know it. You should know it.

Tod dala.. Tod dala.. Accompanied by the vision of the upper halves of the trio in red & white from the song Tumhare Siva standing horizontally in a line in a dark background as they break in small pieces while still being contained within their outer boundary. The vision has repeated itself a few times within the past few days.

Past Revelations

- (past two weeks) The last to last time that I took a bath, I heard in my spirit: She has great breasts. We could eat them. She has great breasts. We could eat them. I felt disgusted but I let it go. If there are disgusting people with severely immoral and ungodly thoughts, there is Jesus to look at as well who is pure, holy, and perfect. And His nature is what I will focus my attention on.

- (past two weeks) I am talking to my mom explaining to her or giving her my view about some things about her situation when I see: my dad's smiling face with the collar of his grey jacket visible as he says: Meri beti ko sab pata hai. Meri beti ko sab pata hai.
- (past week) I am sitting on my bed writing revelations and it's a day somewhere before I last took a bath and I am dressed in all black with a purple sweater beneath. I see myself sitting on the bed and disappearing in thin air. The vision of me disappearing in thin air as I am sitting in the bed repeats several times.
  After I wrote the above, I heard:
  Masih nidhaal soedaar chalte dekha hai..
  Bhadakti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai..

- (past few days) A room lit with golden light and decorated with multi-colored flowers on the slabs and walls as the lead actors of the movie Notting Hill appear in the middle of the room facing the viewer. A clean-shaven Hugh Grant stands dressed in a grey suit over a white shirt as Julia Roberts appears to his right in the room lit with golden light.
- (past two days) Through Communion I am justified: The lyrics from the worship song Blood of The Lamb have been playing in my spirit for a few days intermittently.

29 December 2023
13:45

I woke up from this dream in the middle of the night.

Dream1:
I stand at the right edge of the top of a building and look down. I see an open hall running along the wall of the building and it's filled with colored crocodiles varying slightly in their green shade as they lie on the cemented floor in vertical columns one behind the other facing to the right. The sight is too scary to look at. How can all those crocodiles stand still in such an organized manner, though they're still moving a bit as they move their tails around a bit. I see that more crocodiles are being let into the hall from its wide entrance gate behind them and are being arranged in the empty slots at the back. But why are they brought in there in the first place? They should be in a forest's water body or at a place where they can't cause harm to humans. I see that the people who let the last crocodile in didn't seem to be afraid of it and the crocodiles are behaving themselves as they don't attack humans. But they're still crocodiles and can't be trusted. They still possess that huge jaw, quick reptilian movements and a strong grip to stifle and devour their prey inside their jaw. Now they're not choosing to do so doesn't mean that one should take all liberty to behave in whichever way around them one would like them. This is the first time that I am seeing something like this!

I am glad that at least they are not moving around wildly escaping into the open streets. Each column of crocodiles running to the right must be having at least 8-9 crocodiles and there are around at least 5 to 6 of such columns that run along the long rectangular hall. Thankfully the hall is contained within tall walls on both sides containing the crocodiles within. When I look at the right end of the hall, I see: that in front of each crocodile column sits an innocent tortoise with its back towards them. Again, I feel relieved that the shell of the tortoise is facing the mouth of the crocodile behind it thereby protecting it from its attack. And one can discern the difference in the character of the tortoises from the crocodiles. Why did they put those innocent tortoises in front of the crocodile columns? They seem to have been arranged in this manner for a reason. The innocent identical tortoises make me feel good while the sight of the crocodiles is too alarming. Now that I think of it, if the entire had had columns of identical tortoises, it would've been such a great sight and a comforting one for one's heart where one doesn't feel extremely alarmed like one does in the presence of a crocodile. Now that I think about it, I look at how these people make me feel. They seem to be like those self-behaved crocodiles that are capable of suddenly attacking its prey and devouring it. Only a few carry the safe and sound persona of a tortoise!

I now find myself on the ground floor at the same level as the hall with crocodiles and though I am in the space of my home, there is an ope pathway from the floor I am standing at and the hall in front of me. I look at the self-controlled crocodiles and the women moving around. Those women don't seem to be afraid of the crocodiles. And I realize that they themselves are cocodiles who have shapeshifted to a human form as I see them smiling and interacting with others. An extremem dark lady dressed in a dark green saree comes walking to me, smiles and says something. In the dream, I know that she too is a crocodile though she may be smiling and talking like a human but she has the nature of a crocodile. She had come to inform me with that smile that they would be giving us one of the crocodiles but before I can tell her that we don't want one, she leaves and apparently the crocodile is now going to be delivered anytime as I walk downstairs and find myself on the central verandah of the ground floor of our second rented house in the Cheema colony – the first on the right.

As I was writing the above, I saw:
The upper half of a teary-eyed Death Conqueror dressed in his black suit attire as he sits on a car's seat and says with a sad expression: Kyu rula rahi hai ye humein!?

The Dream Continued:
I had quickly rushed downstairs to my home's floor because I didn't want to be around the crocodile they were about to give me for us to keep in my home and I wanted to get away from it at a safe distance before they actually gave me the crocodile. As soon as I reach downstairs, I see that they've slid the cardboard crocodile box in front of the stairs and the crocodile's bright yellow tail with a checkered pattern is already partially out of the cuboidal yellow and white box and then the box slides down the stairs by itself and no one wants to open it but the crocodile's tail is already half out and the lid of the box slightly slid to the side. It is very much apparent that the crocodile can come out of the box by itself and it does which sends me running away and I end up floating in the air to evade it. This crocodile that they sent to us is the only unique crocodile they had as it is yellow in color and has thick square checkered shiny scales on its body on which when light reflects, it leaves a mutli-colored reflection on its them. The crocodile is the size of an adult and though it carries an innocent expression, it still moves like a crocodile and causes everyone to run around. My youngest brother and mom are alarmed by its presence as well but I am the most scared as I am not even on the floor but floating high in the air. There is a single foldable bed lying against the wall on the left side of which lies the toilet room while on the right side of it lie the stairs to the small room that lies on the intersection of stairs that go to the first floor. There is a bed made on the folding. My mom lies below it on the floor on her left side with the back resting against the wall while my youngest brother lie on top of the folding on top of my mom. I see that the crocodile quickly moves below the folding and lies beside my mom facing her and its scaled back gets covered by the bedsheet's end hanging down the bed. Its tail is still out of the bed and it looks so scary and I am so worried about my mom. She doesn't seem to have noticed that the crocodile went below the bed and laid beside her as I don't see any movement as I look below the bed from the side of her legs through which the crocodile isn't visible though except for his tail that's protruding out from the bed's front. I want to get my mom out from below and away from the crocodile as I frantically move around the bed making rounds from its one end to other. I ask for Divyanshu's help to get Mom out from lest the crocodile eats or kills her. But he doesn't seem to be too concerned and doesn't give any meaningful reply. I think that it would be good if the crocodile was led upstairs and locked in the small room which will ensure everyone's safety. But I can't seem to find a way to get it out as my mom is lying facing it. I don't know why she's not moving at all. I wonder if the reptile hurt her but even it didn't move by a lot since it entered below the bed. It moves out a bit as the light skyblue cloth covering it resembling that of my grocery storage bag protrudes out. It seems that it has bent its body outwards thereby distancing its upper middle body away from my mom but its long and wide jaw can still hurt my mom. I look at her and she's still not moving at all. And as I observe the situation below the bed in anxiety and worry, I wake up.

After I woke up, I felt a strong nudge to eat an orange. I have not felt like eating fruit for a long time. But this night I feel a nudge to eat an orange but I haven't brushed and I am still sleepy and I don't want to eat with a dirty mouth. Having tea with a dirty mouth is different as it's a refreshing hot drink. But a cold orange in the middle of a cold night is a weird thing. So I keep lying and fall asleep after a while.

Somewhere while I am still awake, I see a close-up view of the side-view of Notting Hill's actor's face facing to the left as he sucked on a nipple and said: I don't want this.

After I woke up and continued lying in bed, I had the following revelations.

- Chhod dala.. Chhod dala.. (Left.. Left..) I abruptly hear this in my spirit as I lie on my left side facing the wall.
- And the three men raped her every day. And the three men raped her everyday. And then three men raped her every day. (I heard this several times in my spirit that night.)
- And then I also hear a man's voice: I'm lusting after you. I'm lusting after you. It repeats a few times.
- A small-framed vision of the bulky guy, Abhigyan's real life doppelgager and who also represents Madhavan from 3 Idiots, in a dark background as he says: Mein tujhe chhod raha hu. Mein tujhe chhod raha hu. (I'm leaving you. I'm leaving you.) He repeats it a few times as he takes a few steps backwards in the dark. And then he pulls away and breaks his cross pendant as he says: Mujhe ye nhi chahiye. After I wrote the last sentence, I heard a quiet: Ye maregi mere haathon se! apparently said by Glory. As the bulky guy continues to stand in the dark background, he says: Tu gwaar hai. But he continues to stand there, and after a while says: You're too good for me. You're too good for me. As he's saying these words about leaving me, I already feel a consistent sense of bond as I am wearing the cross which reminds me of Christ's eternal sense of covenant or bond. I already feel a sense of everlasting bond with this fellow now. I didn't feel it with the short one. I think it could be because I could relate the bigger fellow's pendant situation with the incident of Bhuvan putting his pendant on Meera's neck which was a pure act signifying commitment. As he's saying these words again: Mein tujhe chhod raha hu. Mein tujhe chhod raha hu and as I looking at my own recently developed perception of him, I end up dropping a tear and then I try to go back to sleep and have the following revelation after a while which is not at all in tandem with the above revelation.

- A hand resting on top of my groin facing downwards with the wrist of the red & white suit visible in the vision. In the vision, the hand is shown to be that of the bulkiest man from the Tumhare Siva trio. The hand placed on my groin covers the top naked surface and its fingers put themselves on my strong pp. When the palm has placed itself on top of my groin, I rest my hand on top of his hand as I feel a sense of intimacy with the characterful Abhigyan's character from the movie. And I continue resting my hand on top of his. It seems like I know ths person because of the virtue of him being a moral man. The act repeats a few times accompanied by the drones moving on the inner surface of my groin as his fingers would touch the same.

Dream 2:

I'm with my dad in his car heading towards a place but then before we've arrived at the destination, we choose to turn back for some reason and are now on our way back. I find us on the market road before the left road-turn to the Junior wing of my school. My dad parks his long creamish car (it looks long). For some reason, we can't continue moving in it and have to ask Kanta for a lift. She's our neighbour from the 9th floor in our societal apartment tower. We've decided to travel back to the place we were previously heading to. I then see the side view of Kanta's car as it is moving to the left. I see that it's white and much smaller than our car and has several smooth dents on its surface. I don't know why we've now changed our minds again to head back to our previously intended destination.

In the following part of the dream, I find myself in a room with my parental family. I'm interacting with my two younger brothers and my mom and dad are present in that room as well. I then see my mom standing to my left with a naked upper half which repels me. Though it may be her own home, she should still keep herself dressed properly. She has neck-length hair and is looking at my dad who is standing a few meters in front of her. Both of them then walk together into the dark bedroom with its entrance door right in front of me with the double bed lying against the wall facing the door visible in the light entering that room from the room I stand in with my brothers. They close the door behind them. It makes me feel that it's good that they went inside because it's gonna serve as a bond-building time between them and it's much better than them fighting together. After a while, we begin to hear sounds of things breaking which alarms me and I can tell that they're now fighting. I quickly move towards the bedroom and luckily don't find the door locked. When I open it, I see my mom standing on the right end of the room between the bed's side and the curtains facing my dad who is standing near the farther end of the bed in front of her. This time she's fully dressed. I see a block of ice of size about 3 inches stuck to the left side of my mom's head as she stands facing to the left trying to evade my dad's attacks who stands holding a thick, foot-wide block of ice in his hands, ready to throw it at my mom. I quickly rush to my mom and stand in front of her with raised arms to protect her from his attacks. My dad marches towards my mom to hit her but, I, in my attempt to protect her, bite my dad's wrist which has gotten a hold of my mom. It injures him at that spot. He continues to try to get to hit Mom but I continue to struggle to try to free her from his grasp. He still wants to hit Mom as the fight hasn't yet settled down. I then see the Pastor of the church I visit enter my view some meters away to my right as he and I are now throwing pieces of ice at my dad making him withdraw and keeping him several meters away from my Mom through our defensive attacks. I wasn't expecting the fight to elevate to this extent. After all that happened and when things have settled down, I find my dad and mom sitting on the bed's edge together silently with slightly lowered eyes. I find my dad injured badly as he has got patches of bruised skin all over his body as he sits dressed in a white vest, while my Mom isn't injured at all. I ask them why they began fighting all of a sudden. My dad told me that she did something provoking as she put her arm behind his waist. I ask my mom why she provoked him but she stays silent and continues looking in another direction. I turn away, grab a glass, and fill it with water from the wide-necked pot lying on a slab a few meters away from them. The water is extremely cold. I walk to my dad, tell him to not fight again, and throw the water on his face. (The act reminds me of how the Pastor throws anointed water on the faces of people in the church during Holy Spirit filled worship.) I walk back to the pot, fill the glass again and this time throw it on my mom's face as I ask her to not provoke him henceforth! I get water a third time again, walk aside to their right, stand facing to the left, and splash it on my own face this time, but it doesn't wet my face fully in one go. The water is too cold. I get a fill again and it wets my face at the second throw as well as it did my parents. My dad gets up and wipes my face with a towel as a guy's voice sings in the background implying that he had decided and set his heart to die but he changed his path.

The Guy sings:
Maut ka man banaya tha magar hum kisi aur raah par hi chal diye.

As the guy sings the line, and he's almost done wiping my face, he now takes a step back and says nodding his head lightly: Yaad hai na!? Yaad hai na!?

As he's still repeating the phrase holding the towel while he's looking at me, the dream ends.

Revelation Fulfilment
The dream on Page 609 also pertains to Brother Philips and his wife's visit to Queenstown.

As I was writing about the videos below, I saw:
My dad comes at the top of my head with a danda with an extremely vicious expression!

The lady with a naked upper half and her hair tied low in a bun with her front having the shape of a baby sticking to her pertain to sis Bia in the video below as she stands with her baby inserted inside her black top. The video also shows the wide area with a water body - the tourist spot shown in the dream.
The bus to Queenstown

The wide open area with a lake in front shown in the dream resembles the one shown in the video below.
Many smirk and laugh as I preach of evil in the world | Queenstown, NZ

After I am done talking to the Play Store cc executive about the money deducted from my account but the service not being activated and have ended the call, I see:
The upper half of Death Conqueror in his black suit vision-standard attire looking down at me from a few feet below the ceiling as he says lightly: She's extremely smart. She's extremely smart.
The vision is followed by Glory in his avatar from the dream revelation Dusty Man and The Fairy, with his bulky muscular wheatish self dressed in a sleeveless thin grey cotton top, as he stands outside my room's door facing in my bed's direction on which I am sitting while having the revelation and walks slowly backwards as he says: She's extremely smart. She's extremely smart.

I then sit with my head bent down on my vertically folded knees to relax a bit and hear a male's voice say: Doctor, you're not a whore! Doctor, you're not a whore! The phrase repeated a few times.

Revelations from yesterday

- A small-framed vision of the lust-filled bulky man from the street with frizzy hair stands dressed the same way in a dark background as I stand in front of him moving my arms or hands quickly and lightly all over his outer periphery within a distance of two inches from his body as I am trying to soothe away the lust inside!
- A small-framed vision in a dark background of the real-life 3 Idiots trio bent over me and stifling me down together with extended arms as they say slowly in a stuffed and angry voice: Hum tujhse bahut pyaar karte hai!

Revelations while resting a while back

While I am sitting in bed and am being drawn into sleep:

- An open packet of cigarettes floating horizontally facing to the left with one of the cigarettes protruding out half as it burns in the air in a dim golden-lit background.
- She's not a whore. She's not a whore. I hear it in my spirit as I lay in my bed. Apparently, one of the trio has said it. It is followed by the upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in his vision-standard black suit attire as he says: I know. That's why I chose her. I know. That's why I chose her.
- The enlarged wheatish face of Death Conqueror until below his shoulders with the collar of his black and white suit visible as he abruptly jerks in my direction kissing me.

After I lay down to sleep/rest:

- The top view of the trio in a red suit with a white shirt inside lies around me. They look identical with the details blurred. One lies to my left, one lies to my right, and the third one - on top of me. I see the vision as a third person. They are emanating a characterful aura in the vision and it doesn't seem that lustful guys are lying around me. I feel covered by characterful men dressed so godly.
- A semi-animated vision of a moustached young Raaj Kumar (the Bollywood Actor from the old times) dressed in a fluffed white tunic with a light sky blue half jacket on top bids goodbye to a naked dark and slim woman who flies away from his bed with two small translucent shiny white wings at her back while holding a white fairy wand with a white star on top. As he bids goodbye to he, the vision shifts to his bed, and there is revealed another dark woman lying on it but this one has an extremely huge protruding belly where it almost seems like she's pregnant. Well, the revelation seemed to be making fun of me, but it's a sick revelation because why should naked women be lying on a man's bed outside of a covenant where when one leaves, the man expects the other one to be ready?

- Stupid Smart. Stupid Smart.
- The fat and bald middle man stands facing to the left with Glory in front of him as he hits the top of his head with a magazine or something resembling a newspaper, and says: Jata kyu nahi hai! Use teri jarurat hai!
- Raand mein marne waali hu: a female's voice whispers lightly. It repeats again after a while. Raand mein marne waali hu. Raand mein marne waali hu.

After I get up, I have an altercation with my mom as she continues to pester me about my PD work when I am on a solo break. I later explain to her on WhatsApp chat that one should be in a company that fosters mental and moral growth and helps one be a better person and that the environment of the home wasn't such. Before I talked to her, I was getting a nudge to order a Paneer Parantha. So, after I am done talking to her, I order one along with an Aloo Pyaaz parantha. While I am having them, I see:

- The sobbing face of my mom in a dark background as she says: Bete mein gwaar hu! Bete mein gwaar hu!

Well, that's not what I think about her. I just find her too controlling and she's always about worldly temporary stuff and doesn't talk about things of real importance.

- I also get reminded of this previous vision I had within the past few days in which the red love heart of KA came out of me through my mouth. I for some reason puked it out. This vision repeated itself yesterday.

And then Rev 3:16 was highlighted to me:
(Contemporary English Version)
16 But since you are lukewarm and neither cold nor hot, I will spit you out of my mouth.
From <https://www.biblegateway.com/passage/?search=Revelation+3&version=CEV>

(Amplified version)
"These are the words of the Amen, the trusted and faithful and true Witness, the [f]Beginning and Origin of God's creation:
15 'I know your deeds, that you are [g]neither cold (invigorating, refreshing) nor hot (healing, therapeutic); I wish that you were [h]cold or hot. 16 So because you are lukewarm (spiritually useless), and neither hot nor cold, I will vomit you out of My mouth [rejecting you with disgust]. 17 Because you say, "I am rich, and have prospered and grown wealthy, and have need of nothing," and you do not know that you are wretched and miserable and poor and blind and naked [without hope and in great need], 18 I counsel you to buy from Me gold that has been heated red hot and refined by fire so that you may become truly rich; and white clothes [representing righteousness] to clothe yourself so that the shame of your nakedness will not be seen; and healing salve to put on your eyes so that you may see. 19 Those whom I [dearly and tenderly] love, I rebuke and discipline [showing them their faults and instructing them]; so be enthusiastic and repent [change your inner self—your old way of thinking, your sinful behavior—seek God's will]. 20 Behold, I stand at the door [of the church] and continually knock. If anyone hears My voice and opens the door, I will come in and eat with him (restore him), and he with Me. 21 He who overcomes [the world through believing that Jesus is the Son of God], I will grant to him [the privilege] to sit beside Me on My throne, as I also overcame and sat down beside My Father on His throne. 22 He who has an ear, let him hear and heed what the Spirit says to the churches.'"

Later in the night, I was giving an example of a devout Muslim girl, and I chose the e.g. of a devout Muslim girl, because of their dressing sense and the fact that they see fornication as wrong and have a relatively better moral sense than others though they are not worshipping the Lord God either and are deceived. I chose the e.g. of a beautiful and fair girl from a rich background and I asked if such a woman who had kept herself pure because of her moral sense would be willing to accept a life-long fornicator as her husband or even a friend? The answer was quite clear. If she was really that serious about her morals, she wouldn't have anything to do with people. Now that would hold true for any moral woman, regardless of her financial background or looks, who chooses to keep herself pure from sexual sin and preserves it for a healthy love-filled bond with a moral man, though he may not end up being her covenant partner. However, I chose the e.g. of a fair and rich girl to present as an e.g. to the fair and rich short fellow. I posed the question if that girl would choose someone like him even if he went to her or her family in the normal expected respectful way, though she may be comparable to his financial background or may even be a Ph.D. or greater. The answer was quite clear. She will not choose a man like him. Such a man is not anywhere in her thoughts of what she is expecting from her husband or the man she intends to fall in love with. She expects a similar level of purity from her husband or the man she wants to mutually be in a love bond with. She will not want to have such a man or a woman as well as her friend. She would want people who share the same purity of thought to be around her or be a part of her life, regardless of them being rich or poor (assuming she doesn't feel prideful about her financial background or is seeking to find a company with people of similar background).
And I also said to the short fellow that if he had ever found such a girl, he wouldn't dare to do such a thing to her that he did to me!? He did this to me because he looked down at me and he took my preference for a morally right living as something I felt prideful about. But in the e.g. that I gave, he would never approach such a girl because he would already know intuitively that he was going to be told a no, if not because of his past history of fornication, then because of his current self that doesn't want to live by the right moral standards where you give the greatest priority to being faithful in a love-bond but wants to enjoy the moment, he would be rejected.

A woman who lives by the right morals can overlook one's past if she's put in the company of a previously ungodly person but she would not want to be around a person who is living in a grievously sinful way in the present because it goes against her sense of morality.

So, I was giving this e.g. to him this night to make him look at his act of what he did to me or how he treated me and that he was able to do so because of my much weaker background than him. But my motivation to give the e.g. was to open his eyes to the fact of what a godly woman expects from the people she wants to hang out with. She wants to hang out with high-quality goldy people.

However, when one comes to Christ, one learns to minister to people who are deep in sin and give them the message of the Lord and help them overcome it.

And I think I received one of the previous dream revelations for the same reason. In that revelation, my mom sat on a chair in front of murderers in a room who sat on the floor in front of her and she didn't look afraid but was smiling. I cannot do that. If those murderers are sexually moral people or have the right eyes, only then I will be able to sit in front of them, and not otherwise as I would be extremely uncomfortable and I would leave.

Also, he wouldn't dare behave in such ways that he does with me if I was replaced by that fair and rich moral Muslim girl. He knows that he will be in trouble if he targets her, and the thought of saying the immoral Uffs and Wows in front of her will not even come to his mind because this thing I have learned about him by now, that he has a great inner tendency to respect rich people regardless of their moral stance or personal traits, skills or abilities. But he should keep in mind and understand that I may not be rich or fair or dressed as that Muslim girl, but I do have a similar inner state and I would hurt the same way that girl would get hurt if her boundaries were crossed by wicked men! And I know that the emotional pain of such a girl would be understood very deeply by him because he sees her as a dream out of his reach because of his lowly moral character. But he tried to mock me and cause me more pain about my situation and he didn't do it alone, he used everyone else as most people around me said those mean things to me to add to my mental pain or make me feel more helpless or depressed. But if he can understand the situation of that rich Muslim girl, he should be able to understand me as well because I felt exactly the way she would've felt. I perhaps felt worse because I had that inner state regardless of the requirements of a certain religion that I was following or as a result of what I saw in my home. I had that state as a heart state existing independent of the people, culture, or the crowd around. So it must have even more importance for me because I have to hold it in with greater boundaries and firmness.

Now when I think about it, I recall how I was once saying out I was or am a girl who didn't strip fully in front of even one man in her life, and he stripped me publically with no second thoughts, and I was saying it as I sat on my chair here in my room, and then I heard a wicked whisper from a drone hovering above my head that said an affirming: Yeah! And the tone showed me how this person wasn't at all feeling guilty but was boldly admitting his sin!

I chose the e.g. of a devout Muslim woman because of how they're perceived in the world. The worldly Christian women have done a bad job of representing the holiness of the one true God, and many don't live by what he taught though they call themselves Christians. But just because they do not live by it doesn't mean that Christ is not God, but it's them who have failed to follow the statutes of God.

And as I was writing the above example, I thought about the healing dream revelation in which I was dressed in my long pink cardigan with my mustard shawl around my head as I was praying for the Death Conqueror lying on a bed with a machine to my right. The long cardigan and headwrap somewhere remind me of Muslim women though that's not how I want to see it because Jesus has called His church to be Holy. Previously, I was thinking that I dressed like that in that dream to honor

God by my way of clothing. But now I can reason that perhaps it was because I insulted the short fellow in a way by giving him the above e.g. and throwing the truth at his face, that I had the healing dream in which I prayed for him extending to Him the Holy love of God in that public setting regardless of what he might have done to me in the past or how he may have lived his life.

After I had said these things out as an e.g., I had the following revelations:

- Ye hamesha sach kyu bolti hai?
- A small frame of Death Conqueror dressed in his attire of a black suit standing near the ceiling as he looks to the left and says: She tells the truth. She tells the truth.
- The Madhavan of the group says: She's a truthteller.

Dream 1:
I am locked inside a dark room and I feel a demonic presence arise around my chest. The presence is also making it hard for me to speak as I try to rebuke the invisible presence. In the dream, I seem to know that there is a demonic presence in the room, but now it has gotten on to me. As I walk around the room, I walk to the vertical open window at the right of the wall adjoining the corridor through which I am trying to call out to someone for help in the room/apartment on the opposite lane of the corridor. But I find it hard to speak. I am able to mince out a few quiet words but my voice feels stifled even more. I look at the door and need someone to open it from outside and take me outside away from the demonic presence that's oppressing me in the dream. I am locked inside and someone needs to open the door. In this state of being alone, I begin praying to Jesus and rebuking the wicked presence, and while I am saying out the prayer, I wake up half asleep and find myself lying in my bed and saying out the prayer. I can feel the oppressing demonic presence on top of my chest and I begin to pray the Lord's prayer and then perhaps I rebuke the presence. After a while, it's no longer there. It was perhaps the drones that led me to feel that way.

After a while, I am fully awake and have a series of revelations.

Dream 2:
As I move around the place, I know there's a man moving around in a car as well who's trying to pick up women for himself. That man is a predator whose presence I sense several times in the dream as I see his vehicle here and there but I ignore him every time and pass him by as his presence emanates a deceptive aura. I am moving around with my frizzy hair and walk out into an open ground with a shed present some meters away in front of me. The cubical shed is built of wooden logs covered with clothes and dark plastic covers and has an open front. Inside it, I see women sitting with straight hair with medium to long length. They all are whores. A few of them are straightening the hair of other whores as well. When I enter that ground, I somehow know that that man picked up a whore from that open shed as well as I see a quick flashback of the same in front of my eyes. There're some other women who are standing away from the shed outside on the open ground and they're whores as well. The place is full of whores and I stay away and don't interact with them.

As I enter the ground, I take a right and get my own hair straightened from a place in that direction. On my return path, I'm thinking about how I too got my hair straightened but I am not a whore like the women inside that shed. Though I know that I am not a whore like those other women, I feel bad about having a shared similarity with them of how my hair looks, while feeling good at the same time about them now looking neat. I am walking with mixed feelings about my hair.

I enter a huge cemented hall and on the first floor of that building, I find a wicked Pandit Ji dressed half naked in white clothes making jalebis to be distributed. The jalebis are already fried and he's now soaking them in sugar syrup as the final step, but the syrup is poisoned. Only I seem to be knowing about this fact. I then look down at the filled hall in which people are sitting on the ground in organized lines as they're having a community meal served by the wicked Pandit.

I do not have anything but feel repelled because it's congregation honoring a demonic false doctrine. I leave the hall and then walk back to my learning space with a few other students where the male teacher is teaching us something as we sit together around a corner on a floor above ground. From the students' field of view, the exit to the building can be seen far ahead in one's sight, and it exits onto a parallel concrete road with a grassy field on the other side. I see the person whom everyone knows is wicked and is always finding opportunities to take advantage of female students, exit the building, and walk away in the right direction. The teacher then instructs the students to leave as well but through a different exit on the left side of the road through the shorter path that leads to where they need to be. He doesn't want them to encounter that wicked man lest he targets us too.

As I am walking by the open corridor beside the classrooms, I can see the open and empty roads through the greenery. I spot a tiny messenger man on the road come walking from the right, take a turn to his right, and walk away vertically holding a Charpai behind him with its base resting against his back.

I then enter a classroom filled with students from its backdoor and sit on the left-most row on one of the back benches. The teacher asks about the two things that have a war ongoing between them. I immediately raise my hand as I recall a past vision revelation. The teacher allows me to speak. I begin by saying that I had this vision revelation during late 2021 or early 2022 and that in the tiny-framed vision, a huge metallic dinosaur representing a dragon was waging war against civilians as they moved frantically on the road while the robotic metallic dragon breathed out fire on them. Before I've completed my previous sentence, the teacher interrupts me and begins talking to another student. I don't know why she didn't listen fully to me.

The class is over and now I'm having my lunch. I am eating a stuffed Parantha but then sense some phlegm in my mouth out of nowhere. How did it appear there out of nowhere? I walk to the washroom to spit the contents of my mouth but when I open it, I see several young and short boys standing inside facing to the left as they're crowding and bent over something around the left side of the door. There's something inside they all are gathering around to take a look at. One of them dressed in a yellow zipper sweatshirt with thin-rimmed metallic glasses on his eyes is at the forefront. I enter the washroom through the small space between the open door and the crowd near the right side of the door, and walk straight forward toward the line of wide basins to spit out the contents of my mouth.

After a while, I've to use the washroom again and this time I find myself walking along a wall on my right hand and enter a door at its end which leads me into the washroom. I am wearing a black T-shirt and find myself looking at my mirror image in the washroom. I am standing with my T-shirt lifted up revealing my belly which begins to sharply protrude out from below a line and looks like a huge round pot. It doesn't give me a healthy feeling to look at it. I know that it's the maximum extent to which my belly can inflate if I try. The extent of its roundedness leaves me amazed because I've seen it this rounded before. I then begin to breathe differently and change my posture which neutralizes the roundedness and makes it look flat though the fat is still there.

- The upper half of Death Conqueror in his back suit attire in a dark background as a green chemical rests splashed on the center of his face with Truth written on it as the chemical burns his skin.

19:26

About half an hour back after I had returned from having bought milk, I had the following revelations:

- I have the following rectangular photo in my hand that I extend forth to the real 3 Idiots trio as they're coming at me with lusts apparent in their inner selves:

And as they come across it, they turn away and quickly scatter and run away from me.

The vision repeats a few times. They come at me, I show them the photo held in my hand and they turn back and go running around! It's almost as if the photo is my protection against them.

After a while, the following lyrics play and they were paying on my way out to buy milk as well:
Badtameez dil. Badtameez dil. Badtameez dil. Maane na maane na.

And when I began editing one of the previous pages, the beginning melody on the keyboard of the song Bepanah Pyaar Tujhse kept repeating in my spirit.

And as I continued to edit the page, the lyrics from the night played in my spirit again and they were playing even now:
The Guy sings:
Meri jaa paas aake.. Bol do muskurake..
Yu na hasa karo.. Yu na hasa karo..

Before I had gone out to buy milk, I had just woken up from rest most of the duration of which I was half-sleep and didn't go into a full-fledged deep sleep. Perhaps I did for a short duration but I remember coming out of a trance-like state. While I was still lying in bed, I heard Rakhi's voice say that I deserve Glory. She repeated again that I deserve Glory. The voice repeated itself a few times.

And when I got up and sat on the bed, I heard in my spirit: Mein tujhe marungi Mrittunjay! Mein tujhe marungi Mrritunjay! And it kept repeating in my spirit.

Past Revelation

(Past week) The upper half of Kian Egans with neck length wavy blonde hair showing his right fist to the viewer which melts and stretches like a golden object as he retracts his fist back.

When I went out to buy milk and was crossing through the corridor, I saw Amma's daughter walk in my direction holding a steel glass with a wicked expression making me feel immense hatred for her in that moment! I just wished her dead! At the same time, I was telling Jesus that my heart was filled with hatred. I kept repeating it on my way out because I wasn't supposed to carry hate in my heart regardless of how others behaved. I was supposed to not be in the presence of such people in the first place who arouse feelings of hatred in you because of their wickedness! While I was nearing Dinesh Store, I happened to take my fist out of my pocket and looked at it with the thought that I was ready to punch the short fellow if he was in front of me! It was quite an unpredictable behavior for me because usually, one knows one's thoughts behind certain actions and gestures, but I didn't have the thought of punching him until I looked at my fist that I had just taken out of my pocket and was drawn to look at it. It was a weird behavior for me. It would be weird for anyone. I felt like taking my fist out and I looked at it and it was then I felt righteous anger to hit the fellow! And then the chorus of the song Titanium played in my spirit. It seemed to me as if I could as hard as I could and I wouldn't be broken and could even take hits back without being injured. The song that started playing on its own made me feel like I was a being made of Titanium and I couldn't be controlled or injured by hitting and was able to cause great damage! On my way back to my room, I was reminded of the previous vision revelation I had while walking by the administrative office of my workplace in which I saw an actual flat metallic body in the place of my chest accompanied by the song revelation Titanium.

On my way back to my room, I was reminded of that vision revelation and then I had the song playing in my spirit and while I was walking up the stairs, I saw how if I was ready to physically fight, I didn't care about how the other person came at me. I felt immense strength in me in that moment where I felt that even hits couldn't hurt me. I saw the short fellow in sky blue and navy blue walk towards me with a long iron danda in his hand and how I wasn't afraid of getting hit once or twice before I caused great damage to him! Though I knew that this wasn't the situation, I wouldn't really care about the surroundings if I was feeling that righteous anger and that person was present in front of me! Though it's not something that happens often. But that day I was triggered by the wicked expression of Amma's daughter! Why was she looking at me wickedly trying to make some foolish point? Such a wicked sight! Her disgusting inner self provoked me into feeling that anger and hatred that I was putting forth in front of God!

On my way back I was filled with the spirit of fighting or a strong mental inclination to fight!

And somewhere in between I also saw: The upper half of the side-view of a bearded guy facing to the left with his features resembling a bit like Glory's with neck-length hair as he severs the pink umbilical cord attached to the mouth of Death Conqueror with a scissor. The vision of him severing the cord with a scissor repeats a few times following which his head falls back and his skin begins to slowly shrink as he is headed towards his demise.

While resting, I saw:

- Top side-view of Sis Bia standing beside a bed with Brother Philip's body covered with a white sheet as she says: I love you, Kartika. The voice is followed by a female's voice saying: Brother Philip is going to be dead. It reminds me of his upcoming plan to preach in Haiti.
- The follow-up vision has the front view of her upper half walking in open daylight towards the viewer as a white being resembling a small snowman sits on top of her head and she says that she has been made a widow. Well, perhaps the visions show what she's worried about. Well, we'll pray for his safety, but he should ask the Lord in prayer if he should go to that dangerous place.
- Shikshak written in Hindi in blue fonts on a light beige surface with a fine blue print as the surface moves.

I am recalling an incident from the time when I was in 8th class and there was a function in the common ground of our colony and we were all having a meal together. I slightly picked up a roti but then put it back because I wanted a better roti from below and I was about to sift when the Punjabi Aunty sitting beside the roti basket said to me with a smile: Ise choo liya. Ab ise lo! Well, I knew that she had said it in a strict manner. And I understood her logic as well. Since I already put my hands on that roti and had made it dirty in a way, I was supposed to take it for myself and not expect others to have it. It was a thing of hygiene. So, I took it. But I knew that the Aunty had said it in a bigger context than I reasoned within. She didn't make that statement in terms of hygiene alone but she had personified the roti. And she was indirectly teaching me the principle behind fornication without directly referring to it. That if one happened to fornicate with another individual, they were supposed to take that person as a marital partner. This incident had been highlighted to me several months back as well but I didn't record it.

And while I was writing the above para, I saw:
The face of the dusky man from the trio turned to the left as he looked in that direction with a wary expression.

Tonight I was looking at how what she said went along with the Bible which also required two Israelites who had fornicated to be married if the father gave his consent to the man. That woman had this godly sense without reading the Bible or knowing the written law of God. She didn't just possess the sense, but she strongly believed in it, and to her it was how things were supposed to be. And that was also how a majority of people in the land thought, that they were only supposed to touch their long-term covenant partner, and it was the accepted norm. And that was also how I and my friends thought with me being the morally downtrodden one as I believed that as long as there was the presence of love in a committed bond, it was okay to express it with physical touch. But even in my false understanding of fornication outside of a covenant, I was for committed bonds though they may not have yet been turned into a covenant, though I intuitively knew that the perfect way to be together would be after one was in a covenant bond. That woman and the people of the place had the right intuitive moral sense which they didn't just know but it was something that was very real to them and they saw such godly principles in an expanded form in their mind to the extent that they consumed their way of thinking and stood as strong mental precepts they couldn't possibly violate.

And then I thought about this place. That how most men and women don't think in this way which is the given standard of God. I saw that it wasn't the fault of one particular gender but both, because how can just one gender fornicate without the wilful consent of the other? The people of the land are used to living in this ungodly way which they deem advanced, progressive, or normal while it's sinful.

After I had said out the incident and my thoughts about the same, I saw:
The upper half of Death Conqueror in his black and white suit some feet away to my right as he says that he doesn't know anything about this way of thinking and how it makes him a backward person in terms of the Kingdom culture of God! He calls himself a Gwaar in the vision revelation.

Deuteronomy 22:28 (NLT)
28 "Suppose a man has intercourse with a young woman who is a virgin but is not engaged to be married. If they are discovered, 29 he must pay her father fifty pieces of silver.[c] Then he must marry the young woman because he violated her, and he may never divorce her as long as he lives.

~13:25
Well, I was thinking previously after I had watched the video in which he announced his plan to go to Haiti that because of the nature of the place, if he got injured or lost his body, then it would be a great loss for the body of Christ because we don't have many street preachers who travel all around the world and his ministry is a successful worldwide ministry. I was looking at all the other places that would've missed him that he would've otherwise visited in the future to preach at. They were my own fearful thoughts and for a moment I was thinking of different possibilities. And then later at night, I had those visions while lying in bed.

While watching this, I kept hearing a quiet voice seemingly a woman's that said: Let him go. Let him go.

Why you shouldn't be worried about me dying in Haiti.

Also, what was being highlighted to me while watching the video was the inner faithfulness a husband is required to carry toward his wife which serves as a life-giving tree for her.

We are not just called to refrain from outward acts of unfaithfulness but our partners should have an inner reassurance of us being for them first and foremost where though we are doing the work of God and loving the body of Christ, our partners don't feel distanced or sidelined or not being given the place they are ought to have! Generally and analogically speaking, Bia is like church to Philip who is like Christ to her. And the bride of Christ lives with literally zero doubt about Christ being faithful to her!

And I was writing the above, I heard in my spirit: He's not faithful to his wife, child!
And I also saw:
The upper half of a disappointed Brother Philip as he sits facing to the left and says: I can't fool her! I can't fool her!

Also, when Bia was weeping and sharing her heart being vulnerable, I could hold her and show her some love and comfort. This is the time to show even more love before he leaves. I thought that while Bia was speaking, Philip could hold her hand. And as I wrote the last sentence, I recalled how though I was just a friend to Meera, we were so intertwined in our souls that holding hands came naturally to us without us thinking of doing so. And I saw that at this hour when Bia is actually worried and sees the anxiety she would have to face while Philip is in Haiti, I didn't see any reason for him to not show her some extra bit of love.

While I was writing the above two paras, I saw:
The upper half of Brother Philip dressed in his livestream clothes as he says in a disappointed tone: She knows everything! She knows everything! He then gets angry and starts hitting the top of my head with a metallic surface! Perhaps I wasn't supposed to be highlighting the above.

And while she was speaking, I was thinking how I would love to be friends with her because she's both a moral and intellectual company. Some people are more vocal and eloquent about things and they can speak with an unmatched fluency, but I got highly impressed by Bia's unquestionable genuineness. We need courageous men of war, like Brother Philip.

Let us all keep wearing the breastplate of righteousness so the devil is not able to infiltrate our godly unions that are a unit of the church of God. How does devil carry out his plans? It starts with attacking individual families in Christ! A loss of one is a loss that has a seeping cascading effect on the entire body, if not in terms of actual loss, then in terms of what could've been gained if those members were fully guarded and strong. And the kind of loss I refer to here is not materialistic but refers to improper orders of significance one at times accords to people around one. When one unit starts to have problems because of the devil implanting sinful thoughts or mindsets, it affects the quality of the entire body. If we emulate the holiness or faithfulness of Christ in our own family or marital unit, it strengthens the body of Christ as a whole.

While I was writing the above para, I saw:

The upper half of Brother Philip dressed in his livestream clothes as he begins sobbing in a repentful manner and goes to Bia holding her hands while sitting on the floor.

While writing my view of Bia's situation, I saw:
Her dressed in her clothes from the video leaping towards me as she began kissing me with godly affection. It was followed by us doing a joy-filled swirl swing holding our hands in the centre of the room.

It was great that Philip was being vulnerable to his audience but Bia shouldn't be robbed of her right to have him be vulnerable to her and behold her close to him like Christ does the church. I thought if I was sitting beside her while she was talking, I would be holding her and respecting her feelings before I showed my care for the body of Christ because that too sends a message of teaching to the church: Look! Philip and Bia are really a godly couple that emulates the Christ-church bond.

I was sitting with closed eyes in prayer and I was saying things to God when I had a series of visions. At this point, I've watched slightly more than half of his livestream. While sitting with my eyes closed, I saw:

- The upper half of Brother Philips dressed in his grey sweatshirt points a finger at me as he calls me a fool! He says: You're not a liar or a hypocrite. You're a fool!
- The top-view of Sis Bia dressed in multilayered thick winter clothes with a dark purple jacket on top as she began to climb up a vertical ladder against a wall as she said looking up at the viewer: I Love You.
- Brother Philips sits behind a desk inside a room with a plain grey wall behind his back. He is dressed in his fluffy loose grey sweatshirt and his central incisors look too visibly prominent on his face that's wearing huge black-rimmed square glasses as he quickly flips through the seemingly blank pages of a vertical Notepad. He stops at a page and extends the Notepad towards the viewer and on the white page is shown to be written 'Cancelled' in red.

Within the past hour, I saw gravy paneer highlighted in my vision with butter Naans. The vision then repeated with the veggie lying on top of the naans. And then I saw the duo being hurled inside my mouth. And the vision repeated with the combo being highlighted intermittently. And I heard in my spirit to eat the same. So I ordered the same for dinner!

And then I also heard:
Mein marne waali hu Kartika. Mein marne waali hu Kartika.

Last night while I was editing revelations and I was nearing the end of my writing work for the day, I heard in my spirit: You're on time. You're on time.

You're on time. You're on time: it repeated again this morning.

Earlier during the day:

- (Afternoon) The face of SRK in a dark background as he says: You're a great guide. You're a great guide.
- A close-up view of the blurry face of the dusky man as he tears the photo of the prophetic trio held in my hand with a fierce expression and chews and gulps it in. The vision repeated itself intermittently several times during the day.

The lady sings: Maar dala.. Maar dala..

The blurry face of Brother Philips dressed in his clothes from the livestream as he says looking down in disappointment: Oh Man, I've to cancel it now. Oh Man, I've to cancel it now.

Dream

I am lying on a single bed laid against the wall of the bedroom. There's a double bed on my right-hand side, the arrangement resembling the Master bedroom of my parental apartment. A person lying on the double bed near my side of it asks me how Pooam Bua's dark and obese husband who is an MBBS doctor came to be chosen for her when she's light colored, slim, and beautiful. I seem to be knowing the exact answer in the dream though in real life I know the vague reality of it. I explain to that person how he happened to be residing in our town when my dad had met him, and he became my dad's friend. Poonam Bua was to be married. She had completed her M.Phil in Political Science from MDU and was about 27 or 28 or perhaps greater in age and my grandma and others were already talking about getting her married. That extremely obese doctor too was looking forward to being married. Because of this, my dad suggested the duo's union. (When he had just befriended my dad, he often used to visit us.)

I then get up from the bed and as soon as I do a short and slim lady with short neck-length frizzy hair corners me against the wall as she stands two feet away from me and asks me a question about what would it take for me to go ahead with a certain thing. And I perceive the thing she's asking me to do as pure which does not have a price attached to it. Though I find her question offensive, I stand keeping my calm as she asks: Paanch rupay? I say: No. She immediately asks again: Das rupay? No. Pandrah Rupay? No. She continues asking in a line gradually increasing the price. Perhaps she increased the value drastically after a while, but every time she received a No.

When after my repeated No's she has understood that I won't agree with a monetary price, she then shifts her price from being monetary to other materialistic things as she says: Milk? No. and so on.. She then shifts to subjective expressions. She asks: A hug? No. Kiss? No. She repeats several such subjective expressions, not necessarily those that are communicated physically. But each time, I say: No. I feel repelled by her asking me these questions because why is she trying to reason with me to get something from me that's not for sale? I walk forward leaving her behind in the room and I feel good about not having to deal further with her questionnaire.

When I have reached downstairs on the ground floor, I see that I've stepped down into an open hall held by pillars resembling in its structure to the open parking hall on the ground floor of the apartment towers of the society of my parental home. I find Kian Egans with neck-length wavy blonde hair standing there alone with his back towards me. He's dressed in a full-sleeved black sweater over dark pants. He informs me about something important I didn't previously know as we both walk together in the right direction.

I then walk alone out onto a narrow concrete road with buildings to its left and short green bushes with some flowers on the right side. I walk ahead along the road and stop at its end with a dark wooden table laid between the two ends of the narrow road. And I find myself sitting on the ground for some reason and looking up at the table in front of which my mom and dad stand. I spot a small marigold pot standing on the ground on the left side of the table with a few blossomed orange flowers on it. My dad, dressed in a white tunic set, walks back through the narrow road, leaving me and my mom alone there.

Post Waking up
The back right side view of a lady dressed in a fluffed blue dress like that of Saber and her hair tied in a bun at the back as she stands holding a sword in her right hand whose blade snaps break in two. The breaking of her sword repeats a few times.

Afternoon
While bathing today towards the end I saw the blurry upper halves of the identical trio in red & white suits to the slight left of the commode near the ceiling as they said together: Hum bahut rone waale hai! Hum bahut rone waale hai!

Evening
Kartika tu girne waali hai. Kartika tu girne waali hai.
It only made me more cautious!

18:43
Within the past minute, I was sitting with my eyes closed to pray to god as I looked at the wickedness of the place. Before that, as I felt the drones on my skin at some places, I was thinking how I had stopped hurting now because I had gone through this emotionally painful situation for too long! Earlier during the day I was recalling how within the past month, I was crying and asking these camera people to stop sending cameras around my breasts as I said that I would die if they continued doing so because why are they exposing me to the public!? I was literally begging in that vision as I said: Mein mar jaungi, Mrittunjay! Mein mar jaungi, Mrittunjay! But this wicked man didn't have any compassion on me! And now I had gone just too numb! It wasn't that I wasn't not hurting entirely but the hurt stopped being at the forefront and went to a place of facts that I knew were true but I couldn't just look at all the time. I looked at how after a certain time I stopped hurting on the surface though I would still be hurting inside and it's like an ever-present wound you carry all the time! And I was looking at the wickedness of the short fellow who never ceased to exhibit his rotten character by exposing me online. Such a cheap and cowardly act of the lowest level! This is not the kind of person anyone would want in his/her life. Someone who does such a thing to you. Someone who desensitizes one to things one is supposed to be most sensitive about! I was looking at how desensitized I had become to my own emotional pain!

And so I felt like praying to God and said to him that this place was too wicked! I said: This place is too wicked, God! This place is too wicked! And then I saw:

- The upper half of Shanon from Yeshu Ke Geet dressed in a black and white printed coat over a black neck-high winter top with her long hair falling at the back as she stands in the open in the dark of the night in the background of buildings waving a white triangular flag sideways as she says: Don't come here! This place is too wicked! Don't come here! This place is too wicked!

Earlier during the afternoon, after I sat in bed after bathing and having tea with snacks, and was working, I heard: Eat no more. Eat no more.. I beg you.
So I decided I wasn't going to eat. I also saw how though I had more experience with Jesus now, I had been exposed to a lot of wickedness during this time and how I had begun to take Jesus for granted and I wasn't resisting temptations to eat to feel good for a while as it would give me temporary relief but then I would go back to feeling the same way after a while. I need what Sis Adele would call spiritual refreshment, I realized. I saw that resisting eating came with an effort to me though I was supposed to not eat. Why was it so? Because in my mind, eating is not immoral as I am not causing any living person any harm, but fornication and other sins are immoral because they violate god's eternal values related to godly everlasting love. And these people are causing me real harm. I learned that I had to now move to a higher level of obeying the Lord where I saw disobeying Him as a sin and not just those things that are already known as sins!

And I also learned to expect godly or perfect love or the kind of love that would be rightfully categorized as love, from heaven alone and not to try to live it up on Earth! Previously I had a mind that lived that for real on Earth. It was capable of the same and wanted to live by it. But now, I just Earth as such a disgusting place which is just not worth walking on without Jesus in one's life!

And while I was writing the above, I heard in my spirit: We are not like you, Kartika. We are not like you, Kartika.

Well, you are not like a majority of people because no sane man would do what you did! And it's not my problem if you're not like me but carry demonic traits!

Well, now that I look at it, I in a way got detached from my body and walked into a greater spiritual reality wherein I learned to see this situation as a tactic of the devil I was facing. The only thing it affected was my ability to bond with a guy through my body because I got desensitized to the same. I had reserved physical intimacy for my god-ordained partner but I lost that sensitivity now and I see it as meaningless. That's how it seems to me! I didn't find pleasure in loveless fornication anyway previously as well! I found it dumb and foolish! I don't know. Perhaps I will regain my sensitivity under the right conditions. But it's not important to me now. What's important to me is to continue to have the right mental state of holiness.

Within the past 15 minutes, while editing Page 633, I came across the screenshot of the prophetic trio on the page and as I continued to edit the page, the joint chorus of the song Tumhare Siva began playing in my spirit and then I saw:

- The identical blurry trio in red and white suits dance standing side by side in a line in the centre of my room with a basket on top of their heads held by both their hands as they moved sideways in synchrony. And as the vision progressed, the basket was revealed to have Rotis as they picked one at a time and threw them in my direction! The basket reminded me of the Roti basket beside which sat that Punjabi Aunty from the incident I wrote about yesterday.

And as I wrote the above revelation, I heard: Khyati ro raha hai. Ye kaise ho gya.

And I also understood why I heard 'Eat no more. I beg you' earlier during the day. It was because God knew what I was going to think and how I was going to feel later in the evening as I would look back at the past.

(Past few days) A chat platter I saw in one of the Instagram reels placed on top of my head. But in this version of the platter lies enough curd on the surface with a few pomegranate seeds on top.

22:03

As I lie down in bed to rest, I see:

- The blurry and almost indistinguishable trio in red & white suits hurl on top of my bed as they say: Hum randue nahi hai. Hum tere kutte hai! We are your dogs.
- The blurry and naked bulky wheatish man stands facing to the right and removes his cross pendant from his neck and puts it around my neck.
- He then begins calling me Wife in the follow-up visions.
- The upper half of KA in a dark background as he says: Ye chamatkaar kaise ho gya?
- A hand is shuffling through a light sky blue pocketbook with light sky blue pages as a voice says: The resigners believe everything, and inside the book is shown to be printed my Notebook pages with the date written on top in place of the Notebook page numbers, as the vision zooms in and I spot headings with page numbers from the month of June flip by.
- Ayub Khan - Rupa's brother from the Mela movie - dressed in a red suit with a white shirt with a tie inside stands facing to the left and begins to mop a rectangular whiteboard with something written on it in tiny horizontal print. He stands in a posture with a bent upper half and he wipes the board clean with a dark printed wet cloth with a slight smile starting from the right end.
  As I was writing the above revelation, I saw: the upper half of Glory in a dark background as he said slightly sobbing, "Ye itni achi kyu hai!? Ye itni acchi kyu hai!"

Well, these two past revelations from late 2021/early 2022 have been being highlighted to me for the past two days.

- The one in which I walked to the left towards Glory with stretched forearms as he stood in the same manner facing me. And as I touched him, he got covered by a modern thick metallic armour with light green rectangular strips at places following which my neck got sliced off to my left towards the viewer.
  As I was writing the above, I saw: The upper half of Death Conqueror in his black and white suit in his car seat as he said smiling with filled eyes: Ye itni achi kyu hai!? Ye itni acchi kyu hai! This made me think that only God was good truly because look at what He did. And then look at all the thoughts I was having in the morning. Only I know the hatred I had to process and let go of that I didn't want to carry in the first place. It kept arising and I had to keep dealing with it. It doesn't feel good to have hateful feelings! They were not really feelings of unreasonable hatred but they were a result of me feeling righteous anger within. Look at Jesus. He knows from the beginning and he deals with us with patience knowing the decisions we are going to make or the thoughts we are going to have.

- The second one is the dream revelation that had the courting phase in which I saw to the right of Glory in a room and was fanning him with a book because he was sweating a lot. And while we continued sitting there, I happened to look down and saw his face with his hand in front approaching my left breast with a mischievous expression following which I brushed him aside and sat bent forward exhibiting boundaries. It made me look at the sensitivity I showed in the dream revelation. And I had this dream in Room D4 in late 2021 or early 2022.

  Within the past 15 minutes:
  The face of the bulkiest man from the trio with a wheatish complexion and the face of Glory in the center.

Dream:
I am in the Junior wing of the DAV School in my hometown. I stand inside the lawn in front of the Principal's office, both lying along the pathway running inside from the school's main entrance. I am explaining something to one of my brothers. My dad begins to have his meal in front of the Principal's office sitting on a bench with a table in front of him. The rotis need to be warmed. I look at the Principal's office behind the elevated Porch above the stairs and sense that there must be an oven inside to warm the Rotis, though I am not sure about it. So, I walk inside the room and find my mom cooking. I ask her to warm the rotis and as I do so, I am eating a Gulabjamun lying in a transparent bowl. I see that they're cold. Three Gulabjamuns are lying in the bowl and I've eaten only half of them when my mom asks me to fetch a certain original Gulabjamun mix that's supposed to add real flavor and scent to the new Gulabjamuns she intends to cook. It sounds too weird to me because my dad is not waiting for Gulabjamuns but for his warm rotis so he can have his regular meal. She can cook Gulabjamuns some other time when she's free. I try to make a point about the same but she interjects and stubbornly repeats her former statement to me without seeming to care if my dad is sitting outside waiting in the middle of his meal. I find her behavior quite unreasonable and stupid.

I leave to get the Gulabjamun mix but then find myself walking into the corridor on the left-hand side of the Principal's office and when I've reached its end, I see a guy resembling Hatim standing on my left-hand side on the square concrete ground with a girl on his left side. I know him from my batch. I say a Hi and chat briefly with the girl. Subodh from my MSc batch passes by me and greets me with a smile. In the earlier part of the dream, he was shown as coming to me with his doubts from the classes we attended together. (I recall how back in the class he used to have several doubts that he used to come to me with.) I keep peeking inside the classrooms and stop in front of one with a filled whiteboard that's visible to me through a horizontal rectangular iron-grilled window on the wall above. I spot a brown curved protrusion at one end of the wooden table and it's what I was supposedly looking for. I have to go inside. I look at the square window at the left. I could squeeze in and try to enter through it but I know it would be wrong. So I get down on the floor and look for the room's wooden single door and find that it's not locked but just latched on the right side of it. I open it, walk inside, and look at the filled wooden table with books and electronic things. I look at the filled whiteboard with mathematical equations written on it with a navy blue marker. It supposedly teaches complex mathematical things about how the equations relate to history. I see 'Zero sex restraint' written on the left side of the board in the middle. And then what strikes me is how the teacher, after using that complex mathematical jugglery, arrived at the conclusion that Ancient India had an unofficially accepted policy of 'Zero Sex Restraint'.

It now reminds me of the sinful engravings on ancient Hindu temple walls that put fornication, homosexuality, and sex with multiple partners openly on display. It makes me think how the country was never led by God in its entire history and always followed the doctrine of demons that worked through people in such a blatant apparent manner that they engraved their sinful acts on the walls they were supposedly calling a temple. Their ancient temples themselves show their wicked history and rebellion from God. And foolish progressives of current times who don't possess the right moral sense would use the display of wickedness on their temple walls as 'proof' of how advanced Ancient India used to be and how it shows the country's connection with what they would call the divine hidden reality when what it really shows is the connection the people shared with demons that worked through them and gave them their religious texts, their temples and its engravings, and their idols to worship as gods. It only shows how much more corrupt the minds of the people of the past used to be as they greatly partook in idolatry wherein the entire country was defined by its worship of idols and numerous gods. They term their spiritual connection with demons as their connection with the divine! That's how the country thought from the beginning and the demonic false statutes served as the basis for all notions it was built around. Those demons didn't go anywhere. They still roam around openly and they will continue to do so until the time that they are faced with their judgment in hell. The demon that influenced the mind of a Rishi or a Yogi in ancient India and made him delve into the spiritual world can also be the same demon that misleads many through demonic practices such as tarot card readings, fortune-telling, astrology, etc. God is eternal and ancient, and so are the demons. Just because something is ancient doesn't mean it's true and from God. The same demons rule over the country that did thousands of years back.

As I was writing the above, I saw:
A splash of Truth on the face of my supervisor Prof Nivedita Deo with Truth written on the splash, and the upper half of Prof TRS from my dept as he nods his head with an affirmatory expression and filled eyes.

Ancient India can be considered to represent a milder form of the city of Sodom and Gomorrah where sexual sin was running rampant because of which the entire city was destroyed by God.

My mom is now in the room as well along with my dad who stands on the other side of the table while she stands near the side of the board with the phrase written on it. She bends to his side and points to the phrase silently as she wants to highlight it to him. I point to them that the teacher was teaching the complex ancient history of India to the students and how the people had no sense of sexual morality back in the days.

We exit the school and have to go back home. We spot two school vehicles. One is filled and the other seems to have no space as well. My parents stand together feeling bad about me not getting a seat in the common transport while my dad's car stands parked across the road. I don't see any reason for them to be sad about the loss of a day's fair when the monthly amount was already paid, and they were going to use the car for their own selves anyway to get to home. But they carry a sense of loss. My mom carries my red bucket that carries two wet doormats that she washed inside the school. She has to hang them to dry. One of us makes the comment that the car has gathered dust. We've decided to leave in my dad's car and while my dad has gone to fetch the car and my mom stands on the road's side, I am looking for a place to leave the bucket with the doormats as I can't take it home. I walk back into a covered shelter outside the school and place the bucket near the wall to pick up the next day. For some reason, it can't be taken home this day but we would need to return to get it back the next day. I see that the bucket is at an apparently safer place where the washed doormats shouldn't get dirty. I look above and see that dirt or plaster might still fall on top of the open bucket and I am still thinking about how safe it is going to be after being left alone when the dream ends.

Post Waking Up
As I sit on my bed covered with the blanket and quilt, I hear in my spirit:
You're their medicine now. You're their medicine now.

Well, through me, they receive the truth of God which they by themselves wouldn't care to look up.

The tiny figure of a stick man made by a hair strand rotated in a small disk constituting the face as it floats down slowly through the air.

Dream 2:
I am in my room. Jema comes to meet me. We chat for a while. We've to go out together somewhere. We leave the room and walk through the corridor to the stairs where I get busy talking to someone and while I'm still chatting, I see her leaving. I think perhaps she wanted to save time. When I'm done chatting, I step out alone and after walking some distance find her standing in the canteen area with a long counter stretched in front. She is perhaps waiting for her order when I buy a drink which the guy behind the counter fetches from the other end of the canteen on its right. Now it reminds me of the departmental canteen counter inside the University's administrative building on the left-hand side of The Royal Canteen. I perhaps get a sweet Lassi. We are now walking back together to my room. As we're nearing my room, for some reason I look back to my left-hand side and spot an extremely obese lady with a huge round belly sitting facing a man on a bench with her legs on either side of it. She is dressed quite promiscuously in a black stretchable sports bra and leggings revealing her huge round belly button with a vertical line going down through her skin, and has straight slicken hair partitioned at the center falling at the back. I think how cheap she looks and how desensitized she is to revealing that amount of her skin openly in public! It's one thing to be desensitized and another to do something wrong knowing that it is wrong. I don't know which category that lady lies in. But she is looking horrible to me and extremely obscene to look at. She would've been the highlight of that road if everyone else wasn't desensitized and had a moral sense of perception. To my mind, she's still the highlight and is standing out from among the rest who are fully clothed. She needs correction. She knows how to take care of her straight hair but doesn't know the right way to dress. I feel a lot of disgust because she's spreading ungodly obscenity openly.

After we're back to our room, I ask her about her day's schedule. That if her husband and baby aren't missing her since she's with me. She tells me that her husband left for his job in the morning and her baby is being taken care of by someone. So, she's not in a hurry to leave.

We've to go out together again and as we're getting ready before setting out, I see myself standing in front of the mirror dressed in my long green dress which is open in the middle revealing the part around my central vertical upper half which is shown as cleanly waxed while long thin hair are present on the part of my chest above the breasts. I quickly move the two halves of the green dress together one on top of other and am fully covered by the green dress now. I and Jema set out together and as we're walking on an empty cemented road with a building on our right side and a wall on our left, I see a dusky taller woman walk together with a shorter obese beige woman on her right hand side near the wall. The taller woman has her straight hair falling behind her back and is dressed in a plainly printed dark tunic set while the shorter obese woman too is dressed in a tunic set but with an intricate red and white print. She has her hair tied at the back and has a rough round face while the taller woman has a plain face with a contained countenance. As I look at them, I feel annoyed because I know that they're sent to serve as messengers, and though I do not completely understand their multilayered insults, I see through their hearts that means to insult me. And I can tell that the two women are sent there to insult me in some way. I feel disgusted by the display of wickedness through the attempt to insult me that I can't withhold sharing about it with Jema. I tell her that I get annoyed whenever I come across such actor messengers who are supposed to insult me. We continue walking together as I walk with a ruined mood beside her.

I find myself lying on the double bed in the bedroom of the rented ground floor of the first house in Cheema Colony in my hometown. I see the face of a woman sticking her fully clean tongue out of a portal that has opened itself in the air. Some distance to its left, another face appears out of a portal with its tongue sticking out. A third face of a woman with her clean tongue sticking out appears through a different portal in the air as the vision moves from one to another as they appear. Jema too is in the room with me. She stands in front of me between the bed and the TV resting on its stand against the wall. Her face looks different this time and she has straight neck-length hair as she stands facing to the left and removes her clothes leaving only her navy blue lingerie set on. I don't know why she did that but I can tell that she looks much thinner in this part of the dream and it's only when she stands straight that I observe the outwardly protruding part of her lower belly not contained inside her panty, which was previously hidden from sight. As I wrote this, I recalled the fat lady in black I previously saw sitting on the bench. After she's left dressed only in the thick navy blue lingerie set, I find myself sitting on the floor on the right side between the bed and the dressing wardrobe and she walks up to me and bends down on me. She is just bending down on me and covering me from the top. Now it makes me wonder if that's how I look when I take a bath as I bend down to grab water inside the mug.

I am then writing something on my laptop and as I write about a certain person's end, an old pigeon walks to the right end of my laptop's keyboard and drops dead near the screen.

I look around and see that I'm on a piece of beige, soiled land and am trying to evade a bald wicked beige being with bat-shaped wings. Jema doesn't leave but I leave that piece of land and am now looking at it from behind a tree's thick trunk as it lies far at the center of a surrounding water body. I see Jema spread out her wings partially on that land. She doesn't seem to be afraid of that wicked being's presence though I'm afraid and hide behind the trunk. She doesn't seem to be interacting with the wicked being, but she's not afraid of it either.

The translucent figures of the upper halves of the trio in red and white suits in a dark background come together along with my translucent upper half as we stand superimposed at a place with me as the innermost person dressed in my full-sleeved horizontally striped multicolored woolen top and then as I lifted my arms sideways and brought them down in dance steps, the trio superimposed on me moved theirs in synchrony with me. And then I heard in my spirit: You're one flesh with them now. It repeated a few times. And then I thought that I wasn't supposed to be so! They're responsible for the same!

Later as I continued reading the word, I recalled the verse in which Adam said that Eve was flesh of his flesh and bone of his bones and the vision reminded me of the verse.

Well, it's a huge thing in the kingdom of God to be one flesh with another person as one is supposed to be so with only one's covenant partner. But I know how casual and ungodly fornicators are about their ungodly lifestyle. But that's now how I am and that's not how God has called His children to be.

My thoughts:
I'm not really one flesh with them because I didn't do anything for real and will never do so. However, the vision shows they move as I move, or they change the positions of their drones accordingly.

- Brother Philips sitting behind a table holding his tiny baby heavily wrapped in multilayered white beside his wife Bia sitting to his right. He is dressed in a light grey sweatshirt and is cradling the baby looking down at him while his wife sits dressed in a t-shirt beside him.

- The face until the neck of Manisha Koirala with her hair tied at the back in a bun and her face and neck decorated with light sky blue jewelry as she says: Mein sunder hu. Mein sunder hu.

Earlier during the day and perhaps yesterday as well I was thinking how God in a way fought for me by giving me revelations about things that I wouldn't care to speak about myself because why do I have to make a point in front of someone who only plays a game and judges by outward looks without looking at the truth of his actions. For instance, he is showing the face of Rihanna and then Princess Shayla looking down in a golden background. Then He was calling me Amy from The Big Bang Theory. And similar comparisons. I wouldn't want to speak those things about me in front of even someone who's moral. Because that's not what we do or need to do. You don't go around telling what you can do or who you are as a person to others. It reflects on its own. So I was looking at how God by His own goodwill and in His own wisdom was giving those revelations. I realized that He really fought for me in a way by not allowing things to get too bad. He would always give something that would calm things down in a way. And I also realized that without Him, I couldn't have fared through the situation, because I didn't know the kind of people I was dealing with or the things that affected them that God knew. The only thing I care about is the moral character of the people whom I am around. And even the fluff got separated as I went through this traumatic experience as I went to the basics of morality and stopped caring so much about outer looks in the sense that previously I would iron my clothes but now I saw it as useless. One is not supposed to think a lot about what one should wear in front of a certain person but what they should be concerned about is their inner moral character that's not too apparently visible on the outside. Earlier I had my own sense of fashion that I followed, but now I didn't care so much about it as I know that it's a thing of no significance.

- (Past week, night) A very obese woman with a round face and hair tied at the back in a bun stands dressed in a navy blue cotton saree blouse and a navy blue petticoat revealing only an inch or two of her belly as she removes one of her white stilettoes that's held in her hand now.

And I would never want to look at myself as a servant of a wicked man who doesn't line up with a godly sense of morality. No godly person would want so. And I don't need to be one regardless of my background. I work for God because of His qualities. And that's also why I and His other children don't care about their lives when they work for Him.

Earlier during the day, I was also thinking how the short fellow deserved Akhila and that he should stop this wicked game which may not seem to him and may seem normal.

And I was praying to God to restore my sensitivity to spot sinful behavior which I observed had developed some grey areas because I gave people grace disregarding their inner self made evident in their behavior. Because of that sensitivity, I stayed away from the majority of people. If they didn't exhibit immorality in huge ways, they said careless and not-so-meaningful words.

Past Revelation

(Past two days) The upper half of a clean-shaven Jim Carrey as he extends out his long pointed tongue and picks up a metallic ring band from among a heap of several rings placed together on a table, puts it on his ring finger, and says that he too will go to heaven. He seems to have chosen to be in a covenant with Jesus.

Mein jahan hu, teri yojna hai..
Mein jaisa hu, teri rachna hu..

Mera jeevan tere haathon mein..

Mein hoon aatal tere vaadon pe..
Na koi shashtra rokega mujhe..
Zanjeero ko toda hai tune..
Tod diya…

Teri marzi mere liye.. Haani aur naash ki nahin..

The following lyrics kept being repeated with greater emphasis in my spirit after I woke up from the dream that I would write later.
Zanjeero ko toda hai tune..
Tod diya…

Teri Marzi | Hindi Worship Song - 4K | Bridge Music ft. Nehemiah K, Allen Ganta & Rachel Francis

Dream:
I am in a classroom with several other people. I see Delhi's CM Arvind Kejriwal (AKej) there as well. He is dressed in a polyester navy blue tracksuit zipped up until the neck with its top untucked over the lower. All of us have to now move to another room to take a test. I am carrying some bits of paper that I have to put in the dustbin but while walking out the classroom's door, I happen to drop one or two of them down. I think I should pick them up because then it's gonna keep lying for someone else to pick up. AKej. Is walking a foot or two in front of me and he spots the bits and picks them up with understanding as he walks with his people. All are dressed differently in casual clothes in the class. When we reach the exam room on the ground floor, we are waiting in a line to enter. The room is on the other end of the corridor below the one we came down from. I feel thirsty and I see that I don't have a water bottle or anything in my hand to use during the exam. I need to quickly fetch my bottle and other stationary things needed. I perhaps don't even have a pen. AKej Is standing in the line adjacent to me a step ahead to my left. I take a left into the huge square and leave the corridor. I rush ahead and then with a jump, try to move up along the hypotenuse and land on white stairs with my BSc classmate Manisha standing on the right side beside the railing. She is dressed in a top over denims with her long hair braided at the back in a high pony. She's wearing red block heels. On the left side of the staircase, stands a moustached Anil Kapoor. I 'm about to trip backward down when he immediately extends me a helping hand. After passing the stairs, I find myself walking through an open hall into a room instead of going for the exam. I enter into a dimly lit room. I look at my feet and I find that I am wearing creamish sparkling block heels with thing strips at the front. Inside the room, I find my mom and dad. My mom is lying on the bed. Perhaps she's already asleep. I want to turn on the light to take a better look at my heels and see how they look on me. As I switch the light button on, it malfunctions and the ceiling fan begins to run at full speed instead. This makes my dad angry as my mom is sleeping and it's cold perhaps and that fan's speed might be uncomfortable to lie down under. My dad seems to be provoked to attack me and therefore quickly runs towards me. But the situation is taken care of in time. I then see him lying on the floor between the other bed and the wall on the other side of the room away from my mom. I've to walk past him to the other side of the room. My dad senses that I've to walk past him to get to the other side and exit. As he lies with his eyes closed, he shrinks in his belly leading to it contracting at the sides. He does so so that I am able to walk by the side without hindrance and can reach the door.

After I woke up and was using the washbasin, I felt a hit at the back of my head. Though it wasn't accompanied with pain, I knew that it was a warning I received in the spirit.

(past two weeks) As I was sitting in my bed, I saw a stone coming straight at the center of my forehead from some meters ahead in front of me.

While I was brushing, I heard in my spirit:
She's smart. I can see her smartness. But he doesn't. And the phrase repeats as the guy says: I can see her smartness which he doesn't.

Apparently, the bulky dusky man is saying this referring to me and the short fellow.

And it repeated later as well as I was making tea.

11:15
I laid down to pray and though I got distracted, I had these revelations as I took washroom breaks as well intermittently.

- Brother Andrew dressed in a fluffed jacket zipped until the neck over trousers passes by a short Pinky Mausi dressed in a black fluffed jacket walking to his right beside a row of bushes around the same height as her as he says: Queen I love you.

- The bottom view of the brother from the Voicu Means TRUTH YouTube Channel, dressed in the pink T-shirt from one of his previous videos as he stands on the ground above and extends a hand to me who is standing in a deep cylindrical hole in the ground.

I had some fleshly revelations as well which only showed some hands moving around my back as I lay on my bed on my front to pray. I don't think I will write them as they correspond to drone movements around my ass.

As I continued lying in the bed, I happened to open my eyes as I didn't want to keep them closed but I wanted to have some quiet restful moments with my eyes open and still. But then I felt an inner push on the inside of my upper eyelids that opened them fully and I could tell that it was the drones doing so. As they did so, I heard the following lyrics play in my spirit.

The lady sings:
Take a look at me now..

Westlife ft. Mariah Carey - Against all odds color coded lyrics

And as I was listening to the song above, I heard in my spirit: Maar dala.. Maar dala..

Within half a minute of me lying with my eyes opened, I heard the following song play in my spirit next in line. And the two songs kept switching and playing intermittently. When I would be lying with my eyes open, the above lyric sung by the lady would play while the lyrics from the song below would play otherwise with empty spaces in the spirit.

The lyrics that began playing abruptly out of nowhere were the following. And it was several years that I was listening to this song again, that too in my mind The last time that I listened to it was somewhere back during my school days and then I forgot about the song.

The Guy sings:
Peene walo suno.. Na chupakar piyo..
Kabhi ishq aur sharab ko milakar piyo..

As I wrote the above lyrics, I heard the lady sing:
Maar dala.. Maar dala..
Humpe kisne hara rang dala..

Khushi ne hmari humein.. Maar dala.. Maar dala..

PEENE WALO SUNO (8D AUDIO) FULL SONG I PANKAJ UDHAS

The Guy continues singing:
Tum kahoge ye kaise mumkin hai yaar..
Tum kahoge ye kaise mumkin hai yaar..
Tum kahoge ye kaise mumkin hai yaar..

Samne tum sanam ko bitha kar piyo..
Phir nazar se nazar phir milakar piyo..

The lyric that kept being repeated to me with a great emphasis was the following.
Tum kahoge ye kaise mumkin hai yaar..

The highlighted song lyric kept repeating even after I left my rest and went to pee and even when I was washing my hands and making tea and having it.

This song popped up unexpectedly in my spirit when I am not even a drunkard!

As I was still lying with my eyes open, and perhaps it was one of those empty slots of hearing in the spirit, when I saw:
Glory standing in the centre of my room dressed in a full-sleeved light blue shirt tucked over trousers facing away from me as he was saying to someone: Ye randi nhi hai. Ye victim hai. Ye randi nahi hai. Ye victim hai.

Well, regardless of what he was saying, I was in a quite heavenly mindset as I told God that I knew that my body was a prison and I could just sense the kingdom of God which was above the physical and I felt as if I was above whatever situation I was in as I could already feel connected to heaven and that was a dominant reality in my mind.

As I was done writing the above, I heard the song lyrics play:
Oh she's sweet but a psycho.. A little bit psycho..
At night she's doing: I'm ma ma out of mind..

Ava Max - Sweet but Psycho (Lyrics)

The song played in my spirit somewhere within the few days as well.

So, there were a few other things that I did while lying in bed. I prayed for the deliverance of the trio from the spirit of lust that consumed them. I asked God to deliver them of the same. I began praying for them one by one. I chose the bulkiest guy first because I had happened to walk past someone bulky on the road who though on the surface carried a part of his godly self that was showing up from within but inside his body, he was carrying this blob of lust because of which I moved to the farthest end of the street. I saw that as a separate entity dwelling inside him and not as something that was innately a part of him. It's today that I thought instead of complaining to God how I was in a sinful situation I didn't want to be a part of and was in a way passively serving as an object of sin, I could pray for those people. And that's what I've been doing since yesterday or the day before. Though it didn't occur to pray for deliverance from the spirit of Lust, I prayed for them to be brought into the Kingdom of God with a renewed mind. A smart mind can renew itself quite quickly when it's not under a stressful situation like I am. It's not difficult for an intelligent mind to rewire itself once it has decided to do so in a certain direction. An intelligent mind can observe its own self and identify the places it needs to change. The renovation of my mind would've been quicker if I wasn't in this situation as I would grasp things better without having to suppress any underlying thoughts of passively facilitating this or that sin, or the feelings of being put to public shame, though this specific part has ceased to affect me by a significant amount now when I look at the actual shame Jesus faced.

"She saw through me. She saw right through me. She saw right through me." The phrase kept repeating itself as I was making tea for me and Aunty while Aunty was working.

While in bed, I was praying to God about how I had come to love and care for the trio as his children who needed to turn away from their individual and shared wicked paths. I told Him that I had now come to look at them as His children solely because of the revelations I received. And I was praying for God to change their hearts to His likeness where they didn't just follow the path of sin that they were doing. I wasn't looking at them how they were but as how they were supposed to be.

Jesus' word to the church regarding sex

It was such a relieving word by Sis Adele as I was also praying to God to deliver people's hearts from lust earlier this day! I was actually trying to bind and cast out the spirit of lust. I had said the following prayer beginning with Madhavan from the group of 3 Idiots who is also Abhigyan from the song Tumhare Siva from the movie Tum Bin: I bind the spirit of Lust in the name of Jesus. And I repeated this sentence several times. I didn't say it out loud. I was praying silently within myself. And then I said: And I command it to leave him in the name of Jesus. I cast it out in the name of Jesus. I repeated this sentence several times because I knew from a Derek Prince video that I had watched that at times it could hours to successfully perform a deliverance! It took him about or more than 5 hours to cast out demons from a lady and she carried several demons inside her. At times it can take a long duration to deliver a person from demons as you struggle with them. Repeating the deliverance prayer is all I knew to do. In my mind, I had bound the spirit of lust inside him and cast it out with faith. Then I moved to the short fellow. And I prayed the same prayer: I bind the spirit of lust in the name of Jesus. And I repeated it several times after which I saw the spirit bound in a yellowish circle inside his human figure represented as a dark shell. I then commanded the bound spirit to leave him but it wasn't leaving unlike Abhigyan's case but it seemed to be experiencing a strong inward stretch. When I saw it wasn't going to leave easily, the next thing I saw was my hands reaching inside that dark penetrable human figure, and my reaching inside his spirit self represented me now getting ready to get a spiritual hold of that bound wicked spirit inside and taking it out by force. As I got a hold of it and was now taking it out, I could only move it outside by a few inches as it experienced a very strong inward pull from all directions inside. The pull was represented by it being connected to his inner being with several thick and translucent black stretchable threads that were pulling the blob inside from all directions. The threads served as an internal adhesive glue meaning that his body or his self was unable to let go of the wicked spirit. The follow-up vision then showed the spirit now being let loose again inside his entire black human figure. I bound it again but it wasn't enough. There was a lot more spiritual cleaning that needed to be done inside as the next thing I saw myself doing was reaching all over his inner dark figure and trying to put together all the undesirable goop inside to be thrown out. I saw that the spiritual goop or the wicked spirits were deeply enmeshed with his inner self where one needed to really reach deep inside and gather all those wicked connections together to clean his inside. After I had done so, I took the blob out by force in the name of Jesus. But his dark figure that was left after this exercise seemed too weak and fragile in spirit or attitude. It seemed that it was desiring to have all that spiritual goop inside him again. When in that vision, I finally was able to get that undesirable blob out, it was represented as the black alien living fluid in one of the spiderman movies that made him in the likeness of Venom. And it was shown that because that black moving thing made him feel powerful about himself like it did Spiderman in the movie, his mind wasn't willing to let go of those mental connections that still desired that wicked spiritual goop inside, and in the absence of the goop he was rendered feeling powerless and empty as was shown by that scared weak and fragile black human figure of his without the wicked spirits. This vision gave me an idea of his situation. I didn't have to reach deep inside and sift thoroughly to bind all the wickedness in the earlier case unlike the case of the short fellow, but even in the earlier case of Abhigyan, his dark penetrable human figure too looked weak and fragile, but it somehow seemed more stable than the case of the short fellow! I repeated the same prayer for the third and the last person of the trio and didn't find much wickedness. He seemed to only need cleansing from spirits that were lightly enmeshed with his inner self and could be easily delivered out. But after the deliverance of the trio, the dark figures of all three were shown to lay together against a wall in the dark looking too scared, weak, and fragile.

It was then that I understood that the wicked spirits had found a home in them to help them cope in a wicked way with the real weak and fragile self that was left in their absence. And now I understand that if they replace those wicked spirits that served the purpose of helping them cope with their inner self that they deem weak and fragile in some or various ways, with the Holy Spirit, those inner problems would be sorted out as the Holy Spirit is a comforter and a righteous guide given by God. It won't make them feel too powerful or endow them with an attitude that makes them think it's ok to do wrong unto others to make oneself feel better, but it won't let them feel downcast either. It will uplift them in a healthy way, unlike the wicked spirits that take root and lead to undesirable ways of thinking and behavior!

That's one of the series of visions I saw while I was resting in bed in the morning. The visions told me about their spiritual states. For the short fellow, it's deeply enmeshed in his inner being and he desires it like Peter Parker desired Venom as it accorded him a substantially increased amount of power than his regular spidey self.

A wicked spirit doesn’t usually reside alone inside a person but it can come along with several wicked spirits. Though he may be manifesting the spirit of lust too prominently, but he has several other wicked spirits that reside inside. And when he chooses the path of God and receives His spirit and is purged of those demonic spirits, his original self as the righteous lion of Judah is going to be the most prominent in his conduct! I think that's why God represented him as that lion.

Masih Nidhal soedaar chalte dekha hai..
Bhadakti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai..

16:57
And I also keep hearing that though I may not be able to observe my own village-ness or may be blinded to it, this other person is able to spot it. And in one of the revelations, it was shown to be Glory as he said to me that he was clearly able to spot what a huge Gwaar I was though it may be hidden to my own self.

And then earlier during the day, I was also thinking, and perhaps I was thinking it yesterday as well, that now that I love the trio the way God wanted me to, their purpose was fulfilled in a way, as I recalled the day that I had talked to the short lady residing in Saroj Sadan from over the roof of my PG and she had told me that they loved me and they wanted me to love them back. Isn't their purpose accomplished now? And I didn't end up loving them in my own way but God's way though it's mixed with my own individual sense as well. That girl had said: They are stealing it because you're not giving it to them. They love you and they want you to love them back. Well. I do love them back not in the way that their spiritually unclean self does in a selfish or fleshly way that seeks its own interest at the expense of other person's mental health, but I love them in a godly way. And they should understand that I can't give myself to anyone besides my husband not only because I follow Jesus and walk on His path and so should they, but also because I want to be committed to my marital partner out of love! I was also looking at how I never thought I would get to this point some months back. I didn't have the other two in my mind at all, and now I became concerned about all three because of the revelations and their constant presence, and then their souls are precious to God and He's willing to forgive their sins. That's how I look at them now.

Also, earlier in the day, I saw:
The huge blurry face of the bulky beige guy from the street who I later thought needed deliverance in front of me as he abruptly put a red tika on top of my forehead. And the vision repeated a few times during the day. And then I recalled how this late evening I had begun to refer to Abhigyan as my husband inside me well knowing about the wedding dream that I had. And it was natural for me to think that way because that's how I think. I found him more moral than the short fellow, or perhaps less wicked than him! And then I was having all those revelations and the cumulative effect of it was me not wanting to feel a certain way for the short fellow but he seemed to have been replaced by the real-life version of Abhigyan. And because of some of the revelations that I received that told me that he was more moral and empathetic than the short fellow in comparison, I was more drawn to him.

Revelations while resting in the afternoon

- While I sit in my bed, I am in a confused head state as I ask God about His will. I say: God, what's your will for me? What's your will for me? I ask this because I don't want to continue to think about someone in a certain way when the Will of God is for me to not be with that person. And I don't want to dilute my bond with my husband after I get married (in case I do, and I hope to get married because of the promise and I walk in the Will of God). So I asked God about His will now that I had gone through this phase through the past year in which I received revelations related to several people, and now I was thinking about Abhigyan or Madhavan of the Trio. I immediately saw: A small clean-shaven animated light pinkish face of Glory facing to the left in a dark background. It then began to move in the direction it faced and as the vision expanded a very tiny white car was shown to be attached to his head at the back that moved at high speed in that direction. As the vision expanded, several such tiny white cars with the huge animated face of Glory attached to the fronts of each one of them were shown to be moving together in that direction in the dark background. Again, it reminded me of the wedding dream in which he jumped out from behind a white car in front of it holding a bouquet of red roses below his chin highlighting his face. This vision seemed to go with the dream revelation. I then asked: What about Madhavan? I asked this because of how I had come to perceive him within the past few weeks and then I live in their constant presence around me and it's not a boundaried presence and then I also had the song revelation that changed my heart for the trio, and then I had the pendant revelations and today I saw him putting a tika on my forehead. Because of all these revelations, I wanted to ask about him because I carried this emotional state inside and I wanted to know what happens to him. Immediately after I asked the question, I heard a blunt: Forget him. And then I was shown that I would get to live with those people in Heaven as the trio was shown standing together in line dressed in ankle-length white robes in a golden aura. What happens to him wasn't revealed to me but he is supposed to follow God and meet me in Heaven like others!

The lady sings: Maar dala.. Maar dala..

Well, I don't know how Glory is in person. I don't know if he is a wife-beater. But why would I behave in unfaithful ways? Even now I try to guard my heart because of the dream revelation.

- A small-framed vision of Shekhar in a red suit with a white shirt inside from the song Tumhare Siva is rolling dough stretching it forward to a great extent on a surface in a dark background following which he rolls it backward and then in a circle and cooks a Laccha Parantha and serves it. I don't know why is he doing it. The real-life version of Shekhar doesn't need to do it. He can do it though to express his love, and so can I. Though I like to take care of things by myself.
- The face of Shane Filan from Westlife to my right in a white background as he has a fairy wand extended to my face with one of his arms which reveals his grey suit as the silver star of the wand touches my face as he says: You're our fairy. You're our fairy. You're our fairy.

Earlier during the day
The blurry naked bulky man from the trio stands facing me to the left as he takes down his pendant and puts it around my neck.
The lady sings: Maar dala.. Maar dala..

After the above, I heard:
Masih nidhaal soedaar chalte dekha hai..
Bhadakti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai..

Yesterday I was playing this song and as I was listening to it, I kept hearing intermittently:
It's for us. It's for us. The song is for us.

I had come across it on YT after long. So I thought of playing it because I knew that it will talk to the situation of the trio.

LIONESS (FEAT WERKS) - CLUBLIFE TO LOVELIFE

A great worship song worshipping the one true God made by people spread throughout the country.

The India Blessing | Official Music Video (Red Sea Films)

Well, I realized a while back that the bulky guy on the road looked like a Teddy and his hair resembled Sherlock Holmes'!
Following this I saw: my face looking at him with two red love hearts in front of my eyes. And since I've realized this fact about his looks, I've been tearing up. And then I looked back at the dream revelation Dusty Man & The Fairy in which on my upper chest visible through some open buttons of my shirt was written Teddy Guys. I didn't believe this part of the dream revelation at first and it came as quite a shock to me as I wrote when I first wrote the dream. I never labeled people as lean guys, teddy guys, muscled guys, etc. I never labeled people, men or women, except for their moral traits. But seeing this group labeling in this dream came to me as something that was so unlike me because I find it so cheap to label people in a group based on looks. Well, but if I have one teddy, why would I want another?

And now when I think of it, it makes me recall the incident in which my dad happened to sit on Himanshu's Teddy he placed at a specific place in the room following which he attacked my dad after which he got a severely bloody beating that could've ended in him losing his life.
After I wrote the above, I heard in my spirit: Bas Kartika. We don't need more confirmation.

Yeah. Now when I look at it, his teddy look covers up for any demon he might be having inside which can be cast out anyway with prayer and fasting.

As I wrote the above, I heard the lady sing: Maar dala.. Maar dala..
And while I was writing the above about him, I saw: A blurry upper half of Glory as he said: Bas Kartika. Bahut marunga!

Well, Teddies are emotionally comforting and generally looked upon as good-natured beings.

And the chorus of the song below has been playing in my spirit intermittently for the past week.

Mohabbat Dil Ka Sakoon Hai Aitbaar | Dil Hai Tumhaara | Alka, Kumar & Udit | Nadeem - Shravan

As a part of one of the previous dreams from the past week, I saw:
The animated face of Katy Perry with short frizzy blonde hair singing a song. But then the person says that she looks like a villager. On looking closely at her face, it is revealed that she's still Katy Perry and it's the perceiver who is perceiving in her face what he wants to perceive, and the look on her face changes according to his perception of her.

When I was settling into bed to sleep last night, I saw:
My dad standing beside my bed dressed in a fully zipped dark grey jacket over trousers and a cap on top as he looked down at me with slightly filled eyes and said with an affirming smile: Bander tu acchi ladki hai. Bander tu acchi ladki hai.

And as I was settling down inside my blankets on my side, I heard the voice of Glory say in a mocking tone: Bahut thand lagti hai isko! Bahut thand lagti hai isko!

I woke in the middle of the night and had the following revelations.

- Arvind Kejriwal dressed in a navy sweater over a white shirt stands in front of a green board with a wooden teacher's podium two meters or so on the left side as he's just done cleaning the board and is about to get back to it as he says with filled eyes and a sad expression: Let's begin again. The vision repeated several times in my spirit in a row stressing its importance.
- The bulky fellow dressed in an olive green jacket over blue denim standing in the centre of my room facing to the left holding a glass of wine filled with alcohol raised in front of him. In the vision, I take the glass from him and gulp it down in one go for some reason though I don't think he was extending it to me. After I've gulped the alcoholic drink, I march to hi and begin kissing him passionately. The vision repeated a few times. And then the following lyrics played.
  The Guy sings:
  Jab jawaani pe ho maikashi ka ye daur to..
  Mazaa aashiqui ka ata hai aur..

These lyrics repeated several times as the vision repeated. The lyrics continued to play until after the vision had ended. I could see what the vision and the lyrics were implying. It was an unexpected vision. And then I thought about how I would judge the short fellow for holding the same glass of alcohol while I didn't judge the Teddy man. I would look at the short fellow with a lot of disdain as it would lead to an accentuated presentation of his immoral self. I already perceive him as a wicked man who strips innocent women publicly and says mean emotionally abusive things and tries to break them down. But I perceived the Teddy man differently for I didn't see him as immoral as the short fellow but rather a relatively more moral man who had joined hands with the short fellow in his act. The short fellow is the wicked leader leading people in wickedness while the Teddy man is in a way a supporting follower. In that vision, I perceived a moral man holding that glass of alcohol instead of an immensely wicked man. And I resonated with him in that vision and I didn't perceive any wickedness in him. And the song lyric gave meaning to the vision which I wasn't expecting would play in my spirit. I continued to lie in my bed with the song playing intermittently. I wondered if the vision and the lyrics together showed the moral counterpart of the immoral situation of a drunk man going to a prostitute to find a sense of false love. The moral counterpart would have the wife trying to help the man out of his state which is leading him into drunkenness while showing him love.

- After I got up, it took me a while to fall back to sleep. But before I did, I was filled with a sense of love and compassion for that guy. The visions that followed after a while showed a short frame vision of the side view of a naked blurry beige bulky and overweight man lying on top of a naked woman with her hair tied at the back. He had his hands on the bed on the sides as he was avoiding touching the woman but he laid pressed against the woman on top of her covering her. The small-framed vision then showed his genitalia erect out which he was getting ready to insert into the woman following which they were having intercourse. The vision of the naked man lying still on top of the woman was repeated a few times. Now when I look at it, I can see that the vision showed how a husband should cover a woman in my situation while not touching her.

  After a while, I fell asleep and had the following dream.

  Dream:
  I find myself walking inside the corridor of a house filled with people as I am holding a framed rectangular painting of the Tricolor: the three colors saffron, white, and green brushed horizontally. I have to hand it over to someone in that room as I ask the middle-aged ladies dressed in Indian attire of tunic sets. They're not paying attention to me as all seem to be busy talking among themselves or listening to each other. Eventually, a lady takes it from me. As I continue to walk, I see an MBBS lady doctor with short straight hair until slightly above her shoulders and dressed in all white with a doctor's coat on top standing in the crowd. She is being told to leave, though I don't know why. She leaves in front of me and I continue moving through the corridor. Apparently, I am expecting to see or find Glory there but I don't. I exit the apartment through its dark brown iron door and walk into a narrow lane that exits into a concrete verandah a few meters to the right and I find that the apartment was present above the ground floor. I then find myself in my parental past rented home in the Cheema colony in my hometown - the first house on the right. My mom and brothers are there as well. I walk up to the roof's railing on the first floor and look down. The view of the road resembles the view of the service road beside the Ganda Nala as seen from one of the high floors of the homes present there, but it seemed like the view from my first rented room facing the service lane in Apoorva PG.

  As I look down I see a slightly taller, fluffed, and beige version of the short fellow Death Conqueror sitting on a bike facing to the lane's right with two women behind him. He is dressed in a full-sleeved ad fluffed off-white shirt tucked inside darker pants and has some stubble along the sides. Well, as I look at him, I am filled with anger because of what he did to me and how wicked he has been! I couldn't care less about the women sitting behind him though I could see that he was showing them intentionally to me. But it doesn't matter to me because I want this wicked man to stop doing what he had been which has severely negatively impacted me in many aspects of my life. As soon as I spot him, I am filled with anger and feel like hitting him. Without wanting to waste time going downstairs, I jumped down from the roof to get to him instantaneously but as I did he sped away along the road to the right and I landed on the road on my feet with my upper body bent downwards to an extreme level despite which I felt some amount of shock in my legs. He's already gone but I am filled with righteous anger still as I look in that direction of the road. I walk back inside the home but walk out again looking in that direction of the road as I am still filled with vengeful anger. I find that some people on scooty speeding in that direction have had an accident as their vehicle slipped and they've fallen down on the road. The scooty had a man and a woman who now look injured. I brisk walk in their direction as I could help them by praying for them but then I feel discouraged because I get the sense that the accident was affected and was some sort of test to see if I would rush to help those people which fills me with disgust at the tactics of the wicked people like him who don't look at their own doing but test others! I am heading towards the site of the incident which is at a substantial distance along the road but then I don't feel like continuing because I know that I would be filled with more anger if I found out it was indeed affected after getting to witness the countenances and behavior of the people involved. A fake situation causes a righteous person to anger!

I am back in the home and have to go attend a class. I pack packets of different types of Namkeens to eat there. One of them is the Bhujia with the red packet with a white print, and there're a few others. My mom had packed me lunch as well. As we exit the building's door, I spot an innocent toddler of about 7-8 years of age dressed in navy blue with a navy blue turban with a round protruding centre at the top sitting on the right hand of the door along the lane of buildings some of which seem to be shops. I feel like praying for this child. Though I still doubt he could've been made to sit there as yet another messenger to make some kind of weird point, but I don't want him to lose on the prayer in case he wasn't planted. I place my hands on top of his head and pray for him while my mom and brothers have continued to walk straight away from the building. I pray for a few seconds and when I look away, I find my mom has walked a great distance ahead a girl walks beside her with broken steps. I quickly brisk walk in her direction but I notice that my upper half is bent to a great extent as I do so and I only notice it when I hear the mild laughter of a guy coming from my right. I don't look in that direction because it makes me uncomfortable. Why is he standing there and trying to communicate in unconventional ways? After I've made it up to her, I find my brothers eating the namkeens that I had packed and they've already finished it. I look at Himanshu walking to my right and he is about to finish the red and white Bhujia. After a bit while longer of walking, we've reached the building. And as we walk up the stairs, I am thinking about how though we're late, it's not going to be an issue at the place. We walk to the back seat of the left row of the class. The bald teacher dressed in a black suit with tiny spiky hair is teaching at the front. I've placed my black bag on the desk in front. I open it and begin to have the lunch my mom packed for some reason during the class itself, while my mom sit to my left and eats some of it along with me. I find that some of it has spilled inside the bag. There's a smaller white box in the lunchbox. Perhaps it's carrying carrying Raita a par of which is what has spilled inside . As I am having the lunch with my mom, the teacher at the front left continues to teach. He is lenient with us and is ignoring us. When the lunch is almost finished, and I am now putting the small white box inside the parrot green cuboidal tiffin, I see that I need to wipe clean the insides of the bag. At this moment, the teacher looks in our direction and says that I should be eating Eclairs which takes me surprise because I am not supposed to have sweet treats. He then expands on his statement as he breaks down the word into its two components on the board which had El written in the beginning. It's then that I understand why he suggested me to have it.

I know from several of Brother Jonathan Kleck's videos that I've watched that El stands for El - the self-existent Almighty God as he has explained it many times using the e-sword Bible. He also explains in those videos how Elohim is a plural word used for several gods, while El stands for the self-existent God who is Lord over all gods - the Lord God - also called as Jehovah (H1961) in Hebrew.

So I feel motivated to have Eclairs as I understand that I am supposed to have it. It's then that my mom takes out one surprisingly and it's about 2 to three inches long and about 1-2 cms thick in diameter. I don't know from where she managed to get this version of the candy. I take it from her and I know that it would be enough for me and I won't need to have another.

Afterwards I find myself walking on that concrete Verandah again as I head towards the apartment I was in at the beginning of the dream. I enter the small area under the shed and then the dark brown iron door to my right. There are other doors as well below that shed that lead to other apartments. I enter the one to the right and find it filled with people again. It's quite a closed apartment as I don't see any windows around. As one enters in, one comes across a corridor that's filled with people. There's a room to the left of the corridor and as one continues walking in, one comes across another room. I don't know why it is filled with a lot of people. But this time I find it filled, yet again. The crowd consists mostly that of middle-class, middle-aged and elderly people dressed in Indian tunic sets. I find Glory inside this time and am standing together with him with our arms around each other's back. He seems to be dressed in a white t-shirt over blue denims. That's all I can make out as the vision is blurry. I stay inside for some more time and spot a Hindu Pandit dressed half naked in a saffron dhoti and a stall around as well. I can sense wickedness emanating from him in the dream. I had spotted him outside as I moved in and out of the apartment in the presence of people around. This time when I move out of the apartment, I see the wicked and bald Pandit standing a few meters ahead on the verandah as he is asking a little girl with short neck-length hair standing with her back towards me and dressed in a full-sleeved, thick and black, round neck sweatshirt over black trousers to do something wicked. Though she may not be adult enough to understand it, even a grown-up adult can tell that what he's saying is pure wicked and he shouldn't be saying it to anyone, let alone a little girl of that age, as what he said was plainly morally wrong.

After I'm out of the apartment in the verandah, I can sense a comparison being made between the two of us. It can clearly be sensed in the environment that some people are thinking that the wicked Pandit who wasn't exhibiting the right moral sense knows God. We get into an unsaid dual wherein both begin to pray to their own god(s) for rain to fall on the God. The half-naked Pandit dressed in saffron begins calling out to his god(s), while I, after having passed him by, as I stand away from him by a few meters, look up at the sky filled with white clouds, and begin praying to my God - whom I call Yahuah.

1 Kings 18:22-24 (New International Version)

22 Then Elijah said to them, "I am the only one of the Lord's prophets left, but Baal has four hundred and fifty prophets. 23 Get two bulls for us. Let Baal's prophets choose one for themselves, and let them cut it into pieces and put it on the wood but not set fire to it. I will prepare the other bull and put it on the wood but not set fire to it. 24 Then you call on the name of your god, and I will call on the name of the Lord. The god who answers by fire—he is God."

The Dream Continued:

I begin by calling out to Him by praising Him about His evident wondrous works and as I do so, I see the clouds above move a bit. The next part of the dream shows me standing alone outside in the night under an open square space that's not getting drenched in rain though it's raining. I see that God has heard my prayer and not the Pandit proving that it's me who knows God and not the wicked Pandit in saffron. I then leave that dry space and begin to trace my path through the rain back to where I came from. As I take a right, I come across a region filled with rainwater with bricks on top though I am moving ahead by floating in the air. I find someone there who had been standing there to receive me, give me assurance that I was indeed right about me knowing God, and then point me to move back to the apartment where I had met Glory last. That person does so because it's night and I may get confused about the path. After crossing that lane filled with water while it is still raining, when I'm back to the concrete verandah, I come across a few men arguing over something holding sharp slaughter weapons. The men, one of whom is a bald obese man, don't look friendly but emanate a wicked aura as they stand arguing. I don't stop by or show any interest in their affair as I know that they can harm me if I do so. So, I pass them by hoping to catch their attention.

This time as I enter the shed and stop in front of the apartment's dark brown iron door, a lady comes out from the adjacent apartment with its iron door facing almost perpendicular to the one I am standing in front of and asks me why am I there as I stand with the apartment's door slightly opened. I tell her that I've come to visit that specific apartment. I can see her almost empty apartment with uncemented brick walls in the background as she stands at the door. She further asks me about the necessity of a house or living space. I reply with how it provides a covered walled space for an individual to live inside. I want to stick to the basic definition as I witness her humble living conditions in the background.

After I'm done talking to her and giving her the reassurance that she has enough, covered in my reply to her question, I enter the apartment. When I do so, I again find it filled with people. This time as I'm walking towards an open door to enter at the end of the wall to my right, I see some tall youngsters come walking out of that door one of whom is a girl dressed in a white t-shirt with long straight and smoothened hair falling loose at her sides. She says a sentence consisting of a few words to me looking at me but because of her accent I'm not able to understand it. I respond with a confused look and ask for a repeat after which she says the word 'got' that I hadn't understood previously with a greater emphasis making the sentence clear to me. After this I realize that I need things to be spoken with clarity and am not good with quick and smooth accents as she has now passed me by and I've entered through the door into a corridor towards the short end of which I find a woman I seemed to know and interact briefly with her. I am now in one of the first rooms of the apartment and it's entirely full of people dressed in Indian ethnic attires. I don't know why it's filled with people. I then enter another room adjacent to it and that too is filled with people. Most of them are sitting around on sofas while others stand. I see that the sofa at the back on the right side of the door is full of men sitting on it who are having tea. While the one to my right front has women sitting on it. There are some women standing as well. I notice their holy sense of clothing in tunic sets as they carry a V-shaped folded drape across their front as well. One of the women standing at some distance in front of me along with others asks one of the other women sitting on the sofa to the right to make more tea for others. I imagine the situation in which I would've to make tea for those many people and how it would rob me of the time I came to spend with Glory as I would be busy making and serving tea to those many people whom I don't properly know, and I would miss on the quality time I was looking forward to spend with Glory. So, I find it undesirable and don't suggest for help. If I had spent enough time or had a friend at the place, I would feel happier making tea with her. I hope it makes sense. (The lady sings: Maar dala.. Maar dala..) Behind the group of women standing together, I see their open kitchen around the corner on the left side of the room. I don't want to get too involved with a group that I don't know. I entered in searching for Glory.

Somewhere in the dream, I saw my Daadi sitting facing to the left in the corridor behind the entrance door inside the apartment with a few other women. She asks me to do something, perhaps get tea for her, and I listen to her and leave to carry out her order.

The next part of the dream has me standing together with Glory to the right of a settee laid against a wall which too is filled with people. In front of us lie sofas which too are filled with people. This setting too has a lot of people in it but in this part I find myself standing facing Glory and kissing him. We don't seem to be affected by the crowd sitting around us. As I kiss him, I feel a sucking pressure at the tip of my tongue and a mild arousal around my strong pp which is rubbing against his raised knee. I continue to kiss him in that manner and only kiss him harder as I increase the suction at the tongue tip. I then happen to look down and find that my groin had been rubbing against the knee of a girl dressed in a tunic set sitting with crossed legs on the settee. I wasn't aware of it previously. So, I shift a bit to the right and now stand right against him with my strong pp rubbing against his raised knee this time as I continue kissing him. To me, I've just settled in the right posture for me to continue kissing him and as I do so with greater vigor, he interrupts by pointing out to me that everyone is watching and asks for us to move outside. We walk to the right together out of the room and enter straight into the back seats of an almost filled movie theatre with a moving running at the front showing a giant dim-golden dragon-headed serpent moving in a dark background. The room doesn't have a slopy seating arrangement but is flat grounded. We spot two vacant seats at the back and as we reach in front of them, the man at the back with a wicked countenance puts his thick white sling bag on one of the seats seeing which I suggest him move to a different spot instead of fighting over the seats. We spot an almost row of seats a few rows ahead and sit on the right end of it. As soon as we're seated with me sitting to his left, we begin rubbing our cheeks together. I find it such a sweet and affectionate act. We're not so much into the movie. The next thing perhaps we're kissing when I get so immersed in his company and the act that I happen to drop the stuff I was carrying in my hand: a pen, a diary along with one more thing. I let it lie on the ground and don't care to pick it up until after a while when I notice how he has his stuff resting with stability on his lap. Both of us seem to be carrying college/carry bags in this part. I then disengage and pick my stuff up and notice that it hasn't gotten too or noticeably dirty. As I'm putting the stuff back in my bag, I'm thinking about how though it doesn't look dirty, it still was lying on the ground which was walked over by several bacteria-filled footwear soles, and I know that he too is thinking the same though he's not saying anything as I put them back inside my bag with a bit of hesitancy.

We continue enjoying our moments together as some youngsters dressed in black casual clothes sitting in the back row begin making mean comments about me as the vision now focuses on them. I can tell that they're doing this intentionally. Why are they focusing on me instead of the dragon movie playing at the front? One of them says: Ohh. Look! She's a witch! Following this, the animated image of a witch is shown as being superimposed at my back facing them. The other person says that I'm this other wicked thing followed by the animated image of that being is shown superimposed at my back as seen by them. The third girl says: No. She's an Elf! Following this, the animated image of an Elf is shown as superimposed on my back as seen by them. At this point, I am fed up with their disturbing comments. I stand up and pray in the name of Jesus pointing at the three in turns leading to minor blasts at their sitting spots leading to three translucent golden blast spills lying on the floor followed by me pointing to the screen at the front because that too is wicked as it carries the image of the serpent dragon. It too faces a blast when prayed against in the name of Jesus and a translucent golden mess is left at the front. Glory too is standing to my left. I see that I've made a mess inside so we leave the room quickly as it's not worth staying in further. I mean, the people and the movie both were wicked.

As we walk out of the room, the scene changes to a row of swing beds placed in line in front of a resort with a pool present in front of it to the left. There are women dressed in long loose t-shirts lying on it as their respective partners stand to the bed's left with their bent upper halves and gaze intensely at their thighs. They are not looking at anyone else but their own ladies with one man present on the left of each lady as the vision moves to the left and stops at the last swing bed on which lay together I and Glory on our sides facing each other. I am dressed in a loose and long white T-shirt with black horizontal stripes. He's not standing like others though, but is lying with me on the left side of the swing bed. I lift my right thigh a bit and point to it for him to gaze at it like others are doing their respective women. And the view is shown as seen from a few meters away from the end of the bed. So the inner view is visible to the viewer while he lies facing me. I see that I've got my legs waxed in this part of the dream, though there is a small patch of hair left on the inner right thigh, and about less than a cm long hard growth of pubic hair can be seen around the right panty line. Though I am pointing to my thigh so he can emulate others who are gazing intensely at their respective women, he doesn't do so but he hugs me and shifts to the other side and now I witness the dream as a first person. We are wrapped with sheets around the middle as we move together on our sides openly on that bed during which he exclaims: Holy sex of an undefiled marriage bed! This makes me focus on whether we are really in the act because I have entirely been focused on looking at his face while he held me close as he spoke.

4 Marriage is honourable in all, and the bed undefiled: but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge.

Hebrews 13:4-6 (Tree of Life Version)
4 Let marriage be held in honor among all and the marriage bed kept undefiled, for God will judge the sexually immoral and adulterers. 5 Keep your lifestyle free from the love of money, and be content with what you have. For God Himself has said, “I will never leave you or forsake you,” [a] 6 so that with confidence we say,
“The Lord is my helper; I will not fear.

What will man do to me?"[b]

And when I divert my attention to observe, I find that we're only moving and rubbing our genitals together while still wearing our clothes with the sheet wrapped in the sheet around our middle. At this point, the bed doesn't behave like a swing bed and seems to be quite stable and solid. While we're moving together, he asks me: Why did they ask the MBBS doctor to leave? Was she not doing well? It makes me think a bit for I don't know the reason and I know that he is asking me to guess the same. I reply as thoughts come to my mind. I say that she knew a lot about her field and she must also be quite quick in processing her logical reasoning independent of labels, and that to communicate the medical info quickly that usually consists of huge names, she must have resorted to using acronyms.. But as I am saying out my thoughts, I realize why she was asked to leave as I visualize her prescribing medicines to people, and as I do so, I speak out my realization quietly as I say: because her medicines weren't working… and then he nods in affirmation with a yes.. The next scene has both of me walking together with Glory arms in arms back into the apartment, but this time through the back door. We enter in and find it filled with people again. Most probably they're his relatives. I then overhear some women talking among themselves about how Glory's dad used to 'break' his mom when she was young. Apparently, she used to get a beating from him for some reason. Well, I haven't yet received a beating, and looking at my time spent with Glory, I don't feel that the same fate awaits me either as I am feeling happy with him with no remnants of my past still hurting me. As the women are still talking about his mom, I see his extremely lean mom, almost flat, dressed in a thick, full-sleeved, dark parrot green long-fitting shirt buttoned until her neck, with her black hair tied at the back come into my view through the corridor as I look up at her while she walks with stability in her footsteps but a dwindling upper bony body and enters into the room to my right.

The scene then changes into a flash to me now walking alone into the corridor holding with both my hands the same tricolor painting from the beginning of the dream as I see people standing some meters ahead. It is again crowded though not around the space in my immediate vicinity. I don't see Glory with me at this point with me. Apparently, the tricolor painting is Glory. As I continue walking, I stop at some distance from the middle-aged obese lady sitting in front of me on the table laid against the left end of the corridor's wall as she's making faces at me while profusely moving her mouth implying that she is communicating something though not making a sound. Another lady walks into the corridor from the room present at the right. She's dressed in a plain tunic set and the previous lady in a printed navy blue tunic set has neck-length short hair and a slightly wrinkled face. She looks at her and then at me as she's communicating something silently while moving her mouth profusely. Though I don't understand her, what I do understand is that perhaps I am supposed to give my tricolor painting to that lady in light sky blue though I am not sure about it, and as I stand confused in front of them, I hear a lady's voice say tauntingly in a tone that I don't like: Araam do ise…! And that's when I wake up. It's when that I think if the painting represents Glory that I am supposed to give rest to.

Somewhere above as I was writing the dream, I see: The upper half of a the bulky Glory from the dream revelation The Dusty Man and The Fairy as he says: You did this to protect me. You did this to protect me.

After I have woken up and am now on my feet doing something, I hear: She's just like us. She's just like us. (Perhaps you don't see it. But I see it.)

As I'm brushing teeth, I hear the Made In India song play in my spirit.
The Lady sings:
Made in India.. Made in India..
Ek dil chahiye that's made in India..
Ho hoo.. Made in India.. Ek pyara soniya..
Ek dil chahiye that;s made in India..

These lyrics remind me of the dream I had woken up from in the morning in which I held a vertically longer rectangular painting of the tricolor holding which I entered in that apartment filled with middle-class people where I found Glory in my second visit. It was apparently his home itself.

The lady continues singing:
Kaisi hai yaar amiri..
Kaisi dildaar gareebi..
Accha hai kya, kya hai bura..
Mujhko pata..

Tan gora ho ya kala..
Par ho saccha dilwala..
Chaandi nahi sona nahi, koi heera..

Made in India.. Made in India..
Ek dil chahiye that's made in India..

The song plays for a long duration as I am busy with my morning chores.

Later during the day, I see:
The bulky guy dressed in a green jacket over blue denim stands inside my room in front of the door as he calls me: B*tch!
Following this I briskly walk to him and begin kissing him!

In the vision, I'm not offended by the word. And in real life as well, I do not want to get easily offended. I'll only get in a bad mood if I am in the presence of a really wicked person!
16:12
I spent most of the day listening to color-coded Westlife songs and the videos reminded me of the vision I had yesterday in which I saw the face of Shane Filan dressed in a grey suit in a white background as he extended a fairy wand to my face. And it also reminded me of the wedding dream revelation in which Glory sat in front of a white car with a bouquet of roses below his chin with a wide teethful smile highlighting his face like the Westlife songs.

When you're looking like that - Westlife Lyrics (color coded)

While listening to the song above, I saw Death Conqueror dressed in a black suit standing in a black background as he receives several light slaps on his face one after the other which pushes him backward. The slaps are so high in frequency that his eyes get closed and the vision is followed by me kicking his ass with his upper half bent forward in the left direction which sends him off running in that direction after which I am left alone in the view and emulate some Indian dance moves alone in front of the viewer dressed in my maroon jacket over black jeans as I rotate my closed fists around each other in joy.

Dream (Morning):
In this dream, I find myself flying in the air in an unstable manner wherein I know that I have the ability to fly though I do it in an unstable manner. Because of the instability, I am not able to ascend too high as I keep dwindling in air. As I am in the air, I happen to pass over a black electronic machine lying openly on the ground outside. It has a top resembling a trampoline which's huge enough for an adult. It uses an electronic mechanism to throw things or people to a great height in the sky. I happen to stumble and fall on top of it and it instantly throws me to a height up in the sky I couldn't have reached by my own self. I begin to walk in the sky after reaching that height though I am still dwindling. As I continue to dwindle high in the sky, I float down to the ground after a while because of the instability. Once on the ground, I look at the tall building some distance ahead to my right and find my dad standing on top of it, dressed in a black camouflaged military suit with a black sleeveless sweater on top. He's holding a weapon in one of his hands and it seems that he's keeping an eye on the place from that height. I see him looking down at me from that height. That apparent electronic trampoline machine stands across the road to my left in front of his building. Its top is visible through the dense maze of shorter buildings around it. I am standing in a relatively less crowded part of the street as I look up at my dad. To my left is a small street tea snacks stall. I then look up again and this time when I look up to my left above the electronic trampoline, I see Death Conqueror walking in the sky to the left. He is dressed in a black sweater over a shirt tucked inside black pants and his hair is neatly combed and he looks slightly taller than his real self. Apparently, he too got thrown up by the trampoline but he was able to walk steadily. I notice his steady walk in the sky through the air and see how he is not dwindling like me but walks with perfect balance. I recall my own solo walk in the sky. As I am thinking about the same, I also think how I was able to fly even without the trampoline but it would just've taken me slightly longer to reach that height that the machine threw me up to instantly. I see how I am able to fly without any external help though I'm unstable in my movements, that I don't need the trampoline to fly and can reach height by random walk through the air in my own unstable manner. Now I wonder if my dad spotted Death Conqueror walking in the sky as well. My dad jumps and smoothly floats down and stands in front of me. I observe his military attire and the weapon. He turns his back to me and as he does so, his attire changes to a light pink shirt tucked inside black pants following which he puts the stretched fingers of his right hand into his right back pocket. He turns his front back to me and his attire is now back to the military one. I move nearer to the street shop and he gets busy talking to the few people standing near the shop.

After waking up, while I am brushing teeth, I happen to just speak this thing about the nature of God as the water falling from the tap catches my attention. I say that the water will always fall down and not for a nanosecond would change its behavior because gravity never fails. That's the eternal natural law of God. And therefore it reflects on how His moral law is eternal as well and never changes. And even if one manages to do something that makes it seem that one is going against the law, for instance, walking, or constructing a rocket ship, etc., it didn't break the law but one acted and followed along the law to be able to achieve that thing. In the same way, when Jesus died for the sins of the world, no law was broken by His sacrifice, but His sacrifice fulfilled the requirements of His moral law thereby enabling us to board Him as the analogous rocket ship to leave the world and enter into Heaven - the analogous Earth. It can be explained using the same scientific reasoning. Jesus fulfilled the moral law while serving as the rocket ship fulfilling the gravitational law therefore enabling its passengers, who would be the souls of the people with the Holy Spirit, to leave the world as He carries us higher through His forgiveness of sins we already committed and the grace we receive for our time on Earth. Though as long as we are in the flesh, we are under the law, but Christ's sacrifice frees us from the law and lifts us up through His grace thereby making it possible for us to be carried outside of Earth to Heaven. And while I was explaining this out, I recalled the dream with the trampoline I had woken up from this morning in which I was able to fly but the trampoline threw me up way high in the sky.

I hear my supervisor's voice: We will all remember you, Kartika. We will all remember you, Kartika.

This day we had a group lunch with our PhD supervisor to which she had exclusively invited me on a WhatsApp call. She said she was doing it to pull me out of my depression. While I was getting ready after bathing, I heard a guy's voice repeat in my spirit: Aaj ye apni aukat dikhayegi. Aaj ye apni aukat dikhayegi. I reached the dept around noon. When we were in the restaurant and when people were still settling, my friend Jema sat on a single chair while my supervisor sat on the settee on the opposite side. I asked Jema to sit with me on the settee, but she denied and said her back needed more comfort. The thought of sitting on the chair next to her crossed my mind but the seat beside my supervisor got highlighted to me in my spirit. As I stood there, still deciding, the seat beside my supervisor kept getting strongly highlighted to me. I could sense that there was a purpose behind it and that's why I was getting that nudge. So, I obeyed or followed the nudge and sat beside her. And I felt these promptings to tell her certain things as they came to me.

The first prompting that I felt was to tell her that I sat beside her to reconcile things between us as there had built some tension because of the past few emails.

We disagreed on some things as well and then I was sobbing at times because of her harsh words. The first hurtful thing she said was that if there was anyone I had to blame, it should be me for my situation. This made me sob instantly. And as she said that I wondered if I was to leave the lunch because for this reason alone I had a double heart towards going to that lunch but I chose to go because my supervisor gave me an exclusive 'invitation'. She then said that she would rather put the blame on her own self before anyone else. I explained to her that the blame should always be put where it belongs or else one would be lying. This was the beginning of our disagreements during the time of our interaction. As I continued sitting beside her, the previous vision in which she came walking to a huge Jesus standing facing His bride in white was highlighted to me. In that vision, she had grown up to the size of the bride and merged into her. So, I then knew that for this reason was I nudged to sit beside her.

I then let her know that it was because I didn't want to hear anything hurtful that I was skeptical about not coming for lunch. She then asked me if I considered it worth coming (for she had already said some mean things to me and made me cry). And my immediate response was that if things were reconciled between us then it was worth it, but if she thought I was a bad student, it wasn't. I think that was also a prompting of the spirit and how that's how I felt as well. It wasn't me perse who was trying to reconcile with her, but Jesus. And I saw how she was in the world, but I felt a love for her that was out of the world and I am sure it was because of the spirit inside of me and because of the same though she had said hurtful things to me, I could let them go and look at her as the child of God she was called to be. That vision was my reference.

And this calmed my hurt down and I felt comforted. She said something else that was hurtful, and I began sobbing again.

She then blamed herself. I had to repeat a few times that she wasn't to be blamed for anything. That she only said a few things but didn't really create situations to render me unable to work. So it wasn't because of her that I hadn't been able to work for the past year and had been slow previously, but because of the camera situation. That if there were no cameras, I would've been regular in the dept and would've done more work by now. And if anyone was to blame, it was the camera person because he put me in that state where I couldn't work and was depressively bedridden and my health kept worsening with time!

As I sat silently after a slight sob, I heard in my spirit: Madhavan is crying. Madhavan is crying.

She was then making worldly statements like one should live the moment. But the right thing would be to live in the moment without sinning wherein you aren't holding on to your past but you don't sin either.

She was also under the impression that I think everyone is bad and the same. And I cleared it to her that I didn't think everyone was bad, but called good good and bad bad.

Another prompting I felt later was to tell her that after she would've retired, she could do an exercise sitting alone at home which would involve thinking about the godly precepts and making them firm in her mind in an uncompromised way. She interjected in between and when she was done, I told her that she could pray to God to forgive her for not having the right mind in the past. Later in the evening, when I was back in my room, I realized that the statement was a response to a reference she often made to Jesus' words at the time of His crucifixion as He said: Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do.

I said other things as well we talked during lunch as they came to me, but the above two were something that just popped inside me out of nowhere with a strong nudge for me to say to her.

I also told her that I didn't get by anything she said in regards to my PhD or if she scolded me about that. But it were the other things she said hinting to me about having to do sinful things that violated my moral sense and targeted me as a woman.

By the end of the lunch, things were relatively fine because I had expressed how I felt about my supervisor's behavior in this detail perhaps for the first time. Though I wasn't sure of how I would fare in my degree in the future, I felt good about having an honest conversation with her. And she indeed was surprised by the truth which she said indirectly while talking to Vivek. When I sat beside her, I was feeling the love of God for her, and because of how she behaved, I could tell that she wasn't able to perceive it in that moment. I wanted her to know how serious Jesus was about her and how she was just blinded by the world around her, her profession, and the behavior of other wicked people that she had accepted as the normal reality of the world when she was to live and think in a set apart way. I wondered how could she be jolted out of that state. God knows how to work on the hearts of people and bring about a change.

Past Revelations

- (Past three weeks) The upper half of Death Conqueror as he gives a high-five to someone on the left saying: Yes! She's breathing!
- (Past two weeks) While trying to sleep this night, I stop breathing. And then the drones do something and I end up begin breathing again, after which I see: The face of Glory until his shoulders look to the left as he says smiling with filled eyes: Thank you. Thank you.
- Chinese Chinese. Thappad maro! Sorry, please.

Dream:
In front of my rented room is another small see-through room filled with books. I see the singer Pankaj Udhas in that room. Perhaps he is singing a song. I see that everyone around me is trying to persuade me to give in to the vices of the short man Death Conqueror. But it's not having any effect on me. A person comes to my room's door and has a brief chat with me. He says that I need to solve a page of extremely deep and complex MSc-level theoretical physics problems that would require one to have a deep understanding of the underlying physical concepts. The problems are not regular MSc problems but of greater difficulty than what is taught in my department. I need to solve that as a part of some test that is related to the short fellow. I can tell that I will be able to solve them with enough time at hand if I were to sit and work on them. And it seems enticing as well. Because there was a time I liked solving Physics problems and spending a lot of time with the concepts and the current problem page the person suggested seemed challenging enough to commune with my nature of finding peace and contentment in a better or greater understanding of the world.

This time, though I know that I would struggle to understand the underlying new concepts, I don't find it worth it to pass the test because I don't want to pass any test that would lead me to be in the direct presence of the short fellow. So I tell that person a no. However, if I had the same set of problems that I needed to solve back during my MSc days, I would consider it as my time very well spent! I may not know the related concepts, but I would learn them and proceed ahead. That's how I spent most of my time when I could work. I was always in a state where I was in touch with my natural surroundings and I saw how everything worked get visually highlighted to me.

I can tell that everyone around me is trying to indirectly persuade me about something related to Death Conqueror as they all seem to be hinting at something. It annoys me and I go back inside my room. Another person walks to my door and asks me a question. I then hear a lady's narrative voice as I see myself standing inside my dimly lit room as a third person while the short fellow stands outside my closed mesh door. The lady voice's says: Agar darwaaze par dastak ho to daman pehen lo; aur agar koi ander ana chahe, to darwaza khol do. The lines don't make sense to me. I can sense that things are nearing an end with Death Conqueror. The follow-up part of the dream has me cleaning my room dimly lit with a yellow bulb. A tall man dressed in a shirt tucked inside pants comes walking in with dirty shoes and leaves dirty shoe marks all over the floor. I need to clean again. I see a few more people enter my room. There's a lady in there as well. I don't seem to already know them but they came to visit me. I am then chatting with the guests.

Evening
As I sit in my bed writing revelations, though I can't recall what it was that I was writing, I saw:
The upper half of Death Conqueror to my right in his black suit attire as he looks down at me and says with a mean expression and a rude tone: Sorry Bitch! Sorry Bitch!

The vision repeated a few times.

But by this time, I had developed immunity to such behavior while previously would've felt immense disgust, but a person can only behave according to his inner moral countenance.

Well, this is not the way I would say Sorry to those whom I accidentally happen to sin against. And this is the way he apologizes to someone he intentionally sinned against!

Dream:
I see a small ship moving in the waters. While I am standing inside a room, I see waves from a water body present on the left side of the other end of the room splash in my direction. In the follow-up part of the dream, I see myself in that boat with my dad.

Past Revelations

- (Past two weeks) A small-framed animated vision of two men in red suits with a white shirt inside in a dark background as one of them stands facing to the right, leaning against a desk behind him at the left end of the vision, with a disk of dry cow dung lifted in his hand which he is playing with like a ball as he throws it up by a foot or so and catches it again. He doesn't look disgusted but he does what he is doing standing in style and swag. The other high-contrast animated person in red and white too plays with the dung disk in a similar way though he is sitting on the ground.
- (Past week) I had this vision sometime after I had watched his livestream he did on Jan 2nd in which he explained why he thought he was supposed to go to Haiti. And he made this livestream the next day after I shared the vision at the of which he extended a page of his notepad he was flipping through towards the viewer on which was written Cancelled.
  Vision: The upper half until the shoulders of Brother Philips dressed in his grey sweatshirt as he says:
  I know I am supposed to cancel it. I know I'm supposed to cancel it.
- (Past week) While I was brushing teeth, I heard the Guy sing accompanied with the corresponding scene from the song Tumhare Siva:
  Mehekne lagega.. Ho…
  Mehekne lagega.. Badan ye tumhara..
  Hum aankhon se aisi ibaadat karenge..

  And the word Ibaadat in the last line came out of me on its own as the lyric played while I saw in my spirit a blurry man near my feet who then got up as the man does in the song. Ibaadat here is used to communicate respect and not worship because we are not called to worship anyone besides the Lord God.

On Dec 18th, I scrapped away the House of the Lord that I had made after making two cuts along one of its walls. I did so because I felt it had turned into an idol and then its base was full of molten white wax until a few inches above from the 4-5 inches thick candle I had previously burned inside. So one could light a candle inside as well because it would cause damage to the cardboard walls by overheating them and lead after a while to the entire structure burning. And if it had turned into an idol, it was then a source of demonic activity, something that could allow demons to mislead me. I didn't want to receive any misleading revelations, so I threw it away. My motivation behind throwing it was to get rid of demonic activity and worship the Lord God in the spirit with a true and right heart. I knew that I didn't need a cardboard house of the Lord to worship, but it was something I had made out of my love for Him.

I couldn't separate the wax from the inner walls or take it out and it kept getting dirtier on the inside as the wax would accumulate dirt and the wick couldn't be burned. I could no longer burn a candle inside out of my own mind which I did previously to honor Jesus as I was previously led to do. And now I didn't feel good around it anylonger. I wanted a fresh beginning of my bond with God and I knew that I already had His Spirit inside of me, and that I didn't really need the cardboard structure.

Also, it was after I had made that House of the Lord that I had the dream towards the end of which I saw myself walking dressed in my loose and long purple t-shirt with Amitabh Bachchan dressed in a red suit with a white shirt inside less than two meters away on my left-hand side with him wearing a huge teethfull smile with black goggles and several animated multi-colored garlands of flowers around his neck. I had this dream in Saroj Sadan in 2021 and at that time the House had the name of Father God in ancient Hebrew written on the inner wall facing the wall with the door. So, this attire of the red suit with a white shirt inside has been repeating since 2021. The second time it was shown to me was in my wedding dream revelation in which Glory was dressed in a red suit with a white shirt inside. And then when the song Tumhare Siva played in my spirit and I looked it up, I saw that the three men inside were dressed in red and white though they were wearing additional attachments of a red waistcoat and a tie which wasn't there in the previous revelations. And now while I was writing the previous sentence and mentioning the three men in red and white, what was highlighted to me was the Holy trinity of the Father, Son, and the Holy Spirit. They all dance together with the lady.
There's something peculiar about this attire of the red and white suit. Also, Jesus revealed Himself to me in red and white the first time He gave me a real physical manifestation on the roof of A-16 in which he was dressed in a white ankle-length tunic with a wide red drape along His side.

But on the 18th of Dec during the last year, which was almost after about 2 and half years of decorating that cardboard structure giving it the form of the House of the Lord, I felt it had become an idol and was serving and seemed to serve as a hindrance in my relationship with God. So I made two cuts, prayed in the name of Jesus for the cancellation of any demonic activity, and threw it.

The next day, Sis Adele released the following video in which she explained the walls and boundaries and how we are not called to have walls around us but flexible boundaries that allow us to still be able to love people while not having to put ourselves in their company because they may be harmful to us due to one or other reasons. After watching the video, I wondered if I had walls built around me and not boundaries because I would completely block out people and would not want to be around them if I saw traces of character aspects in them that I didn't like or approve of or found immoral. And I also thought if I had been trying to secure myself within walls with God as I thought about the House of the Lord I had scrapped off the previous day. We are the House of the Lord and we have the spirit of God inside of us if we are believers and have received it. But we are supposed to have flexible boundaries when it comes to dealing with His people wherein we give them grace and are patient with them as we obey God and trust in Him. It doesn't mean that we've to sin, but what it does mean is that we've to be patient with their sin and trust in God for Him to do His work in them in due time. If they're not His children or He doesn't want us around those people, He will shift us away in His timing. However, it doesn't also mean that we've to intentionally put up with abuse and stay in an abusive situation. Because it is written in the word about the kind of people we're not supposed to even sit with and have a meal.

God, wounds, healing, walls and boundaries

Heard intermittently throughout the day as I was writing revelations:
Bhula dala.. Bhula dala..
Bhula dala.. Bhula dala..

Evening while resting
A tiny baby in thick multilayered white wrap floating vertically in the air as he says a gentle and elongated: Mummy..! Followed by a silver fairy wand appearing in one of his hands and a wide metallic loop held in the other with a thin metallic handle. The baby floats extending the wand to my face after a while of which he rotates and throws the metallic loop towards me which lands right around my neck.

Glory dressed in a dark cyan fluffed jacket over pants walks backwards through the corridor as he says lightly: Acchi acting karti hai. Acchi acting karti hai.

I took this vision for the instances when I am exhibiting boundaries as I ignore people who place themselves intentionally in front of me so I have no option but to ignore them which may seem like acting to them.

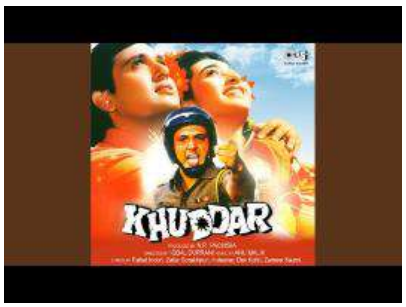
And after I wrote the above, I had this sudden perception of him (Glory) emerge in my mind as a tiny baby unintentionally tempting a woman towards him.

Night
The chorus of the following song began playing in my spirit.

The Guy sings:
Tumsa koi pyaara koi masoom nahi hai.
Kya cheez ho tum khud tumhe maloom nahi hai..

The Lady sings:
Lakhon hai yahan magar tumsa yahan kon haseen hai..
Tum jaan ho meri tumhe maloom nahi hai..

Tumsa Koi Pyaara



After a while, as I was playing other songs on the keyboard, the following song came to me as well and then I felt like listening to it because it has a holy tinge to it and then it was highlighted to me to be posted here.

As I was listening to this song, I kept hearing a guy's voice say intermittently:
She's a bitch Mrittunjay. She's a bitch Mrittunjay.

Shania Twain - From This Moment On

And then I came across this version of the song You're Still The One which I later looked up for a better video quality to post here. I found it interesting how the man in the red suit resembled Glory in his facial features to some extent - a rough version of him!

Elton John - You're still the one (with Shania Twain)

After listening to these Shania Twain songs, as I sit in my bed with my head covered with my quilt, I see the face of Shania Twain with loose dark brown hair lying on her shoulders and the back – her look from one of her videos of her song You're Still The One that I had watched – emulate my expression.

Dream:
In this dream, I enter a huge grey kitchen hall with a slab extending out and visibly stretching across the two adjacent walls. On the left side of the wall to my left, I see a lady standing in front of the kitchen sink and washing dishes. I get to know that the hall offers an on-spot job of washing dishes for a payment of Rs. 20. So, anyone in need of money could just walk into the hall and do the job of washing dishes. I think a bit about the low pay scale. On the right end of the wall in front of me, I find another kitchen sink in front of which is standing another lady washing dishes. The vision then zooms in and I find my own self standing there and washing dishes. I see that I am washing identical flat steel plates with a few niches of varying sizes. I see that I am wiping the dishes dry after cleaning them before putting them in the utensil rack. Several such identical dishes are lying in the sink.

The next part of the dream has me standing on the roof in sunlight with two other ladies one of whom is lying on her side on a mat on the ground while the other is sitting facing her. The one lying on the mat is talking about the several skin treatment products she recently got that were prescribed to her by a dermatologist. There are other medicinal skin products she is talking about as well. I ask her where did she get them from. She says the shop lies nearby. I ask her how far the shop is. She says that it's 15-20 shops ahead along the road in the right direction down the building followed by the statement that it's 20kms away. 20kms sounds like a huge distance for 15-20 shops further down the road. I wonder if she really meant that. I then leave them alone as I say the words that I only use sunscreen for my face, and that too not regularly, and that it has been lying useless for long. As I say the words, I've left the women behind me and am stepping down the open stairs some meters away from the back of the lady lying on the mat. On reaching downstairs, I take a U-turn to the right and taking a left enter into what looks like a classroom which looks like a huge hut with dark brown hay walls and long wooden benches and desks placed inside it. I see myself standing facing to the left as a third person as I stand beside the wall separating the room from the outside with its door at its left end. I find myself thinking about the kind of person I was back during my time with Shreya in school when our minds were unstained from the unnecessary experience of the world and that I won't ever have that with anyone else because I will never be the same person that I was back then. And as I think so, Dr Bharati enters the classroom and begins rashly scolding a student standing behind her podium. And it's when I leave the room.

Morning
As I am watching Brother Philip's recent livestream in which he is talking about demonic false manifestations and how they cause deception, I hear: Don't pay attention to him. Don't pay attention to him. followed by: I will take care of him.

It seemed clear to me that he had targeted my ministry encapsulated in the expression of a person's floral sky blue face facing to the left representing that person's godly right self that's called to the kingdom of God. I don't even call it a ministry. I just write as I am led and many times what I happen to unintentionally think goes along with the dream I had received that morning, or if I have something left to be written from several days back, at times I end up completing it on the day it manifests. So, as I was listening to his livestream and I was feeling judged, I heard: Don't pay attention to him. Don't pay attention to him.

Later I watched Sis Adele's video she released today which I've shared below. Afterwards, I saw: The upper half of Sis Adele until her shoulders in a dark background as she says: You've brought everyone together. You've brought everyone together.

These 3 things are important for 2024

After a while, I see:
A small-framed vision of Sis Adele dressed in her Bold Existence black Polo T-shirt with white linings over black trousers stands a meter away on the right hand of Jesus dressed in an ankle-length tunic with a red drape on top in a black background as He lightly slaps the back of her head and says with a peal of light laughter: She's trying her best to follow me. She's trying her best to follow me.

Later, I'm listening to worship songs. I play the following song and as the following lyrics play
There's none like you..
No one else can touch my heart like you do..

There is None Like You (Acoustic) - Don Moen & Lenny LeBlanc (Lyrics)

I hear: That's what we wanted to hear.. That's what we wanted to hear.. It gave me a sense that that's what the trio whom God brought to Him had deep down wanted to hear after a lifestyle of sinful loveless fornication in the pursuit of a false sense of love.

There's none like you..
No one else can touch my heart like you do..

And I can search for eternity long, and find..
There's none like you..

Well, it goes both ways. Because though the song was originally written to praise God, it can also make people feel seen by God as they feel that there's no one like them who can be replaced by someone else in the eyes of God as they've their own unique and special place in His eyes.

Afternoon
As I am sitting in bed and move my head around evading the drones as they're moving, I hear:
We're raping you, Kartika. We're raping you, Kartika.

When later I lie down to rest because I have become breathless and need to catch my breath, and have covered myself fully with the winter sheets, and feel the drones disturbing my sleep/rest as they hover near my face, I hear:

Don't disturb her, Mrittunjay. Don't disturb her, Mrittunjay.

I turn to the other side as I am trying to not get disturbed and try to cover my face. I don't have a good restful rest though I have my ears plugged in so I don't get disturbed by voices.

I also hear a stuffed and thick hurt voice say: Randi… Hum tujhse bahut pyaar karte hai..?

It seemed as if someone was repeating the previous sentence about the trio after taking it seriously. I didn't understand it at first, but then I wondered if it is Glory being angry with me lying down to rest as he says these words, though I am not sure.

- Brother Philips sipping blood through a transparent straw out of a glass in a dark Maroon background.
  It's the blood of the lamb.. that saves my soul.. (song by Brother Werks)

- Brother Philips looking at me with flames of deep red blood in his eyes.

As I'm lying in bed with the drones moving around and thinking how the situation led me to this state but despite the same they continue to continue in their acts. And then I hear:
I know that I'm killing you. I know that I'm killing you.

And it repeats for a while. Now if it was my covenant partner who was talking through those drones and I wasn't being broadcasted to the public, it would've had the opposite effect. I would go to sleep feeling soothed and happy.

After I wake up, I use the washroom and sit for a while in bed with vertically folded knees with my hands behind them as I rest my back against the wall behind me. I find my arms shaking for some reason and it seems as if they're going to blast out. I sit with shivering arms. And then I see: An almost opaque figure of Death Conqueror dressed in a black suit looking down at me standing near the ceiling in front of the wall facing me as he says: I did this to her. I did this to her. I ruined the life of this girl. I ruined the life of this girl.

- I then see him grab the poop he is ejecting at his back through his attire and putting it back in his mouth. For some reason I don't understand, he's eating his own shit.
- The follow-up vision has him standing still in the same way looking down at me as Glory walks by to the right in front of him pushing his face backwards making him fall back and take a few steps backwards. The vision repeated a few times.

Night

Revelations I had when I lay in bed to rest. I thought I might get up later to work but I fell asleep after a while.

The Guys sing:
Though you want to..
Though you try to..
You can't stop the rain..
And the first time.. It's not you..
Who can heal me…

Westlife - Heal [Color Coded Lyrics]

- Brother Philips dressed in fluffed winter clothes stands on the top surface of a watchtower under the night sky with Binoculars with the tower surrounded by water as far as one could see. Most of the building was under water and only 4-5 meters of the vertical tower was out of the water as he stood on top.

- The upper half of Brother Philips dressed in a white cloth that runs over his left shoulder like a wide drape with parallel waves running across it - the attire resembling that of Paras Patel (Matthew of The Chosen) in one of the previous visions, as he says: I want to be like you.
- Doctor Strange dressed in full-length multilayered white attire flies towards the viewer with two huge white wings at the back holding a flute in his left hand near his mouth.
- The face of Sis Bia in a golden background with her blonde hair partitioned in the middle lifted sideways in the air with a 5-6cms wide circular button on top of her head.

Past Revelation

(Past month) A well-built and muscular naked devil points to a person on his left side as a narrative voice says: And this the devil's suggested counterfeit and the person is revealed to be a man with the face of Glory but the body language of Tejaswi as he stands leaning against a wall dressed in a beige tunic set with a half jacket on top with his feet crossed over and a flute held horizontally on the viewer's right side of his mouth. It reminded me of Tejaswi. He is the devil's counterfeit for Glory that I first came across and it was later that God brought His chosen real person who embodies His Glory and character traits.

Even if that wicked man Tejaswi had a face like Glory's, he's still the devil's counterfeit of a man of God.

Dream 1:
I am in the square middle hall of a home complaining about how things are always unorganized. The small square hall now when I write about it reminds me of the house my dad built in my hometown of upbringing. It was so beautiful. He had a usual-sized chess checkerboard made on the floor on the left side of the stairs going downstairs. He had built a huge hall on the ground floor to give it out for rent, and a 3 BHK on the first floor with an open kitchen in the middle hall. He covered the balcony of the first floor with huge green square glass windows so we could stand in the balcony and look out through those windows. Perhaps he did it as a form of safety or perhaps solely for aesthetic reasons. I'm not sure. But it looked great and helped us sit in the long balcony without being seen by outsiders.

In the dream, I see our tall wooden TV trolley with a grey ply with fine dark grey print standing on the end of the hall where our real home's kitchen would be. I see that he has arranged things on the top shelf of the trolley as they stand neatly at their positions. I walk towards it to take a closer look and see some tall things standing on the shelf which I can't discern what they are but he's placed them strategically. The shelf doesn't look messy because of things lying randomly on it, but it doesn't look neat either because those tall structures consume the entire area of the shelf instead of being clubbed together and placed in a corner. What's quite weird is that I've been thinking of writing pending revelations for the past many days and it's now the end of January that I got time to complete editing this revelation. But whenever I thought of the revelation as it got highlighted to me to be written, it didn't remind me of the house he had built. But it's today that I actually sat to write that after writing the first line itself I get reminded of the similarity the house in the dream shared with the actual house my dad built. One interesting fact about that house was that it was built at a place that didn't have many houses around and at some distance on the left side of it was a cemetery where Hindus burnt their dead. That cemetery was encapsulated within a wide white building with a central wide grassy lawn. The lawn and the building were visible from the roof but the place of the burning body couldn't be seen. There were one or two shops on the left side of our house. Perhaps the area was supposed to have shops that's why many people didn't build their houses around that solitary place. And though my mom didn't like the area, I liked it because it was peaceful and with not many people in sight. However, I also recall the smell of a burning body that had reached our home from the cemetery once. That was the only time I was present in the home when a body was being burnt in the cemetery. That was also the reason my mom didn't like the location of the house. But in the absence of any burning body, the cemetery didn't look at all like a cemetery but it looked like a rest house when looked upon from our roof. And it wasn't often that bodies were burnt and it wasn't too close to us that the smell would fill our home but it was only when we went outside or on the roof that we could sense the light smell of something burning. And I only experienced it once. I remember standing on the roof and looking out far into the expanse ahead of me through which I could see vast green crop fields spread out in my distant sight near the periphery of the town in the direction of the house's front, while when one stood at the opposite end of the roof, one could see the expanse of the town. And the roof was such a great place to experience the sunset. Because it was a solitary place, there weren't tall buildings present beside us to obstruct our view but there were some buildings in the front of our home. It was a peaceful place. It was what my dad built after we had shifted from our rented home in the Cheema Colony. And while he built it, he had the apartment furnished as well. He was to decide where we were to stay. Perhaps he gave us the option. I can't recall. Everyone chose to stay in the apartment because the area was near to Delhi – the supposed education hub – and also because the apartment in its first look looked great and it was quite neat and nowhere close to what they've made of it now. And also my dad didn't have many years of his job left, so we thought we could maintain and live in that cute small space. Now when I think of it, yeah, it's good we shifted because it's a demonic practice to burn human bodies and who knows how our house would've been further infused with or influenced by demons if we had stayed there. He had built that building mainly for business purposes to rent its ground floor out either as a godown or to serve as a bank like my friend Deepika's dad had rented one of the floors of his home out to HDFC bank. And he thought that if he rented the ground floor, he could build an apartment on the first floor so we wouldn't have to stay on rent somewhere else. He built it with much thought and it was spacious enough.

In the dream, after taking a look at the TV trolley standing at the place of the kitchen with the kitchen construction being absent, I turned to my left and walked down the narrow stairs. This is what confirmed to me that the house in this dream was similar to the one my dad built in my hometown as we had narrow stairs going up to the first floor on the left side of the godown. We couldn't have kept staying on rent but for some reason, he chose to build that apartment in quite a personalized way. Later perhaps it was during my masters that we shifted to our current apartment in the NCR area. It facilitated my commute to home as it was now nearer and we also thought it would be better for my brothers as well if they were to avail coaching classes from Delhi. After we shifted, he sold the house that he had made, though originally he had bought the land to build a shop as that's how he always referred to it when he had it bought. Also, we didn't have to stay in that town because we had shifted there because of my dad's posting in a nearby village. Now I don't know if the house has some prophetic significance, but it was weird to have the cemetery in the middle of the town instead of the secluded outskirts.

In the dream, as I am stepping down the stairs, I'm holding a book with a purple cover and apparently, I know the resentment some people standing upstairs have towards that book. They don't like the book. It was when I was making quick notes about the dream after waking up that I realized that the purple book was the Easy to Read version of the Bible. They don't like me reading the book. They don't like the book itself. After reaching downstairs, as I cross the street and turn backwards, I see a girl dressed in shiny black pants and a Jacket skate sideways in my direction with her body bent almost to the ground level on the left side as I notice how she is skating along the sides of her block-heeled plain metallic golden boots that reach about 5-6 inches high above her ankles and don't have wheels. She slid along the side of her boots with her legs folded along the ground in the manner of a professional skater. I don't know why is she skating towards me in that professional move. My attention goes to her sliding move made in the metallic golden skates because it looks like quite a unique thing. I ignore her and walk to the right of the road where I meet someone. The part of the lady in black with golden metallic boots skating in my direction gets repeated to me around 3-4 times.

Dream 2:

In the middle of this dream, I find myself in a small room that looks somewhat like my rented PG room in A-10. It has two beds laid along the opposite sides of the room and I'm using the bed on the left side as one enters inside the room through the door along the direction of my bed resembling the structure of my room 303 in A-10. The wall opposite the door has a small cooler fixed outside the small square window of the room. There is an old tall and lean watchman dressed in faded black who comes into my room to inform me about something and then leaves. As I stay inside my room in the dream, a black and chubby overweight boy with a height shorter than mine walks in my room along with his family and apparently, they're looking to rent the other side of the room for their boy. It's a Bengali family in the dream. Though they're already inside my room and are checking it out, I know that I can't stay with that boy. As he sits on the other bed looking at me, I sit on my bed and explain to him that I am an Indian and because of my cultural upbringing, I'm not really comfortable with having male roommates in a shared rented PG room. Though I know that it's also because of moral reasons, I don't want to stay together with him, but in the dream, I seem to know that the only reason they might understand for me not having him as my roommate is me being an Indian and not being used to living with male roommates and I don't find it a good idea either. Apparently, the PG is not exclusively a girls' PG and allows both genders to stay together. Though I don't know about other rooms, I know that I will be ok with a female roommate for myself. After they leave, I go check how the cooler is working and through the balcony door see the watchman in black standing outside on the road performing his duty some distance to my right with his back facing my room. I have to go outside for some reason and have to now change my footwear. I find that I've white toe-flats with multiple thin white flat strips running over my feet. As I stand wearing them inside my room as white sunlight from the cooler's window falls on one of my feet, I see my toes looking as white as the flat itself. Seeing this, I sense Glory's joy in the dream though he's not present inside the room. I know however that he's seen my white toes. I then begin to walk around the room and now when I'm standing near my bed away from the light-lit region, when I look down at my feet, they no longer look as white as they did under the sunlight but their color contrast with the white of the flat is quite apparently visible. This disappoints me as I notice my thick beige and somewhat manly toes.

The Lady sings: Maar dala.. Maar dala..

Well, when I wrote the above white flats part of the dream, though I had recalled it several times as the part of a revelation that was pending to be written, it was today that I wrote it that an incident from the past came to my memory. I was walking on the right side of the road towards the Multi-Storey building of my dept and it was 2021. The previous evening I had had a small altercation with my supervisor related to Awadhesh Prasad. She was telling me that he was hurt because I left him, and she had been repeating it for several months now. And this evening, it really pissed me off and I ended up shouting that if he was hurt because I didn't let him take advantage of me then it was none of my business. So this next morning, as I am walking on the road inside Gate No. 4 of the Science Faculty and am nearing the Conference Centre inside Gate, I happen to spot the back of a lean and thin man dressed in a white t-shirt over blue denims as he stands in front of the open trunk of a car. He slowly places a dark brown bag on the ground on his left side and as I approach him from behind and have now shifted to the right sidewalk, when I come across him again, I see that he's bent forward down to the level of the base of the trunk and is slowly moving his ass around its position that's pointing upwards which makes me think why is he highlighting his ass to me. As I pass by him, he places his hand on one of the few white square boxes placed at the back of his car in a line. It seems as if he is about to lift up the cover of that box. I think if it's Glory. Though his face is hidden, his stature and the complexion of his thin arms make me wonder if it's him. As I pass him by, I happen to notice his feet that are adorning thick navy blue slides with his fair toes visible at the top. It makes me look down at my beige manly toes and I think how much inferior I look in front of him and therefore without stopping at the place, I quickly pass him by. It gives me the feeling as if he's a fair fairy and I'm a rough and tough man. Though I wouldn't have used the term fairy back in those days, what I imply by fairy is that he carried the neatness and grace of a woman while when I looked at myself, I felt so inferior as I compared our feet. This now reminds me of another revelation in which I was walking down the stairs together with Glory step with step our feet joined together as we both wore Relaxo bathroom flip-flops. I wore red flip-flops and he wore white flip-flops with blue V-strips. I was dressed in a red tunic with its drape hanging around my neck and he was dressed in his attire from that day. I had my right arm around his waist and he had his left hand around my shoulder. As we stepped down the stairs, we kept looking down and in that dream, I didn't see a lot of ugliness about my feet. They were shown as plain beige feet with my original shape, but hairless. I don't know why we were both looking down but we stepped down in a way where I stepped down first and he immediately followed after me with his feet joined together with me as I was shining a flashlight ahead on the stairs. It was mostly dark. This revelation now seems to be a neutralizing revelation for the event from that day in which he was dressed the same but was wearing blue slides.

As I was recalling the incident from the day that I happened to spot Glory bent on the base of the open trunk of his car, I saw the upper half of Glory saying as he cried with a mouth wide open: Mein bahut accha hu! The vision repeated a few times.

Well, when I recall the vision in which I saw Brother Philip lying in bed covered with a white sheet with Bia standing beside him as a worried lady's voice said: Brother Philips is going to die.. , I also recall how I was having negative thoughts later during the day after watching his video in which he announced his plan to visit Haiti, and then I had that vision later at night the same or the next day. So, the sentence shows a lady's worrisome thought as it was also followed by Bia walking alone with a small snowman on top of her head.

And when I was watching his livestream in which he explained why people shouldn't be afraid of him going to Haiti, I also heard: Let him go.. Let him go.. Not to say that anyone has authority over him to stop him but we are to not pose a mental hindrance by suggesting otherwise.

Word released by Sis Adele:
Prophetic Word - I am Lord of My Church

And then I recalled how while watching his livestream yesterday in which he was explaining demonic false manifestations, I heard: Don't pay attention to him. I will take care of him.

So, it's all consistent and makes sense. He should ignore what others are saying and follow his calling.

1 Corinthians 12:12-21 (NIV)
Unity and Diversity in the Body
12 Just as a body, though one, has many parts, but all its many parts form one body, so it is with Christ. 13 For we were all baptized by[c] one Spirit so as to form one body—whether Jews or Gentiles, slave or free—and we were all given the one Spirit to drink. 14 Even so the body is not made up of one part but of many.
15 Now if the foot should say, "Because I am not a hand, I do not belong to the body," it would not for that reason stop being part of the body. 16 And if the ear should say, "Because I am not an eye, I do not belong to the body," it would not for that reason stop being part of the body. 17 If the whole body were an eye, where would the sense of hearing be? If the whole body were an ear, where would the sense of smell be? 18 But in fact God has placed the parts in the body, every one of them, just as he wanted them to be. 19 If they were all one part, where would the body be? 20 As it is, there are many parts, but one body.
21 The eye cannot say to the hand, "I don't need you!" And the head cannot say to the feet, "I don't need you!"

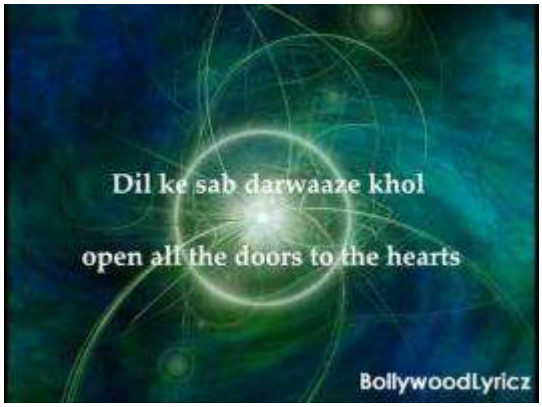
This song has been playing in my spirit intermittently as well within the past two weeks.
Pairon Mein Bandhan Hai [English Translation] Lyrics



14:41
I saw:
Glory standing in the corridor facing my room's direction with arms extended towards me. He seems to be calling me to him.

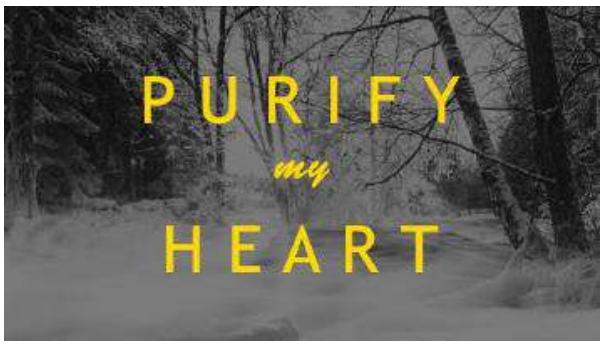
After a while, I see him standing in the same manner as he takes some slow steps backwards and after long I hear the song lyric play as sung by the Guy: Aajaa… from one of the songs from the movie Jaani Dushman: Ek Anokhi Kahani. And I feel a nudge to go out and take a look. I find some blocking my view as they are shifting a single bed.

The song continues with lyrics from a different playing as an attachment.
The Lady sings:
Tere sang pyaar mein nahi todna..
Tere sang pyaar mein nahi todna..
Chahe tere picche jug pade chhodna..
Tere sang pyaar mein nahi todna..

It used to play in my spirit when I was in Room D1 and used to keep a tab on the happenings on the ground from my balcony as I would spot Glory sometimes.

18:07
While listening to the following song, I had the following vision within the past minute.
The top view of the alcoholic wine at the place of my heart that was previously moving around like waves as it drains down from one of the corners on the left side leaving the empty plain surface behind. The alcohol is no longer there but it has left its smell inside which will take a while to be purged out, as I fill it with other fragrancing stuff.

Purify My Heart - Jeremy Riddle (Lyrics)



This evening, while editing Page 639, I came across the mention of Princess Shayla at the end of the second dream that I finished writing. This led me to look her up. It was weird that I didn't directly look her song up, the Song of Animaria, which is my go-to memory of her, but looked up her name and then out of the suggested recommendations, instead of opening the song, I opened the video between the Princess and Toxica. I wanted to see her fight. But it was a small part of her fight. I wanted to watch the rest of the fight. So, I looked up for some more of her videos, and then in one of them, Toxica removed her red horn from the top of her head leaving a red button-like protrusion which reminded me of the vision I had yesterday in which I had seen the face of Sis Bia with a similar red button on top. Also, in one of the episodes, I watched how Merrick and Princess Shayla used to sing happily together 3000 years back but now they had some differences because of some misunderstandings. After I watched this certain episode, I saw:

The upper half of Merrick standing behind me near the ceiling with his face turned to one side as he said to the person there: We shouldn't have done this to her. We shouldn't have done this to her.

Night

As I watched more of the videos, I came to know that Toxica after having her horn chopped found it hard to breathe and lost her mobility after a while. The org had deceived her into believing that she would grow a new horn as he wanted it to be chopped for her to be resistant to the sacred water.

Dream:
In this dream, I am walking through the hall of a house as I see a dark and moustached Amir Khan dressed in an olive green military attire enter the hall from the door present on the other end. I pass him by and exit through the hall through that very door and take a right and enter into a washroom where I am now brushing my teeth standing by the washbasin present on its end on the left side of the entrance door. As I do so, a short-heighted Pinky Mausi enters in and starts taking a shower behind me. Why is she doing such a thing, I wonder. I don't say anything to her because she already began bathing behind. Though she too is not paying attention to me, I think how she shouldn't have entered and started bathing if she knew I was already inside brushing my teeth. I don't look behind me and I ignore her, and neither is she saying anything but she's busy bathing. But I don't like how she just entered in and started bathing knowing that I was already in. On top of that, she's bathing with the door unlocked. Though I know for my own self that I am not having any wicked thoughts in my mind for her and neither do I want to look at her for the sight of her bathing is repelling me, others who might accidentally enter inside may not have the same heart. And that's what concerns me more than my presence in the bathroom.

Post waking up
A while after waking up, as I was lying on my right side facing the wall beside the door, I saw: the crying face of Death Conqueror until his throat with slightly curly hair as he said: I know you're telling the truth. I know you're telling the truth.

The vision repeated again.

As I continued lying in bed, I heard again in my spirit: Tell them that you love them. Tell them that you love them. It was yesterday in the night that I had first heard the voice inside telling me to say the same. I felt uncomfortable saying the words. The words repeated again a while after I woke up this morning. And then I heard the voice say to me to tell it to them now for I may never be able to do so again. I found it quite hard to say the words and was amidst one of those several moments in my life during which I knew that I had to do something but I am facing immense anxiety or the well-known fear of the unknown. I've faced it several times in the past. The last time that I recall I faced it was when I stood in front of Prof. DSK's room to ask for a recommendation letter for an internship somewhere in India. I stood outside for a long time, peeking inside through the square window, watching him interact with some other student, and moving to and fro with anxiety. I knew that after that student was going to be out, I was going to feel even more anxiety. I think I stood outside his lab for about half an hour or so, walking to and fro and peeking inside through the small square window. I had worked hard to ask him for the recommendation as I had unusually expanded on an experiment in the lab he was a part of and he had asked me to explain it to him outside of lab hours which I did.
I finally gathered the courage to go inside and asked him. He then gave me an Ohh.. of an epiphany as he understood why I was running after him concerning that experiment in the optics lab. He said that he already gave it to several people and that he wouldn't be able to give it to me. But he also said that he would remember me and would love to write a recommendation for PhD in Germany. But that was not what I was aiming for at that time. I wanted that internship. He always motivated students for a PhD. But I had to face a lot of anxiety as I stood outside.

And it's just one instant of me facing such a level of anxiety. I always faced the same whenever I had to give a singing performance in front of everyone. I always felt a lot of stage anxiety as I would behind and wait for my turn.

I was feeling the same kind of anxiety this morning. I kept lying anxious. I knew that God wanted me to tell them what He told me. And I didn't feel angry or upset with them either because I understood an important thing yesterday while watching one of the episodes of Power Rangers Wild Force in which a demonic being casts a spell on the Rangers making their shadows take the real form of dark figures with the same capabilities but having a wicked and evil inner self. In that episode, if the evil shadows were killed the real rangers would die as well, and they faced physical injury as well in the same way that the shadows faced. I wouldn't have understood it better if I hadn't watched that episode yesterday as it talked to me at a deep level. For the same reason, I now could relate with the trio because I wasn't looking at the wicked shadows but the rangers. And I knew that what I was being told to say wasn't false either because of the recent revelations that showed how they were called to be the moral men of God revealed in the song Tumhare Siva.

As I was lying, I could feel the words stuck behind my mouth as a real physical entity. And when I imagined actually saying them out, I saw a long-stemmed red rose come out of my mouth and lie on the bed in front of my face. Another such rose came out, and then one more. Three long-stemmed red roses laid in front of my face. I was still fighting my uncomfortable anxiety when I saw: I Love You written in maroon letters with a translucent boundary move upwards through my windpipe and come out of my mouth. So, I knew that I had to do it now. I didn't say the words but I began by explaining what the voice in my spirit had been telling me to say out. As I was about to say what the spirit told me, I saw Brother Jonathan sitting behind his desk in his cabin as he said: I love y'all. I spoke out this vision as well. After I had spoken out what I heard and saw, I saw: Three men dressed in red suits with a white shirt inside holding a bouquet of red roses held near their shoulders in each of their right hands as they stood in a line with their back towards me. They all looked like Glory from behind. The way he looked in the wedding dream revelation. It was followed by them rotating around their positions with the bouquets.

After a while, I felt a blow of breath on my left-hand side and I said: Go away! In a seemingly rude manner, and it was then that I heard: Never tell them that you don't love them. Never tell them that you don't love them.

The lady sings:
Khushi ne hmari humein… maar dala..

And then the chorus of the following song began playing in my spirit.
No one else comes close to you..

No one makes me feel you do..
You're so special girl to me..
And you'll always be eternally..

Everytime I hold you near..
You 'll always say I love to hear..
Girl, with just a touch..
You can be so much..

No one else comes close..

Backstreet Boys - No One Else Comes Else (Color Coded Lyrics)

Then I got up as I heard a voice that told me to get up and that there was no time now. I had a lot to do.

The chorus of the song kept playing in my spirit as I got up and used the washroom. And when I was washing the few utensils lying in the sink, I said: Go away! And then I was reminded of the words again. I was never to say to them that I didn't love them. I thought how great God was because he wanted me to say only nice things to them and never to behave rudely or tell them that I didn't love them. I knew that He was not asking me to sin but He was asking me to extend His form of love to them. It also made me feel relieved because I wouldn't now need to carry feelings of repulsion and I didn't have to be hateful for God had called me to love them regardless of what happened to me. In such a case, you don't bother about the fact of the acts of others but you stay consistent in the love you're supposed to show to them. And they're not my husbands that they must behave a certain way or I would be upset! I expect my husband to be as faithful and loyal as me, and to not be physically or emotionally abusive, and do the right thing at all times which comes in handy if one is used to operating in one's ranger self all the time. It doesn't mean that I would have a problem if he shows a similar kind of godly love to women that I have for these people.

Morning
(before falling asleep again) A small-framed vision of the huge cross pendent hanging in a dark background on the right side of the vision as a tiny lion jumps and lands on the chain at the left side of the cross.

Afternoon
Dream 1:
I stand on the right side of an open ground corridor talking with some people. Apparently, I am in the Physics department. I am dressed in a loose and long white t-shirt untucked over pants. I am perhaps discussing something with a teacher standing in that corner along with other students. I then leave the space and move forward to the other side of the building. As I enter the corridor on the ground floor of the building and have taken a few steps in, I see women whom I can tell are messengers walking in my direction. Though they're dressed in plain tunics and look outwardly beautiful, they all look repulsive to me because of the underlying deception behind their behavior or actions, and whatever they're communicating seems to annoy me as well. So, I turn away taking a U-turn, and instead of continuing forward in the corridor, I exit through the same entrance I had entered in. On exiting the building, with a jump I float and fly above uptil the very top of the building and begin to move to and fro in the air between the top of the building and the nearest wall in front of it. That's when I wake up and fall asleep after a while again and that's when I have the following dream.

Dream 2:

I find myself in an empty room. My dad walks in through the door outside which lies an open veranda lit by sunlight. He is dressed in winter clothes and he begins explaining my situation to me. He says that I sit in my room and work as much as I am able to and try to make the best of my time as I can. He then angrily nails my jaw to the wall with one of his hands as he continues speaking. At the same time, he's pressing on my jaw so strongly that my teeth can feel the impact of his hold as he's moving my jaw pressing against it. I am wondering if one of my teeth might fall. He doesn't look too happy with how I have been spending my days.

After I return from the Dinesh Store, I am recalling the dream in which I saw a short beige camel inside a room that had the little girl child named Divya. And I saw how in that dream, I was sleeping on the floor on a mattress in an almost empty room with an apartment's door to my left. My youngest brother was sleeping on another mattress lying on the floor at some distance beside me. And then I looked at how the little girl child was laid in one of the cubical niches of a bookrack with hay covering the same at the front. I made me look at how I must be perceived and treated in that place where even that little child is not given the needed comfort that it would have in a normal home with a normal person. I wondered why would I put myself in such a situation or around such people when I could definitely have been treated better. It made me look at the dream with disgust. Earlier when I had this dream, I didn't think in terms of servantilizing someone so I thought that perhaps I was living in my own minimalistic way with nothing much around me. But now I knew that I was being treated as a servant in that space wherein I had to tend to the door. And when CID Daya came to meet his little girl, I went inside a room that had several wild animals and birds flying inside as a wary short camel slowly walked past me in the left direction. After walking some more steps in that overly-filled room, I saw Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic set standing with a few other people and I asked him if Divya was there. And they nodded with a smile as he pointed with his left hand in my left direction and walked in that direction, I found what looked like a wooden bookrack and it made me think how could a child be present in there. I spotted that one of the cubical niches was filled with hay and out of curiosity, I took it out and saw the small bald head of a child which left me in shock in the dream which was when I woke up. Why would a child be kept in such an undesirable state as it now seems to me? Back then I thought perhaps it had some hidden meaning because who keeps their children in such a condition? I didn't think negatively, so I couldn't think that someone could mistreat someone to this extent. Hence, I interpreted the dream within the walls of my own understanding. But this is not a situation I want to be in! When I had the dream, it was quite unexpected, but it seems to me that it showed the reality of how things might look like and it's not a godly situation to be in. It's a very oppressive situation to be in. Additionally, in the dream, I asked those present in that other room where Divya was in a tone that told me that I didn't know that the girl was living inside the house, let alone know where she was lying. Also, I didn't have an idea if she was a toddler or an infant as well, and when I saw the small head of the little girl, it was then that I wondered if that was Divya! If I'm living in someone's home, won't I already know who all live there? Sounds like a weird revelation! Additionally, I also recall the back view of a woman dressed in a black jacket over black pants being escorted by people around her as she walked to that house inside which I later found myself sleeping and was woken up by the doorbell. This woman seemed to behave like she didn't know much about the people in the house by the way she talked, walked, and asked questions about the girl. Why would I be a servant in the home of a wicked man? This is what I wouldn't even think of as a possibility that crosses my mind by itself. It was today I understood the dream in a new context and that's not the place I want to be in! Why would a woman leave her husband only to be treated in that way!? Especially when she wants to obey all of God's commandments and loves her husband. I will have children with my own husband though I don't know if that's a possibility because of my sickening health. Who is going to tend to them? Perhaps I become better. But my health is not stable. I was so fatigued when Aunty came to clean the room that I couldn't even talk, and that was the case when I had already slept a lot, though I was better after 15-20 minutes.

Who do they think they are to servantilize another person!? I know that children of God are called to serve and not be served, and Jesus Himself came to serve and not be served, but it's one thing to serve out of one's place in a marriage, and another to serve as a servant who's mistreated and disrespected! I'm going to serve my God-ordained husband and I know he would have enough good godly sense to not servantilize me! And even when we serve the body of Christ, we do so out of love and not out of a place of innate inferiority - a sense that these people want to instill in me. I am Amy - the scientist, and Alan Watts - the Philosopher, according to God's revelations! I am not saying this to praise my own self but I say this to make the point that I know and understand deeply what counts as acceptable behavior and what doesn't. And the revelations also remind me of God's word about me. I don't expect others to do something for me which I myself would not want to do for them. I do not expect others to sacrifice their lives and all aspects of it just to appease my unhealthy narcissistic ego. I desire healthy bonds wherein everyone's godly will is respected and everyone has an innate honor, and not only some special undeserving people who think highly of themselves because of their worldly or financial status.

Such a cheap and repulsive dream revelation! I like the one in which a woman came walking from the right side with a plate held in one of her hands to serve Sanjay Dutt sitting on the sofa, his look resembling from the movie Dushman as the huge face of Dushman with a fiery jealous expression and wide open red eyes was superimposed on the scene.
I know these bigoted fellows want to squish me below their feet. They have not behaved like someone who loves you would behave, but they've only behaved in oppressive, depressing, and severely mentally and emotionally abusive ways!

I encourage serving others as a child of God, but I don't encourage condoning abuse or putting oneself around people who kick you like dirt. That's not the family or the kind of people God wants His children to be around, though at times it can't be avoided on this broken place called Earth. But abuse and sinful wicked behavior is never God's Will!

And then I also looked at the revelation in which Glory requested me to cook one Gobhi parantha, and I understood that it was given to me as a precursor to my present situation in which I can not do much. That's why he asked me to only cook one parantha. And I had this revelation in Mid-2022 (almost one and a half years back) when I was still better and was able to go to the dept regularly and was also able to fast and workout without feeling fatigued.

Perhaps I was supposed to end up in this state as was previously revealed to me. And now that I recall the healing dream, as I walked to the healed Death Conqueror who stood still facing to the left, I heard the voice of a girl present in the public repeating: Is se shaadi honi thi. Is se shaadi honi thi. Is she present there to remind me of the past? This thought occurred to me while writing about the Divya dream. I had this healing dream in 2020, and this short camel and Divya dream in perhaps late 2021 or early 2022 when I was still in room D4 and hadn't shifted with Akhila in D1.

Yesterday I was thinking about how God gave me the dream revelation in which I had the face of a baby with a giant head which when I prayed for it to come to life changed to a grey cemented slab with the tiny facial features of Death Conqueror carrying a wicked expression after which I began praying for its wickedness to not impact the Earth and for it to lose all its power. I made all statements in the name of Jesus. As I understand now, it was given to me in 2022 because I have been saying for the past few months that I'm going to burst his head, and then yesterday or the day before yesterday, I was saying out loud how I would burst a cement slab on his head and say an Uff, and burst another slab and say a Wow, and so on. After a while of saying this, I was reminded of this dream revelation in which I held the cement slab with the facial features of Death Conqueror and prayed for its wickedness to not affect the Earth in any way! And it made sense to me why I was given that revelation more than an year back in time, and also the dream revelation in which I was healing him publicly with both my hands placed on his head. They tell me how I am not supposed to give in to my flesh and physically hurt that person for behaving wickedly but I am called to pray for him. But that's what I had been doing. I did pray for him in 2020. After a Sabbath of no food and water, I prayed to God as a 'fruit' of the Sabbath for him to be saved. Because that's the thing one cannot do without regardless of how you may think. And then later when I was in Saroj Sadan and God had made the marital promise to me, I used to pray for Glory to come to God as well.

Past Revelation

(Past two months) The right side view of my mom entering the kitchen with the thick wooden pin in her hand as she says something like: Mareez ke saath jyada kaam karna padta hai.. As she said that I saw the back of my youngest brother walking away to his room.

It made me think of the revelation in which Divyanshu called me crying and said that Mom had hit him as the back of his head and his leg were shown.

And then for some reason, this previous incident kept popping up in my spirit in which that guy Deepak had something when it was his first few of our interactions with us in the room during lunchtime. He had said that he was getting admission in PhD in Thailand but he didn't choose to go ahead with it.. He then had taken a pause and was expecting me to complete the sentence. I thought how would I know his reason to not join in there? After that pause, he said in a hesitant tone that he would've had to give 25000 Rupees to gain admission there, which again didn't make any sense because which foreign university offers PhD in that amount. Clearly, he was lying, but I didn't understand why he would do so. Was he trying to insult me in some covert way? And I realized this day, that yes, indeed he was insulting me. He was implying that I would need to be paid 25K which was my PhD stipend amount before it got increased to its current value. Why did he say that? He is so cheap! I felt a lot of repulsion again! He has said several insulting things that target the things that have real value in one's life! And then I recalled the recent dream revelation in which I was pointing Glory to gaze at my thigh? And I understood that the fellow was referring to my things as Thailand as he was told to do. He had begun his abuse from the moment he began to interact with me! I could never have thought such a thing. My mind doesn't work in abusive ways wherein I can think of different ways to insult others. However, I do can discern right from wrong and that's the basis of my insults. I couldn't even understand his insult because that's not how my mind works. Such a cheap person! I'm so glad I insulted him publicly and threw water on his face! From Day 1 of his supposed public interaction with me, he began to say covert mean things when I didn't have any ill will for him. I treated him nicely like I would any person.

Dream:
I am inside a room with an open door and see a gathering of small black snakes outside proceeding ahead in the corridor in the left direction. I immediately get scared and don't want to step out. Snakes have a predatory reptilian nature that can't be trusted and they are evil and look evil as well. I see some women walking beside and behind them in the corridor. I wonder how come they are not afraid and repelled by this procession. It's an extremely wicked open parade and no one seems to be affected by it. I then see the snake parade move out on the local street as the women followed. More than the snakes, I am repelled by the women, because the snakes are what they are, but those women had to show good discernment to not walk beside and around them. Why are they behaving wickedly by choosing to be around that gathering of snakes when they should be running away from it? Their wickedness repels and nauseates me as I witness the gathering pass by from my window inside the building.

Apparently, this particular piece of land was once covered entirely with different types of snakes with different patterns.

I then find myself sitting with a person and by this time, there aren't many snakes around. I don't see any besides two, and those two too are tiny translucent light skyblue snakes. One is on my right-hand side the other near the left hand. I have my hands placed held beside me to serve as a blockage for the snakes though I know that they're not real blockages and that I will quickly pull away my hands out of fear if they were to march in my direction. As I move my hand around, I see the snake on the right lift its head and upper body above the ground. Its head has tiny features of two tiny round eyes and it seems to carry a light smile as well. Though it carries an innocent look and is tiny and mild and threatening in color either, it's still a snake and the fact that it's a snake is what scares me regardless of its seemingly innocent expression and baby light sky blue color. To look at the tiny and slim translucent snake is so scary though it's not moving or slithering like a snake. It's not moving towards me or sideways but stays at its place, and it's only lifting up and down around its upper body as I move my hand in the air around it. When I move my hand near it, it lifts up; when I move my hand away from it, it goes down. I am moving my hand to keep it distracted and stop it from crawling in my direction. As I bring my hand to the closest distance to the snake, I see it lift up its body to the highest which again is scary. I want to leave the company of the person sitting beside me so I can get away from the snakes as soon as possible as I am filled with extreme fear and anxiety. My entire time of sitting beside that person talking to her is filled with my fear of the two thin and short snakes (half a cm thick and 5-6 cms long). I leave my place and walk backward as the vision shifts to the top view of the land which I find is checkered with boundary lines. I come across another fat woman sitting in her own box on the ground. She has half of a broken nail painted in black put aside inside a slot arranged alongside other things, but even that nail looks scary to me as it seems to be a part of a snake if I look at its color and shape.

I leave that woman as well and am now looking at the empty ground from above in the dark of the night. Though it's empty, I see the flashback of those several different types of snakes crawling on top of each other as they overflooded the land in the past. The thought of the snakes present on that land makes me sick and not want to be in that area. Though they are not there in the present, they were once there and the ground carries their serpent smell which reeks of wickedness.

As I am having repulsive thoughts about the ground while looking at the flashback, I wake up.

Post Waking up

- Now before I write this revelation, let me write a previous revelation. Vision (past few days): The three men dressed in red suits over white shirts stand together in a line as they all throw aside their pants revealing their identical erected genitalia. The vision repeats. I don't know how to look at this vision. I know it's a sinful mindset they're having as I am not the covenant partner of either of them. So, I just ignore the vision. Now yesterday, I was told to tell them that I loved them and to never speak otherwise. So, this morning as I lie in bed post waking up, and can feel the quiet voices and whispers around me, though I know for myself that I don't want to be drawn to sin, I don't want the trio to sin either. And it's then that I see the three men dressed in red suits over white shirts with an open collar button, and I find myself saying: Don't sin, my darlings. Don't sin, my darlings. And I can tell that it's not me who's saying these words but it's the spirit of God that's saying it to them. As I hear the sentence in my spirit, I see my hands wrap a white towel around their waists covering their nakedness in a line. The vision of them being covered with a white towel repeats a few more times along with the statement: Don't sin, my darlings. Don't sin, my darlings. Again, it testifies to the love and grace of God who chooses to correct and not judge. Their inhibited erection is still a bit apparent through the white towel, but the sentence keeps repeating in my spirit as I can feel the corrective and gracious heart of God for them. I don't know how this revelation comes across to them, but I found it quite heart-touching and filling! I wish God would show me something similar when I am about to overeat. And he did now that I recall it. It was the day before yesterday when I was having that snack of a wrap and fries. While having the fries, I saw Glory standing outside my room facing parallel to the corridor along the direction of my room, being dressed in a fluffed dark cyan jacket over dark brown pants as he said in a sad, low, and quiet tone: Kartika, Mohabbat ki itni badi sazaa... Seeing this I quickly put the fries aside! And then Jesus Himself got hold of me as I was about to go downstairs to get tea when I was in 303 of A-10. I had prayed to Him a day before to stop me from indulging in my tea addiction before indulging in it. I had ended up adopting it as a coping mechanism. He had taken hold of me in an intimate hug as He moved in a duet with me.
- The naked upper half of a fair, lean, and extremely thin man, seemingly of a short stature, with a huge bulging at the place of his lower belly. It then changes to a full-blown round curve of a belly where it almost seems like that fellow is pregnant. The following instant his belly drops down a huge reddish beige round ball of flesh which is covering a being. The follow-up vision shows an extremely obese woman lying on her back on the floor with her short arms and legs bent around the joints giving her an almost spherical look with her wide and thick upper half having small breasts and a huge belly.

Death Conqueror standing near the ceiling dressed in a black suit takes a step backwards as he says: This's not what I wanted..

The vision gives the past revelation of a long light pink umbilical cord attached to his light pink mouth a new meaning.

After I was done writing the above, I heard the following lyrics play in my spirit.
The Guy sings:
Faisla mein jo karlu huh!
Jaan ki baazi khelu!
Mein irada jo karlu, huh!
Jaan kisi ki lelu!

The Lady sings:
Kya bolu kya bolu.. Meri jaan badi mushkil mein..
Ghabrayi.. Pachtayi.. Dil mein tere armaan karke!

The Guy sings:
Aaja lag ja gale se mere tha kar ke,
Tha tha kar ke, tha tha kar ke!

This song was playing in my spirit quite strongly a few days back as well. And it reminded me of the vision in which I saw the sole of the huge dark brown sandal on the foot of Jesus as He walked on a glass slab on top of my face while I lay in bed and looked up at Him dressed in a full ankle-length off-white tunic with His neck-length wavy hair. It was back in 2022 when I was in D1 on A-16 in Single Storey.

Later when the song Tha Kar Ke played in my spirit leading to me looking up the video, I found the above similarity in the song with the Jesus vision. And then the following lyrics were highlighted to me.

Everyone sings together:
Tu hatja re! Na panga le!
Ho jayega nahi to danga re!
Chal hatja re! Na panga le!
Ho jayega nahi to danga re!

And the same lyrics were playing in my spirit when I was making tea in the afternoon a few days ago along with the stanza above.

I had tea early in the morning after I woke up, and I had it twice. Afterwards, as I sat to warm my hands and feet, I was drawn into rest again as the drones kept lightly blowing air on my face. As I lay resting feeling cold, it was perhaps then that I had the revelations of God's love-filled correction and the birthing of a spherical woman. But it was within the time-period of me having woken up from the dream and falling back into sleep. I fell asleep again after a long while when I was warm again and woke up from the following dream revelation.

Dream 2:
I see a woman standing dressed in a shiny dark green full-sleeved tunic with a dark, small multi-colored floral print with her hair falling straight at the back. She doesn't look too thin on the front but doesn't look too fat either. She is chubby. She stands in a room facing someone as she's interacting with that person. The follow-up part of the dream shows the back of a woman dressed in a sleeveless white top of 3/5th length striped in dark green worn over black denims with her straight hair falling at the back as she is busy playing with a child in front of her. I walk past her and look at her back. She looks quite slim. I don't habitually notice the body shapes of people, be it their front or the back as I notice their character inclination first. I don't know why I am doing so in this dream. I mean I might notice the woman playing with the child and I would be focused on their joyful acts and not how the woman looks from behind. What's being highlighted is that she looks quite slim from behind. In the next part of the dream, I am in our past rented home in the Cheema colony - the first house on the right-hand side of the street. I come across my brothers and then enter the kitchen. I am not too happy with the dirty condition of the house. I see my mom standing inside dressed in a gown with a red and white print. She looks extremely fat at the front as her belly is unusually bulging out. She points out the same - how the home is not clean as she knows how I think. I tell her that it's not smelling good either as we both stand inside the kitchen in front of the central arched glass window, and it's when I wake up.

While making tea while chatting with Aunty:
I hear my supervisor say: Kartika we know that you're great. Just don't show it in front of us. We know that you're great. But don't show it in front of us. I hear this abruptly in my spirit out of nowhere. I don't understand her. I wasn't expecting to hear this.

Revelations while resting

- As soon as I lie in a relaxed state with my eyes closed, I see: A thin alligator with half of its upper body lifted out on the nearer side of a stream flowing in the right direction as it flaps its tail splashing water at the back.

- A golden shield with a thick golden cross embossed on it as a gut standing behind it holding in in the background of a huge field of a ground. The person holding the shield is then revealed to be Cam from Power Rangers Ninja Storm. He is the green ranger. And he stands there dressed in a t-shirt untucked over trousers as he holds his shield against several armored men coming at him blocking them from getting to him. The number of armored men he was resisting were easily between 20 to 30 and therefore they were about to get to him by the sides of his shield but as they moved to the side, his shield also expanded in those directions in a hemispherical way enclosing him within its metallic safety. Before the men could reach him, the shield expanded in those directions. When he was fully enclosed by the sides, they then got on top of one another to enter his safe from the top but the metallic shield had the shape of a metallic punch arise from its inner surface at the top sending the man off who was about to enter in followed by the metallic safe closing itself from the top as well creating a hemisphere.
- The right-side view of Jackie Shroff wrapped in an off-white shawl holding a huge multicolored donut with a part of it held between his mouth as he sits on the left side of a train track with the donut held in his hands in front of the track in broad daylight. A brown train comes running from the background and I'm wondering how is it going to pass through that donut which is nowhere close to the size of the head of the train.
- A guy dressed in a neck-high t-shirt with a shirt on top over trousers stands inside a vertical tunnel holding a huge 5 Star chocolate horizontally in both his hands. But the chocolate is wrapped in its thick cover and the man is not able to unwrap it. The upper half of a huge naked Glory peeks in from the top of the tunnel, as he puts his hand inside the tunnel, and takes the chocolate bar from the guy's hand for himself. The size of the 5-star bar is suitable for him alone as he can easily unwrap it, unlike the tiny guy present inside the vertical tunnel.
- The face of a soccer player facing to the left with a metallic helmet on his head. The helmet is thinly rimmed around the upper half of his face with the grill covering his eyes.
- The upper half of Ayushmann Khurrana dressed in a full-sleeved light grey t-shirt with black sleeves as he walks in the background of the sky, stops near a ledge holding a sandless empty hourglass on top. He lifts it and shakes it in front of the viewer.
- I am in a clean and organized room lit in dim golden light as I look at a wall against which some things are neatly placed. The follow-up vision shows a rectangular beige wooden table lying against a wall on top of which lie three white table fans in a line facing toward the viewer.
- The left side view of the clean-shaven face of HRX with a red boundary around the top of his nose wherein it seems that his severed nose has been attached back to its place.
- Amir Khan dressed in an off-white tunic set with a printed half-jacket on top and a saw horn on his head stands in the background of a huge ground as he viciously attacks the center of my head with a longer and wider saw bifurcating me in two along my vertical middle.

Visions during my second resting slot

- A small-framed vision of a rocket consisting of a center cone with two smaller cones attached on the sides launching in the dark in a dim yellowish hue around as it begins dwindling after traversing a short vertical distance after which it turns downwards with its tip hitting the ground.
- A packet of Bhujia similar to the red packet of Bhujia, but on this one is written in white a vertical mirror reflection of LOVE as read from right to left.

- The face of a bald Chanakya as a voice says: Chanakya Neeti.
- The face of Tabu with a silver crown with her hair tied at the back in a dim golden background.

The Nature of God and the Nature of God in Man

A man inherits the nature of God in a shrunken state, which is to say all godly characteristics are present in him in lesser intensity. If the faithfulness of God reaches uptil the Heavens and is everlasting, a man can barely manage to be faithful during the period of his human life. And though he may keep himself from being physically unfaithful which is a seen and direct way of betrayal, he is prone to commit adultery or fornication in his heart several times and therefore has a comparatively extremely short span of being able to be faithful to another human regardless of the stature, looks or worldly position of that other person.

If God can be patient with a man's sin until the instant of time that he chooses to finally turn to Him, a man finds it effortful to bear with someone's sin for a day or a year. God watches the entire humanity sin and stays unchanged in His nature for He doesn't change (Malachi 3:6, Hebrews 13:8), but man is prone to change in his nature quite quickly witnessing someone's sin.

God can't be tempted, man is tempted effortlessly. He's not just tempted effortlessly but he's already ready in his heart to give himself away to temptation.

God can forgive countless sins. But a man is prone to get offended by what may not be a sin but that which makes his fragile ego feel small.

(That's who I am, Kartika.)

God is Holy. No sin dwells in Him. No sin dwells in Him. But a man has numerous sinful thoughts during a day.

Yesterday before falling asleep
The upper half of Tori (the blue water Ninja Storm ranger) as her throat is being strangled by a dark green arm resembling the hard stem of a tree belonging to the wide green alien standing behind her as she is trying to free herself.

Dream (Morning):
I am in a wide square ground on one side of which lies a dividing wall and on the other side of which is a building. It's evening and I see that people are playing with their puppies on the lawn. I seem to know that in the building lies a room on the ground floor which serves as a shop to rent small puppies. I too have to get one to spend some quality time with a cute puppy. So I go inside and find a slab built around the three walls besides the one with the door, on which were seated widely separated puppies inside their comfortable beds as they're looking around. I want to rent the cutest of the puppies because what's the use of a puppy if I don't feel soothed by its cuteness and I would be paying the same amount for any that I choose. I already seem to know in the dream that there's a small white furry puppy inside that shop. I had visited the shop earlier once perhaps when I spotted that puppy. I am taking a look around the shop and spot the white furry puppy lying in its round cushioned bed on the slab right end of the wall facing the door. It's the first one that one would notice if one entered the room looking straight ahead as the door lay at the right end of the room's front wall. This time it's not looking as cute as it did during the previous time. So, I begin to look around at the other puppies. I find some beige furry puppies sitting in their respective round cushioned multilayered beds. There aren't more than 12-13 puppies in the room. Though they're all cute to some extent, I can't find the cuteness in any that's comparable to the puppy that I had seen previously. I wanted an extremely cute puppy. I look again at the furry white puppy whose hair are mismanaged around his head. He's not as cute as he looked previously but I think of renting him out for an hour as the shop charges on an hourly basis. But before I can ask the shopkeeper lady to prepare that puppy for me as I'm still looking at its fallen face with a distraught look, another lady walks up to the puppy with one more lady accompanying her, picks up that puppy, and takes it to the shopkeeper.

After I wrote the last sentence, I saw a blurry form of Death Conqueror dressed in his black suit attire as he said firmly pointing down with a finger: That's what I wanted to hear. That's what I wanted to hear.

The lady who picked up the distraught puppy has a beige complexion, a long face and her hair tied at the back. The shop lady quickly arranges its hair and it gains its good expression and cuteness back as it is about to be handed over to the renting lady to be played with. I see that now it looks as cute as before, and it once again looks the cutest out of all the puppies. But why had it lost its puppy innocence previously? I feel bad about losing the cutest puppy to that other lady. But I can't do anything about it. I look around for other options. I spot the beige furry puppy moving in its bed on my left-hand side. It seems to be the next cutest puppy around in the room. And I can tell that perhaps it will be as cute as the white one once I begin playing with it. I still am looking around observing the different puppies and comparing their cute expression. I spot a little baby of the size of a small puppy lying on the other end of the slab beside the white puppy's place. The apparent toddler is dusky and is dressed in blue and white t-shirt and nickers and though is of the size of a small puppy and an infant, it carries the facial expression having the maturity of an adult though it's not saying much. For some reason, I pick that tiny infant with the apparent face of a man up though I am not quite happy with my choice because his expression isn't as innocent as I wanted. I can sense a certain amount of adult rigidness which is repelling me. I can tell that I won't have as much quality time with the toddler puppy as I would've had with a real puppy who has no sense of rigidity but only pure innocent faithfulness.

I have the puppy toddler in my hand as I am walking out of the room. As I am looking at its face, I seem to be pleased with its toddler size if not too pleased with its expression. On my way out I am thinking how it is good enough and that I could do with it.

When I am out I see some buildings on the side of the lawn adjacent to its boundary wall. Apparently, some people I knew went there for some reason. The dream fast forwards and am now in a room that is apparently both a classroom and a lab lit in white light. The room has slabs around the walls and a long central slab as well that serves as a table for the apparatus. I see the room's door on the left corner of the wall in front. A lady stands on the far end of the central table with a pan resembling my tea pan. She has to pour sugar inside but she inverts the entire transparent packet of sugar on the top because of which some of it spills around but she doesn't seem to be paying attention to it or be affected by it. I move around the room in the space between the central slab and those along the walls, take a U-turn crossing by the door, and on the other lane find people sleeping on beds made on the floor.

Post Waking Up

While brushing

I see the translucent upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in his black suit attire looking down at me from some feet above, as he says: Her husband loves her a lot. Her husband loves her a lot.

While I am making tea, I hear:

Why does he love her this much? Aisa kya hai isme? Aisa kya hai isme? Vo isse itna pyaar kyu karta hai? Aisa kya hai isme? It seems that he is now saying this about Glory.

I have observed this previously as well, that my personality traits that get suppressed with Death Conqueror come to the surface with Glory. I seem to be able to operate in a great part of my other inner traits that aren't apparently perceived otherwise.

Past Revelations

- (past week) The upper half of a dirty and stubbled Glory as he stands with others and says: Dekh dekh ye kitni gwaar hai. Dekh dekh ye kitni gwaar hai.

- (past two days) The bottom view of the upper half of the Wild Force Red ranger dressed in a neck-high white t-shirt with a checkered shirt on top as he looks down and seems to be squishing something down below with his foot.

While pooping (afternoon)

- I am facing a bit of constipation when I see the face of the Ninja Storm green ranger in his ranger form as he says in a serious tone: You can do it! The upper half of his helmet then makes a rotation as he now changes to the super samurai mode as he turns and rushes away saying that he's leaving. The green Ninja ranger says that he is too bad for me. But the green one is the most righteous among the group in the sense that he mostly stays inside their control room and isn't as outgoing as the rest. He is also the smartest among all rangers.

- The upper half of a fluffed and muscular dusty dusky Glory in his avatar from the dream revelation 'The Dusty Man and the Fairy' as he says looking at me: You're disgusting! Well, it makes me look at the reason why he must say so.

This vision below kept repeating itself throughout the day.

- Jesus dressed in multilayered white robes sits on the floor with vertically folded knees as he runs a sharp weapon against my foot joints and it seems as if my feet are going to be severed from my legs.

Dream 1:
I have a two-page letter written by a lady in which she has complained about the several wrong things done to her by a man who's supposedly her husband. It's a handwritten letter written in Hindi in grey ink and it seems to carry a transparent glossy look. I have my own shorter letter consisting of half a page in which I've written my own grievances. Both the letters have to be submitted to the judging authority. Towards the end of the dream, I walk with my mom on the left side of an almost empty road. We stop at the turn as we spot a rickshaw to hire. She puts the cloth bundle on the left side of the Rickshaw's seat. A leaner person had been walking with us as well. That person sits on the right end of the seat as my mom asks me to sit beside that person but I don't think I will fit in as there's not enough space.

Dream 2:
I'm ready for school. I'm dressed in a sleeveless long white plain cotton top until above my knees. My mom gives me three blankets that are folded together. They're to be left at Pinky Mausi's home to be drycleaned. One of the blankets is the thinnest while the other two are almost comparable in size as I look at their outlines one below the other. I wonder why does she not want them to be drycleaned at our home itself. She then gives me two blankets that I'm to carry for my use at the school. Apparently, I would be staying in a PG. I place the three blankets that are folded together one way and the two blankets I am to carry with me separately. I am wondering how will I fit these space-occupying things in just one Auto. My dad stands in the room as well. I look down and see my bare legs and think of putting on the thick back legging. I begin sifting through my clothes and spot my light orange short jacket as well as another layer at the top. I feel a sense of holiness as I think of dressing that way. I am then set to leave as I stand near the exit leading into the long balcony running along the room facing the road resembling our rented first floor in Aditi's home in my hometown. When I step back inside to exit through the main door, I find my middle brother Himanshu has been listening to a Hindi song playing openly and it's now playing at a pace where the guy is telling the person to not leave as he sings: Mat jao. Mat jao. It makes me think if this is God's way of letting me know that I am not supposed to leave. But I'm not sure. I step out of the room and it starts to rain immediately which is now a confirmation for me that I was indeed not supposed to be leaving. I end up staying.

My youngest brother stands outside the door of the lit store room inside the small bedroom of the first house on the right of Cheema colony - our rented home on the ground floor. The bedroom is dimly lit by the store room's light. Divyanshu stands still dressed in his fully zipped thick dark cyan jacket as my dad sneakingly walks towards him from the left direction and touches the top of his head with a small sharp metallic object. It doesn't hurt him but he doesn't retaliate. He begins to talk nicely with Dad about something. I can tell that he intentionally ignored his attack and was talking to him respectfully with an apparent cool calm because he didn't want to provoke him to get angry and injure him severely which he could easily do and has done so in the past. I see him bowing himself down to a lowly level though mistreated in a humiliating way because he doesn't want any fights. I don't like the situation wherein my dad intentionally did something he didn't need to do to humiliate Divyanshu. I interject and tell my dad that he shouldn't have done what he did because it's quite humiliating for the other person and showed a lack of good sense. I could see that my dad was playing with him, wanting to see his reaction. He enjoyed poking his head with that object. My dad listens to me as he walks with a danda in his hand. It seems that he might hit me but why should we inhibit our freedom of speech and open communication because of his fear? I see him then lying along the double bed's edge. Himanshu says that he should've been a veterinary doctor and not the other one. Following this, my dad lifts up his upper half revealing an injection with a thick long needle without a pointed tip that he had been holding as he's pointing it at me with a seemingly wicked expression, after which he lies back down. His behavior makes me wonder if that's why Himanshu said that Dad should have rather treated animals for he's rough at times in his conduct and then Himanshu needed injections because of his leg injury. I say something reaffirming to my dad - that it's fine and good that he's a doctor for humans.

I am then sitting on the bed with my youngest brother reading a book lying on the bed, while my mom and middle brother lie together in front of him, as they're resting. I ask Divyanshu if he's preparing for IELTS. He affirms and I encourage him lovingly to continue. I can see that he doesn't get well-treated by Dad. So, I am giving him normal good treatment that he should expect to receive. We're now all sitting on the bed as we're singing a song together. I can sense the personal differences between people though everyone is singing together. There isn't much inner harmony present because of the way people treat one another and fight, but they're still singing that song. It seems like one has to make an effort that's out of their way to fit in the group song.

My mom and Himanshu aren't going well with Divyanshu. He doesn't seem to be safe in their company. I separate the double bed into its two halves with him on the left half and Mom and Himanshu on the other half so there can be less interaction. I then ask Divyanshu if he was comfortable now as he sat with outstretched legs and his back resting against the bed's wooden back resting against the wall. I am now seeing the top view of my home which shows a hall with the kitchen present on the right end of the wall in front of me. She begins to scold Divyanshu openly shouting at him when she knows that my dad is standing right there on the left side of the hall. I wonder if she's doing it intentionally to provoke my dad and make him hit Divyanshu. If my dad didn't have uncontrolled anger issues, then it would make sense that her intention was to really correct Divyanshu but she highlights his small mistake openly in the hall in the presence of my dad. As I look down at the scene from near the ceiling, I tell my mom that if she has to correct him, she should take him to a corner and correct him while they're alone and not begin shouting openly in front of everyone. Because it's likely to provoke my dad and may lead to fights.

Post Waking Up

- A baby dressed in a thick full-sleeved and round neck navy blue sweatshirt with She's Precious written in bold white on its chest as it is drinking milk from a bottle facing to the left. The lady sings: Maar dala.. Maar dala.. This song has often repeated itself in my spirit. And it first played when I was in room D4 of A-16 in the single storey back in late 2021/early 2022. I had heard the following lyrics and I didn't understand their context.

The Lady sings:
Humpe kisne hara rang dala..
Ho.. Humpe kisne hara rang dala..
Khushi ne sazaa di humein.. Maar dala.. Maar dala..

Since then, the lyrics have kept repeating intermittently.

- The view of a slanted grey ceiling with a small open square hole in the middle through which is visible the grand view of an open sky and white clouds with Story Time written below the hole.

Afternoon
A small-framed vision of Nivedita Ma'am dressed in a tunic set picks up a metallic suitcase as she walks towards me and leaving a group of people behind, says: I'm coming with you, Kartika.

The vision repeated again at a different time.

Late night
I lie on my left side near the wall to rest and catch a bit of breath. I am ignoring the sounds and the sensations caused by drones and want to rest in quiet and peace. Suddenly my attention shifts to the quiet Uffs and Wows around my face. I had not been paying attention to it as I was in my mind. I then heard someone emulate the quiet voice near the balcony. Immediately, I heard: Range haathon pakdi gayi. Range haathon pakdi gayi. And it was repeating itself. It didn't make much sense to me but I knew that it was someone else's thought.

I then said a few corrective things to clear any existing or potential misunderstandings.

- A small framed animated vision of a closed arched made with vertical dark wooden slabs. The small visible front of the building resembles a hut. The vision of the door stays in front of my eyes. I ask: What's there inside the building? The vision then shows me the inside view behind the door. I see it filled with several Kathakali dancers with their faces painted green standing with a long white danda with an ethnic print held in each one's hand. The back of a short boy dressed in a loose and thick, black round-neck sweatshirt is shown. His body language shows that he's fearful as all those Kathakali dancers stand facing him behind the door. It seems that he needs to be rescued from the wicked place. I don't know why they want to hurt him.
- The upper half until slightly below his shoulders of Trent - the beige White Dino Ranger - in his human form dressed in a shirt over a neck-high round neck T-shirt as he holds in his right hand a small round Ranger badge resembling the Ninja Storm's circular ranger badges. He is moving the badge slowly from left to right looking ahead slightly to the right. The vision changes into a flash to Shane - the dark red Ninja ranger - dressed in his black ninja suit moving his badge in the same way. It flashes changes again to Dustin - the fair yellow Ninja storm ranger - dressed in his black Ninja attire, as he moves his badge in the same manner.

As I was writing the previous sentence, I saw a rough figure of the bulky fluffed wheatish guy as he said: Hum marne waale hai, Mrittunjay. Hum marne waale hai, Mrittunjay.

- A dusky guy resembling Sr. Inspector Abhijeet from the CID series, dressed in a black suit over a white shirt with a tie stands behind the row of people sitting on the first stair below the top surface he stands at. He is bent over his upper half as he walks to the right ringing a small temple ring held in his hand.
- An animated vision of a horizontally angled view of a woman wrapped in a multilayered white sheet that covers her head as well as she stands outside a house painted in grey with its front corridor visible behind her back some meters away. She looks in a direction parallel to the left of the viewer with a burst right eye as she says: My husband is going to kill me, Dog. My husband is going to kill me, Dog. She stands alone outside in the dark of the night in the open ground in front of the building.

  I've been hearing this since the past few hours after the celebration of the pagan festival Lohri outside was over. The lyric is from the song Mela Dilon Ka from the movie Mela.
  The Guy sings angrily:
  Har dhaaga yaha par kaccha hai..

  After using the washroom a while back, when I was moving towards my bed, I heard the song lyric again, and it was followed by the following part of the song.
  The Guys sing together to soothe and encourage:
  Hey.. Kacche dhaago se meet bana.. Aur meet se apni jeet bana..
  Aur jeet se aisi preet bana.. Tu preet ko jeevangeet bana..
  Tu preet ko jeevangeet bana.. Tu preet ko jeevangeet bana..

  5:41
  Before falling asleep
- The Guy sings:
  Kya apko.. Ehsaas hai..
  Baat sabse yahi.. Khaas hai..
  Apka dil.. hmare paas hai..
  Hmara dil apke paas hai..
- A woman in a long white flared dress sits on a swing facing slightly towards the left of the viewer with dark brown metallic stripes joining together the two ends of the long swing separated by a few feet. A shorter and fatter woman stands behind her giving her periodic pushes. To their left is visible the green thick of the trees and to their right is visible the far background of huge light green mountains behind a water body as the sun shines on the duo and the green of the land. The follow-up vision shows the back of Princess Shayla sitting on a Jute solo chair swing as she is swinging towards and away from the viewer. The background stays the same but the swing is different this time and is fixed facing away from the viewer. She swings alone in the vast natural space as sunlight shines bright on everything. It isn't visible who stands behind her.

- Sr. Inspector Abhijeet dressed in a light grey suit slides down a swing on his thighs with the lower part of his legs severed from them, with the surface severed from looking bloody and the part of his pants below the severed part missing.

Sorry Bitch. Sorry Bitch.

Dream:
I am lying in my bed in my room here in Double Storey with lights off and I seem to be asleep as I begin to hear a familiar sound coming from the corridor outside from some distance away to the left. I recognize it to be Poonam Bua's voice. She is my Dad's youngest sister. She's asking for me, referring to me as Kartika. I then hear my grandma's and Rekha Bua's voice as well. It seems that they're chatting with people from one of the neighbouring apartments near Chaaru's apartment.

While they talk, I find myself moving my eyes around the dark room with the shapes of the objects still discernible through the darkness. I am unable to move as I lie in the bed. I should go out and meet them, but I've to force myself out of bed. Apparently, I am too tired to move and get out of bed. Poonam Bua asks for me again and they all continue to talk. As they're busy, I know that I've to get up and go outside. It seems too hard to wake myself up. I then hear Poonam Bua saying that she's a maths teacher. She's perhaps sharing it with that person. They've seemed to indulge in a friendly chat with whom they were interacting. As I hear it, I recall receiving a previous revelation in which she stood in the corridor and told me that she was a maths teacher. I regret not writing it right at that moment for it could've led to her believing that I indeed heard from God and then she would receive Jesus in her life as well and be saved. I want to gather enough strength to get myself out of bed. At this point, it's been long enough of them standing outside immersed in the chat. I gather the strength to force myself to move and get up but then I wake into darkness in front of my eyes and the chatter is gone and I know that it was a part of my dream. I'm now awake, still lying with my eyes closed. When I open them, I find the dim yellow light on.

Vision:
Hunter and Blake from Power Rangers Ninja Storm stand facing to the left holding a huge conical machine pointed to the left as they're adjusting it and say that the person is going to become more powerful after being exposed to its radiation. The vision shifts to the left, and in front of the machine is revealed the yellow Dino Thunder ranger lying on a bed in her ranger uniform. They all are present below a covered open hall.

As I'm sitting in bed late morning to catch my breath and rest for a while and I feel the drones moving around, I hear in my spirit: I know you're ignoring us, Kartika. I know you're ignoring us, Kartika.

Morning
An animated vision in a dim golden orangish hue as I stand several meters away from a tall building on the top of which I see Amir Khan in his worn look from the end of the Mela song with eyes like Armaan Kohli from his look as Kapil in the movie Jaani Dushman: Ek Anokhi Kahani, as he looks down through an open window at me with those grey shining eyes.

Bahut pyaar kiya hai na tune mujhse? Dekh mein tujhe kitna marta hu! Bahut pyaar kiya hai na tune mujhse? Dekh mein tujhe kitna marta hu!

22:03
I went to get my hair straightened and smoothened this afternoon and on my way to the Salon, when I was near the cloth ironing point some distance to the left of the Salon, I heard:
Ye kis kutiya ke jaal mein phas gaya. Ye kis kutiya ke jaal mein phas gaya.

While the Barber was busy doing his work, I heard: Phod khaya. Phod khaya.

A while later, I saw: Zeltrax from Power Ranger Dino Thunder lying on his back with his metallic belly split open in the middle in the shape of a star as the golden light from the golden treasure inside shines out with the visible sight of several golden coins lying inside his belly. Apparently, he is carrying a hidden treasure inside.

I also heard: Tera baap tujhse bahut pyaar karta hai. Tera baap tujhse bahut pyaar karta hai.

And it repeated while I was sitting beside the washbasin waiting for the lady to wash my head.

After the head wash, I went back to my room to check if I was down because I felt a downward flow accompanied by a bit of pain in my stomach similar to period pain. I didn't want to keep sitting there for another one and a half hour and stain my trousers. After reaching my room, as I was putting a napkin on a period panty, I heard in my spirit: Ye kaun kali kutiya palle pad gayi. Ye kali kutiya palle pad gayi.

I found out that I wasn't down which came as a surprise because I was quite certain about it as I had an accompanying lower belly ache. I went back to continue with the rest of the process. As the barber was now applying the Keratin mix, I saw a huge naked Glory behind me ejecting out long streaks of semen with a jump with his upper half bent backwards. He did it a few times.

While the barber was still applying the product, I felt like using the time to pray silently. I began praying in tongues internally. And after a while, Brother Philip who is in Haiti came to my mind and then I remembered that he has to be prayed for. So I began praying for him. And I was led to pray in tongues for him and Bia. I kept them in prayer as I repeated their names several times. I then intently prayed for his son Judah as well. As I was praying for Philip, I saw a semi-animated view of him dressed in a metallic armour as he stood on the ground, supposedly a battlefield, surrounded by demons. As I prayed in tongues, I saw firey darts being thrown at those demons that were approaching him. It was followed by a ring of fire forming around him that expanded itself and distanced away the demons. But they were prone to approach and surround him again. I continued praying and saw them being drawn away again. They were trying to attack his head.

After a while, I heard: Kartika, I'm safe. Kartika, I'm safe.
Those demons were trying to attack his bare head as that was the only unarmoured part of his body in that vision.

Afterwards, as the guy is applying the advanced Kera smooth mixture, I see: my light pinkish brain get huger and huger as it reaches the ceiling. It is followed by the vision of the side-view of Akhila's huge empty dark head facing to the left with a few cms thick brain inside near the back. When I came back later to write the last sentence and wrote it, I saw: The upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in his black suit to my left above me slightly behind me as he abruptly got filled with anger while looking down at me.

I also saw my dad dressed in his fully zipped grey jacket say: Ha bete kya chal raha hai? Ha bete kya chal raha hai?

Past Revelations

- (Past few days) A baby elephant with the tiny features of Death Conqueror and a scarf tied below his neck around his head runs on an open green field to the right with a smile with his trunk lifted horizontally in the air leaving the other adult elephants walking together behind him in the light of the day under the blue sky. As he continues running to the right, some meters away is shown sitting Akhila on the green ground dressed in a light creamish tunic set with her hair tied at the back as her long nose like that of a beige elephant trunk stands lifted horizontally in the air like a wave. When the baby Death Conqueror with a scarf and a smile reaches Akhila sitting on one of her knees, their lifted trunks are the first thing that come into contact.

As I was almost done writing the above, I saw: the upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a black suit as he says: Sorry Bitch, sorry. Sorry Bitch, sorry.

- (Past week) Glory dressed in a pink sweatshirt with its hood running over his head and a light parrot green trousers stands outside my room facing my side of the corridor as he shouts in a stuffed voice: I Love You…!
- (Past week) Glory stands outside my room with his back towards my room's side of the corridor as he has his face turned to the right as he says nodding his head lightly: shaadi ki tayaari karta hu!
- (Day before yesterday) As I am lying in bed to rest, I see: An elephant's trunk lifted vertically up with a slant and inserted inside a multi-colored floral and leafy square hole, as it moves through the bushy hole in the air.
- The chorus of this song has been playing intermittently in my spirit.
  Toota jo kabhi tara, tujhe rab se maanga..
  Rab se jo maanga, mileya re..

Toota Jo Kabhi Taara - | Slowed + Reverb | Lyrics | A Flying Jatt | Use Headphones 🎧 🎧

And yesterday while the chorus was playing in my spirit, I saw: The bottom view of the night sky from the song's animated thumbnail, as a tiny star separates from its place, and floats down to me who's sitting under the dark blue of the starry night from the thumbnail, and when it has reached my mouth, I see that the star has Death Conqueror written on it in tiny fonts as it enters my mouth and goes inside on its own as I gulp it down.

Later in the evening, I was recalling the dream The Courting Phase in which I had straight hair and was mostly dressed in shirts over denims. And then I was recalling the dream The Dusty Man and The Fairy in which I spent time with Glory as he also came to my dept and helped me type my thesis perhaps which he was doing quite quickly, printing a long streak of an unending page as he stood at the end of a narrow corner between two rooms, the left one of which I stood in front of as I was trying to open it looking for the key. Recalling these dreams, I wondered if this year would be the one in which I would see the fulfillment of these dreams. And the thought delighted me. The dream had me coming in front of the small gate of my parental home's society and the Multi Storey Building in turns. So I was also wondering if the time to go back home is nearing. I began saying out how I would write: I thank my husband (or fiance) …….. for the timely completion of my PhD Thesis, as I recalled the part of the dream Dusty Man & The Fairy in which Glory typed and printed out an unending page that created a huge heap on the corridor floor. I was feeling overjoyed as I thought how great it would be. I also said after a while how it was the dream of every woman to acknowledge her husband in her PhD Thesis and then seeing my situation, there doesn't seem to be a way for me to be able to complete my degree within the stipulated time without his help in my thesis. So I thought if that's why God had already revealed to me in that part of the dream that he was indeed going to help me. So, I was feeling a bit supported and encouraged to look forward to completing my degree.

While having dinner, I heard in my spirit Glory's stuffed voice coming from outside as he shouted:
Tu bahut sunder hai! Tu bahut sunder hai! I was saying something demeaning about myself after which I heard it! I was saying how I could never do anything to be worthy of Glory and that God promised him to me solely because of the underlying premise of a love-filled bond meant to unite us together. It had occurred to me a few days back as well, that how it was only because of love and grace that Glory chose me for himself, and how I could never do something enough to match his standard. And how it would only be because of love that we would be together. I mean there's an extent beyond which I can't improve my looks by losing weight or implementing other things, but yet it was all because of that he fell in real love and decided in his heart that he wanted to me with me that we would be able to be together. I realized this after struggling with the womanly vanity that I partook in during 2022. It didn't come naturally to me, and though I became comfortable with it, it's still not something that I want to go deep in. I learned that I just wasn't used to hanging out in vain gatherings as I would often feel repelled, and I like meaningful time spent alone.

Later I saw:
Death Conqueror dressed in his black suit attire looks down at me some distance away from me near the ceiling on my right-hand side as he says: Sorry to ruin your career B*tch!

The vision repeats. Sorry to ruin your career B*tch!

After a while, I see: Akhila passing by in front of me as she says to me in a mean tone: Sorry that we did this to you B*tch! Sorry that we did this to you, B*tch! The vision repeats a few times.

As I picked up the tea pan from the induction heater to wash, I heard a stuffed male voice shout: Gwaar!? Randi!?

I thought why is this person shouting at me in this way? No one called me by these words ever in my life until now. It was also because I always chose good people to hang out with, and they were always encouraging, just like me. I mean though I may show criticism for what disgusts me as immoral behavior or attitude, I was generally good and specifically too good for those whom I chose to be in my close circle.

When I went to get my clothes from the roof, while checking my clothes out, I was looking at the changes in my inner self that I considered as negative. It was because of the thumbnail of the documentary by Brother Wally that I happened to look at this morning. It had the phrase: It's what you've missed that should concern you. And it immediately pointed me to the revelations I forgot to write. Because I don't record them immediately. When I'm resting, I may have a series of quick visions that I don't record because I'm resting for the sole reason to rest and these days it's to gain some breath and to find some mental rest and stability after I've spent enough time writing. And then I wasn't quick either in releasing certain revelations as I only wrote them when I had gained a level of comfort in writing them openly out. In the past, for instance, I wrote the dream revelations Dusty Man and The Fairy and Glory in My PG much later after I had received them. And now, I was recording revelations within a span of a few days, and at times I would forget a revelation and would remember it after a month or so. Because of the same, I felt I wasn't doing my job properly because I couldn't be writing all the time. I needed breaks during which life had to unfold in order for me to receive more corresponding revelations. It was only after I returned from the Saloni yesterday that I could record the revelations I had there. So, there's always a lag between the time of having a revelation and recording it. Because of this lag, I felt as if I had become corrupt. I felt as if I had acquired a dormant attitude towards writing as I had been doing just that for long and now it was harder because I could do it only during the times that I was feeling well after which I needed to rest. After being directly exposed to or targeted by wickedness for a long duration, I didn't feel the same purity that I did some years back when I had kept myself set-apart though I didn't know that it's called being set-apart or Holy. I only bonded with good and moral people and stayed away from the wicked, liars, deceivers, fornicators, and other wicked types. I felt filth inside of me. I remembered how pure and in harmony with my natural surroundings I felt some years back. But now, I had detached from most things, perhaps everything. I was feeling as if I was the worst servant of God previously as well. And this morning I looked at other people's ministries and then at me who is at times confused and hasn't even read the Word fully though it has been years since I came to God. I was terrible about myself though I was doing what I could. And then I heard a loud stuffed voice inside of me that shouted: I'm happy with you! But I was still not feeling good about myself, and I kept coming up with all the reasons I thought I was a bad servant of God. Now, I want to be a good friend of God and not just a servant because that's how we all are called to be. We're not just his servants but friends (John 15:14-15). And as I was walking down the stairs, I kept hearing the stuffed shout: I'm happy with you! I am happy with you!

It was me who wasn't happy with me because I was exposed to cursing, name-calling, and other wicked types of behavior that nauseated me because of which I felt they left their remnant imprint on my mind. It's a wicked memory in my brain and when I recall it, it makes me feel dirty inside. I want to completely forget such wicked memories of people behaving in wicked ways! They contaminate my mind and thought process! I felt disgusted with this JUNK in my mind! And we're not programmed to instantly forget or delete at will the memories of the wicked behavior of others. Though I may not be doing anything, I am carrying this wicked junk in my brain and it affects me negatively and cloud my view. I will not do or say things that they do. I didn't see my mind as being good enough. It was no longer focused on the pure things of life around me but was stuck with this blurry package of wickedness that wasn't a part of it but it was resting inside my mind and it scared me to think if should I absorb some of its wickedness and be wicked in my own self. And I doubted if I had already done so unknowingly because of prolonged exposure. And as I was having these thoughts, I kept hearing the shout: I'm happy with you! I'm happy with you!

And it reassured me that I hadn't fled too far away from a place of purity with God and that I had to put my doubts aside and believe in what He was saying which would be the beginning of me gaining back my mental clarity. I've told Jesus that I do feel that I'm not good enough now because I've been subjected to such wickedness. I remember the days or the times that I thought smoothly with such mental purity that I used to be in an inner state of bliss most of the time. And I was missing that as now my thought process was no longer smooth but faced blockages of the ongoing persistent wickedness. Now, this is my personal struggle in which I need God's help.

Physicality is to be seen under the subset of commitment because it's only then that it assumes the value of a pure mentally pleasurable act or else it's just a redundant physical act with no meaning. After I said it out, I heard Glory shout: That's true…..!

A while back, as I was sitting in my bed praying, I saw:

- The side view of the upper half of a lady with her hair tied at the back sitting facing to the right as an apparent mask was being pulled away from her face but though it stretched away and left beige gelatinous thick strands, it didn't separate from her face.

Past Revelations

- (Past two months) The chorus of this song was highlighted to me some time back and it didn't make sense to me back then. It carries Uff Uff Uff at a place as its lyrics, and now it makes sense to me.

Ruk Ruk Ruk Lyrical- Vijaypath | Tabu and Ajay Devgan | Aisha Chinai | Anu Malik

- (Past month) Brother Philip is playing a thin light blue serpent flute in an open street as his little son Judah held by his wife Bia looks at him. Judah then abruptly turns his face away back to Bia, falling and resting on her.
- (Past month) The side-view of my step-mom standing facing my young dad the way he looked on his wedding day – carrying a moustache and dressed in a brown suit – as she puts a garland around his neck.
- (Past month) The upper half of my dad riding a horse walking towards the viewer in a white dreamy background being laden with several flower garlands and dressed as a groom.
- (Past three weeks) I've heard a guy's voice repeat this twice within the past few weeks. Man to ise isi waqt phadne ka kar rha hai. Man to ise isi waqt phadne ka kar rha hai. (Sorry Bitch! Sorry Bitch!)
- (Past three weeks) Saif Ali Khan dressed in a black waistcoat over white shirt tucked inside black pants stands between a sofa and the centre table holding a plate of Motichoor Ladoos as he says to someone sitting on the sofa on the left side: Vo tumhe marne wala hai. Ye lo, ladoo khao.

- (Past week) I've been hearing this intermittently within the past week. F*ck bitch F*ck! F*ck bitch F*ck!
- (Past few days) Glory dressed in his grey sleeveless attire from Dusty Man and The Fairy revolves me around with serving as the focus with an outstretched hand holding my arm.
- (Past two days) A semi-animated vision of the front-left parallel view of a clean-shaven Salman Khan with his Tere Naam hairstyle as he flies in the air in a dim golden orangish background. He is missing both his arms in the vision but then two arms fly to his armpits and join themselves to him like the assembling of a Power Ranger Zord. It is followed by the red Dino Thunder Ranger Conner, dressed casually in a shirt on top of a t-shirt over trousers, approaching him from behind and sitting on top of his back as they both fly together.
- (Past two days) I'm resting in bed when I see the upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a black suit in a dark background as he shouts out my name Kartika opening his mouth wide open. He repeats it again a few times intermittently.

Revelations while resting a while back

- The back view of a half-naked man dressed in dark beige Adivasi clothes with thin stripes running across his back, his attire resembling that of Kapil from the movie Jaani Dushman: Ek Anokhi Kahani, as Shannon from Yeshu Ke Geet dressed in a thick and ankle-length frilled white dress stands to his left facing to his right in a white background. As the view of the vision expands, Kapil is shown to hold the hand of Shannon and hand it over to Conner who stands on his right side facing Shannon.

The red ranger from Power Rangers Dino Thunder is dressed in a red and white printed shirt over a red t-shirt and trousers.

- A muscular Salman Khan in his Tere Naam look stands at the beach facing the viewer as a full-length white cloth is wrapped around him which runs over one of his shoulders with the other shoulder bare. His eyes look dark and sick as he looks forward. He seems to be standing in a small wooden boat.
- After a while, I hear again Kapil's part from the song: Aaja… Aaja..
  I see him standing in the corridor facing along the direction of my room. He is dressed in his half-naked dark beige attire from the song and stands with his forearms stretched. Vasundhara (played by Manisha Koirala) dressed in a thick and full-length white dress runs to him as they both hug each other. She's shown to have two edgy metallic white wings at the back. Someone takes hold of her from behind and pulls her away and drifts away with her from Kapil as now the front view of her drifting backwards along the corridor is seen as a short and lean guy holding her from behind her who is looking out from the right side while the lady keeps looking straight ahead.

  The Lady sings:
  Tere sang pyaar mein nahi todna..
  Tere sang pyaar mein nahi todna..
  Chahe tere piche jag pade chhodna..
  Tere sang pyaar mein nahi todna..

  While making tea during the evening, this song played in my spirit again.

  Tere naam humne kiya hai.. Jeevan apna sara sanam..
  Ho.. Jeevan apna sara sanam..

  The Stanza that later played:
  Naino se behte ashko ke dhaaro mein..
  Humne tujhko dekha chand sitaaro mein..

  23:53
- (Late Evening) Dono ne haath mila liye hai. Dono ne haath mila liye hai. It made me think if the two people being talked about here were Glory and Death Conqueror. They were who came to my mind. Because they are supposed to not cause harm to one another. As I wrote this revelation, I saw Death Conqueror dressed in a black suit standing above some distance as he looked down at me with an expression of boiling anger that gained severe intensity within a few seconds.

- The upper half of Jesus dressed in a white multilayered tunic as He moves to the left in a dark night background with a wary expression with His palms in front of Him facing the direction He is looking towards. The posture of His hands makes it look like He is telling someone to stay away as He walks backwards. As He continues walking backwards, a crowd of people enters into the vision from the right as He falls down as they all mob Him and He is no longer in the vision's sight. Apparently, He as moving away from that crowd. Another group of people mob Him as they all stand together and say:

We all want you! Following this I see flames of fire rising up from the ground level hiding the lower half of the mob.

- A small-framed animated vision of naked dusky women with varying hair length walking openly on the road in the right direction in a background with a dim dark orangish hue as they all say together: We all want you. They're arranged in a grid and walk together forward with the distance between them staying fixed.

I was having warm milk as it was cold and then I closed my eyes to relax. When I opened them slowly, I saw to my right a close-up vision of an infant with a very fat and round face dressed in a hooded sweatshirt with a grey hood and a yellow front with thick black polka dots on it as it's sitting on a wooden table in the background of a room with huge glass wall square windows present behind him as he looked at me with wide round unblinking innocent eyes.

Past Revelations

(Past few days)

- I've to leave her. I've to leave her.
- Heckyl from Power Rangers Dino Charge is being laid down on a metallic seat by a green translucent being who seems to have captured him and is now tying him to the seat.
- The bottom view of a semi-animated tree with two tiny eyes and a mouth on its trunk as it is being carried up in the air by long thick dark green stems wrapped around it. The uprooted bottom of the tree is visible as it says innocently in a thin voice: Please save me.. Please save me.. The thick stems resemble that of the plant alien from Power Rangers Dino Thunder who has invaded the city with towering metallic buildings in the background and spread its tentacles everywhere.

Some revelations post waking up

- The side-view of a fat lady dressed in a tunic set with a vertical white and light skyblue print with straight hair falling at the back as she sits on a chair facing to the right with a round dark wooden table placed in front on top which is lying a flat navy blue stationery pouch with a few thin parrot green horizontal strips near its zip. As she sits there, another lady's voice keeps repeating: Nine ko mana kar do. Nine ko mana kar do.

- I am in my room lit in dim golden light with two more people with the right mesh door left open. I see the face of a beige cow facing to the right in front of the door and it's now turned facing the inside of the room. Being afraid that it might enter in, I rush to the door and placing my hands on its forehead, push it away trying to make it walk backward but it's not moving. It's lacking horns so I'm glad that I can safely try to make it retract. I for some reason didn't feel scared of the cow because it looked innocent and not violent. It had happened to walk up to my floor and stop in front of my room. I am expecting the other two people present with me to help me with the cow but they're standing at the back. I happen to glance outside to push the cow backward better but then I see the corridor filled with cows until the back. How did all those cows come to walk in the same direction and stop in front of the room?

- I am in a room slightly different from mine. It has a foldable bed resembling mine. There's a chair lying near the bed. I keep dropping clothes down as they keep getting out of my loose grip or I tend to lose them free before I've put them in their place. It happens a few times as I pick up the clothes and put them back.

  As I was writing a while back, I saw: a small steel glass of tea with a square bakery biscuit right in front of my mouth touching my lips as the face of a brown camel appeared and took hold of the biscuit from the other side and began moving it in and out of its mouth. Following it I saw Jesus putting two square biscuits in my mouth with that small steel cup of tea.

  15:45
  On Rickshaw on my way to the dept to submit the joining letter, I hear the chorus of the Mela song.

  Ek baar chali gayi jo ye bahare..
  Laut ke na ayengi, guzri bahare..
  Mela baharo ka ata hai..
  Ek baar ake chala jata hai..

  Mela dilon ka ata hai..
  Ek baar.. Ake chala jata hai..

As the energetic chorus plays, I see: KA dressed in a white shirt tucked inside black pants revolving me around in a circle with an outstretched arm holding my hand. And he looks too joyful as he is revolving me in a circle in that dark background. The aura seems like that of a celebration. It was quite unexpected because the only thing I had in mind was quickly handing out my letter. But the song and the dance began abruptly with a great swing. And it seemed to hint at the nearing of the end of the fair of hearts.

When I am in the dept, I hear: Khyati ane wala hai. Khyati ane wala hai.

I get a nudge to get a Chola Kulcha roll, so I get one.

Back in my room when I'm making tea and Geeta Aunty is cleaning the room, I'm also saying how I didn't wear my dirty and stained maroon jacket to the dept because I wanted to show professional respect to their workplace (for the sake of the righteous) and not make a point of me thinking too high of myself wherein I think it's ok to come dressed in dirty and stinking clothes. I wore my long maroon coat instead with a dark grey high-neck sweater below, and it covered me better so I felt good. (I have now developed an attitude where the more fitting a way of dressing is, the more I feel repelled by it, and the more straight and cuboidal a way to dress makes me look, the more I feel drawn to it. After years, I developed a holy sense of clothing through mental training by God's correction. I previously often dressed in loose T-shirts and tops as I found them comfortable. But now I understand the wrong in my previous perception.) I also say how I could be judged in both wearing the dirty jacket and the clean coat. In both cases, people could say that I was trying to project a persona of someone great. As I said those words, I saw small-framed visions of both Debajyoti Choudhary Sir (the HOD) from my dept and my supervisor Nivedita Deo hold my head by the sides and kiss my forehead one after the other. I then saw my supervisor smilingly saying to DC Sir: She's good. She's good.

After having tea, I later watch some YT videos some of which show cute babies doing different things.

When I later sit with closed eyes to relax a bit, I have the following revelations.

- The front left view of RS dressed in a multilayered thick ankle-length white frock with two golden stripes in the middle joining at the horizontal center of the frock's thick belt around his waist and neck-length hair with stubble, as he tightly holds an infant dressed in multilayered white with both hands who is trying to float away in the left direction with both his arms outstretched as the baby says looking in that forward direction: Da da da da.. Da da da da..While RS repeats in a quiet and serious tone: Tu kahi nahi jayegi! Tu kahi nahi jayegi! RS is trying to stop the bald fat infant who is so bent on flying away from him with her arms fully stretched out, though it's not visible to whom the infant is trying to fly away.

As I was done writing the above, I saw the lady sing: Maar dala.. Maar dala..

- The upper half of RS in a dark background with a light stubble as he looks at the viewer with his body slightly turned away, and gives an affirming remark: She's still my girl!

  Later when I am reading the Bible (Deuteronomy 1), I see: KA and RS standing together as they look at each other smiling as KA remarks: She's still the same! She's still the same!

  Well, yesterday evening I was saying that I did love the people God gave me revelations about, but I didn't want to sin with them because that's not their place to be. I said that I had a sense of godly love for them, which one's supposed to have for His children as God has required us to love His children as He has loved us through Jesus Christ.

  So, if the trio continues to sin against me, I still have to maintain a heart of blessing for them (Love your enemies and bless those who curse you.), and I know that this mindset operates from a place of one already being healed, because that's when one can love their enemies and bless those who curse them. And they're supposed to act like my brothers in Christ. Though some time back I had a different heart state as I was calling the dusky fellow my husband but then in yet another one of the revelations, he was shown to have the face of Glory. I operated from a sense of detachment from the world, because of which I didn't get too hurt by the variety of revelations. Ideally, I want to receive revelations only about one person - the person of the promise because it puts me in a moral dilemma that I find too hard to deal with and I don't feel good about myself!

Past Revelations

- (Past week) This morning as I am sitting in bed, and by this time I've begun to show the love of God to the trio and I give them the Word of God given out for them as well (Don't sin, my darlings, for instance), and so I've developed His heart for them and I no longer see them as Dushmans, I hear: One of you has to marry me. The lady sings: Maar dala.. Maar dala.. It catches my attention and I begin to focus on what was it that I heard. Another voice repeated to me: One of them has to marry you. So, it confirmed to me the sentence I had previously heard! And then I thought further about the prospect that had perhaps originated in my heart. And it seemed to make sense to me why I might have thought or felt such a thing. It's because they're the ones who created this situation so they were responsible for mending it as well. Also, if they had now acquired the persona of the trio from the song Tumhare Siva, then I was more than happy to go ahead with the thought. So, perhaps that's why it occurred to me as I sat in bed with my head bent upwards as I felt the presence of drones above. The thought brushed past the surface of the blurred background of several lingering thoughts, and caught my attention. But I knew what I had seen in my prophetic wedding dream. It was Glory who was there in Red & White. Why then was I having this thought? I don't want to go against God, even subconsciously. Their Uffs now seem like doggie's Woofs to me. I can't perceive any wickedness in them. And they're like the lost children of God whom He wants to reconcile with Himself, which reminds me of this vision I had within the past two weeks.
- (Past two weeks) Three identical Judahs (Brother Philip's tiny toddler son) stand together in a line with a few feet of distance between them, dressed in a light creamish sparkling sherwani with a leafy green print, as they all hold a small version of a rifle with both their hands in front of their chests pointing it forward. Behind them lie a creamish wall and they all stand on a creamish stage elevated by a few feet.

- Vision (day before yesterday): A small-framed vision of a metallic trident's head which then expands and shows it as being held by the Hindu God Shankar or Shiva dressed in his Cheetah printed attire as he stands on a mountain plain and leaves saying to me: I will ruin your life.

  It's the devil that's after me for I chose God over Him. And the same way he will come after anyone who chooses God and His ways leaving his kingdom of darkness.

- (Past few days) Raund dala.. Raund dala.. It has been repeating intermittently for the past few days.
- (Past few days) Part of a dream: I am in a room. I look to the side and find a long and narrow corridor at the end of which is lying some stuff. I don't know why it is left there in the open visible to everyone's sight.
- (Past few days) The right-side view of the face of a woman in an open day area with some people visible in the background. The woman's head and facial sides are bandaged in white.

20:49

I see the upper half of a man until his shoulders that I saw on the road the last time I went out to do a chore at Dinesh Store. In the vision, he is fair, has curly hair, and is dressed in a parrot green sweatshirt, and his face is turned to a side as he says in a mischievously taunting tone: He should've died for doing this... This reminded me of a video in which the lady pointed out certain undesirable behavior aspects of preachers or people with ministries, and it also reminded me of my words from earlier during the day after I watched this other video by a Pastor who reiterated the Biblical event of Nathan the prophet going to David and asking him a question that he would know later revealed the truth of what he himself did.

The video by the Pastor:

I need Your ADVICE..... 😢

The video by the Lady:

God: "Enough! This behavior is unacceptable"

I don't fully agree with some of the points she made in the video above about the ministries selling their merchandise, releasing their music videos, or putting a price on a certain course as there is more to what she spoke about them. As Adele talked about in one of her videos, it's only good that we buy from Christian brothers and sisters who have their God-ordained ministries so that the money gets circulated inside the kingdom of God alone and is used further in its expansion. If it's a ministry started by God, and the person behind the ministry is following God in everything, the merchandise is supposed to be there as a means to keep the ministry going. Also, most music videos released by ministries of God are a creative product of the Holy Spirit and therefore add to the Kingdom and are to be used by the people to substitute their worldly music with the holy worship music released by several ministries.

As I wrote the above sentence, I saw: the lady from the video sobbing as she said: I'm sorry. I'm sorry.

Additionally, those people always use their worship music to give glory to God. Regarding the prices put on courses, at times it's God alone who tells people to offer certain courses for free, put some for a choice where they can be freely accessed or paid a voluntary amount, or those that can accessed only with a price. God-ordained ministries often follow the promptings of the spirit in putting price tags on their courses or certain memberships. Her video though helped me at certain places.

Also, we can't keep being patient with persistent sin. We've to boldly take a stand and call good, good and evil, evil. And yes, we've to correct with compassion.

Morning Revelations

- I wake up from a short dream-vision towards the end of which a voice says that an elephant with power needs to be kept oppressed and in check so that it's not able to realize its power.
- Three naked men stand closely together in a line as Jesus covers them with a long white towel wrapping it around all three at once in an upward spiral manner as the trio is stuck together inside the long single towel.
- I fall into a brief sleep and see myself entering into a room lit in white light inside which lay a double bed against the wall in front of the door. On the bed is lying a woman in front wrapped in a sheet a meter away to her right lies a naked, tall, and slightly bulky man who says: She wakes up when she wants. After this revelation, I'm imagining Glory beside me as I think how healing it would be. And then I suddenly am filled with this sense of him already being my husband.
- The metallic golden face of a Zord in a golden background with a blue stoned crown on its head.

The chorus of this song has been playing in my spirit for a while.

While beginning to watch the first video of the Tuning In Course by Sis Adele, I was in a state of deep longing to hear more from God in a more intimate matter wherein I heard His voice clearly and communicated with Him as He does with Sis Adele and others. I receive mostly visions and dreams. At times I've received a word or two as a reply, but the tone of those words said everything I needed to know and understand, and one word from Him was enough. But still, I wanted more. So, I chose to enroll in the short course Tuning In which I had been thinking of doing since it was released but I just didn't get time.

As I was listening to Sis Adele, I had an abrupt vision of a close-up view of the upper half of the face of Jesus right in front of my eyes as His deep red eyes were looking at me with an expression that showed that He was both touched and hurt. As I continued looking at Him, a stream of tears of blood began flowing down from the inner corners of His eyes as He continued looking at me.

Last night while lying in bed, I said in response to something Neha's Amma had said. And my response was an immediate one as it moved around in my mind and then I kept feeling the nudge to say it out, so I said it. I was previously not sure. I said: A man who sells the honor of a woman doesn't deserve a wife.

God can rebuke in several ways. At times, it's a correction made with love, and other times it's a blunt statement that tells the truth. After I had said this, I saw: The upper half of Death Conqueror facing to the left as he said: I know she's telling the truth. I know she's telling the truth. And he repeated the sentence several times.

Past Revelations

- (Past three weeks) I've done this to you. I've done this to you: says Death Conqueror in a rude yet affirming tone pointing down with his finger at me as his upper half in his black suit attire as he looks down at me from near the top of my room's door inside my room.
- (Past two weeks) Throughout the past two weeks, these two past events kept being highlighted to me. One dated back to the day my dad and brothers came to visit me in Saroj Sadan back in 2021 and when we were all out to leave and had reached my dad's car parked on the corner of the road along the building's side, a white car with a lady dressed in a neck-high tunic sitting alone at the back seat and a man beside the driver's seat approached us and stopped right beside us pointing to us. That man in the conductor's seat didn't look too happy as he was looking down. To my right on the other side of the road had stopped a smaller red car with a girl in the driver's seat and an old Sardarji with a long grey beard sitting in the back seat with a lady. Apparently, the people in the white car were Death Conqueror's parents and those in the red represented mine. I understood that they were his parents, but I had never talked to him and it was in 2021 that I had begun to develop a bitter heart for him because I was now aware of the cameras and it had been long. When I first got a hint about the same in 2019, and even when it was later confirmed in 2020, I didn't get much hurt because of a few factors. One of them was the fact that I had already known God and then I was a part of a healing group. And I didn't know to which extent this camera situation was extended, that who all were the people involved or those that were watching me? That long white car stood beside us for a while, and I didn't know how to react to the situation because though I had my own good perception of the short fellow, I had gained knowledge of his lifestyle and then I had the biker gang stalking experience. Since 2019, people I didn't know were coming in front of my eyes, serving as messengers or flying monkeys and I was gaining knowledge about Narc Abuse as well around the same time. So, by this time, I had strong boundaries wherein I used my reasoning and understanding of what constituted abuse. I always had a mindset that overlooked the apparent (visible) love if there was the presence of abuse, cheating, or adultery because I would justify in my mind that that's not what love's about. I had several proofs with me that told now me that he could say or do emotionally abusive things even to a person who loves him or whom he claims to love. I had numerous proofs and I hadn't interacted with him either that I would talk to those people who had stopped by and what would I've said to my dad (that I never talked to his guy and he has been stalking me and I don't like it and I know that he is an emotionally abusive person as well!). So, I didn't know how to proceed in the situation. When I had spotted the lady, though she was wearing a mask, I spotted her smiling eyes. This event kept being highlighted to me. One thing I often looked back on was when I was once on my period at home in 2020 and I was having severe period cramps as I was lying and moving on the single bed beside the window. Later when I opened YouTube, I saw a YT suggestion with the thumbnail of a lady and the title that said 'My new toy gets turned on in public.' Now it was a shock for me to watch this suggestion because I never had such video suggestions before as one's YT feed is always shown according to one's preferences and history, and I didn't watch humorous videos, let alone those that came with a perverted meaning associated with them. So, how come this suggestion drop by in my feed this very day that I was lying in bed moving in pain with my eyes closed? This was also one of the few hints that I received about me being watched and also of my phone being hacked. Such ways of thinking exhibited by him served as blockages and led me to place a boundary. And when his parents came that day, the only thing I thought about or looked at was the fact of all that I had observed during the past few years and then I had blocked him as well because of what I observed online and then previously I had seen his emotionally abusive response to this other girl as well. I didn't look at the difference in the social or financial status or think how could such a man with such a high-profile scientific background and who happens to hail from a rich family come running after me where his parents are there in front of me as well? I had all those past things in my mind.

This other event from 2021 also kept being highlighted to me in which I was sitting in the conductor's seat beside my dad in his car as were driving on the roads of Chandigarh. I saw a bike pass by on my left-hand side with a short guy sitting behind the one driving peeking his head sideways to my side and though he was wearing a black helmet, his smile was apparent through his eyes visible through the open eye shield revealing his fair face. He was dressed in a thinly striped lavender shirt tucked inside blue pants with sports shoes on his feet and a grey laptop bag behind his back with a few sea green lining around its edges.

As I was writing the above, I heard the following song lyric play.
The Guy sings:

Hum guzre pal mein rehte hai..
Ref: Ane wala kal ek sapna hai

So these events kept being flashed in my spirit. Within a week of the events being highlighted, as I was lying in bed this certain day and the events were flashing in my mind again, it seemed to me that God was highlighting to me those events to complete or fixate my perception of him. I then heard in my spirit: Do these mean nothing to you? I replied back that they did mean a lot but look at what he has done where I am now, and look at all the other hurtful things. And then I heard a stuffed shout of a man who said: I hate him!
Glory dressed in a black full-sleeved cotton top over trousers stands outside my room facing in my direction as he points to himself and says: That's me.

And it was the day before yesterday that I had a sudden realization that these people in a way were an answer to my unspoken prayer that I didn't know I had been praying since I was a child. Because I had a mind that had tried to keep itself as pure as possible as my fleshly self was fully integrated or inseparable from a sense of pure everlasting commitment which wasn't present in most people as I interacted with them. And I longed for such a bond with one man who would be able to understand all aspects of me. That was one reason I got so drawn by Tejaswi because he was quite fast and better at everything than I was. But, though he had the same skills and he was only better at them, he didn't have the depth of character and integrity that would've added beauty to his skills. I wasn't praying for such a bond but I longed for it.

And now that I wrote the above, the previous vision from somewhere within the past week that I had as I was saying something while using the balcony area. As I was done saying what I was, I saw: The upper half of Death Conqueror near the ceiling dressed in his black suit attire as he looked down at me and said rudely: We understand you, Bitch!

So, I had this sudden realization the day before yesterday that the people were also God's answer to my unspoken prayers as He saw who I was on the inside. And it makes sense when I look at it, because God represented Death Conqueror as Prince Kit from Cinderella, and Glory as Mr Darcy from Pride and Prejudice as his face got superimposed and flashed on the face of Mr Darcy as he looked smiling at me.

And then I also would like to add this sentence that I had come across around perhaps two years back, and it said: God doesn't call those who are qualified for a position. But he calls the ineligible and makes them qualified. (A guy says: Hasle hasle.)

So, God has had been working on me as well to make me qualified for the promise that He made to me in 2021.

- (Past few days) The singing guy on the stage from the Hindi song Yaadon Ki Baraat walks towards me with his right hand extended forth ready for a handshake as he says: Hi. I'm Madhavan. The vision repeats a few times.

Currently, this song playing in my spirit.
The Guy sings:
Tere jaisa yaar kahan.. Kahan aisa yarana..
Yaad karegi duniya.. Tera mera afsana..

I woke up early this morning and then after a while, as I continued lying in bed, this song began playing in my spirit.
The Guy sings:
Badle na.. Apna ye.. Alam kabhi..
Jeevan mein.. bichdenge.. Na hum kabhi..
Yu bhi.. Jaoge akhir kahan.. Hoke hmare..

Yaadon ki baraat nikli hai dil ke dware.. Dil ke dware..
Sapno ki shehnai beete dino ko pukare.. Dil ke dware..
Chhedo tarane milan ke.. Pyaare pyaare.. Sang hmare..

The stanza repeated in my spirit several times as I lay in bed. And then I thought of surrendering to God afresh as I recalled Lana's video from yesterday and then somewhere within the past few months as I lay on the floor to rest in the presence of God, I had felt the whisper: Surrender. So I lay straight in posture and said to Jesus: I surrender, Lord.
And it also reminded me of the previous vision in which Shanon from Yeshu Ke Geet was waving a white triangular in the dark of the night as she said: Don't come here. This place is too wicked.

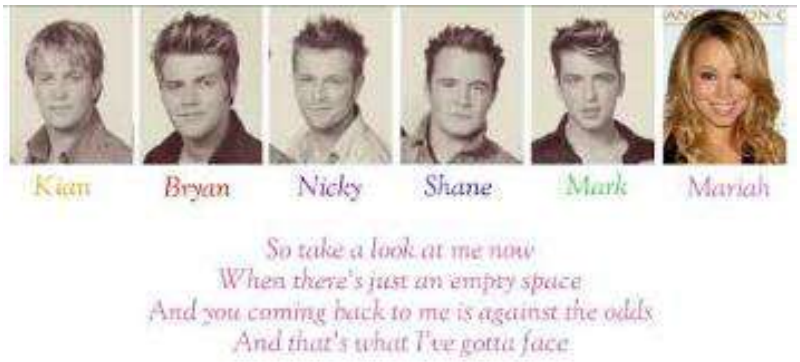
Tum kahoge ye kaise mumkin hai yaar. Tum kahoge ye kaise mumkin hai yaar. Tum kahoge ye kaise mumkin hai yaar.

I was reading the scripture related to the 2nd lesson of Module 1 of the Tuning In course when the above line began playing in my spirit incessantly.

The following song began playing in my spirit as well as I was working. So I played it as I worked.

Westlife ft. Mariah Carey - Against all odds color coded lyrics



Somewhere in between I estimate the monetary value of the average number of revelations I receive in a day by assuming the value of one revelation to be the value of the Tuning In course offered by Sis Adele which is AUD235. It's not about the money but I did so to make a point to those messengers that I keep coming across every day who make insulting comments about me as they compare my body parts to cheap Rs.5 or Rs.10 chocolates or similar things. I made the point that on an average I receive a minimum of 10 revelations every day and if each was to be assumed to have the value of the cost of the course about How to hear from God, then AUD235 was to be considered the value of each revelation and therefore AUD2350 would be the amount that I give out freely every day for others to consume as spiritual food, which amounts to about 1.3lacs. For a month of 30 days, it would be about 38.6lacs. And that would be the net minimum worth of revelations that I give out freely every month. I said that to make the point that I was not to be compared to those cheap eatables by those wicked messengers lacking good sense!

After I said that that's the amount I give out freely every month, I heard: I can't believe she said that.

I still can't believe she said that. I can't believe she said that. And I didn't understand why would it be hard to believe. I went out to get a coffee and the sentence kept repeating in my spirit even when I was back. I said it to counteract the insults thrown at me by these people who show up every day to make demeaning comments about me. I feel privileged and good about receiving revelations from the Holy Spirit in the first place. Why would I estimate the value of the revelations? But I did so to make the point about how costly hearing from God is and that though I may have estimated a monetary worth, that's not what it takes to hear from God. But it takes the Holy Spirit that we receive because of the shed precious blood of Jesus. So, in my own eyes, each revelation from the Spirit is invaluable because the things of the Spirit have no real monetary worth as they're all given out freely by the grace of God and it's because God allows His people to sustain themselves through their ministries that they allow people to sow in their ministry.

Evening

- The face of wolverine in a dark background as two thin white snakes wrapped around by a thin garland of flowers move up together and then begin to vanish in thin air beginning from the bottom.
- The side view of a beige flat vertical slab with the face of a maned lion with its front paws extended forward on the left side of the vision as two arms dressed in a light golden coat are seen to be holding its arms as they both swing their arms sideways together. Apparently, the man is swinging hands with the idol of a lion. It reminds me of what I had been saying about not placing idols in one's heart that can serve as a hindrance in our bond with God. It was something I had read on my back to my PG in Rickshaw

I woke up early and as I was still lying in bed, I saw: A small framed vision of Death Conqueror shaving the top of my head going from front to back, and making me bald. I then heard: I have to shave her head. It's a crown of her beauty.

I then thought a bit further about it. I felt bad about my head being shaved as I recently got my hair straightened. But then I recalled my own statement in which I had said that I saw long hair as a useless extension placed on one's body. But that doesn't mean I would like to be bald though if I naturally reach that stage or have a very low density of hair, I wouldn't mind that.

But I didn't want to be bald because I had this straight hair in my courting phase dream with Glory as well. I then began hearing strongly the song lyrics sung by the guy from the song from the Movie Jaani Dushman: Ek Anokhi Kahani, again:
Aaja.. Aaja..
Aaja.. Aaja..

It was so strong that I got up from my bed and walked up to the balcony to brush my teeth. As I stood there and looked out, I happened to whisper out a light: My husband is calling me..

And then I felt like what I had just said and how I had heard that in my spirit resembled the cliché situation of the lady from one of those TV soaps. I never would've thought it would manifest for real in my life. It was in A-16 when I was in D1 that I first heard this calling in my spirit. I've heard this strongly previously as well following which I went to look in the corridor but I saw the path blocked as the people were shifting a single bed across the apartments.

The phrase kept repeating while I was brushing my teeth. I have to shave her head. I need to shave her head. Or else she would be with her husband. Her husband would find her. She's going to be with her husband. I have to shave her head.

It reminded me of the bald Goalie from the movie Shaolin Soccer, and other revelations in which a bald but flat Amir Khan with a lean figure of a woman was shown to be dressed in a white bridal meshed dress as he was stepping down a staircase.

After having tea, I fall into a brief sleep and wake up from this dream.
Dream: I am talking to Tejaswi from behind my home's main entrance gate as he stands outside in the corridor extending forth in front of my home. I don't know how I can talk to him in the dream but I am not romantically interested in him and neither do I carry anything from the past. However, I am aware of the kind of person he is, though we're having a seemingly amiable talk. I go inside the room to get my husband out with me. Apparently, in the dream, Ayushmann Khurrana is my husband. I bring him with me to the gate to show him to Tejaswi who is not visible now. It turns out he had hidden in the corridor extending to the right of my house. Ayushmann is shown to be dressed in a light parrot green winter sweatshirt and carries a beard outlining his face. I then see us as a third person from behind. I see the lady who is me standing with Ayushmann on her right on the right side of the grilled entrance door as both of us are looking outside through the thickly grilled steel door. I don't want to be seen by Tejaswi in the dream so I hide behind the lady, and apparently, I am much shorter than her in this part of the dream and she covers me fully. But she is a see-through person and I am still able to look at Tejaswi through her almost transparent upper half carrying the light parrot green hue of her sweatshirt. While I can see him through her, I am under the impression that he can't see me as he is not looking directly at me. He walks in closer to the duo in front of me. I move behind the lady now holding her sweatshirt by the sides from behind as the man is much closer now and his upper half is clearly visible to me. He is dressed in a full-sleeved shirt and has a square and bearded face carrying a smile. He's still at a lower level than the duo.

It could be either because he is standing on the stairs below the main gate or because he too is short in height. I happen to move my mouth as I'm trying to whisper and ask the lady about something. It seems to me that he too moved his mouth though I am not sure. I move my mouth again, and I notice him move his as well. I move it again, and this time I notice it clearly. He's whispering lightly while looking at me: Power up Power down. It reminds me of how Power Rangers morph. I move my mouth again. He whispers again: Power up Power down. It repeats a few times. I've no doubt now that he could always see me though I was trying to hide behind the see-through lady. I become fearful as he seems to be demonically influenced. The only thing I can think of is praying in tongues. So I begin to do so. I happen to pray: Ra Ra Ra Ra.

Ra Ra Ra Ra: the man repeats immediately after me as he walks towards me and the translucent half of the lady and as soon as he's done saying the words, he's apparently also passed through the translucent upper half of the lady as he stops in front of me leading to my voice being suddenly stifled and a sudden darkness appearing in front of my eyes. I can't see the man anymore though I can sense a wicked oppressive presence that's making it difficult for me to speak. And that's when I wake up.

As I was lying in the bed on my left side, I saw:

- The face of a white street doggy looking unblinkingly at me right in front of my face with a small metallic tiara on its head with the view of the long back of a beige seat on which he is sitting visible behind him.

After a while, I saw:

- Sis Adele dressed in her Bold Existence sporty black polo shirt attire flies over a sea towards the viewer with her huge black wings with an eagle flying some distance ahead of her on the left side in a dim orangish background, as she says: I'm coming to save you.

These lyrics have been playing in my spirit for a while.

The Guy sings:

Jab piyoge yu jaise kehte hum..

to mit jayenge saare dard aur gam..
Jab behek jayenge had se jyada kadam to..
Sambhalega tumko tumhara sanam..

These lyrics played in my spirit for a while yesterday in the dept as well.

I have been seeing several different people fiercely shouting with a mouth wide open at places when I'm done saying something.

I saw Glory shout with a mouth wide open at something.
I saw Death Conqueror shout with a mouth wide open at something.
I saw the trio shout with a mouth wide open at something.
I saw Prof TRS shout at something with a mouth wide open.

Glory and Death Conqueror repeat their shouts with their mouths wide open intermittently as I am done saying one or the other thing.

Revelations before sleeping:

- A few faces of women peek out from behind a metallic door one after the other through the small opening on the left-hand side. As I close my eyes, I hear: We're all survivors, Bi*ch.
- The upper half of a semi-animated stubbled Daniel Radcliffe with side-combed hair dressed in a green sweatshirt carrying an overall humble casual look as he walks in a direction to the slight left of the viewer in a light.
- The upper half of Daniel Radcliffe from the previous vision, as he stands holding several packaged snack sweet sticks packaged in a dark brown cover on top his arms joined placed one on top of other in front of his belly, and says: I got these for you.
- The upper half of Sis Adele dressed in a grey suit over a white shirt with neck-length blonde wavy hair as she hits a ground tennis ball with a racket towards the viewer in the background of a huge empty hall as she says: You're mine!
- The front top-view of a woman dressed in a fitting sleeveless grey crop top with her black hair tied at the back as she sits at the end of a flat surface with a long grey metallic solid cylinder extending up from the seat from between her legs as she looks ahead.
- The vision is repeated now with KA dressed in a grey suit over a white shirt with a light, grey toothbrush moustache sitting in the same posture as the lady in the above vision with that grey metallic solid cylinder protruding up from the seat from between his legs.
- A small-framed vision of a clean-shaven Daniel Radcliffe dressed in a grey suit with a shirt and a tie inside as he walks backwardly while spraying perfume in the viewer's direction as he says: My women are waiting. The vision repeats itself a few times.

Past Revelation

(Past two months) I had this vision when I hadn't yet hired Geeta Aunty to clean the room and wash clothes. This day I gather the strength to clean the room and as I'm doing so, I see: A small-framed vision of RS dressed in a dark purple Sherwani in a dark background with a stubble and neck-length hair as he says looking at me: Ye kahan phas gayi. Ye kahan phas gayi.

Khushi ne humari humein… Maar dala… Maar dala..

Morning Post waking up

The chorus of the following worship song plays in my spirit.

The Guy sings:
Tera pyaar hai mahan..
Tera pyaar hai jahan..
Mein jo pehle murda tha, tune daali mujhme jaan.
Kyu na bolu phir mein teri jai jai kaar
Kyu na bolu phir mien teri jai jai kaar..
Jai jai kaar. Jai jai kaar..
Tune mere liye kya na kuch na kiya..

Jai jai kaar. Jai jai kaar..
Tune mere liye kya na kuch na kiya..

Tera Pyar Hai Mahan (तेरा प्यार है महान)

- A close bottom view of the upper half of Deepak dressed in a full-sleeved shirt as he seems to be talking sensibly in a moral way.

Suddenly, he was desirable to interact with. Previously, he was only repelling me with his indirect mean, and immoral comments and a malleable wicked heart state without a strong sense of integrity. But in the vision, he acted with a sense of firm moral integrity. I then begin talking about how it's the unseen that makes people desirable before what's seen.

Afternoon
I have been talking out openly since morning.
As I finished saying something, I saw:

- A thin white danda abruptly erects and hits Death Conqueror's forehead breaking his skull and revealing his brain around his forehead as he falls back behind. In the vision, apparently, he hit his forehead with that danda, broke his skull, and fell backward.

As I continue to read the Bible, I see:

- The bottom view of Death Conqueror standing on my left-hand side as he hit the top of my head leading to the left half of my skull openly revealing

As I lay in bed, the following vision repeats a few times.
A small-framed bottom view of Death Conqueror bent on the person below while standing on the ground as he said in a creepy tone while moving back upwards to being standing straight: We all are abusers..

This vision of him being bent over me (which I see the bottom view of as a first-person) as he creepily and quietly said the above while moving back upwards repeats.

The vision repeats. We all are abusers..
Looking at the vision, it seemed as if he was mocking me by making the point that no matter where I went or with whom I found, I would always find an abuser. He was making it look as if a good person who wanted to live right and didn't want to be abused deserved to be with an abusive person instead of being in a reciprocative loving bond.

The follow-up vision showed the bottom view of him grabbing and throwing aside a translucent red drape from a person lying on the ground, and his posture resembled that of Gajendra from the movie Lajja who threw Ramdulari's drape aside before he and his men raped her and burnt her alive to death.

The vision repeated several times as I lay in bed! The follow-up part had him bend down and start gnawing and pulling away on the breast of the woman lying on the ground as the breast kept getting in the bottom view of the vision while the man pulled away on it viciously with his teeth.

And as I wrote the above vision, I saw: The bottom view of Death Conqueror standing on the floor as he looked down with slightly filled eyes and said looking to his side: She's telling the truth. She's telling the truth.

Past Revelations

- (Past month) The incidences from my childhood in which I used to tickle my youngest brother when he was too little as he laid on his back on the bed and I would keep tickling his armpits kept being highlighted to me. He would try to get away from my grasp but I always managed to keep my hold firm and continue tickling as he would be laughing out loud and ask me to stop. I used to tickle both my brothers when they were little to make them laugh uncontrollably where they didn't have power over me filled me with excess joy. My youngest brother would try hard to free himself from my grasp but to no avail.

- (Past three weeks) A tall and wide, beige Glory with stubble and neck-length hair, dressed in a full-length tunic and wearing a short golden crown walks into my room as a voice repeats King. King. King. with the vision highlighting his face until his shoulders as it slightly bounced around its position. The voice repeatedly calls him king.

- (Past two weeks) A voice seemingly that of Glory repeats: Ye mere liye gwaar ban gayi. Ye mere liye gwaar ban gayi.
- (Past week) While using the washroom, I hear in my spirit the following version of the Mela song. The lady sings:
  Mela dilon ka ata hai..
  Ik baar rulake chala jata hai..

  And the lyrics repeated a few times.

- (Past week) Dushman dressed in a grey suit over a white shirt with a light uniform stubble walks towards the viewer in a room with dark walls but he immediately gets pushed back to the wall by a dark translucent figure of a man. The dark figure is resisting his steps and keeps him pinned against the dark wall. The guy is kept in check by the dark figure that's fighting him.

- (Past week) KA with a long and wide conical bamboo Tokri held behind his back with one of his hands walks towards the viewer in the open.
- (Past few days) The barber from the Salon beside A-16 stands inside the salon as he says to someone present with him: Maine iske baal khraab kar diye. Maine iske baal khraab kar diye.
- (Past week, night) The translucent face of a dark man with a wary expression as he says: She's beautiful. He then sits on a knee on the floor with his head bent down as he says: Please marry me! The vision repeats a few times. Earlier that night, when I went to The Dinesh Store to buy something, that guy had walked into the store from its side entrance and was waving at someone with a hand carrying a white packet of some fluid while looking to my right side.

I've not written revelations from the past few days. So I am writing them together below.

Sunday

I am not sure in the morning if I should go to church but I feel a nudge to go there as almost every time I went there, I returned being filled with the spirit with an improved countenance. As I get up from the bed to brush and quickly get ready, I hear this repeat in my spirit: Take them to church. Take them to church.

Also, as I am brushing my teeth, I hear in my spirit the chorus of the pagan song Take Me to Church by Hozier as the guy sings:
Take me to church.. I'll worship like a dog at the shrine of your lies.
I'll tell you my sins so you can sharpen your knife.
Offer me that deathless death O good God
Let me give you my life!

(This would represent how they feel about the church.)

People've just started gathering when I reach the church. I am out to go stand on the left side of the room, but then I go and stand on the right side beside Shaanti and her daughter Angel. I have the following revelations in the church.

- Shaanti and little Angel stand on my left side as the Worship session has begun with the Pastor singing with his son accompanying him on the keyboard. The little Angel is looking too cute and adorable as she keeps looking up at me intermittently. And part of the reason for the same is also because I kept putting my hand on top of her head, or was pampering her cheeks or almost flat Nepalese nose. After a while, I see a tall, dusty, muscular light olive green demonic being dressed in just a loin cloth standing in front of Angel to my left as he touches her face pampering her followed by him sitting down with vertically folded knees in front of her as he continues to pamper her.
- I'm finding it hard to sing out loudly for some reason. It's been long since I went to church and it takes me a while to gain momentum and sing along properly. They're singing a worship song with full enthusiasm with keyboard, guitar, and drums. I then see the back view of the trio in their red suits dancing enthusiastically to the worship song in front of the Pastor between the two rows.
- KA dressed in a grey suit with a white shirt and a tie dances between the two rows on the worship song being sung by the Pastor.
- The Pastor is doing half sit-ups near my legs with closed eyes with folded hands as I hear in my spirit words similar to: Dhanyawaad mata aane ke liye! It's after several months that I had gone there.
- Jesus in a full-length off-white tunic set with stubble and neck-length hair sits on the floor with vertically folded knees in front of Angel as He is pampering her.
- I see Lana (from Lana Vawser Ministries) standing to my left with her orangish brown hair as she too is immersed in the worship with lifted forehands.
- Towards the end of the opening worship session, as we're all sitting on the mat, I see her sitting on my right side as she too seems to be enjoying the church worship.

During the worship session, I was thinking of the possibility of Glory sitting behind me, though I knew that it may not be the case either, but the thought just crossed my mind.

Monday and Tuesday

I'm working sitting on my corner seat in my workplace as I hear a guy shout the following and the sound shows true or real repentance. The Guy shouts: Mujhe maaf karde Kartika. Mujhe maaf karde. Mein pagal tha! Jo tujh jaisi ladki ke peeche pada! Mujhe maaf karde Kartika. Mujhe maaf karde. It sounded quite painful as the guy repeated the words.

As I continue to work, I see a distressed Akhila as she says looking to the side: Stop her, Mrittunjay. Stop her from working. She's insulting me. She's insulting me. But I'm not even thinking of her when I'm working. I've to complete my work and degree within a stipulated time. That is what's revolving in my mind along with catching up with where I left things the last time I sat to work. I am recapping my last written page.

I also see a small-framed vision of Death Conqueror shouting as he too seems to not want me to work. He too seems to see it as an insult to her. I also see him shouting out loud in pain: She is dumb! She is dumb! It's almost as if me working is putting this reality at the front. Well, though I don't see what Glory is doing, I have an idea of who he is and why would I feel pain or offended if I saw him being himself. Now he may be better or worse at some things but it's not my place to compare it with someone else.

The vision repeats a few times as he shouts out in apparent pain followed by the words: She's dumb! She's dumb!
But why would he call her that and insult her or feel insulted if she is not whom what she didn't want to be in the first place. A secure man doesn't compare his wife with anyone or feel offended if she has a certain persona with specific inclinations. Likewise, a secure woman doesn't feel insecure about her chosen partner either. They're loved by each other because of their resonating moral character traits that allow their love bond to continue in time.

I'm working and am listening to a worship song simultaneously. After long I'm back in the dept and have begun to work. After several months, I'm able to work and I'm feeling good because I'm in a better state because of which I begin to smile. I then hear a Guy's voice in my head as he says the following in a threatening tone: Ye hasi tujhe bahut mehengi padegi. Ye hasi tujhe bahut mehengi padegi. It makes me wonder why this guy is saying the above to me.

And as I was writing the above, I saw:
The upper half of Glory looking at me with wide-open and filled bluish-grey eyes as he lightly nods his head with an affirming smile hiding pain. The vision repeats a few times.

As I'm brushing teeth in the morning, I see this part of the following Hindi song highlighted.
The Guy sings:
Aji suniye.. Jara rukiye..
Aise naa naa mat baniye..

Ref: The Hindi song Jaate ho jaane jana..

The guy is gesturing cradling an infant as he says naanaa. He's asking the lady to not behave like an infant.

I then hear: Don't act like a child, Kartika. Don't act like a child, Kartika.

Wednesday

Morning

- The middle part of the trio in their red suits standing in a line as they tuck their protruding erected genitals between their legs by folding them inwards the way the protagonist in The Danish Girl tucks his genitalia between his legs as he stands naked in front of a mirror. Though the guy from the movie was trying to act like a girl as he tucked in his male genitalia, the trio in the vision were tucking in their erect penises between their legs. The vision repeated a few times.

Afternoon

- As I'm working sitting in my corner seat, I see: Angad sitting with his head bent down on his chair facing in my direction near the row's end as he slowly brings his hands to his forehead while sobbing with a mouth wide open. It seems that he's faced an injury around that place on his head. The vision repeats a few times.

Evening

- As I sit with my head and face held in my hands with my elbows resting on the table in front, I see: a small-framed framed vision of Glory's upper half as he says: Ye sab meri vajah se hua hai. Ye sab meri vajah se hua hai.

I wake up with the following song playing in my spirit.

My saviour is my Jesus.. He's my King.
To Him I give Glory, To Him I sing.
He's my King but He's also.. He's my best friend.
We go hand in hand from the start of the day to its end.

And I will praise His name. I will stand without shame.
I will praise His name, I will stand without shame.
I will be unashamed, to make a stand in His name.

I Will Praise His Name: Original Song

- A small-framed vision of the trio in red and white standing in a line as they all merge together into one person dressed in red and white standing in the place of the man in the center. The vision then shows a lady with her hair tied low at the back kissing the man passionately, and as she does so, the thought of the guy in red being Glory crosses my mind as I think: I wish this man in red and white was Glory. His face then flash changes to Glory.

Where you stand is important for perspective...

The bottom view of Death Conqueror dressed in a black suit as he looks down at me from near the ceiling and says: Maine ise gwaar bana diya, Maine ise gwaar bana diya.

Late Evening

- We're your husbands, Kartika. We're your husbands, Kartika (heard in the spirit while sitting in bed working).

Below is the video that my friend shared with me that I watched back in 2020 at home during the Covid lockdown and it's then that I had the vision of a white 3-D Y on a flat white surface in a dark background with the Y glowing in radium pink.

Dream 1:

I'm on my way to a building in a hired vehicle. It had agreed to make a round trip from that building to a place and back is Rs. 550. The underlying distance wasn't too great, hardly 3-4 kms perhaps, but since there weren't many commute options, or perhaps that was the only option, I chose to use the same since the place wasn't at a walking distance. The vehicle stops at a wide and empty road with the building to my right. I enter in and find that my family is staying on the ground floor inside. I find my mom, dad, and brothers in the same room. I see that there are several beds placed in different alignments in the same room. I see my middle brother Himanshu taking a slow walk around the room to exercise his healing broken leg. He's dressed in all black - a full-sleeved sweater over black trousers. His walk now looks slightly disturbed as his expression has become tensed and he seems to be facing a difficulty. My dad is lying on his bed laid against perpendicularly to my bed against the wall on the other end. I ask Himanshu about the sudden change in his demeanor, and that if his leg is paining. He affirms and as he continues walking, my dad also says something to him as he is now just entered the space between the two single beds lying along the sides of the room with me looking at him from my bed on the left-hand side and my dad's bed lying against the wall behind me. He stops in his track and putting stress on his broken leg, says: Ha zor daal raha hu. It is perhaps a response to what my dad had told him about putting some of his body weight on his healing leg as a part of his healing and self-physiotherapy. Immediately afterwards, his condition worsens and he's not able to even stand properly. He says that it's paining a lot and I now want to get him to lie in bed and rest. My mom stands beside him to help. He needs to be lifted and put on the bed. I lift him up, trying to handle his healing leg with utmost care. I have to put him on the bed I'm sitting on. He's sighing in pain and shouts louder whenever there's movement leading to a spike in pain. I hold his leg straight with his trouser rolled up until above his knee, and quite carefully place it on the bed. On placing him on the bed, I see a depression made on the dark brown surface of its sheet for it's one of those foldable beds whose surface goes down when you sit on them, those made of either fiber plastic strips or thick cloth strips. As soon as I've placed him on the bed, he begins to shout in pain. I see that the foot of his healing leg happened to lie on top of a medium-sized light brown book lying on the bed. I quickly get away from the bed and him so there's no movement at least from my presence. I then see a tiny metallic disk protrude out from inside his leg with a thin metallic stick attached below it. Apparently, his operated leg has misaligned and detached at some place leading to the long metallic stick piercing out of his leg. It moves upwards on its own and takes a U-turn and moves down below his leg a 1-2 inches away from the other pierced line on his leg. There's this visible slit in his flesh that has been created from inside out. He needs to be operated on. I walk to my dad's bed and ask him to take Himanshu to the doctor but he responds rudely showing contempt for him and rashly points to a clinic outside and a juice shop on the opposite side. I feel like telling him to take him to the doctor and get him operated on again. I know that he is not going to like it so I feel like telling him that he could take the money that I have in my account if he didn't want his money to be used on Himanshu, and in the dream, I seem to be having about 1.5 lacks in my account, and which is close to the amount that was used when he last got operated on. But before I can say anything, and while my dad still has that wicked and rude countenance, I wake up.

The upper half of Death Conqueror says looking unblinkingly on the right side with a bewildered expression with wide-open eyes: Sorry that I've done this to you..

I fall asleep after a while again and have the following dream.

Dream 2:

I am in a room with Himanshu sitting on a brown chair in front of me. Perhaps he's working on his laptop. To my left, I see the open door to the washroom inside which my dad is bathing with his back towards the viewer while sitting on the floor with vertically folded knees. I don't know why he's bathing with an open door though he doesn't look obscene because only his back is visible which is bent forward away from the viewer. I ignore him and walk towards Himanshu and chat with him briefly. When my dad is out of the washroom, there's an exchange between him and Himanshu after which he rushes to him like he's going to hit him. Himanshu abruptly moves with fear but I interject making him calm as I know his leg shouldn't move and my dad shouldn't behave in this way. I manage to divert Dad's attention away from him and he moves to the left to lie in bed. I stay standing close to Himanshu asking him why Dad tried to hit him. What was the exchange they had? While I ask him so, there's a lot of noise made by people around. Himanshu begins sobbing and I hug him around the shoulders with both my arms. He begins to tell me that Dad had wanted to hit him previously as well, right at his heart with a Danda, as he highlights the middle of his chest by opening his shoulders out. Though my ear is right in front of his mouth, I can't discern his words and only hear the chatter. He continues with: Papa saari cheeze nahi batate, as he's pointing out how dad doesn't reveal the entire situation in order to hide his unscrupulous behavior. Jab Papa ka birthday tha.. and then he begins to talk about an incident that took place on dad's birthday but again, I can't hear anything clearly because of the noise made by people. He says sobbing innocently: Ek to mein pehle se hi niheen hu, aur phir… Again, I can't hear his following words. But I understood that he was pointing out how despite his condition of his healing broken leg, Dad has been behaving too rudely being inconsiderate of his situation. I catch his words again when he says sobbing: Papa mujhe marne ke bahane dhundte rehte hai. He is aware in the dream that Dad wants him dead. I miss out on his words again. I ask him again about the exchange he had with Dad that led him to march angrily towards him. I haven't been able to discern much though he's been talking for a while now. I could only discern what I wrote above. As I'm listening to him, I see my dad lying in the bed a few meters behind him as he angrily lifts a white teacup in his hand enacting to throw it at the back of Himanshu's head. But again, I look at him and tell him to stop. Himanshu replies to my question but I can't discern his words again. Throughout the interaction, he's sobbing and I'm holding him. I can feel his pain as I listen to him. I want to be there for him and listen to him. I ask him to repeat as I reply with a: Kya. He repeats, but I miss out on his words again as respond with a Kya again. He repeats it a third time, but still, I don't understand because of the loud unceasing chatter of people that's hindering my hearing of him. The last time that he repeated himself, his tone was changed and his voice resembled that of an adult man after which there was a subtle silence. At this point, I get a sense that he might be thinking that I was asking him to repeat intentionally but I really couldn't hear his words, and then I wake up.

After I had written the dreams partially to be edited later, I heard: Himanshu ki jaan bach gayi. Himanshu ki jaan back gayi.

And it repeated when I completed editing the two dreams.

As I'm making tea in the morning, I see the blurry upper half of Death Conqueror as he said: I knew that she was smart. But I didn't know that she was this smart.

It kept repeating intermittently throughout the day.

I went to church for a brief prayer meeting. After it was over and I was walking my way on the road towards the double storey area, I saw: The bottom view of Death Conqueror standing above as he looked down at me and said pointing at me in a quiet tone: She's a real fairy. She's a real fairy. The vision repeated sometime in the late evening as well.

After I returned from the church and sat in my bed with a fallen countenance after already having tea with some snacks once, I saw:

- The fair wife of the middle man hastily place another pink glass of tea in my hand as she said: Ek aur chai chahiye!
  The vision repeated a few times.

- As I continue to rest, intermittently going into half sleep, after a while I feel the drone(s) (some light movement) on my left breast and it is followed by the immediate small-framed vision of the face of the bearded singer of the song Hue Bechain in a dark background in his look from the thumbnail below, as he stands still with the nipple of a 2-D flat breast pulled upwards by his mouth. The vision is followed by the melody at the beginning of the song playing in the background.

The melody is followed by the lyrics playing.
The Guy sings:
Hue bechain pehli baar humne raaz ye jaana..
Mohabbat mein koi aashiq kyu ban jata hai deewana..

After a while, I see two hands slide up on my breasts from below and it's followed the song playing again in my spirit.

Hue Bechain Pehli Baar Song Lyrics | Full song | Palak Muchhal, Yasser Desai

The song lyrics play intermittently as I lie in bed.

After a while, I see:
The upper half of the fat fair wife of the middle man from single storey dressed in a long maroon cardigan as she says with an angry expression: Maha raand hai ye!
The vision repeats when I get up from the bed.
The fair lady says: Maha raand hai ye!

After getting up, I'm making another tea when I hear the song play again. As one of its stanzas plays in the background with no meaningful words discerned, this part of the stanza can be discerned as it plays clearly towards the end of the stanza.
The Guy sings:
Tumhe milna zaroori hai..
Hakeekat na samajhti ho..

When I feel the drone(s) again on my breasts, the part of the song that plays has the lady sing:
Suno accha nhi hota kisi ko aise tadpana..

The Guy sings:
Mohabbat mein koi aashiq kyu ban jata hai deewana

Agar ye pyaar ho jaaye..
Kisi pe dil jo aa jaye..
Bada mushkil hota hai dil ko samjhana..
Hue bechain pehli bar.. Humne raaz ye jana..
Mohabbat mein koi aashiq kyu ban jata hai deewana..

As I was watching the video 100 stars missing… that I shared yesterday, I saw:

- A small-framed vision of my supervisor Prof Nivedita Deo in a dark background on my right hand side near the wall, dressed in her usual attire of tunic set as she said to me: Please don't destroy us. Please don't destroy us.
  It seemed to me that she was pleading to me to not destroy their perception of their scientific community by sharing the truth videos about the physical world.

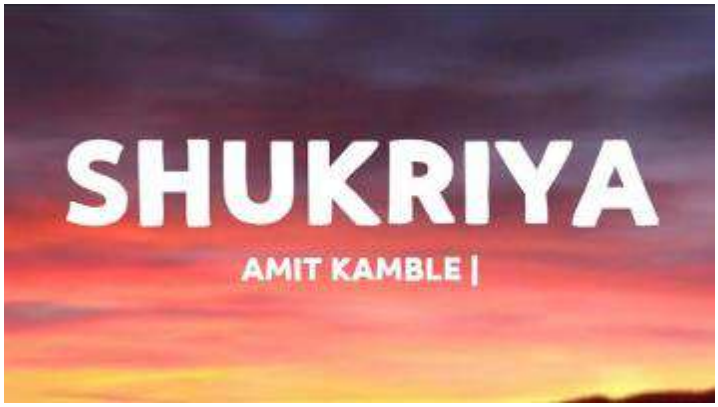
Last night before sleeping

The Guy sings:
Kya de sakta hu..
Mein kya la sakta hu..
Kehta bas tujhe.. Shukriya..
Shukriya.. Shukriya..

The chorus of this worship song plays in my spirit.
Amit Kamble - Shukriya (Lyrics)



Dream:
I get up from a single bed lying along the wall inside a grey room, and as I do and get down from the bed and look back towards the wall, I see that it's wasn't a wall beside my bed that was present there, but it was an open rectangular window through which I saw a man lying on the bed laid beside the window on the other side of the wall with a rectangular slab protruding out from the base of the shared window on which I saw were lying two tiny toy figures of women. The one on my right side was shorter than the one on the left and both had long wavy hair and were dressed in dark metallic armor from neck to ankle. There was a stick present in the middle of the two women with a huge pink solid structure resembling a brain. The stick was the shortest of the trio. I saw the man raise his upper half a bit as he shifted the stick close to the shorter woman right in front of her left arm.

After waking up, the chorus of the song begins playing again in my spirit.
The Guy sings:
Kya de sakta hu..
Mein kya la sakta hu..
Kehta bas tujhe.. Shukriya..
Shukriya.. Shukriya..

While in Rickshaw on my way to board the common cab to Church, I keep hearing in my head:
You'll make her smart. You'll make her smart. You've to make her smart.

It seemed to be an instruction. And the person that kept being highlighted to me was Akhila. And it kept repeating in my head on my way to church. It made me think that whoever this may've referred to, how can that person be made to act contrary to his/her preferences? Well, the only thought that came to my mind was that a great part or perhaps the main part of being 'smart' was having the attitude to do the right thing, be it morally, objectively, or situationally! That's how things work for me. So, if I had to give her any advice for being smarter than she already is, it would be for her to begin to think and act right. I saw that it would involve her scrutinizing her interactions with others wherein she has to be vigilant about the kind of things she talks about and see where is she crossing the line that she shouldn't. That's the beginning of doing the right thing. Now different people have different minds wherein they've managed to think rightly in certain parts of their compartmentalized thinking. But being right in thinking in all your compartments and thereby doing the right thing is how I've lived my life. If I had to boil down my persona, I would boil it down to that principle. Because, to want to understand the world around us in a way that's not entirely societal or worldly, one needs to begin to think rightly which is possible when one does so being independent of the world and its systems.

During church:
Pastor's obese wife standing on the other side of the church dressed in a red coat similar to mine with her head wrapped with a printed white cloth.

I noticed an inverted star with red and green LEDs fixed on the cement slab right in front of the center of the ceiling and had to ask the Pastor's wife later but I forgot and left after having communion. While I was worshipping, my attention kept going there and I wondered why they put up an inverted star that represents the church of satan. Now I could see that its top that was pointing downwards was longer than the other ends and that the posture in which it was fixed was the most stable way to place or balance it on that solid horizontal cement strip running across the room. But even if it supports the star in the best way, why should they put the inverted pentagram - the symbol for the church of satan inside their building?

Later as the Pastor was preaching and I sat down on the mat, I heard: Bhool jaunga mein tujhe, Kartika. Bhool jaunga. And different variations of the sentence repeated a few times in my head.

During church, the Pastor talked about the Aagya Pratigya bookmarks that people had. Post church during communion, I asked his wife to give me one of those. After a while, she called me, looked for the bookmarks in her bag and called her husband to hold them. I got to know that he was to pray over them and I was choose one of them which would serve as my Aagya Pratigya for the year of 2024. As I looked at them still deciding the one to be picked up, as I looked at this certain one, it seemed to be highlighted to me and I chose it. I found that the Aagya (Instruction) it had for me to follow for the year of 2024 was for me to honor and respect those who were appointed by the Lord to serve Him and lead and guide His children.

1 Thessalonians 5:12 (New Living Translation)
Paul's Final Advice
12 Dear brothers and sisters, honor those who are your leaders in the Lord's work. They work hard among you and give you spiritual guidance.

From <https://www.biblegateway.com/passage/?search=1%20Thessalonians%205:12&version=NLT>

My Pratigya (Pledge or Vow - from Google) was that I was to be close to people who called on the name of the Lord together with me in truth.

Psalm 145:18 (New Living Translation)
18 The Lord is close to all who call on him, yes, to all who call on him in truth.

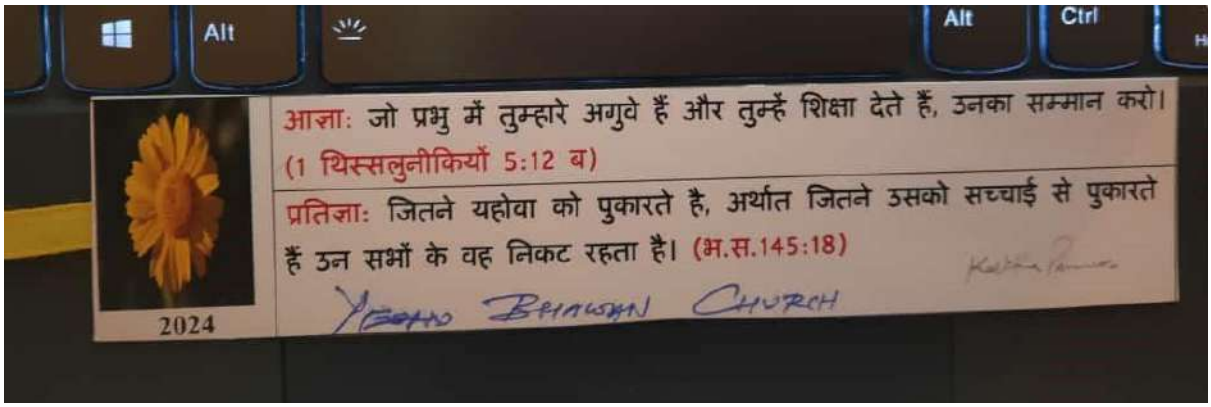
From <https://www.biblegateway.com/passage/?search=Psalm%20145:18&version=NLT>



As I read my Aagya Pratigya Bookmark, I heard: Can't believe she's real. Can't believe she's real.

I wanted a better Aagya Pratigya, so I went to the Lady and asked her if people were to have only one, and she replied in affirmation. She also told me that I was to put this in my Bible as a bookmark.

My Aagya reminded me of how during his preaching, I thought that he was disgusting as he as I caught him lightly pressing with his left hand the lower half of the left side of his ass which looked quite promiscuous and therefore unholy, the thought that played in my mind was: He's disgusting!

Somewhere during the church time, as the Pastor preached, I saw: Akhila standing against the wall on the other side of the room right in front of the stage as Glory sat on a knee in front of her worshipping her with a Thali in his hands. But why should he worship her!?

On my way in a shared cab to the intersection of Kingsway Camp and GTB Nagar, I see:
A small-framed vision of the Pastor sitting with a few others on the left-hand side of the front of the church where his family and he usually sit post-church and have their communion together. He sat beside another person who was sitting near the wall. He sat on that person's left-hand side as he said laughing to someone sitting on his right front:
Randi Aagya Pratigya leke gayi hai!
In the vision, he is dressed in his grey coat over a white neck-high top.

The vision repeated to me a few times on my way. And now when I think of it, the Pratigya reminds me of how, though away from Church, I saw him saying that in my absence. Perhaps he didn't say the exact words, but he could've had such a heart state. Nevertheless, God found it important enough to let me know what he was saying behind my back. Now, I am not going to be arrogant the next time I go there but I know that one needs to eat the meat and spit the bones, and perhaps after writing out this revelation, he perhaps already may have received his correction from God like I received my instruction in the Aagya part of the Bookmark.

As I pass by the area of my previous PG as I'm moving to my room in a Rickshaw alongside the Nala road, I hear my own voice shout inside of me: Khyati…

After I reached my room, perhaps I was having tea sitting on my chair when I saw:
The fair and fat wife of the middle man from Single Storey dressed in a long, full-sleeved maroon thick woollen cardigan buttoned up until her neck as she said looking down at me: Sir phod iska! Sir phod iska! I don't know why was she saying that. The vision repeated a few times. I wondered why the woman wanted my head burst.

- After I was done writing the above, I saw: the teary-eyed face of her husband as he slowly turns it to the left with a sad expression making the prophetic symbol.

Later in the evening as I'm sitting on my bed and talking to the air, I see a small-framed vision of Akhila dressed in multilayered white clothes sitting on her double bed with her back against the wall and her hair lying behind her back, as she says to me: Please don't do this, Kartika. I've done everything with him. Please don't do this. I've done everything with him. You're taking him away from me. Please don't do this. She seems to be begging to me. But what am I doing that I am taking 'him' away from her?

The vision repeats again.

Late at night, as I'm having my dinner, I was recalling some things from the past, my time with my first roommate Swati Priya back in 2010 whom I met in Saroj Sadan PG in Vijay Nagar, Single Storey. Somewhere in the middle, I ended up saying that if someone wasn't used to thinking in deceitful ways like the people of the land, they felt like targeting that person. But I immediately realized that that wasn't the term I should be using. Because how I describe things or my reaction to things also affects how things unfold in the future. I had been living with a blameful attitude for the past few years instead of showing the love of God and giving His correction as He reveals it to me. And now that I felt I was in a different state with the trio wherein God called them His Darlings, I didn't want to continue labelling them as abusive perpetrators. I realized that I had to look behind their act, and I felt somewhere scared as well that if I was to continue labelling them as abusers, they might never turn outwardly into who God has called them to be. And when I saw behind their act, the word that came to me was that they didn't target me perse but what they did showed that they were desperate for something. And it wasn't something they could've found somewhere else, so it must have been something unseen.

As I said the words, I saw: a blurry figure of the upper half of a man dressed in the red suit attire from the song Tumhare Siva standing in a dark background as he looked to his right (the viewer's left), making the prophetic symbol, and said to someone present on that side: She has figured us out. She has figured us out. The vision repeats a few times.

While doing a brief Bible Study in the morning, I see a blurry vision of the trio in red and white suits standing above in front of me as they looked down at me with wide teethful smiles. This reminded me of the wedding dream in which I was looking down at Glory who looked up at me with a wide teethful smile carrying a bouquet of red roses held by his fist below his chin as he sat on vertically folded knees on the ground.

Past Revelations

- (Past two weeks) I'm talking about something this late evening when I see a blurry vision of the upper half of Death Conqueror in front of me about two meters above with 'Smartest' written above his head as it blinks at its place.
- (Past week) Brain served on a plate with pomegranate seeds on the central dividing line between the two hemispheres along with a few other things spread around.

While brushing, the chorus of the song Yaadon Ki Baraat plays in my spirit.
While making tea, the song plays in my spirit again.

Past Revelations

I went to the Finance branch in the Administrative block to inquire about my HRA of two months that was pending to be approved. But I couldn't open the scholarship portal on my phone as it didn't have working internet. Later as I was working, I heard in my spirit: She can't receive that money. She can't receive that money. An arrogant voice kept repeating the sentence.
I am resting in my bed this late evening when I have the following revelations.

- I see a flowy beige background with thin stripes of multiple colors on it as the background flows as a whole.
- The beige, fluid, and flat upper half of a featureless man in a beige background. It then changes to the flat beige figure of a woman with shoulder-length hair as her left eyeball pops out of its place and falls down.

After waking up early in the morning, I have the following visions.
As I lie awake in the bed, I find it unusual to have the vision of my hands lying on top of the head of Death Conqueror as his head was pointed towards me and I was pressing the top of his head for some reason. I don't know why I received this vision at that hour but it indeed reminded me of the dream revelation from 2020 in which I had my hands on top of his head as I prayed for him. In this series of visions this morning, I am caressing the top of his head.

After the head caress, I see a small-framed semi-animated vision of an unusually long erected genitalia as it stands slanting towards the left direction. The vision expands and it's shown to be that of the short fellow as he is shown to be sitting on a car seat in a dark surrounding background.

(Chamakte chaand ko toota hua tara bana dala…)

The follow-up vision shows a hand moving along the erection, intermittently pulling it outwards. And as the hand moves along its surface, I can sense a light sensation on my own hand as I have the vision. The visions continue for a while.

- The upper half of Jesus in an off-white tunic with a wide side red drape and a crown of thorns on His head.

It's late evening and I'm still in the dept working but as I begin to soar in my thinking, I feel mental hits on my head. It's almost as if someone doesn't want me working. I feel hits on my head at different places and then strong side hits coming at my head from the left direction. Why am I experiencing these hits? As I struggle to understand afresh basic concepts to begin in the work my supervisor gave me, I hear: She's coming to kill you, Mrittunjay. She's coming to kill you. Don't you see? You've ruined her life. She's coming to kill you! And it repeats for a while.

On my way in Rickshaw to my room post dept, I hear again: She can't receive that money! She can't receive that money! But this time it's accompanied by: That's my money! That's my brain! That's my money! That's my brain!

A Guy shouts: Kartika… Kartika…
As I'm lying in bed after returning to my room, I hear two shouts of my name in my spirit.

She's dumb, she's ugly. She's dumb, she's ugly. I see the bottom view of Death Conqueror looking down at me from the air as he compares Akhila with me calling her dumb and me ugly. As he refers to Akhila, he gestures to my right calling her dumb, as he refers to me, he gestures to me, calling me ugly.

Dream:
I find myself inside Omaxe City – the society of my parental home. In this dream, I find myself standing some distance inside the main entrance of the society. To my left lies the Villa's area as I look ahead towards the main entrance gate. I see a lady dressed in a printed orange tunic and a metallic curved pan with a spherical base lying on the ground with a muskmelon lying inside it. There are a few others around her as all are cherishing their time together outside. Looking at the muskmelon, I tend to think why was it that it was placed inside such a huge vessel when it should've been sliced and served on a plate? It is quite apparent that those people are going to eat it directly from the huge metallic vessel. The vision then shows the upper half of the lady in the orange tunic as she says with a self-affirming and confident tone: Hum to aise hi khate hai! She then begins to explain the benefits of eating muskmelon in Hindi. She counts how it's beneficial for one's mind and body and she talks about it for a good while. Afterwards, I find myself lying beside her as she is talking to me, and though we're supposedly inside a room, I see a dark blue night background around us as she says with a rebuking tone how some men buy chicken and then pick up a woman from GT Road (to enjoy the cooked chicken with the woman as their company). She exhibits a brief expression of disgust as she shares the same with me. I too feel the same disdain.

The later part of the dream has a lady lying inside a room as her belly protrudes out. It seems that she's pregnant as she's not moving much either. In front of her lies a wall consisting mostly of a wide pane of windows as the mesh door of the leftmost window is left open revealing the silent open view of the night outside devoid of people. I see a young girl inside the room as well. She is perhaps the woman's daughter. The pregnant lady asks the girl to close the mesh door reasoning that fog came in from outside. The girl heeds her and closes the same. The entire wall now has its windows closed and the outside is not visible through the mesh and glass doors. There's a middle-aged man inside the room as well. He's perhaps the girl's father. They decide to draw the curtains over the windows to block the room's view of the outsiders. I see wide red curtains and a long spring support extending from one end of the wall to another. There's a string of round and diamond-shaped stone beads hanging from the spring support on either side of it. The girl is moving the curtains around as she's trying to draw them completely with the least resistance. As she stands on the left side of the wall in front of the curtain, the pregnant lady reminds her of the acting play they have to later partake in. The girl and her father draw the curtain fully over the windows.

(A small-framed vision of Death Conqueror as he looks at me and says rudely with a hand gesture: Mein tujhse pyaar nahi karta! Tu gwaar hai!

She has done something to us.

I know.

She has done something to us.

Bhula dala.)

The face of KA until slightly below his throat as he says: Kartika tumhe abhi tak realize nhi hua hai but tum ruin ho chuki ho. Kartika tumhe abhi tak realize nhi hua hai but tum ruin ho chuki ho. It repeats again.

She'll never come to you, Mrittunjay. Look at her face. She'll never come to you.
The bottom view of the upper half of Death Conqueror looking down at me as he says: She'll never come to me. She'll never come to me.

The upper half of Death Conqueror looks down at me as he says joyfully: You've won! You've won!

The vision repeats as I'm using the washroom.
I know she'll never come to me. She'll never come to me.
The statement repeats several times during the day.

Late Evening/Night
As I sit with my eyes closed, I see:

- The bottom view of the upper half of Death Conqueror looking down at me from near the ceiling in front of me as he says: She'll never come to me. I know she'll never come to me. I'll have to go to her. She'll never come to me. I'll have to go to her.
- A black guy dressed in a loose and thick white sweatshirt with a white cap on his head in a dark background as he's moving around making gestures of a rapper. The black face of Jesus with neck-length wavy air appears on the left side as His face rushes towards me with a serious expression and He says in an instructive tone: He's your brother! It seems to me that Jesus is trying to give me some relief by letting me know that I can trust that the fellow knows how to behave himself well and be like a real brother!
- A lean and thin Glory dressed in all black stands outside my room facing in the direction of my side of the corridor as he says: Teri PhD MEIN karwaunga! Teri PhD MEIN karwaunga!
- She'll never do anything for you, Mrittunjay. She'll never do anything for you. Can't you see it?

The vision repeats several times accompanied by the voice!

Late Night

- The bottom parallel view of the legs of a child of about 10-12 years old hanging down from a table in a dim yellow background with both of his feet wearing white shoes that are tied together with a white lace.
- Prof Iyer from the movie Haunted - 3D sits on a chair behind a table dressed in a beige coat over a white shirt as he gets up and says: Maine iski life ruin kar di. I'm a rapist. Ab mein isme kya kar sakta hu!?
- And one day she forgot everything. And one day she forgot everything.
- Shekhar from the song *Tumhare Siva i*s eating some kind of beige sandwich in a dark background. He is dressed in his red coat attire but instead of the white shirt is present this time a shiny satin black shirt with a striped black tie around his neck. The vision expands and the other two men from the song appear in the vision as well. They too are dressed in a shiny black shirt with a striped black tie. The Madhavan of the trio then stands with the sides of his red coat opened sideways with his head lifted up. The inner side of his coat is revealed to be black. So his upper half looks completely black as he stands with his coat opened outwards with his hands. As they stand in their individual ways dressed in those black shirts, they say: Hum buri shaktiyo se bhar gaye hai. Hum buri shaktiyo se bhar gaye hai.

Earlier during the night:

I'm listening to the below as I feel a nudge to do the same when I hear: She knows how to touch hearts. She knows how to touch hearts.

Emma CERCHI (gagnante The Voice Kids 2018) / I HAVE NOTHING (Whitney Houston) / 1er Prix Sanary 2017

As I'm watching the above video, I have the following revelations.

- The trio in red suits lie face down beside one another in the center of my room with their arms extended forward and their palms joined together in front of their bent heads as they roll sideways.
- The follow-up vision shows them sitting on their knees in a horizontal line in the center of my room facing my bed as they seem to be tearing up.

I play her following performance afterwards.
Serge Lama - Je suis malade | Emma | The Voice Kids France 2018 | Blind Audition

- The black version of the face of Abhi Gyan (Madhavan from the trio) blows air on my face. His shirt then changes back to being white from black and so does his face return to his normal original complexion.

- The trio in red and white stand in a squat position in a line in the center of my room facing my bed as they hold their ears and do sit-ups.

Phoot gayi. Phoot gayi.

I don't know who wants to burst my head that I keep hearing this.

8:46
After having the lukewarm lemonade, I sit in my bed with my head bent down to relax and pray. I then have the following revelations.

- The close-up view of the corner of a bushy road with some broken human teeth lying along the edge of the narrow cement ledge built along the ground on the road.
- The face of Divyanshu with his head wrapped with the printed white cotton cloth my mom wraps her face with tying it below her neck.

I begin to fall into sleep and have this dream-vision:

- I am crossing the Singhu Border as one enters Haryana from Delhi and as I do so, I see water crossing over the border on the road. The vision is followed by water flowing ahead into and covering a rectangular pit on a concrete road with some stones lying around the corners. As I wrote the above, I saw: The upper half of KA dressed in a white shirt as he cries with his forehead held in one of his hands: Kartika tu barbaad ho gyi!

The vision repeats again.

- The generic faces of the trio in red and white float towards me as their bodies are embedded within a layer of wide deep red rose petal surface. As their faces float towards me, three long handguns pointing in my direction appear below their chins.
- As I think that I've to bathe as it's been several days, I see: the top view of a naked me lying still on a surface as a naked man's face is on my right breast, while another naked man's mouth is on my left shoulder and a third naked man has his face between my legs as he's pushing my thighs apart.
- The mouth of a black doggie with pointed vicious teeth comes at my right shoulder from above as it begins to bite and lightly pull it apart leading to the corner protruding in and out of its place like a balloon.
- The upper halves of the trio in red and white as they stand with their forearms bent to the level of their mouths with their hands drenched in thick sugar syrup which they're intermittently licking at. The follow-up vision has them now walking forward to me who stands dressed in my current clothes with my long dark pink cardigan on top as the surface of my cardigan is seen to be covered with sugar syrup which they touch and get some of it on their hands again to lick.

This Westlife song plays in my spirit.

I'll be loving you.. Forever..
Deep inside my heart you'll leave me.. Never..
Even if you took my heart
And tore it apart..
I will love you still.. Forever..

Westlife - I'll be loving you forever

Brief dream:

I find myself standing near my room's corner diagonally across the door. The trio in red and white comes walking to me from the left direction and stops near the corner as they inform me that there's a lizard in my room and it needs to be scared out. They also add that it's the last one and repeat it a few times. Apparently, all the other lizards have already been taken out. I see them standing with their bodies and faces facing to the left as they are looking at the wall. They say again that it's the last one. On a careful look down around the corner, I spot a fat and an inch-long tiny lizard facing upwards on the wall. Its shape is unusual as its upper body is quite thin which then suddenly bloats out into a much wider blob below. It has tiny legs below and an extremely small tail. Though it's quite tiny, I still am afraid of it. We need to get it out of the room. It's the last one. Apparently, they're scared to deal with it themselves so they've come to ask me for help. The follow-up part of the dream has me looking at the lizard that's now stuck horizontally facing to the left on the adjacent wall about a meter above the ground. Moreover, it's fully grown now and has the usual shape of a lizard and looks duller as well than the previous tiny dark brown version. I am not sure though if it’s the same one. But in any case, it's a lizard and I need to get it out. For some reason, I decide to shine my phone's flashlight on it. I seem to know in the dream that the flashlight is going to work. I hold it about less-than-a-foot away from it and as the focused yellow flashlight illuminates the lizard, its hold on the wall loosens and it slowly separates from top to bottom. And as it experiences an abrupt fall, it scares me to think of now seeing the lizard on the floor and that's when I wake up with a jerk.

I woke up from this dream in the morning.

Dream:

I'm moving around in this dream being busy. I'm a part of a school in whose premises I find myself moving. Towards the end of the dream, I find myself in a traveller van with the interior of a room as my towel hangs on three hooks in the way it does on my balcony's door in my rented room in real life. I'm wiping my hands off the towel as I look to my right outside the window of my long van and see my dad present there talking about this trip he has planned to three places that we are to visit in that order. He's explaining to us the details of the trip while I listen to him being the sole person present inside my van. As the trip is repeated to me again, I see the last place in the itinerary change to Bodhgaya and that's when the dream ends.

- The God of ages.. Stepped down from Glory..
  To bear my sin.. And bear my shame..

  The God of ages.. Stepped down from Glory..
  To bear my sin.. And bear my shame..

  Living Hope

  It repeats several times.

- The dark guy in black who was once waving in my right direction being present inside the Dinesh Store pushes back the other two behind with both his hands stretched sideways as he says looking at me with unblinking eyes and a serious countenance: Leave her for me!

- The upper half of Death Conqueror as he pushes the duo behind him with outstretched arms and says looking at me with unblinking eyes and a serious countenance: Leave her for me!

  Bas bander tujhe ghar leke aa rha hu mein maarne ke liye! Bas bander tujhe ghar leke aa rha hu mein maarne ke liye!

  18:42
  After having the omelette, as I lie down to rest for a while, I have the following revelations.
- The upper half of Death Conqueror looking down at me from a few feet above in front of me as he says pointing to the right that if a certain girl (Akhila) does or says something to hurt me, he was going to kill her. And he repeats it several times.
- The upper half of Amar in the red suit with a white shirt from the song Tumhare Siva as he says: Meri jaan mein tujhse bahut pyaar karta hu. He repeats the sentence. Behind him is then revealed present a metallic machine with its two arms with vertical flat square ends trying to cover Amar's ears. As the metallic surfaces cover the ears, a blast takes place inside his brain leading to a thick transient stream of blood sprouting out through his ears.
- A small-framed vision of the face of Abhigyan from the song Tumhare Siva as it comes floating in the air towards the viewer in the background of a room lit in white light.
- A blue genie with a genie tail floats in the centre space of the church with a wired mic held to its mouth.
- One of the trio dressed in the red and white suit attire says with a confessing tone: If you were not there, we would not have anyone to love. As I wrote the previous sentence, I saw: Glory dressed in full-sleeved black cotton clothes stand in the corridor a few meters from the stairs towards my room as he turns his back in my direction with a questioning hand gesture made by his left hand and a sobbing expression with an open mouth as the background music plays: Kya se kya.. Ho gya… Bewafa.. Tere pyaar mein..

The vision of the trio repeats as it shifts to another one of them as he repeats: If you were not there, we would not have anyone to love.

- The vision is followed by the following song lyric from the song Tumhare Siva: Agar tum na milte to hum jee na pate.. Kise apna kehte kahan dil lagate.. The lyrics repeats again.
- After a while, the song plays again.

The Guy sings:

Agar tum na milte to hum jee na pate.. Kise apna kehte kahan dil lagate..

The Lady sings:

Sajaa rab jo dega.. Oooo..

Sajaa rab jo dega.. Vo manjoor humko..

Ke ab hum tumhari ibaadat karenge..

Well, it doesn't mean that I'm open to sin and violate God's statutes. I can love without sinning. That's the way God has called me and everyone to love each other! Agape: the form of God's love. Now, you can feel passionate Agape for people, but it doesn't drive you to sin because it's not related to the flesh.

After I was done writing the above, I saw: Glory dressed in full black stands in the corridor facing to the left as seen from my room, and says looking at me with a sobbing expression: Acha. Abhi ruk. Dekh teri kitni pitai karta hu.

I fall into a brief sleep and have the following dream:

I am walking when I come across my supervisor who calls out my name leading to me stopping in my track and walking towards her. She then explains something to me after which she begins to correct me about something I wasn't wrong about in the first place. She makes a point about how I should behave in a certain setting in response to which I reply that I had heard her call my name out and that it was for this reason that I stopped in my track to listen to her. She then diverts the argument from this fact that I am pointing to but begins to preach on me about an unrelated thing. As she's doing so, she's walking up the stairs, and on reaching the floor, she walks to her table and sits at her place with the entire dream lit in dim yellow light. I don't feel good about her behavior where she either ignores or rebukes almost everything I say. As I observe the side-view of her sitting on her chair facing to the left after walking a few of those stairs and I stand in the middle, it's when the dream ends.

After my brief rest, I sat up and as I was thinking something, I saw:

A short-heighted person standing in front of the kitchen area in my room looking at me. He then morphs into Glory followed by several identical copies of him appearing around and behind him who all move together identically.

I sat thinking about something, I saw a close-up view of the face of Glory within a foot of my chin as he looked at me with his eyes turned up holding a spoon of sweet yellow rice in front of my mouth. Well, I remember, that's also why I once ended up eating French Fries because he was highlighting them to me in innovative ways. Before the yellow rice vision, he was putting in my mouth Suji Halwa that I saw being offered at the same shop online. What do all these visions mean!?

Earlier during the day as I was having tea with a bowl of tea snacks, I saw: Glory looking at me with wide-open filled eyes as he said in a taunting tone: Bas dekh liya maine tu kitna pyaar karti hai mujhse! Dekh liya maine to kitna pyaar karti hai mujhse!

Later in the evening, I felt like having Sweet Yellow rice - those offered in Gurudwara as I remember from my school time. Even then I saw the above vision of Glory repeat. Well, the shop wasn't delivering and after the vision, I felt bad. I then saw an omelette being highlighted to me. So I had that instead. And now I feel like having Aloo Puri Halwa.

Earlier during the day, when I was having my snack with tea, I heard one of the trio say to me: Sorry disgusting bi*ch! Sorry disgusting bi*ch! And I remember hearing it in my spirit as I reached the top of the stairs and was now opening the lock to the roof to get my clothes.

Which reminds me of what I had heard within the past few days in my spirit.

- (Past few days) You're disgusting! You're disgusting! What I understood by it was that perhaps they were disgusted by how I did certain things or how I ate.
- (Past few days) We can't believe this disgusting lady is so dear to us. We can't believe this disgusting lady is so dear to us.

When I was having my omelette as I also talked about why if you knew or noticed someone acting in a certain way to incite a reaction out of you actually nullified the effect of that person's attempt to get you to react in that way and put the pointer back to that person as the point in question wasn't what they were saying but what made them say that thing and what would they achieve by succeeding in making me feel the way they intended to. After I was done making my point, I saw: A blurry vision of Death Conqueror in the air looking down at me from near the ceiling inside my room as he said: She's the smartest girl I've ever met. She's the smartest girl I've ever met.

It's not called being smart. It's called being insightful. Why would one want to make others feel bad about themselves or try to get a specific reaction? Because a meaningful and sensible thing is to be real and speak the truth and not try to manufacture reactions from other people by framing different situations because manufactured behavior doesn't achieve good real results. It paves the way to a form of negative affectedness.

A while back, I went out to buy some things from the Dinesh Store and found a crowd there. When I was back to my room and was having the sweet curd I had got, I happened to notice that some of the people in the crowd looked similar to each other which reminded me of the vision I had after waking up in which I saw multiple identical copies of Glory standing in a crowd inside my room. But it also made me think how if there were a crowd of people standing similar in looks to Meera, then I would be searching through that crowd for my Meera, and when I would spot her as she would recognize me and look at me with a reciprocative look in her eyes, I would've hugged her smiling. At least, that's how things used to be back during BSc. Whenever we met, the first natural instinct was for us to give each other a heartfelt hug which reassured us of our love for each other. And we did it every time whenever we met or separated, and while separating, we at times used to end up hugging several times as we would be chatting and end up saying goodbyes multiple times either. Now we didn't feel physically attracted to each other but still, we had such a great bond. But the point that I wanted to make here was that even in a crowd of identical looking Meera's, I would search for my Meera, and my joy would find no bounds when I would've located her. Because that's the Meera whom I spent that quality time building a bond with that I didn't spend with any other copy there and then they all are different persons and I may never have a bond with them that's close to what I had with my Meera.

The lady sings:
Thinking you could live… without me.
Thinking you could live… without me.

And I was back from The Dinesh Store, suddenly I receive this impartation of how the trio is the chosen red and white gems of God from their high place that has few people with a heart that yearns for the truth. I see a small-framed vision of the trio dressed in red and white suits standing facing to the left and they stand out from the rest and are God's own chosen special people. Suddenly they have acquired a good and pure aura surrounding them in that dark background. And they seem purer than anyone else. This is the first time I witness my perception of them changing to this amount of likeness with the characters of the red and white trio from the song.

Well, I would like to share the following prayer video released by Adele for them to be baptized in the Holy Spirit. They just have to pray along with her as she speaks the words.

Prayer to be baptised in the Holy Spirit

As I was cooking the omelette followed by making tea later, I was also talking about how Akhila herself ruined her bond with me. It wasn't because of anything I did, but she began misbehaving and acting in deceitful ways as she would deny her own words, change the context and narrative falsely, and add lies to win the argument when the other person shared her grievances or the hurtful things she said or did. I then also looked at how I had begun to feel a whorish aura around her because of her acts of fornication and I added that that's how I also felt about Death Conqueror as I asked why were not married yet if they have been in a certain way as they only extend their duration of sin!? (Now, if God has chosen to continue to show them to lead them to His salvation and repentance, then that's a different thing.)

And I felt this statement come out of me strongly as I said it loud enough: What have you not married yet!?

As I said the same, I saw the upper half of Death Conqueror shout out in pain: Hate you…! That's not what I wanted to hear!

But I said it looking at their reality and it's better to marry than to continue in sin. Being a disciple of Jesus, that's what I am expected to say and it's the right thing to do. The words came out of me out of a righteous conviction. Why are they accepting what the world has accepted for themselves rejecting the right flow of the statutes of God that need to be absorbed in one's heart leading it to behave and feel in corresponding ways?

I then also said that though I've my own truth in my heart, but I felt convicted to speak out what I felt convicted to speak.

And as I wrote the previous sentence, I heard the song lyric play: Koi kaise samajh paye.. Kisi ke dil ka afsana..

And after I had the omelette and I sat in bed, I also said that if the trio said that they did what they did because they loved me, then I can and will also say that I did what I did here because I loved them. Their love has an element of flesh, but my love for them is superior because it's Godly and I want them to be saved and receive the Holy Spirit!

Dream 1:
I'm towards the end of my PhD, but apparently, I'm thinking of shifting to a different school. I carry a list on a register of the rooms that different classes are assigned to. So, 3rd, 4th, and 5th classes are assigned certain rooms that are around the beginning of the corridor of what looks like the class corridor to the left of the principal's office in the Junior wing of my school in my hometown, though the building doesn't resemble that school at large. Different groups of rooms are allotted to kindergarten classes and 6th, 7th, and 8th classes, and I have the list of their allotted rooms as well. I walk into the inquiry hall with a long metallic table lying along the length of the room in the center of the room. My dad and I talk to the lady sitting there and inquire together about getting admission in the class group of 3rd, 4th, and 5th as I show her my register. She's taking time to explain things well and not revealing things in a direct straightforward manner. There's a man present there as well who doesn't do the job well as he too is not revealing things properly to me. After a while of chatting with them, I seem to remember I've already done a Masters and am nearing the end of my PhD. As we're not receiving any direct answers from the man and he's only further complicating the argument, the lady comes to my rescue and says that she can talk to a Professor and ask if he'll allow me into his lab. It's when I recall that I've already done a Masters and am nearing the end of my PhD. She makes the call and asks me to go to his lab. When I recall that I am nearing the end of a PhD, I find it hard to believe that I came to get enrolled in 3rd, 4th, or 5th. And it doesn't seem to make any sense to me why I even thought about those classes. Moreover, I was carrying the list of the classes with me written on a register to inquire about the groups and I seemed too intent to get enrolled in one forgetting my real stance and it didn't seem to matter to me either.

So, when that lady makes the call and I remember my real stance, I feel good about getting to work with a Professor who is to supposedly aid me in the completion of my PhD and that I would be working at a challenging level putting my caliber to good use. I feel good about this suggestion of the lady and she made it without me saying anything. As I'm nearing a corridor towards the end of a hall on my way to go meet the Professor, I come across one of my friends sitting on a bench lying along a wall on the right side of the corridor and is crying relentlessly as a friend of hers sits on her right-hand side while her left side has space for one more person as the bench meets the wall on that side. I sit beside her and try to console her. Both of us are trying to soothe her down. I don't know that other guy who sits on the other side but I know the girl from a previous part of the dream when I was moving through the premises. It takes a good while for us to get her down to a normal state. Now that she has almost stopped crying, I am beginning to feel that I can now leave to go meet the Prof. As we all stand together to leave, me to meet the Prof and them to go their own way, I see a man appear in front of us as he came walking from the left side of the hall adjoining the corridor. He is a tall and wide, moustached man with a beige complexion with black unkempt hair. He is dressed in a beige shirt tucked inside pants but as soon as my eyes fell on him, he slid his head through a hole in the centre of a long wide strip of sackcloth. I find it weird. Why did he wear that sackcloth strip to hang on top of the middle of his chest? He asks me why hadn't I come to meet him yet (as it had been long since he had received the call). I figure that he's the Prof I was supposed to be meeting. I tell him that I got busy with my friend who was crying and needed me to be present with her. I leave the girl and the guy and follow the Prof to his lab. We enter a room with most of its furniture being metallic. There is a long metallic table one comes across as one enters the room. I follow him along its length at the end of which he takes a left turn and I follow him, and he sits in the corner at his seat and points me to my seat to his left in front of the metallic slab that extends out and through the entire length of the wall. He hands me a bunch of spinach to be chopped. But it's not to be done in the regular way but I've to learn to use quite complex machinery to chop it. In front of me, I see the cubical window of a metallic vertical instrument that reaches down from above. The window is made of a metallic frame constituted by pairs of thin solid cylindrical sticks pairs of which separated by 2-3 cms are present near each corner of the cube. I look at the cubical cavity of the scientific instrument in front of me and then I think of the spinach. I look to my left. I see a girl with a long face and her hair tied low at the back sitting together with a few other people. All of them are working with cornsticks as they are meticulously pulling out what looks like black spots from the yellow sticks using spatulas. I see that that's their project that they're working on. I need help in chopping the spinach using that instrument. So I'm looking around me sitting idle not being able to figure out the complex machine. The people to my left are busy with their meticulous corn project. I leave the room and now find myself in a different room with my friend Anjali. We're having a chat and I still need to learn to use that complex machinery to chop spinach.

While writing the dream above, it made me think of how we need to use complex coding and a machine to do basic things that aren't hard to do in principle. But when I think of the people sitting to my left, their task seemed much simpler to me as they were only pulling out undesirable black corn heads from the stick with a lot of focus and care.

Also, it made me compare the situation to the spiritual gift of praying in tongues given to believers by the Holy Spirit. Though the believer may not know the interpretation of what he's praying in the spirit, he knows that it is what he needs to pray as the Spirit prays the Will of God by default. The language of tongues is like an encoded prayer which only the spirit of God inside one knows the meaning of and the God in Heaven to whom the prayer is being made understands. What the one whose vocal mechanism is being used knows is that the spirit is praying the Will of God for him. So, he knows that he's chopping spinach or achieving the desired motive through the coded language which he doesn't have to work hard to learn as the spirit enables him to pray in the supernatural heavenly language.

The dream continued: When I'm with Anjali, I spot a silver metallic centipede that should be kept captive as it's bound to cause a problem if left out in the open. It needs to be imprisoned in its box. It has somehow gotten out of its box and is now moving around. This makes me cautious as I chase after it to catch it. It exits the room and now quickly crawls away into the open Verandah as I run after it while being afraid of it at the same time. When I enter the building across the Verandah, I've managed to finally catch it as I hold it with my fingers by its tail. As soon as I pick it up off the ground, its body begins to vibrate violently around its head. This scares me a bit, but I don't let go of my hold as it's after a lot of meticulous chasing that I got to finally catch it. I put it back inside its box. I still haven't chopped the spinach when I finally go back to my lab as I find my Prof sitting in the sink on the right corner of the wall beside the door as he is chopping other vegetables. I see carrots and some green vegetables lying near the sink. He is not happy with my progress as I tell him I haven't been able to chop spinach during that huge time period as I got busy with other important things. As I see him being unhappy about my slow progress, I now see the vision as a third person and apparently, I find another lady present in the room as well. That other lady who is now apparently me and whom I am looking at as a third person, suggests to the Prof for the lady who couldn't chop spinach that she could instead begin working in the field of Digimon which would be more suitable for her.

Dream 2:

In this dream, I'm in a room with my mom who is showing off her white cotton gown with a medium-sized blue floral print. She tells me that she had ordered it online recently. The gown reminds me of the lady in the apartment facing Room D4 of A-16 in Single Storey as she too wore a similar gown. My mom says that she bought it because it was long as she points to the ground, but when she walks away into the hall adjoining the room, I see her back view and notice that the gown is not actually full length but a foot or two above the ground. I wonder why she said what she did. On the other side of the room is a long and wide Verandah with cemented brick floor on the left far end of which is a corner with a tap where they perform some of their household chores. Apparently, they wash their dishes there as I see a woman sitting inside the small square corner space. Perhaps she's washing dishes. It reminds me of our first rented home in Cheema colony in which we had a corner square space with a tap at the left end of the cemented brick Verandah inside which Sharbati Aunty washed our dishes. That home had its kitchen sink built on the corner on the ground to the door's right. For some reason, they chose to build a few inches of floored depression in the floor in that corner to serve as the kitchen sink instead of extending the slab to that corner and building it at the same level as the slab.

When I began writing about this rented house of ours back in my hometown, I heard the following worship song lyrics play.

Masih Nidhaal Soedaar chalte dekha hai..
Bhadkti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai.

Washing a heap of dishes there at once caused a mess in that corner and we usually had a heap because we had to wait for Sharbati Aunty to come in the evening and do her job, so we didn't prefer to get our dishes washed there but shifted them to the open square space with the drawing room its left and the garden to its right. This home lay at the end of the Cheema colony, unlike the second home that we later shifted to in the same colony which was fully closed and was the first home one came across as one entered. Aunty would wash the dishes in that space between the room and the garden and leave them in the rack which we then shifted inside our kitchen after the utensils dried. I don't know why the owner had that square space built. Perhaps they built it to use it to tend to their garden which was a square grassy field with the boundaries having different plants and small trees. We sometimes used to play there. To the right of the garden was the landlord's home. The entire space was one huge structure behind a main entrance gate with two sections inside on either end. We had rented the 2BHK on the left end and the cemented Verandah was given to us as well. On the right end was the owner's side of the home with an open pathway between their home's wall and their garden. That corner half-walled space with a tap was also used by my mom for washing clothes at times when she didn't want to use the washroom as she found it better to keep the huge tub placed there instead of it crowding the bathroom. And the tub was used for multiple purposes: to draw water for washing dishes, to wash clothes, and at times to tend to the garden as well. It was an L-shaped 2BHK with that huge middle cement Verandah present in front of the rooms where we used to play.

The dream continued: I see myself moving back and forth between the corner space and the inside of the house. Perhaps I am communicating with the lady. Whenever I go there, I see the back of the lady sitting with vertically folded knees on the floor as she's busy with the chore. This reminds me of its similarity with the previous dream in which the Prof sat inside the sink itself with vertically folded knees that was present on the slab's corner itself as he was chopping vegetables lying outside of the sink. Anyway, as the dream continues, I now find myself in the room again and this time I see Death Conqueror lying on the single bed laid against the wall to the right of the door that leads into the hall. My mom comes walking into the room and this time she is dressed in a white gown with a fine red print. This is another cotton gown she seemed to have bought besides the blue and white one. Again, it reminds me of the lady from that apartment as I once spotted her dressed in a white gown with red polka dots. Death Conqueror tells my mom that he's going out to have tea with me as he gets up from the bed. Well, I've never interacted with him in real life, but in the dream, he seemed to be quite humble as he referred to the tea shop.

Yesterday, I was speaking out about how when I talk about doing the right thing, I am not talking about from a rigid and self-righteous point of view of right and wrong, but what I imply is the sense of right and wrong that one operates out of a natural willful heart state that is grounded in the right intuitive understanding of the same. For instance, if I'm nice to my mom and want to help her in some way, it's not strictly because I want to do the right thing that I want to do those things for her, or be those things to her, but it's because I love her which leads to me to naturally act in the right ways. So, there's no rigid sense of right and wrong involved here.

Yesterday night, the following lyrics from an anime my brother Himanshu used to love to watch back during my high school days were playing in my spirit.

The Guy sings:
Ye sach hoga, jalwe ka ab waqt aa hi chuka hai.
Ho sakta hai kisi bhi pal, Ye seena bam sa phat jaye.
Chalte raho..

Digimon Adventures ''HINDI Opening'' Official HD Version

The lyrics were playing this morning as well when I was making tea.

- The trio this time in pink suits hold a fat infant fully dressed in light pink anime clothes together with arms raised high towards the sky as the baby sits on tops of their palms with its hands raised up to God as it's laughing with its pointed teeth showing up. Apparently, the infant carries a wicked demonic expression as it's jumping around while sitting on their palms as it looks up at the sky.

After I explain how the Word of God contains the keys to the song of Heaven and that instead of asking why those specific keys were written, one was supposed to understand the song that God loves to which the keys correspond to, I see:
Sanjay Sir and Nivedita Ma'am

The chorus and one of the stanzas of the song plays again.
The Guy sings:
Jab chalakte hai jaam.. Leke dilbar ka naam
To rangeen hoti hai aur shaam..

Different parts of the song play in my spirit.

The Guy sings:
Jab piyoge ke jaise kehte hai hum
to mit jayenge saare dard aur gam..
Jab behek jayenge had se jyada kadam to sambhalega tumko tumhara sanam..

PEENE WALO SUNO (8D AUDIO) FULL SONG I PANKAJ UDHAS

During bathing
Before I began to bathe, I was shouting about how some people lived a whorish lifestyle and I went into bathing with an angry countenance. As I continued to bathe, I heard: She loves us. But she hates us too. She loves us. But she hates us too. It repeated a few times. I am itching at the back behind my bra cloth as that space has gained a lot of accumulated muck which I can feel by touching inside when I see the fat middle man from Single Storey say in a pitiful tone looking to the right: Ab isko itching ho rahi hai to ye kya kar sakti hai. The muck is present only at the part of the upper half that's always covered and keeps accumulating dirt and sweat and hasn't been scrubbed for several months leading to me to feel an itching sensation. I can literally feel an observably thick layer of muck which only keeps getting thicker.

Towards the end, as I'm dressed in a black legging below and have my towel wrapped above, and am about to step out of the washroom to get my thermal top, I see a tiny-framed vision of the fat middle man from Single Storey as he said: Phoot gayi. Phoot gayi. which makes me wonder if those are going to be their real thoughts.

Post Bathing

As I'm making tea, I hear a number of things.

- Let's make her a prisoner. Let's make her a prisoner. A prisoner of love.. Let's make her a prisoner.
- She was always this beautiful.

As I'm later sitting in my bed having tea and I am still in a bad mood, I hear:

- Kartika don't make such faces. (This reminds me of Aastha as she once was telling me to not make a sad and stressed face as she said: Kartika ab aisi shakal mat banao jaise tumhe injection lagne wala hai! I was perhaps not happy with something she had told me and so my countenance had fallen.) I hear again: Kartika don't make such faces. We're going to come and marry you right away. Kartika don't make such faces. We're going to come and marry you right away. The sentences repeat several times.
- Kiss her! Kiss her!

The lady sings:

Khushi ne hmari humein.. Maar dala..

- Let's make her a prisoner. A prisoner of love..
- She is smelling good. Another fellow says: I know. She smells good. She smells so fresh and good.

Added on a later day:

I see Mark Zuckerberg dressed in a light blue suit as he looks at me and says: This is all my fault. The vision is followed by him crying with his face in his hands in the center of my room as he says: This is all my fault. This is all my fault. Apparently, he's blaming himself for what happened to me because it began with Facebook. At least that's what I thought. Also, within the past 24 hours, I had come across this news article on my browser's home page with the heading that said that Mark Zuckerberg was apologizing to the entire world for something. I didn't open the news article but I do recall the associated picture which had only his face with its chin lifted a bit as he looked at the viewer with perched lips. I didn't open the article as I was in a hurry to do what I was up to. But I had this vision repeated several times.

Well, I was later thinking about this incident from the past few weeks when I first went to buy packaged juice from Dinesh Store and when I opened my phone to pay, instead of typing PhonePe which was in my mind as I had taken out the phone, I typed 'faces' as it was also what was highlighted in my spirit and without me realizing it, I ended up typing faces in the search bar instead of PhonePe. This told me that the prophetic symbol represented the faces of people. And now that I recall, it was KA's smiling stubbled face that I had seen in my spirit back in Room 303 of A-10.

Yeah. My ministry is all about calling the faces of people and the wide reach was made possible under the guise of this traumatic situation that I was put in and it all began with a friend request sent on *Face*book. And The Secret Place Revelations is a ministry that came into existence because of a promise made to me by God in mid-2021, the dream of the fulfillment of which was given to me during late 2021 and the confirmatory prophetic symbol was also given to me during late 2021 which is still there in the room D4 of A-16, Vijay Nagar, Single Storey.

The vision of the Facebook creator crying with his hands on his face repeated several times this late evening. And it repeated the following morning as well.

And as I was explaining a while back how God chose to minister to a rich man instead of a poor person whom He is known to show greater compassion towards shows that it also depends on the receptivity inside a person towards the word of God that He will release it for. He saw that the FB's creator needed validation as he was indeed blaming himself for real. So, He gave me that revelation. And He had the word 'Faces' highlighted to me in my spirit this certain night during the past month. My ministry which is based around the prophetic symbol, though it's about calling the faces of people, had me go through difficult abuse that led me into about an year long depressive phase that I spent mostly inside. Now I've begun to get out of that phase as my perception has changed which is to say I look at the situation as my working space which is supposed to be difficult as I'm a child of God and we are told that we will face adverse situation because of our faith in Jesus. Now, my situation arose because of a different reason, and it had me go through a traumatic experience, but the trauma and difficulty weren't the main takeaways but rather the fact that it calls the faces of people to God/Jesus was the main takeaway of the situation.

Netizens claim Mark Zuckerberg's 'I'm sorry' to grieving parents is just a performative apology (msn.com)

Note: This is not the article I saw on my browser's homepage but it talks about the same.

Also, I said how God had me write the revelation in conjunction with the prophetic symbol to impart healing to a rich man because his heart could receive the healing word of God. These other people that I come across, not all of them have a receptive heart for the word of God. God can speak a word about anyone who will receive it with an open heart. And He spoke the below for the trio.

- The right side parallel view of a naked woman sitting on the bed with her back leaning against the surface at the back as a naked infant lies on top of her right half with its head near her right breast.

As I was writing above how God chose to minister to the heart of a rich man about a mentally difficult situation he was facing as he blamed himself, I saw a small-framed vision of the face of Mark Zuckerberg looking at me with an affirmatory nod with a slight pitiful smile. And as I said later that parents are also responsible for teaching their children online boundaries and that FB has the option to make one's profile private and block people in case of the possibility of abuse, I heard a guy's voice in my spirit: That's what I wanted to hear.

Revelations from 2nd Feb 2024

Dream (Morning):

I see a lady who gets up, moves a bit around, and goes back to her coffin. She reminds me of the lady from the horror movie Veerana who laid in her grave and changed to a scary witch when she was out to kill people after which she would go back to her grave. The lady in the dream seems to be a dead woman walking as she keeps moving around while going back to her coffin. I too pass by the coffin but I am walking forward to enter into a class I am supposed to attend. As I locate the classroom and enter in, I find that the teacher isn't there. However, as I'm stepping out of the classroom, a man dressed half-naked in the saffron clothes of a Hindu priest comes walking in. He is dressed in a saffron dhoti and a long saffron stall around his neck and the top and the back of his head are shaven bald. I ignore him and walk past him, and exiting the room, I enter the large room with the lady's coffin as I see a brief small-framed top view of the room with the coffin lying at the front as people sit on wooden benches arranged in rows with a few meters distance between them. As I walk to the front, I spot the Pastor Emmanuel Morgan sitting on one of the front benches in the middle row. He is dressed in a black sweater and his hair too seem to be less around the front though that part of his head is covered with his front flocks combed sideways. In the dream, I seem to know that he's wearing a bracelet around his wrist. I check it out as I too am carrying with me a part belonging to a similar bracelet. His bracelet has two small bronze narrow leaves and has some words engraved on it. I take a look to read the words on his bracelet. After checking it out, as I walk back, I take a look at my own narrow bronze long structure similar to the one present on his bracelet and read the engraving. I feel happy to read the engraving that serves both as a description and a message for me.

Ab pachtayat hot kya jab chidiya chug gayi khet.

The below is a part of a dream. Perhaps it was a part of the above dream, but I'm not sure, though I remember it as a separate event.

Part of a dream:

I partake in a series of events and in one of them I am wearing Cateye glasses with wide and flat dark wooden rim. I click a picture of it and put it in its place. The follow-up part of the dream has me now sitting at my spot in my bed as my dad sits on my chair and inquires about the things lying on my table. He inquires about each one of them one by one as he asks about the price of each to make sure that I haven't bought expensive things that I don't need or can do without. He comes across a photo of mine which has my face looking up as I am wearing huge Cateye glasses with wide dark wooden rim. The photo was taken out in the open. He asks about the eyeglasses as well. I get a bit wary as I remember in the dream that they were too expensive. I quickly explain to him the truth that I only bought them to click a picture and return.

- (Past 24 hours) During my flow of sleep, I woke up with a lady's thin voice speaking the following in my head: Divorce ke liye teen bhai taiyaar kar rahi hu! I fell back into sleep after a while.
- (Past 48 hours) HRX stands dressed in a suit facing to the right as he looks at the viewer and extending a red rose with a wide reach of thin silver branches with leaves, says: You're my heroine. The vision repeats a few times.

Post waking Up

The top right close-up view of one of my upper eyelids that are shown to be consisting of thin beige curved wooden sticks with white dots at their ends. They seem to be the curved sticks of a hard bamboo broom.

As I sit in bed, I see a teary-eyed sobbing KA dressed in a loose shirt untucked over pants as he stands to the left of RS dressed in a sweater with multi-colored stripes as he says to the teary-eyed KA with his face turned to his direction: Kuch time mein ye sab kuch bhoolne waali hai.
The vision repeats a few times as KA stands silently beside him sobbing with teary eyes.
As I was editing the above, I saw: a huge face of KA says looking at me with a bit of broken superior smile:
Murakh, tujhe pta nhi hai. Tu apni maut ka samaan likh rahi hai.

- A locked stainless steel lock with a long handle as the vision zooms in on its main body on which is then found written 'Stoned'.
- Glory stands outside in the corridor facing in the direction of my room with a bouquet of colorful flowers wrapped in a beige base in his left hand and a small hand in his right hand. He extends the bouquet towards the viewer as he says: Ye le tera bouquet followed by him asking me to shoot using that gun. The vision repeats a few times.

As I'm done wrapping my black and white muffler around my head and am now tucking the loose ends inside my coat, I see the upper half of Death Conqueror near the ceiling in the kitchen area looking down at me as he says: That's what I was expecting!

On my way to the dept, I heard the phrase repeat: Prof TRS is waiting. Prof TRS is waiting. I heard it repeat incessantly for a while.

In dept

While working I see a small-framed vision of the upper half of Sanjay Sir dressed in a half-jacket over a tunic set as he sits behind a table with the background of a plain wall, and says in a quiet and serious tone and unblinking eyes pointing forward in my direction: This is what I want. This is what I want. It repeats a few times as I'm working.
As I wrote the above, I saw: Death Conqueror crying out with a disturbed expression as he moves a bit backwards: Nahi aisa nhi ho sakta! Nahi aisa nhi ho sakta!

As I continue to work in the dept, I hear my supervisor shout: I love you Kartika.! I love you Kartika..! It makes me think if she's happy that I am now doing data analysis exclusively with full focus.

Around 3:15 pm, I go to meet my supervisor. As I'm now further ahead with her in our discussion, I see the upper half of Death Conqueror looking down at me from about a meter above me on my left side as he says with a slight smile: Mein bahut bura hu. Mein bahut bura hu, Kartika. And the vision repeats a few times. It doesn't make sense to me as to why I was receiving that vision as I was with my supervisor.

As I step down on the first floor, I spot three PhD students from the lab nearby whom I know facially and I know the name of one of them as well. I have a soft and loving heart for them and I remember the revelations I had about more than a year back when I was still coming to the dept and was staying in A-16.

Later in the evening, as I continue to work, Shagun comes into the lab and I ask her if she was leaving, as it was already dark. She told me she wasn't. As she leaves the room, I see a small-framed vision of the upper half of Sanjay Sir in the same setting as the previous vision as he says quietly with an annoyed countenance: She's disgusting! The repeats again.

I sense a male's voice in my spirit saying as a blurry face resembling Death Conqueror's is flashed in my spirit: I wish I was at your level. I wish I was at your level.

It repeats for a while in my spirit. And as I am writing a mail to my supervisor, I hear: Ise lagta hai ki ye sab karne se mein isse shaadi karlunga! Ise lagta hai ki ye sab karne se mein isse shaadi karlunga!

But I'm not sure who this fellow is and if he's referring to me, then I don't know what he is referring to that I'm doing. Because I wasn't writing a mail or doing my work to impress anyone but because I wanted to bring my degree to completion.

This past vision from my time in A-16 when I was once walking on the roof has also been being highlighted to me for some days. In this vision, I saw my head being represented by a translucent golden face the top of which bifurcated open in two halves as the golden Holy Spirit poured into my head from above.

Glory shouts in a loud stuffed voice: Kartika sorry that I did this to you! Kartika sorry that I did this to you!

As I step out of the lift of the MSB, I see the upper half of a translucent Death Conqueror as he hits the top of my head with a danda followed by: Phod dala.. Phod dala..

Past Revelations

- (Past three months) As the three naked men from the prophetic trio stand together, I push the two men besides Death Conqueror away to one side as they seem more likely to turn to God and I push them far apart from him against a wall. I think it was around the same time that I had bought the pendants that I had this vision. Perhaps a week or so before that. I can recall from one of the visions in which Death Conquerors stood near the ceiling dressed in a striped sky blue full-sleeved top as he said looking and pointing down at me: I will abuse you alone. I will abuse you alone. So, in that vision, I was vigorously pushing away the other two naked men away from him.

Ye hasi tujhe bahut mehengi padegi. (It seems like Glory is giving me this creepy threat.)

- (Past two or three months) RK stands dressed in a beige Sherwani dressed like a groom on the right side of a shorter lady as a short, lean and thin guy comes bicycling from behind and takes the lady away with him on his bicycle as he quickly rides away in the left direction.

  The Guy sings:

  Aaja lagja gale se mere tha karke.
  Tha tha karke. Tha tha kar ke.
  Saari duniya se ishq bayan karke.
  Tha tha karke. Tha tha karke.
- (Past two or three months) A small-framed vision of Death Conqueror giving a high-five sideways to another person on the left in a dark background as he says: Yes. She's breathing!
- (Past two months) The upper half of a lightly stubbled Edward dressed in a light pink fitting cotton t-shirt as he says: We're all joined together. We're all joined together with you. What I understood from this revelation was that he was saying that they were all joined together and in support of me. Back in those days, the revelation of the trio of being the red and white prophetic trio hadn't yet been revealed.
- (Past month) A semi-animated small-framed vision of RK standing out in the open in daylight in the background of trees as he pours down fuel on top of his head from a can and is now about to set himself ablaze.

  As I wrote the above, I heard: Bas yhi sun ne ki kami thi, as I saw Death Conqueror turn his back to the viewer and walk forward. Sorry that we did this to you.
- (Past month) Karan Johar dressed in a shiny all-black suit says: Kartika why do you love so deeply? Kartika, why do you love so deeply? The vision repeats a few times.
- (Past two weeks) The word LIVING in maroon with a translucent boundary moves around something wavily in a dark background. This morning when a girl came to Dinesh Store and asked for a Livon in a weird tone, it made me recall the vision.
- (Past two weeks) As I'm working sitting at the corner seat in the dept this day, I see a tiny-framed vision of Prof TRS dressed in a brown t-shirt tucked inside pants as he takes a few steps backward and says: She's going to die soon.
- (Past few days) I see a few long and thick photo albums resembling the ones present at my home as they stand in line together. The vision then zooms in to the right-most lavender-colored album which then opens up on its own. Inside it are shown to be present photos of a naked woman with her open hair falling at the back standing in front of an almost empty showcase resembling that of the drawing room of our rented home on Rugha Saini's first floor back in my hometown. The lady stands with a short and naked thin beige man held in her arms in some of them while in others he's lying on the floor. As the pages flip, all the photos are revealed to be of a similar kind with no specific obscene details visible in the pictures but both being shown as having the same beige-colored tone. The vision came as quite a surprise to me. The next day when I heard the Amma walk up to my room and say: Apni photos le le. It reminded me of this vision that I had the previous day and then it made sense to me.

On my way to my room in a Rickshaw,
I am listening to the following worship song and trying to learn it.

Darlene Zschech - My Jesus, I Love Thee | Official Live Video

Afterwards, as I lay down to rest, I have the following revelations.

- The right side bottom view of Darlene Zschech in her look from the above song but hair partitioned in the middle as blood oozes out of her head at the middle top of her forehead.
- The bottom view of the upper half of the singer dressed in a shiny black sweater the same as mine.

As I am writing revelations, I hear: Agar vo tujhe apni shakal dikha dega, to mar jayega! Agar vo tujhe apni shakal dikha dega, to mar jayega. It repeats for a while.

Bye.. says Death Conqueror quietly as he says: I shouldn't have done this to her.

Other revelations from the day

- The trio shouts: We love you.. We love you..
- We've to and kiss her. We've to go and kiss her.
- Glory says: Tu mujhe marne wali hai.

Early morning
Dream 1:
I am lying inside a white quilt out on the floor of what looks like the open shared backside Verandah of our rented first-floor apartment at Ruhga Saini's. I feel myself taking turns, changing sides and I sense a few people inside with me but I'm half asleep in the dream as I move about my position and they hug me intimately. It seems as if I'm changing sides and turning around inside the quilt with them. When I wake up from my sleep in the dream, I find my brothers Divyanshu and Himanshu inside as I see Divyanshu below between my legs inserting a pencil by an inch or two inside my vagina and taking it out with a smile on his face as he's retracting backwards after which he stands to the left. It's the dark of the night lit dimly yet contrastingly clear by the moonlight. My brothers are shown as shorter but have faces resembling their adult faces. I look at Himanshu who's lying at a comfortable distance to my right and complain to him about what Divyanshu just did. But he begins to manipulate and justify something that's entirely unrelated to the incident. After completing his argument, he shakes hands with Divyanshu. Though Himanshu didn't do anything like Divyanshu did and I can see that his attitude is different from Divyanshu's as well, I think about how he shouldn't have supported Divyanshu.

The follow-up scene has me still on the unusually large open moonlit balcony where I then find myself with a man dressed in a white tunic standing together with a shrt-heighted lean and thin lady with neck-length frizzy hair as I have a brief chat with them. After a while of them leaving, as I stand in front of the covered part of the Verandah with the windowed wall, I'm facing the open part of the Verandah in front of me with the couple visible standing together at the right edge of a roof a few buildings across. I look to my left and see the trio dressed in white tunics gather at the right end of the higher rooftop by a floor or two of the adjacent building. They seem well composed with a moral countenance as they stand together and are having a chat. I don't know though why they gathered there. Their personalities emanate a sense of morality, down-to-earth humility, simplicity, and emotional safety. I look at the couple again and they seem to emanate a prideful aura.

The follow-up vision zooms in on the couple I was previously chatting with and they are shown standing facing me turned slightly in the other direction with the guy standing behind the lady. It is now seen clearly that the frizzy-haired lady is dressed in a sleeveless light sky-blue cotton top that reveals the shape of her tiny nipples over her flat chest. The vision zooms in on the lady's upper half as the man lightly runs his hand from top to bottom over her flat chest and nipples. This act repeats a few times. It seems that the duo is a committed couple with no sense of unfaithfulness sensed, and they like to stand together apart from the crowd in their committed zone.

The follow-up part of the dream now shows them inside a room where I see the bottom view of the guy's face lying on his front beside a couch with him being injured with his white tunic stained with blood at places and the lady hitting the guy with a huge meat cleaver knife as he's trying to evade her but he's already injured enough. Her countenance is entirely different from the way she seemed when I had interacted with her and even from the time when she was standing with the guy on the roof with him running his hand over her chest. Though she is much shorter in height than the guy and is quite lean and thin, she's still shown as being vicious enough to overpower the innocent guy who looks miserably helpless while she carries the vicious expression of a wicked and evil demon. It's not shown what led to a change in her countenance later.

The dream then shifts to the preparatory time right before the wedding rituals as well-dressed people are seen present inside the building. The upper half of the dressed up and adorned bride in embroidered red is shown with few other people present beside her. She's perhaps in her room. In the wedding scenario, one can sense a sense of purity as a voice says that the bride heard songs inside her spirit and felt how the groom was feeling at a certain moment (and that that's how they were connected and brought together). The vision then shows the groom dressed in a beige sherwani with a beige stall striped in light gold and red around his shoulder sitting with his friends at a different place before the wedding. Perhaps it was the same building. Without a break, the voice continues saying that the groom heard nudges from the bride and felt her heart. So they were connected and brought together by their inner connection in the spirit. So, this part of the dream is high in godly purity as the bride and the groom await their union.

The groom then receives a call and when he picks it up, the vision now shows the inside of a telephone booth with grey walls as the man in a white tunic stained in blood at places abruptly comes into the vision from the right and hits the wall on the booth's left end as he seems to have been thrown in that direction. He is holding the old-fashioned wired white telephone by his left ear. It's quite apparent that he barely managed to make that call. He says in a stuffed and fearful voice: Bhaiya! (Name of the lady) ne mujhe maar dala! And he's barely finished the sentence when the short lady who has him nailed to the wall with one hand hits his left shoulder with the meat cleaver thereby resting it on top of it with the other hand while she's looking at her with clenched teeth and it's when the dream ends.

Dream 2:

I now find myself on the backside open Verandah of the house again and this time I see a gathering of people in front of me on a lower-leveled floor on my right side. Though I am standing in the dark of the night on the back Verandah, the gathering is well-lit and I see some people I know from Yeshu Bhawan Church down there. I spot the Pastor's son and a few other people. When I later come across the gathering again, I notice the Pastor's son crying in deep pain, almost as if he's mourning something. I learn that the girl he had been seeing for a while has left him leaving him in this stage. And as the narrative is spoken, the girl is shown and I see that she is much fairer than him and dressed in a white cotton lingerie top with two V-shaped cups and a white short skirt as she's sitting on a surface with her black straight hair with an outward curve falling at the back. It makes me wonder that being a Pastor's son, how could he be with such an immoral girl in the first place who doesn't even know how to dress holy? She's clearly a worldly person with a worldly attitude. I go down into the gathering and afterwards exit through the door on the left of the wall on the side opposite to where I had entered through. I take a right into a street and enter into a room on the right side of it. I find some people I don't seem to know as I look at the top view of them having fruits together served on a plate.

When I go back to the church room well-lit in white, I come across the Pastor's son again. He's standing with a group and they're talking about the change of name of their church. I ask him about his condition and when he looks at me to reply, he stands facing me with stoicity and rigidness on his face which makes me think what was it that I did wrong? He replies with the word Ganan. Apparently, that's the new name of their church. He says it with a mean and distant expression on his face. He says again: Ganan. The word makes me think of the Hindu god Ganesha but then I also know that the word stands for the act of counting and therefore could carry a greater underlying meaning, for instance, counting the harvest of people of God in these last days. He then says that previously the name used to be …. And the name that he says is a combination of multiple words that refers to an act which perhaps referred to the act of sleeping. This makes me think of the Hindu god shiva as he's known for sleeping all the time. Again, I think why are they naming their church in words that can be misunderstood within the context of false gods of Hinduism? (Ganan and Hum Sote Rehte). As I'm struck a bit confused and am thinking about the same, it's when I wake up.

The bust clean-up

A small-framed vision of my upper half standing facing to the right as the man with frizzy Sherlock Holmes hair begins to scrub the space between my breasts with my loofah as I look at the scene as a third person. Apparently, he felt pity for me as I stay mostly unclean and never am able to clean the bust area properly because of which I faced severe itching one night for an appreciable amount of time. He foams and scrubs the center space followed by him dropping a light kiss at my right nipple as he looks briefly at it and begins to scrub it as well. It is followed by him soaping with the loofa on the sides and the back strip – the places that never get cleaned. In this way, my bust gets cleaned in this vision.

There was supposed to be a noon prayer meeting as was announced but when I went there, I found the church closed. So, I went to their home on the second floor right in front of the church building to inquire if they would be holding the meeting. Their son answered the doorbell and told me that it was cancelled and people didn't show up either, and his parents were anyway out to visit a funeral. This reminds me of the dream I had the morning of the previous day in which I saw the Pastor sitting silently on one of the front benches of the middle row dressed in a black sweater with a coffin lying a few meters ahead of him.

On my way back from the church, as the E-Rickshaw stops at the left corner across the crossroad in front of the flyover or Metro track (I'm not sure), I have a sudden iteration of KA's name begin in my spirit at the place of my heart. I hear in my spirit: Kartik Aaryan. Kartik Aaryan. Kartik Aaryan. Kartik Aaryan Kartik Aaryan Kartik Aaryan. And it seems as if the spirit began iterating the name in my heart. The iteration seems to resemble an involuntary prayer and the iteration continues intensely for a while and I take it as holding him in prayer.

When I've entered the double-storey area, I hear: She's going to make us cry. She's going to make us cry, dude. She's going to make us cry.

Late Evening
I sit with my eyes closed as I sing My Jesus I Love Thee and then I see my upper half with the face of Darlene Zschech as the person sits leaning against the wall and singing with her eyes closed with the cross pendant in her neck.

Around 10 pm, I felt a nudge to have tea and when I got what seemed like a final deciding nudge to have the same, the song Peene Waalo Suno by Pankaj Udhas began playing in my spirit and it continued playing intermittently while I was making tea and even when I was having it.

As I wrote the above, I saw the blurry face of Death Conqueror up above a meter or two below the ceiling as he looked down at me and said: Sorry that we did this to you. Sorry that we did this to you.

Semi-animated visions

- Kian Egans with neck-length wavy hair slides water down towards the viewer from over an open metallic slab in the background of the open sky.
- The upper half of Kian Egans dressed in a caramel leather jacket over a neck-high fitting black t-shirt as he stands below the open sky and looks at the viewer with shining skyblue diamonds in his eyes.

- The upper half of a lady on the right side of the vision under a blue sky where she's dressed in a multilayered white satin attire with a layer crossing over her left shoulder like the folded drape of a saree, but it's not a saree. It is followed by RS appearing on top of a white horse on the left side of the vision under the sky blue sky and the lady is no longer there. He is dressed in a multilayered full-length white attire that resembles a frock as he draws out a sword with his left hand. The vision of him drawing out his sword now repeats from a distance revealing his full figure on top of the horse.
- The front view of Akhila standing dressed in a long beige overcoat resembling mine in size and texture with her hair tied low at the back as a door's latch resembling the inner latch of my room's mesh door locks itself in at the place of her waist on top of her coat. She is dressed in a load of clothes inside giving her a bulky outer look.

The scene from the movie Alice in Wonderland in which a giant Alice moved through a corridor was highlighted to me in the spirit within the past few months.

【Giantess Growth 巨大娘 / 女巨人】Alice in Wonderland - 2010 (4K Remaster)

Morning
The X-Ray vision of a thick bone severed with two parallel breakages with each piece separated by a cm or so from the adjacent part and the middle part of the bone being

During church

- The face of Pastor until his shoulders in my red coat with a white printed cloth running around his head and below his neck.
- We're disgusting Kartika. We know. We're disgusting Kartika. We know.
  And I heard the above after returning from church as well.

Later during the day, I come across the following video on my browser's home page and I watch it DP's part out of curiosity for her words.
Deepika Padukone I Sriram Raghavan I The Writers' Room I Atika Farooqui Now Showing | Watch (msn.com)

After I've watched, I see DP in her attire from the video shout as she bends towards the viewer while sitting on a chair: Kartika I love you…!

Now that I read the above revelation while editing this page, I recall one of the previous revelations from the past week in which I saw DP dressed in full-length printed yellow sitting on a surface as she looked and said waving a hand repeatedly from top to bottom towards RS who stood at some distance to her: How did a girl like you fall for someone like him!? How did a girl like you fall for someone like him!?

He's laughing Kartika!

The vision of DP asking me that question was repeating in my Spirit for a few days. Well, this made me think why would she not look at or is bypassing the good moral characterful qualities of her own husband as if they're regular qualities!? Because if she did look at or acknowledge them, she wouldn't have asked me this question.

Now there're more moral or righteous people in the world, people who take pleasure in doing the right thing, but I received revelations about a few, and the ones I received revelations about are the ones called by God.

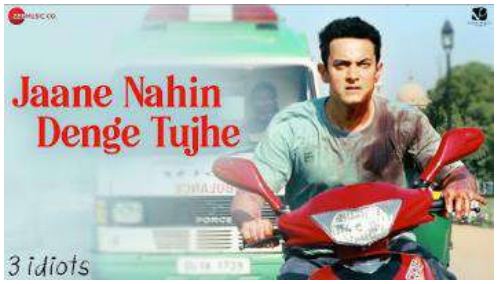
The Guy sings:
Jaane nahin.. Denge tujhe..
Jaane tujhe.. Denge nahin..

Vision: The parallel view of two feet standing on the window frame - the scene from 3 Idiots in which Raaju stood on the window frame in the Dean's room to jump down and attempt suicide. These lyrics were playing strongly in my brain and they have been highlighted to me some months back as well. This song revelation along with the vision was the one that kept blinking and getting highlighted to me and I was nudged to get up and record.

Jaane Nahin Denge Tujhe - 3 Idiots | Aamir Khan, Madhavan, Sharman J, Kareena K|Sonu Nigam, Shantanu



Before the above song revelation, I had the following revelations.

- As I take a turn to the other side facing the wall, I see the face of Indira Gandhi with her frizzy blob of black and grey hair lying with her hand below her head in a manner similar to I was lying in bed.
- A clean-shaven Amir Khan dressed in a white navy uniform as he stands in front of a door with white walls beside him and looks at the viewer and gestures by removing his cap and bending forward by a bit.
- As I further change my posture uncovering my face to get some air, I see a vision of the face of AR Rehman peeking out of my quilt in the same way as mine as he emulates my expression.

And then the song began to play in my spirit accompanied by the vision of the feet on the window frame.

Earlier in the morning, I felt the pressure to pee. And I felt as if I was already sitting on a commode. I wasn't sure though. So I peed a bit to check if I was really at the right place to pee. I was in a state in which I couldn't really tell where I was and neither did I know what I was doing. I couldn't even control my body. So, I decided to pee a bit more as my pressure was only increasing and I needed to pee urgently. As I peed more, I felt wetness around my trousers and this woke me up, and I came back to reality and I went to pee. I changed clothes and when I laid back down to sleep, I saw:

- The face of the dusky guy in black who was waving to someone being present on the inner right side of Dinesh Store when I once went there to buy something. I saw him crying as a stream of tears flowed down from the inner corners of his eyes. The vision was followed by tears of blood flowing down from the inner corners of his eyes as his face got down to my level and began dropping kisses on my lips.
- I also saw the face of Death Conqueror with narrower streams of bloody tears flowing down from the inner corners of his eyes.

I fell asleep after a while.

The Guy sings:
Chahe tujhko rab bulale..
Hum na rab se darne wale..
Raah mein dat ke khade hai hum..

These lyrics from the song I posted above have been repeating since I began hearing this song.

Dream (Morning):
In this dream, I am in an experimental lab. It is a long room with the experimental slab protruding out along the entire length of the wall. I put my bag and other stuff on it. I see a guy sitting at the other end of the wall. He's a tall and muscular man dressed heavily in fluffed clothes but in the dream, I feel a certain aversion from him because he's not moral. I can feel the tension between us as I am trying to stay away from him as much as possible. He seems to emanate a wicked aura. I am working on an experiment that I've to complete but I also have the worrisome thought of the possibility of me bearing a child with Death Conqueror at the same time. During the time that I am in the lab, I feel safe to some extent because then I don't have to bear a child with the short fellow. It concerns me to think of bearing a child with a man who prefers to be with multiple women and for whom it's a lifestyle. I am scared at the thought of getting close to such a man because I see the mental hurt in store for me. It's not what I want for me as the mental and emotional pain scares me. And therefore the thought that's dwelling in my mind is causing me anxiety.

I then get to know about a fire that's spreading outside as some people rush into my room and inform me of the situation. When I go to take a look outside, I see that it's night, and in front of me, I see long rows of several joined dark rooms running from left to right. All dark rooms are the same-sized with a square window. I see a fire spreading through the rows from one to another in a line and I see it consuming one room after another. I figure that I need to leave before the fire reaches my lab. I see it going from one room to another burning everything inside and it spreads quickly. I turn back and begin to pack my stuff that's lying around. I have my laptop bag with me with one more bag. And in this dream, apparently, I'm carrying several little things with me that I quickly pack in my bags. As I stand in front of the slab packing stuff and am almost done, I move to the left of the room with the glass pane of windows and see a pigeon come flying.

When I look down, I see the ground of the area outside the lab through the open glass window, as Akhila comes walking to me and informs me about her doing some things with Death Conqueror. I find her appearance quite unexpected. I don't reply to her or give her a reaction, and after she has spoken, she leaves.

(I'm sorry, Kartika. I'll have to leave you. You're extremely stupid.)

The dream continued:

I wonder why she came and cared to inform me what she was doing with someone. Did that person speak a word of commitment to me that I should be looking for it to stay intact when she comes and informs me that he has broken the word? None of it happened. I wasn't given any concrete statement about anything but I formed an understanding based on what I saw in revelations and how they correlated with the real wordless scenarios. And if she is already doing those things, why does she care to let me know? Shouldn't she be worried about him being committed to her in such a case instead of informing me about whatever they're doing? It makes me question that when was it that a clear bold proclamation was made to me about anything. And even if there had to be a bond, there needs to be a knowledge of the nature of that other person and quality time spent with them. And I didn't have a full understanding of the situation either! So, how could she consider me to be an important person to be told what she was telling me if neither did I spend interactive time with the person, and nor did I get to know his nature within an exclusive isolated intimate space, implying that I didn't have the basis that's supposed to be there for a concrete bond. The only bond I have is because of God's given revelations which in the absence of real matching behavior would be categorized as wishful thinking. But it's His spoken Word over them so it is destined to achieve what it is supposed to achieve. So, in the dream, I am thinking about how I don't really have a substantiated mutual bond with Death Conqueror that's based on agreeing values because he doesn't implement moral reasoning the way I do. And therefore Akhila's coming to me and letting me know about that thing doesn't make any sense to me. I am in no mutually agreed commitment that I need to know anything about what people are doing. If anything, I will correct them by giving them the Word of God.

I then find myself in a class that I am supposed to attend. It's filled with students. There are three rows of long benches in the room in front of the wide board. I see the English teacher sitting on one of the first few benches of the rightmost row of the class. The teacher is a female dressed in a tunic set. She is beige complexioned and has a stained face with marks. She has short curly hair and is wearing round globes as earrings. The globes have narrow, short, and shiny colorful rectangular vertical stripes. I observe her persona. She's quite a colorful person. She's interacting with me smilingly as she explains some details of the class. I don't know why is she sitting in one of the bench rows meant for students. I look at my two bags filled with those several little things. I look down at the open white cloth shoulder bag, and I see it has all kinds of things of daily use that I had chosen to carry along. I see my red Kajal stick lying on top of the heap. And there are other little things. I question the need for those things in a class and I recall my reasoning of abruptly needing any one of those little things at any time. But why should I carry all that stuff with me in a lab or a classroom?

Post Waking Up

As I'm getting out of bed, I hear: Let's make you live. And as I heard the sentence, the dream I had received this morning was highlighted to me.

- The upper half of the Dusky waving guy in black from Dinesh Store in a dark background as his forehead gets hit by a danda breaking his skull in half in the middle as it separates a bit away revealing his brain inside.
- The upper half of Death Conqueror with his forearms missing in a dark background as he's trying to clap his hands.

  The second reminded me of this revelation that I had while working in the dept in which I heard someone say that my forearms need to be severed, and the voice repeated a few times as I sat working.

The former vision reminded me of the severe incessant hits I experienced on my head while sitting late evening in my dept on last to last Friday (26th Jan). Lately, I've been receiving several visions of hits on my head, some of which were given by my dad, and others by Death Conqueror as he hit the side of my head brutally. It seemed as if he was trying to sever the top cap of my skull. I saw it once yesterday as well.

Not By Your Own Strength

The Bride dressed in her yellow tracksuit with a few black stripes from Kill Bill is fighting the crazy 88 dressed in black suits inside the hall from the movie, all of them carrying their swords.

Kill Bill Vol. 1 - The Whole Bloody Fight Scene

The right side of her waist gets injured by the sword of one of the men. She continues to fight. She gives them a good fight but she's not fighting as cleanly as she fought in the actual movie scene and keeps getting hit by their swords. She receives more blows and is down on the floor with several cuts on her body and the men hovering over her with their swords which she's resisting with her sword. Suddenly there's a glow of white light around her and it pushes the men away and she's back to standing on the ground fully healed with no sign of cuts and blood on her body. and this time she's not fighting them with her strength or skilled swordplay, but she's shooting the white darts of the spirit at them that pushes them away. Even if she gets injured again, she quickly gets healed again. She then moves upwards while facing down as spiritual darts shoot out of her at the men keeping them away from her. (Bas mein ghar aa raha hu, Kartika.) I can see that she's no longer operating in her strength but is relying on the spirit inside her. It is clear that she can't fight those men with her own strength as she keeps getting injured by their swords. So, she has given up on relying on her own strength but operates out of the spirit.

After I was done writing the above, I heard the lady sing:
Na to bal se.. Na shakti se..
Par teri atma ke dwara..

Na to bal se.. Na shakti se..
Par teri atma ke dwara..

Past revelations
(past two days)

- The front view of a black figure of a man with a white skeleton frame visible as he stands in front of a bike leaning against it with his black featureless face turned to the left with the fire flames present at the top of his head.
- Shawn from Yeshu ke Geet dressed in an all-black full-sleeved attire with a skeleton printed on his upper half as he moves in dance moves in front of the viewer with his arms extended forward and forearms lifted vertically up with forefingers pointing up out of his folded fist.

Later in the evening, I am talking about how once I happened to make a melody. It was during my RGHG hostel days in MSc and I used to play that small keyboard often. It was before I slipped into a more depressed state. I had begun to get uneasy in my head and was becoming more and more confused about things. Nothing around me made sense to me. One way I could think of during those days to help myself was to get a keyboard, even if it was small. It was a second-hand keyboard that I had found online on a Buy and Sell website and was put up for sale by someone in Delhi. When I went to get the keyboard, as I talked to the lady, I found out that it had belonged to her child who no longer played with it. 2 of its keys weren't working either. It was useless for them. The lady was a lawyer on an year's sabbatical. I had a brief chat with her and got it for me. Getting a keyboard was the only way I could think to get myself out of state. Though it was later that I finally went for counselling and found the help I needed, in Aastha.

The face of Aastha facing to the left as she bursts out crying followed by the lyrics beginning to play:
Thinking you could leave without me.. Thinking you could live without me..

Found you when your heart was broke..
I filled your cup until it overflowed..
Took it so far, to keep you close..
I was afraid to leave you on your own..

The song continues playing..

Coming back to the melody, as I was fiddling with the keyboard this certain night, I happened to create a melody. And then I happened to notice that it was the night before the birthday of a certain person who taught us in BSc. So, it only made sense to me to devote that melody to that teacher as a birthday gift.

Hum ghar jaa rahe hai, Kartika. (This has been repeating for some time at times when I speak something.)

As I was talking about how it was the night before the birthday of that teacher that I happened to create that melody, I saw the face of Sumit Sir looking at me with squinched eyes and a wide, pressed smile as he lightly nodded his head vertically.

Kartika, everyone is laughing! As the administrative room of my dept is highlighted with several people present inside with the back of a man in an off-white shirt untucked over pants being the center of the vision as he walks sideways to the left in the space between the two rows of tables along the sides with a hand raised above his head.

Kartika, he's laughing!

And as I wrote the fact of me creating that melody a night before, and was later recalling that the next day was the birthday of our teacher, I saw the side view of Sumit Sir holding my face as he quickly drops a kiss on my forehead and then looks briefly down at my lips but refrains and stepping away and slaps my cheek tightly which throws me on the floor as he looks down at me and says: Who told you to be this smart!?

And at the mention of Aastha above, I began talking about how she was a great psychologist. I found her great. I don't think I could've found a better one. And then I was recalling how once when I went to see her for a session after a long break, perhaps an year, she asked me that though I had been having problems all the way long, why was it that I chose to come see her then and not earlier? And I remember explaining to her the situation that served as the breaking straw to make me see her. And she also asked me about how I felt about the long break, and I told her that though I hadn't been in touch with her, I didn't feel away from her either. That I carried her with me in my mind (and heart), and I never felt as if she was away or not with me regardless of how she may have felt.

Kartika, she's laughing!

And a while back, I was also talking about how I didn't want to contact her because I didn't want to load her with the happenings of the past few years. But rather if anything, I only wanted to tell her about the good things, the kingdom of God, and how I actually saw Jesus for real. And I knew that she would indeed ask me about how things have been, and because I wouldn't want to lie, I would be stuck in a situation of having to talk about the recent years which I didn't want to. I didn't want to load her with the difficulties I had been facing. So, that thought had been stopping me from contacting her. After I had spoken about the same, I saw:

A smiling Akhila with filled eyes standing to my right with her hair open at the back, as she grows in size with a red love heart in front of her upper half. Her face then changes to Aastha who is smiling at me with a huge red love heart. The follow-up vision has Aastha by the right side of my bed as she looks up at me with filled loving eyes and says that she's healed now.

After I spoke about how my intent to not want to talk about my problems with Aastha was stopping me from contacting her, I also saw:
Prof TRS dressed in a brown shirt tucked inside pants takes a few steps forward and stands a few meters on my right side. My supervisor appears who too stops beside him after taking a few steps. The vision then has an entire crowd standing together as they all look smiling at me.

Also, above as I was writing about wanting to share only good things with Aastha, I heard a light voice in my spirit that said to me: You've the background. You've the background Kartika that he can never match.

Na To Bal Se Na Shakti Se (Official Video) - Shawn & Shanon | Worship Songs 2023 | Yeshu Ke Geet

Dream:

In this dream, as I'm moving to the left on a road, I spot an airplane floating in the sky some distance ahead to my right above the open field. It has a grassy top as it carries a piece of Earth's surface with its buildings and people. The grassy top covers the entire top surface of the airplane. The sight reminds me of the land of Animaria floating in the sky in Power Rangers Wild Force, as the airplane too has a part of Earth's life lifted up and placed on top of it as a sheet, while the land of Animaria was a piece that lifted up from its place long back in time leaving a cavity that was filled with water. I see the airplane move parallelly to the right as it crashes down to the ground with that part of the Earth as well. As it does so, I can tell that it's going to blast with a long-range impact. So, I rush to the building at the end of the road and everyone seems to be in a hurry to get to the other side.

As the dream progresses, I come across an airplane again with a grassy piece of land covering its top.

Dream with Romilla

I am in the small bedroom of our rented home in Cheema colony - the first house on the right in the colony. I am sitting on the bed as I look in front where I see Romilla (Tejaswi's Ex) dressed in a full-sleeved navy blue tunic finely striped in widely separated silver sparkling lines standing at the right side of the short open TV trolley as she's bent on it doing a chore with her back towards me. She tells me that she's back with Tejaswi. But it confuses me because I remember seeing the thumbnail of his photo in my list of people blocked on FB in which he was posing with his wife beside him who was shorter than him. Now, Romilla is a tall woman. And I also remember from what Meera told me about Tejaswi that he liked long hair and wanted a woman shorter than him. What Romilla has just told me makes me wonder how is her getting back with Tejaswi even possible because he is already married and she is a good and loyal person and nowhere like him. I want to clear things up with her as I speak out that he wanted someone shorter with long hair at which instant I hear the brief sharp-pitched giggle that I've become used to hearing from one of the drones hovering above me and I wonder how does what I said count as something amusing.

Post waking Up

- As I lie in bed, I see the side-view of a semi-animated muscular naked upper half until the shoulders of Death Conqueror with semi-animated eyes and short straight hair lying on top of a woman.
- He nails my shoulders to the bed pushing me down. I can feel an internal downward push exerted by the drones.
- The drones exert an internal push downwards at a few other points as well though I'm only resting and not resisting. While I lie, I have these visions of me being nailed to the bed as the man is kissing me intermittently and moving on top of me.

Afternoon

I sit in my bed and I'm feeling quite downcast. A while back I had just spoken out my understanding of the reason my prostitute website was made. I said that it was because the fellows saw that I stayed away from and looked down at those who indulged in loveless fornication without a sense of commitment. And if that's what made me not want to interact with a lot of people as I saw their acts repulsive and meaningless, they would rather make me a prostitute. After I spoke this out, I became suddenly downcast in heart. I went upstairs to spread my clothes in sunlight and when I shifted my denims to the other side of the wire, I heard one of the trio say to Death Conqueror: She'll never come to you. She'll never come to you.

When I went downstairs and was sitting in bed with a blatant expression of my inner state, I had a small tear rile up around the outer corner of my left eye and then I saw: a small diamond present at that corner of the eye. As I continued sitting with closed eyes, I couldn't stop myself from tearing up and then I saw: a small-framed vision of white diamonds flowing down from my eyes. I also saw an intermittent thin flow of muddy tears that came from my eyes alongside the diamonds. Perhaps it showed that a great part of my tears were precious while a little bit could've been shed because of selfish reasons. As I sat weeping lightly, I heard a man's voice with Glory's face highlighted: Kartika magarmach ke aansu bahana band karo. Kartika magarmach ke aansu bahana band karo. But I had my validation from the revelation of diamonds flowing down from my eyes. So, his words were neutralized and I wasn't hurt. Though after a while, he was saying that indeed I was crying for real after observing me for long.

After I had almost stopped crying, I saw a small-framed vision of me standing inside my room with a diamond stone present at the place of my heart of the size of my heart which could be seen through my red polka dotted dress. I then see the side-view of the dusky guy in black from The Dinesh Store, who has often been represented as being one of the trio, as he stood against the wall facing me. I then placed the diamond on top of the left palm of his outstretched left forearm. He put it on the floor and hitting it hardly with a hammer, broke it into smaller pieces as they scattered on the floor. The vision repeated several times. I placed the heart-sized diamond stone on top of his palm as he put it on the floor and hammered it down. The follow-up vision had now me putting brown shit on his palm, but this time he moved his arm to his mouth and ate shit without a hint of aversion. This vision too repeated a few times.

As I continued sitting in bed, I saw:

- I see the top right view of Glory dressed in a black t-shirt sitting on the floor with vertically folded knees beside my bed as his hands are full of folded money notes of different values that he's shoving to me on bed as he says: Ye le! Sone ka kya legi!? As he continues to do so, he is now shoving Indian coins as well in my direction. He then calls me his Biwi as the follow-up vision shows him lying on top of me on my bed having intercourse while being fully dressed.

Somewhere during the day, I also see: A small-framed vision of the upper half of Akhila dressed in an off-white half-sleeved, loose t-shirt with her hair tied low at the back in a black background as she said sobbing to me: I'm your servant, Kartika. I'm your servant, Kartika. As I saw the vision, I wondered what made her so humble wherein she herself is saying that she is my servant and why should she be servant in the first place. I then thought if this was God's spoken order as previously when I was staying with her in room D1 of A-16, I once referred to her as Hagar who was Sarah's servant and who conceived Abraham a child as Sarah hadn't yet been able to conceive the promised child. Also, I had this sunscreen with Sarah written on it that I had recently bought from the Salon nearby. Hagar bore Sarah Abraham's firstborn, Ishmael, before Sarah conceived her promised son Isaac.

I didn't feel happy about the vision. Now if she had said it with joy instead of sobbing, even that wouldn't have made me feel good. Because she's supposed and called to be a holy woman of God before anyone's servant. And she doesn't need to be anyone's servant either.

Well, after putting clothes to dry on the roof, I thought about how the vision made me feel. I saw that I didn't really want anyone as a servant. Why should anyone feel that they're someone's inferior servant? God gave a free will to everyone. Each person possesses their individual free will which renders them capable of love. And that's the level that everyone stands on the same level at. No one's free will in its absolute spiritual form is more superior than another's and all are to be subject to the authority of God and while we are flesh, we should honor His order as well.

Earlier during the day:
A small-framed vision of the dusky guy in black from The Dinesh Store as he walks to the left in a curved manner with his face turned to the left as he looks at someone present in that direction and says: Vo mar gayi. Vo mar gayi. It is followed by a light: Uske husband ne use maar diya. The vision repeats a few times during the day.

(Past 48 hours) Raju from 3 Idiots stands with his red tunic opened sideways in two halves as a huge red love heart present inside covering almost his entire upper half beats moving out of its place.

After I wake up, I have the following song play in my spirit.

The lady sings:
From this moment on.. Life has begun..
From this moment.. You're the one..

Right beside you.. is where I belong..
From this moment on..

You're reason I believe in love..
And you're the answer to my prayers from up above..

All we need is just the two of us..
My dreams came true.. Because of you..

From this moment on.. As long as I live..
I will love you.. I promise you this..

And the song continues playing as I lie in bed. After thanking God for this new day and praying a bit, I am about to get out of bed when I hear: Hold on. So, I continue resting for a bit more and remembering His works that He did for me when I was in A-16. I was recalling them the day before yesterday – when I had seen clouds arrange themselves in front of the moon and this incident when I saw a heart-shaped cavity in the clouds in the sky. So, I reminded myself to remember what He did in those days.

Also, I heard the guy sing the following from the Mela song intermittently as well.
The Guy sings:
Lab kuch na kahe to accha hai..
Ye chup hi rahe to accha hai..

I also heard the Guy sing the follwing from the 3 Idiots' song:
Jaane nahi.. Denge tujhe..
Jaane tujhe.. Denge nahi..

I got up, washed face, and got back to writing revelations when the following lyrics kept catching my attention as they played in my spirit.

The lady sings:
You're the reason I believe in love..

This specific line kept emerging boldly and clearly in my spirit as I sat writing.

The lady sings:
You're the reason I believe in love..
And you're the answer to my prayers from up above..

Yesterday, though I became sad later during the day, I was looking at how despite the situation, the trio wasn't supposed to stay in the character of Dushman but they were in fact the trio in red and white, and that came from God. I had loved the song Tumhare Siva when I first heard or saw it as a part of the movie as I found it pure. And whatever your heart admires is an unspoken prayer you make that God looks at and acknowledges. So, I could look at the current situation with all the people I received revelations about as those pure precepts in my mind coming to life in the real world which always comes with some deviation from the ideal case. It's not that I was praying those things, situations or the character in people, but my heart admired them as I saw the underlying purity and I didn't want to deviate from my perception of what ought to be character wise ideal as that's what I related with and wanted to continue ahead in time with. I would rather not break those ideal precepts in my mind instead of allowing people who don't act in those ideal ways and break them. But for the past few days, I've been looking at how God brings to life something that we may at first see as grievously imperfect, but at times it's His answer to what our hearts had desired or wanted, and He makes that thing perfect and desirable through correction and grace.

And as I was writing the above, the following song lyric also played in my spirit.
Toota jo kabhi tara..

This made me recall how I used to perceive Death Conqueror before I witnessed his ugly in character lifestyle. He used to seem to me like one of the stars of the field (of Physics). And that's why God gave that song revelation to me with him wherein a tiny star broke from the dark blue night sky and entered my mouth as I sat on the ground like the guy in the thumbnail. I had sent Walter Lewin a friend request as well because he too was a star of the field, though he had already reached the maximum friend limit. So though I don't recall if I made it into his list, I wanted to befriend him as well. But he lost respect after I saw how he operated in his personal life. But now, as I wrote once previously as well, I don't look at him disrespectfully or with the hatred that I was filled with when I found out how promiscuous and emotionally abusive he could be with women. Yeah, so previously, I used to look up at Death Conqueror because I didn't know who he was or how he thought or operated in his life, but I was only looking at.. Well, the following was highlighted to me as I went into thinking. It is a memory of a photo I had come across on FB in which he posed with the Indian-origin Nobel Laureate as he stood like a righteous man beside him. As I wrote this part, I heard: Prof PDG is laughing. Prof PDG is laughing. as a vision of him laughing lightly flashed in my spirit. I don't remember his name but he was a bald and dusky guy who had shifted to the field of Biology from Chemistry.

Somewhere while writing above, I saw:
The trio standing side by side in a line with the dusky man in black from The Dinesh Store standing in the middle as they all stood sobbing silently with teary eyes.

I also heard the guy sing:
Ha lut gaye.. Ha lut gaye..
Ha lut gaye hum teri mohabbat mein..

Now, why should any guy feel this way when I being in this situation don't feel this way? Though I felt robbed or looted at times back in the past as I thought I lost everything I gave value to, I stopped feeling so as I walked into a greater truth as I received more revelations, be it related to people, or God's perspective, His vantage point, or His spoken work about people and situations. I stopped feeling that way because God kept healing me and instilled me with a sense of purpose as He made it known that the situation was preordained, or the people were pre-called by Him. Also, I'm now more grounded in the reality of me being a child of God who is seated in her heavenly place with Jesus.

Ephesians 2:6 (King James Version)
6 And hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus:

From <https://www.biblegateway.com/passage/?search=Ephesians%202:6&version=KJV>

I don't look at myself only as a woman, or that's not a strong part of my reality for me. It's the spiritual reality that stands at the forefront of how I have learnt to perceive things with time as I received more revelations. And I also remember the somatic revelation that I had one afternoon on the roof of A-16 in which I perceived myself a non-physical entity looking at the inner fleshly walls of my body as it hit against it trying to be free but it couldn't just get out of it. That day, I somatically experienced the body as a prison. I had gone inside the flesh of my face and the non-physical me was hitting against it and I saw that though I was nonphysical, yet I was trapped inside a physical body and I just couldn't get out. That gave me a base of being grounded in reality. So the only most important loss you can count on Earth is when your spirit when it finally is freed from your body doesn't get to go back to its Creator. And I'm so grateful for that revelation that afternoon that led me to experience myself as that nonphysical entity trapped inside my body. And that's also the frame of reference of God. that's what He looks at first and that's why He gives us immense grace in our walk as He leads us to His ways. It's because He knows that the spirit is captured by the flesh which is the root cause of the entire humanity's sin problem.

Yesterday, as I went upstairs to check the status of the rope, though I was in a sad state, as I reached the door, I was thinking how I must have been bringing some kind of joy or relief to the trio who sent cameras, and how I could hear sounds most of the times that implies the presence of people at most times. And who would want to look at someone at all times? Where does that strong drive come from? And then I perceived in them the inner purity of wanting to find a connection that drove these people to do what they did, and then I looked at if that's why God told me to never tell them that I didn't love them. Because, this certain day, He told me to tell them that I loved them and that I was never to say that I didn't. This made me think a bit. And then I've also been looking at how

Somewhere in the middle, I saw: Jesus hand a mug of tea in my hand. I'm yet to make it.

And as I was making tea, I happened to think how the emotionally abusive act of making the prostitute website in a way also served as a cover-up for one's vulnerable inner self as it takes the focus to what is being done away from the underlying heart-state.

I woke up from the following dream and began writing the above.

Dream 1:
I am sitting on a slab inside a room reading a large rectangular book and holding a knife in my hand as well. Apparently, as I am reading the book, I'm taking some of the green herbal paste on the knife's tip, and applying it on top of my strong pp. I seem to be needing the herbal paste. As I read, I put some of the paste on my strong pp as well.

I walk across the room and exit through the door on the right corner of the wall. It's a wide green field outside and I am free to run away from the house at the back. I've to find others whom I know are already there as I run and speed float along the surface. After moving about a km or more, I find a group of youngsters crowded at the left corner of the field. Some of them are sitting on a long metallic bench, others stand interacting with each other. I spot a guy dressed in an orange top and shorts as well. A guy performs a trick seemingly to catch attention. But it all seems boring to me and the crowd seems to be serving no good purpose.

Dream 2:
I'm back inside the room and it looks more congested than before. I know how hard I work to keep the home organized and clean as no one else is working to maintain the same. They only work to quickly make a mess and dirty things. My dad is present inside the room and he puts down my work at home. My mom has a similar countenance. In place of the door through which I had exited into the field is now a wide slab that's made a bed upon and on the left of which is a wooden shelf structure on the wall ending with a table below. Some clothes are lying on the table needing to be organized. Neither of my parents understands the importance of maintaining a clean and well-organized home and they insult and put me down if I bring it up. I don't feel good about having wasted a lot of my time cleaning and organizing the home when the people around don't resonate with it. So this time as I stand in front of the shelf and fiddle with some of the clothes folding them right, I don't feel good about doing so because I know it's all in vain. I leave the clothes as they are and turn and walk away.

As I reach the other end of the room and look to my left, I see a door at the wall's end going further into the house. That part of the house is dark. I am aware of the presence of a translucent black guy with some supernatural abilities on the right end of the dark part of the house as the dream had been focusing on him intermittently. Apparently, he's almost asleep. I fear him waking up. As I stand facing the door some meters ahead of me, I am filled with fear as I think about the creepy guy come walking right in front of the door from the right. And what if he spots me? How'll he react? The thought scares me as I stand there and wait for him to come into my view now anytime and it's when I wake up.

After waking up, I sit in my bed and have the following revelations.

The order of the revelations don't match the one in which I had them but I've written most of what I can recall from the time I sat.

- I see the upper halves of dusky fellow in black from The Dinesh Store and Death Conqueror standing together on my right side as they look down at me with unblinking wide open eyes and say: We can't kill her. She's too smart. And now she loves us too. The vision repeats as the duo looks down at me with extreme focus and unblinking eyes.

- I feel an inner push inside my head to the left side as I sit with my eyes closed. And even if I try to open my eyes, I'm not able to keep them open for they close by themselves. As I sit there with light blows and gasps of air around me, I hear:
  We're soothing you, We're soothing you.

  I then feel my thumbs resting down involuntarily as I sit with my hands clenched together on my belly. I also feel a downward push inside my hands, almost as if something is present inside and pushing them down.
  They're controlling you, Kartika. They're controlling you, Kartika.

  (After I wrote the above paragraph, I was observing my fingers by touching them and thinking if the drones were even present inside my hands, making me feel that push, and then the following song lyric played in my spirit.
  Oh you're in my veins.. And I cannot get you out..)

  Along with the downward push, I saw a vision of hands going down to my groin and touching the insides. It was almost as if the drones were leading me to sin against my body. The vision repeats a few times.

  (Gwaar mein tujhe marne aa raha hu! A blurry upper half of Glory says the prior looking in my direction from the corridor as he's dressed in a black half-sleeved t-shirt.)

And I also felt something pinch the inside of my left upper arm that made me abruptly jerk.

The dusky guy in black from The Dinesh Store strips down quickly as he says: I've to go meet her. I've to go meet her. The vision repeats a few times. He then strips down even a layer of his flesh revealing his inner tissue all over on his skin which leaves his face featureless and unable to be identified.

A small face of the dusky guy in black in front of my open groin as he stretches upwards my inner lobes and looks at the center with unblinking wide open eyes. The vision repeats a few times. He then extends out his tongue and gives a lick to my strong pp.

The trio puts a ring each on my ring finger together one after the other. The three rings morph into one longer spiral ring with three turns with white beaded fronts with an unnoticeable slant as the trio together touch the ring and slide it together onto the lady's finger.

The following song lyrics begin to play in my spirit.

Param pavitra triya parmeshwar.
Param pavitra triya parmeshwar, Aa..
Aa Prabhu Aaiye..

Param pavitra triya parmeshwar.
Param pavitra triya parmeshwar, Aa..
Aa Prabhu Aaiye..

Param Pavitra

The dusky guy in black still continued to watch the strong pp with unblinking eyes wide open. The follow-up vision has him leave with a careless sway of hand as he exclaims: Gwaar!

Tell her to lose weight. Tell her to lose weight. I see the dusky man in black from The Dinesh Store say the prior to Death Conqueror, to which he replies with the fact that for me to be able to do so, they would have to retract the cameras. The vision repeats as the dusky guy repeats the statement and the other fellow repeats the reasoning which is true because that's the reason I stopped bathing and working out as well for I became depressed. And now I find it extremely difficult to even get up from bed, let alone workout after which one needs to take a bath. The cameras would need to be retracted to restore the normal way I function which involves working out as well for it leaves me feeling refreshed. And now, with the better understanding that I've gained, a slim and thin body also leads one to look holier in a greater variety of clothes for a bulky body only keeps getting highlighted through clothes like protrusions of ginger. While a thin body is plain and will look holier in the same type of clothes. That was my second motivation to be thin - to look holy. The first motivation was the delivery of my marital promise.

- I then see a small-framed vision of a beige tall lady dressed in a black printed lingerie set standing in a very dim golden background with no object or person around. The lady has black shoulder-length hair and looks extremely slim, almost malnutritioned, wherein her belly has an inward concave curve. She stands on a light brown flat surface as the vision expands and the trio is shown to be lying on their fronts on the ground in front of her as they look up at her with their heads lifted up. Perhaps they also have their palms joined in front of their heads as they seem to be in a worshipping pose.

(Kartika, Khyati is laughing!
Khushi ne hmari humein.. Maar dala.. Maar dala..)

Somewhere in the morning, I also saw the following:
Gurde ka rog written in thick Hindi blue font on a lined white page.

Later as I am having tea with snacks, I hear: We can see through you, Kartika. Don't try to act one way or the other. We can see through you.

After I'm done with the tea, I have the small-framed vision of the extremely slim tall and beige lady in a printed black lingerie set with shoulder-length straight hair repeat as she's standing in a dim-golden background while moving her body slowly around her static position, making poses and the trio lays down in front of her looking up at her with their heads turned up. Because the vision was repeating with a strong intensity, I sat to write the revelations I had during the time after I woke up.

After I was done writing the above.

Bhai tu phas gaya. Bhai tu phas gaya. The fat middle man stands inside the ground hall of his house and says to Glory looking inwards.

Well, I don't want to get a thin body to stand dressed in a lingerie and give different poses as if it's a defining trait of mine. And I don't want people to feel that way either wherein they worship someone because of their stature or shape.

Afterwards, I see the upper half of Glory in a black t-shirt as he's looking back at the last year and thinking: Thank God she didn't lose weight. And as I wrote the above, I saw: the upper half of Death

Conqueror behind me in a white tunic as he looks down at me and gives a silent painful shout with a painful expression.

Aaja lagja gale se mere tha karke..
Tha tha karke.. Tha tha karke..

15:22
While on Roof:

- We made that website and you thought that we love you!? We made that website and you thought that we love you!?
- I'm talking about how in a vision I if I was a few inches high in front of the giant throne of Jesus, then others who came beside me were a few cms in height in comparison. One of them was my supervisor. I then thought about the relative height of Prof TRS as he is observably much higher in morality than the rest. And then I saw him standing beside us dressed in a brown shirt tucked inside pants and he was shown to be between 1 to 2 meters in height in front of the throne of Jesus. It made me look at how he was quite extroverted in godly affection while I only extended it to my near and dear ones. And also, he had a strong heart for God and righteousness from the beginning though he wasn't worshipping the one true most-high God.
- I am also recalling my time with Meera wherein I used to be in a different reality than the usual mundane reality of the world. As I am walking on the roof and feel the breeze, I recall how Meera and I spent quality time together in similar situations. We would stand or sit in a solitary place with few distractions and would revel in each other's presence. And we knew the right way to think and we saw that it was above the world's mundane reality. We could see how the majority of people thought and we saw how our thoughts were far more superior than theirs. Now, this is not to praise ourselves, but we could clearly observe the difference if a third person walked in and interacted with us. It was almost as if we were existing in a different reality which consisted of having the right perception by a great extent if not fully for we didn't know God personally back during those days. As I imagined myself and Meera standing together by the roof's railing, suddenly the view of how everything looked when we were together was brought back to my mind. And then I saw the bottom view of I and Meera standing tall together with God with her dressed in a full-sleeved yellow tunic.
- And later as the song lyrics came to my mouth: You're the reason I believe in love.. And you're the answer to my prayers from up above.. I tend to sing them and then I think if they refer to Meera, because I can look back at my time spent with her in a mutually loving bond and how we used to think and treat each other during those days. So, our bond exemplified to a great extent what real love was. So, I had a real human reference that I could look back to and judge and weigh properly. So, I'm speaking out about how the lyrics remind me of Meera because she's the one with whom I spent real time exchanging ideas and thoughts and our individual different perceptions that our minds were strongly grounded in. And then I see a smiling face of Meera with filled eyes with her hair falling at the back.
  God is the main reason we believe in Love because He is Love by definition. But, to find a similar way of bonding with another human when one didn't even know God for real can serve as an example for oneself that one can look up to.

- When I am back inside my room, I also later recall how our bond was based on adoration and (healthy) praise. This makes me think that our bond was indeed godly because we have a bond of praise with God. We praise God and love Him with all our heart. We adored each other's good qualities and strengths. Our bond had several godly traits.

Past Revelations

- Meera and her husband stand at the opposite ends of the vision as they both are turned slightly towards each other and look backwards. They are dressed in their attire from the photo Anjali shared with me in which Meera was wrapped in a thick drape over a long embroidered skirt and her husband was dressed in a blue suit with a white shirt inside.
- I come across a news article on my browser's home page that shows the faces of Priyanka Chopra and her husband Nick Jonas as they pose for a photo together. And it reminds me of how Bhuvan and Meera used to look together as they clicked their photos and shared in the group that had just the three of us. So I exclaim that that was how Bhuvan and Meera looked together, following which I hear: Bhuvan is laughing! Bhuvan is laughing!

Glory dressed in a black t-shirt shouts with a bent upper half in my direction: Tu bahut sunder hai! Tu bahut sunder hai!

The vision repeats. Well, to me, he looks beautiful. If I am rugged doormat, he's a smooth mug rest placed on the table. (He looks much better than me.)

I, dressed in my attire from the day with my shiny black sweater on top, walk to the dusky guy in black inside my hand with my phone in my hand as I show it to him and ask him if I could buy a certain sweater. That sweater that I want to buy in the vision is similar to the one that I am wearing, with a shiny black woollen texture, but has a high neck with a fold. The vision repeats again.

Night

Death Conqueror moves backwards as the weight of the truth pushes him away. It is followed by the vision of him lying on the ground along with the other two with a huge rock with Truth written on it lying on their upper halves.

- I say: We don't need rich monsters around. No one desires rich monsters around. And I see a small-framed vision of Death Conqueror dressed in a mustard tunic set with a embroidered half jacket shouting a stuffed Sorry while crying bending his upper half.

Raju from 3 Idiots is getting broken by the Truth rock. So, the song lyrics play.

The Guy sings:
Jaane nahin.. Denge tujhe..
Jaane tujhe.. Denge nahin..

- A small-framed vision of the trio burning in the fire as they jump frantically around their places.

  Jaane nahin.. Denge tujhe..
  Jaane tujhe.. Denge nahin..

  Jaane nahin.. Denge tujhe..
  Jaane tujhe.. Denge nahin..

  Earlier during the day:
  ****

- (Morning) The bottom view of Death Conqueror looking down at me as he says in an annoyed tone with an annoyed expression: Yahi din dikhane ke liye se sab kiya tha!? Yahi din dikhane ke liye ye sab kiya tha!?
- (Morning) The dusky guy in black from the Dinesh Store sucks the inside of my groin as he later says: Juicy!
  After I wrote the above, I heard in my spirit the song lyrics: Bang Bang. He shot me down, Bang Bang. I hit the ground, Bang Bang.
- (Morning) A broken half-brick comes at my forehead through the air. The vision repeated a few times.
- (Afternoon)Tu phootne waali hai. Tu phootne waali hai. As I sense a danda on the top of my head.
- (Afternoon) I am washing dishes when I say how the trio were smart people, but they lacked transcendental or spiritual perspective that is out of the world and that they needed to grow into the same. As I complete making the statement, I see: the face of Death Conqueror behind me as he shouts: Thank you..!
- (Afternoon) We can't live without you..
- (Evening) I see Glory dressed in a black t-shirt in my room as he shouts at me: K*tiya vo tujhse sach mein pyaar karte hai. And the vision and the voice repeated.

- The upper half of Death Conqueror in my left parallel vision as he says pointing to me: She's extremely beautiful. She's extremely beautiful.

- The bottom view of Death Conqueror as he looks down at me and says with a sway of hand in my direction:
  You're the most unloved wife of this Earth. You're the most unloved wife of this Earth.

- My supervisor says: We're all with you, Kartika. It is followed by all of them appearing with their hands joined together in the vision.

Dream 1:
I am moving on the road of the junior wing of my school in my hometown at the back of a cycle that my dad is riding. I'm moving towards the road that exits into the market T-point. We pass by the school. I don't recall seeing the college some distance to the right. But what I do see in the dream is a muscle-building center after riding some distance ahead to the right. After we've passed by it, I ask my dad to stop the bicycle so I could go take a look at the board. Somehow, I seem to be interested in the muscle-building center and therefore make him stop to seek more information. I quickly walk back to the center on the other side of the road to my left and take a closer look before returning to my dad.

Dream 2:
I'm inside a house and am in the midst of a sword fight that I know I must do as it's a part of spiritual warfare. I am equipped and ready with my sword as I resist some people. The dream fast forward and now is shown a folded grey cotton cloth with small holes in it. I then see the upper half of Brother Marcus speaking about some things as the folded grey cloth with holes is highlighted. Most of the people around don't want me to fight effectively which can only be done in isolation when I don't have anyone watching me. This makes me think of how I feel I am always lacking solitude with God to some extent because of the presence of cameras. A small square window is kept window through which outsiders can look in. I look out through the window and see a corridor covered by cream walls and pillars, lit with natural daylight. The window needs to be closed but police personnel have been assigned to make sure it stays open. I'm aware of the presence of police arranged outside the house to keep a check and have the window always open for some reason. I need to close the window without being noticed by the police present outside. The follow-up part of the dream shows a policeman come walking inside the house as another policeman complains to him saying that that's how these people continue all the time (Dekho! Sara time aise hi lage rehte hai!). The vision then shifts to the upper halves of two moustached policemen crawling together on the floor as one of them is leading the other to the window to close it. One is dressed in a white Police uniform and the other in a navy blue police uniform with a similar Police topi on top. The duo have come to a halt as they're now caught approaching the window and as the vision focuses on their static state, the dream ends.

I get a nudge to have Daal Churma. So I order it and have the same from the only place that offers it.

I receive the order and brush first when I hear: I was expecting her to eat without brushing. I wasn't expecting her to brush. With the upper half of Death Conqueror being flashed as he said so. And it repeats intermittently. Well. My mouth was too dirty. And I couldn't have tolerated a dirtier mouth. I would rather go without eating than make it more dirty.

I also hear: She's much smarter than she shows herself to be. She's much more smarter than she looks.

This repeats as well.

I bless the food and pray over it for it to impart strength to each cell of my body so I am able to quickly do my work afterwards. And as I do so, I see myself speedily moving around my room doing one thing after another. After having it, when I am walking upstairs to cardigan if it has dried, I notice that I am speeding up the stairs energetically involuntarily and it has been after long that I've found myself in such a state. And when I am almost done washing dishes and cleaning the small kitchen area, I see the upper half of KA dressed in a white tunic as he says: that's what I wanted.

- The front right view of the dusky guy in black from The Dinesh Store leaning against the washroom's right wall facing the commode as I stand in front of him and am wrapping a white towel around his waist. This reminds me of the previous vision in which I had seen a hand wrap white towels around the waists of the three men in red and white suits covering their erect genitalia out of their red pants. In this vision, however, the guy is naked and I see myself wrapping a white towel tightly around his waist covering his erection and thereby straightening it down through the pressure of the tight wrap.

- As I completed writing the previous sentence, I saw Glory dressed in his grey sleeveless top with a cap on his head doing a light bhangra with his forearms raised up with forefingers pointing up with a tensed expression with an open mouth that clearly shows dismay. As he is dancing in this way, he says: Ab ise maaru nahi to aur kya karu.

- I also saw the face of the dusky man in black comes closer to me as he holds my face and begins to kiss me.

The previous vision continued: I am dressed fully in the same clothes that I'm wearing - the long red dress polka-dotted in white with a shiny black sweater on top and a full black legging down. Following this, I lean closer to his face as the vision shows a close-up view of my face as seen by him. I am looking into his eyes as I tell him that he can resist it as he stands still with his hands resting still and straight beside him. He keeps standing in that posture and his struggle is evident as he is lightly shivering while staying still. I keep looking in his eyes standing up close to him. I can be seen stopping myself from having his mental state emulated in my own mind as I can be seen resisting kissing him while trying to help him and I manage to do so. Now it's not out of a fleshly sense that I felt like kissing him but because I felt a deep sense of love and I didn't want to express it in a way that can take a fleshly turn or pave the way for the mind to want to sin. He ejaculates inside the wrap itself through that straightened genitalia inside as I continue to stand in front of him looking at him. In this way, he has managed to resist acting upon his physical state and has successfully fared through a difficult situation.

As I completed the vision by finally writing about my attire, I saw

- The face of Glory as he says with a mouth wide open: That's what I wanted to hear.

- Charu stands at the door of her apartment as she says looking in my direction: That's what we wanted to hear.

During bathing:

- As I lift the hair mask container, the fat and bald middle man says: Accha. Itne zaroori hai baal tere liye! As I continue, he says: Mat dekh isko! Mat dekh isko! It repeats after a while.

- Bhulana bhi nahi ata.. It repeats after a while.

- As I am later washing the few clothes, and after scrubbing once along the boundary decide that it needs to be soaped and scrubbed again, he says: Ye perfect hai!

- Mitana bhi jaruri tha. It repeats again while making tea later. I also hear: Lachaar sahinta. Lachaar sahinta. As it repeats a few times in my spirit.

- The blurred upper half of a lady dressed soberly in a checkered orange Saree looks to the right as she's telling her husband that if there's a problem, they'll keep me in their home. She reminds me of the lady in the checkered orange Saree from the dream Dream regarding difficult times ahead in my life on Page 53. Towards the end of that dream, I was sitting between a couple on a chair on a balcony as I said: Barbaadi. Barbaadi ki itni badi sazaa. Chala gaya chhod kar. as the vision shifted to the top right side of the dream to the partial view of a wooden chair held up in the air by two steel chains.

- The fat and bald middle and his wife stand inside the small front hall as the wife says in a scared tone: Ye humein marne aa rahi hai. Ye humein marne aa rahi hai.

Night

I'm recalling how Glory was from the MSc batch one year junior to me as that's the year I remember seeing him entering the DSKL hall. I am then recalling how I once sat with him on one of the front seats on the right row of the hall. I asked him if someone was sitting there. I wanted to sit at the front. Perhaps it was the class of Stat Mech. I am not sure. But I recall using a similar Notebook because I had two notebooks of the same kind one of which I used for Stat Mech.

As I was writing the above, I saw: the upper half of Death Conqueror in a white tunic at my right side some distance above my shoulder as he was looking ahead and sobbing.

I was lagging in making notes and had frequent doubts as I would miss the words spoken by the teacher while writing. But he was quite quick with everything. And I kept referring to his notes and asking him a few things here and there. I couldn't have thought back then that God would promise him to me later in 2021. Well, in 2020, I had the revelation of me being Rebecca and in 2021 God gave me the vision of my marital promise. As I was recalling the days, I saw:

- Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic above in front of me has a fire flaming at the top of his head as he carries an angry jealous expression.

As I am recalling that time, I see a small-framed vision of a dark version of Glory in a dark background as he says in a quiet tone while turning away clockwise to the other side: I've been in love with you since then.

I'm talking about how it was to have a career in Astronomy that I came to Delhi, and I am recalling how I used to think back during those days. I'm also talking about how before I came to God, I used to see marriage as a man-made precept as in most cases it wasn't based on commitment, but served as a system that was imposed on people which they frequently went outside of. I also talk about how the definition of marriage comes from God and not from man.

Somewhere while talking about the same, I see: the upper half of Death Conqueror in a white tunic above on my left side as he bends down and gnaws on the left side of my brain like a zombie.

Afterwards, I'm making tea, I hear: She loves the truth. She loves the truth.

Since yesterday, these lyrics have been playing in my spirit.
The lady sings:
Koi kamti na mujhko hogi..
Koi kamti na mujhko hogi..
Mera Yeshu Masih hai gadariya..
Mera Yeshu Masih hai gadariya..

- Dream:

I am walking through a corridor to the left with classrooms on my right side. Apparently, it's a school building. In one of the classrooms to my right that I happen to look inside through the open door as I turn my face to the right, I spot a chubby lady teacher dressed modestly in a Saree with long hair retro styled in a sitting in front of the class on a chair facing to the right. Behind her is the board and the class in front of her is not visible through the door. She has long hair and I neither seem to like her expression for it seems shallow to me, nor her dressing sense for it looks vain when seen in conjunction with her persona though I try to maintain a nonjudgmental outlook. I enter into a classroom to my right and find three rows of long wooden benches to the right in front of the wide green board to my left. I move to the rightmost row and spot my cousins Kaalu and Cheeku near the front seats.

Just an additional note: They were named so because Kaalu was dark in complexion and Cheeku was a plum and chubby girl.

The Dream Continued:

I am happy to be in their company. I've met them after long. I want us to leave the classroom and go to the canteen nearby. We are still at the desk when I recall that I've to return her 50 rupees. However, I'm thinking of taking them out to the canteen and because they're my loving cousins, I don't return the money. Kaalu however says something because of which I hand a Rs 50 note to her immediately. I tell them about the snacks available at the canteen. She asks for a regular snack that I am not sure would be there. We begin walking towards the door and stop for a while. I notice that Cheeku is looking excessively slim. She has lost a considerable amount of weight (The upper half of Death Conqueror with a greedy long and wide tongue falling to the ground; A small-famed vision of Glory standing in the dark outside gestures off the statement casually like it's nothing! Though he shakes slightly, his immediate conscious reaction is to wave it off.) She's dressed in a fitting top over denim jeans and a narrow part of her slim belly is visible through the gap between her top and jeans. I compliment her about her weight loss. She's happy about it as well. We continue walking, exit the classroom, and take a left into the corridor. They are busy talking among themselves but I, though, was feeling very excited and joyful to hang out with them, have now begun feeling alienated and down in spirit as they're behaving with a changed attitude which doesn't seem compassionate, especially Cheeku who is acting with a sense of superiority ignoring me. I don't sense the previous humility we shared together as I find myself walking slightly behind them.

As I sit for a while on my bed after waking up, I have the following revelations.

- Prof Shobhit Mahajan dressed in a V-neck light maroon sweater over beige pants as he walks forward with his right hand pointed at the back above his shoulder as he moves his forefinger and middle finger in the gesture of running scissors.

The dusky man in black is flashed as a man's voice says: You're a never-ending thirst. You're a never-ending thirst.

After I wrote the above, I heard in my spirit.
Masih Nidhal soedaar chalte dekha hai..
Bhadakti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai..

As I'm completing writing revelations on previous pages, I see:
The top-view of the upper half of dusky man in black from The Dinesh Store (who is supposedly the Madhavan of the trio) lying on my foldable bed dressed in the same clothes with his right hand around my shoulder as I lie on my side his right side facing him with my hand on top of him. Perhaps he's saying something. I am not sure. I am dressed in my pink cardigan over the yellow sweater.

As I was completing editing the above revelation, I saw a naked Glory with a slightly bent upper half as he was making a questioning gesture with a sad sobbing expression and an open mouth with the song lyrics playing:
Ye kya ho raha hai bhaiya,
Ye kya ho raha hai.

(Masih nidhaal, soedaar chalte dekha hai..
Bhadakti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai..

The lady sings:
Maar dala.. Maar dala..
Khushi ne hmari humein.. Maar dala.. Maar dala..)

Teach us, Lord, Oh.. To number our days on Earth..
And give us, Lord.. Oh.. Wisdom of the secret heart..
The above lyrics play in my spirit repeatedly as I sit in my bed.

The lady sings:
Vo jaldi ata.. HalleluYah..
Vo jaldi ata.. HalleluYah..
Ke har ek ghutna jhukeka, har jbaan kahegi..
Prabhu hai.. Prabhu hai..

Ke har ek ghutna jhukeka, har jbaan kahegi..
Prabhu hai.. Prabhu hai..

The above song lyrics were first playing in my spirit yesterday and were repeating this morning while brushing as well.

When I was cleaning my table, I saw: the upper half of Death Conqueror as he said: Her husband is coming. Her husband is coming for her.
The trio says together: Her husband is coming. Followed by them turning their backs together at me as they're speedily rubbing their erections protruding through their trousers.

Earlier during the day, I saw KA standing dressed in a white tunic as he said: Is kutiya ke jaal mein phas gaya!

Death Conqueror looks down from above in front of me as he says: Kartika you were extremely Gwaar. Still, I chose you.

13:15
As I'm heating the Daal, I see the blurry upper halves of the trio dressed in casual clothes with the dusky man in black prominently visible, as they say together: She has trapped us! She has trapped us!

They shout together: We hate you! We love you! Both the statements are heard together.

As I am eating the Daal Churma, I hear: She has fallen in love with us. It's all on her face. She is in love with us for real. Can't you see it?

After a while, I hear: Tera sir phootega. Teri tang tootegi!

As I am nearing the end of having Daal Churma, I see the trio stand together in a line dressed in casuals as the dusky man in black stands in the centre and they all pee down together at me while saying: Let's pee inside her mouth for doing this to us. The vision repeats.

This reminds me of the trio from 3 Idiots peeing at the Dean's door at night after stealing the question paper.

After I'm back having bought milk, I hear: I will strip you and clothe her. I will strip you and clothe her.

Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic set says: I am dumb in front of her. I am extremely dumb in front of her.

While having tea on the roof,
The face of Death Conqueror flashes as he says: Na to ise mujhse dar lagta hai, aur na hi ye meri respect karti hai.
Na to ise mujhse dar lagta hai, aur na hi ye meri respect karti hai.
It repeats again.

I see the naked one-third upper half of Glory with extended forearms from the dream The Courting Phase get highlighted to me as the vision jerks to and fro with the accompanying song lyrics:

Aaja lagja gale se mere tha karke
Tha tha karke Tha tha karke
As I lay down to rest after having tea, I see:

- A stubbled RS dressed with neck-length straight hair in a deep red satin tunic with an embroidered half jacket on top hits my ankles with an axe as he says: Mein use marne jaa raha hu. The vision repeats again as his face momentarily changes to Glory.
- A small-framed vision of Death Conqueror dressed in his attire from one of the times that he showed up (but I didn't recognize him) as he walks backwards in a dark background and says: I am leaving, Kartika. You're disgusting! I'm leaving you, Kartika. You're disgusting. The vision repeats again.
  It was when I was staying in Single Storey and had stepped out of the Gupta Ji Store after buying some things that I heard a loud sound of the closing of a car's door that caught my attention. I saw a bearded short-heighted guy standing beside his vehicle on the left side of the road as he looked at me. It was night and I didn't recognize him and I wondered why he was looking at me intently. He was dressed in a dark green fluffed jacket over black denims and he looked at me with a serious expression. This view from the event has been flashing in my spirit for a few days. I had turned my face away from him because why would I look at a stranger? But I could tell that he was expecting me to interact with him. He then turned in the direction of the Nala Road and started walking. I could tell that he was perhaps expecting me to catch up but I continued on my way and walked to my PG.

- A small-framed vision of Milind Soman with his face resembling his look from the song Made In India, dressed in a top over blue denim with a fluffed white jacket on top, as he holds an upside down axe with an extremely long handle with the base of which he's lightly hitting someone lying below. As the vision expands, it is revealed to be a naked lady lying in a rectangular depression made in the ground. He wants to keep hitting her and stop her from getting out of that pit/depression. The person in the pit then momentarily changes to Glory followed by the person now wearing a face shield that was prevalent during Covid times.

- The naked upper third half of Glory as he is hitting and pushing Death Conqueror out of the vision to the left. As Glory does so, his face faces to the left thereby making the prophetic symbol.

16:44
After I get up, I see the upper one-third part of RS in his previous dark maroon tunic look as he looks at KA dressed in a white tunic present on the left side and says that they would have to kill him.

While I'm making tea, I see KA dressed in a white tunic set says: Vo bahut bura hai. Vo bahut bura hai.

Shine bright like a diamond. Shine bright like a diamond.

As I'm about to have tea with snacks, I saw how I can only overeat or eat frequently my own things and that if I was at someone else's home, I would be very careful of my eating pattern. As I complete the sentence, I see a small-framed blurry vision of my supervisor dressed in a tunic set say to me: That's what we wanted to hear.

A naked Glory stands in the corridor and says sobbing with a hurt expression: Kartika, don't fast.
Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic as he looks down at me from above in the air and says: Her husband loves her a lot. Her husband loves her a lot.

Earlier during the day:
A small-framed vision of my supervisor dressed in her usual attire of a tunic set with a drape as she says: No one likes him.

19:25
As I open the parcel that got delivered today and take out the Bleach cream, I see a close-up view of the naked upper third half of Glory as he looks at me and asks me with a touched expression where it seems that he is about to cry: This is what I was expecting!? This is what I was expecting!?
The vision repeats a few times.

As I say that one box can be used thrice, I see: the face of Shalini from the first floor looking at me with filled eyes.

A naked Glory shouts that I love him a lot.

The stubbled face of RS until his shoulders with neck-length straight hair revealing the top of his deep red tunic from the previous vision as he looks to the left and says to KA: Ye gwaar nahi hai. Ye randi nahi hai. Ye gwaar nahi hai. Ye bahut samajhdaar hai.

While I am cooking Maggi, I see Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic sitting and sobbing with his head bent down as he says that it's all his fault that I ended up feeling this certain way for him. The vision continues for a while. And I hear: Pashchyataap ke aansu. Pashchyataap ke aansu.

A naked Glory with a bent upper half shouts that he loves me a lot as he is holding his erection.

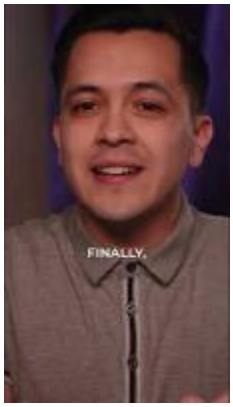
RS dressed in his deep red tunic attire from the previous visions stands together with KA as he says: Hum tere kis kaam ke hai Kartika. Humse itna pyaar mat kar. The vision repeats again as he says: Hum gwaar tere kis kaam ke hai Kartika.

Very ungodly self-perception it is. Don't you know God handpicks people for Himself? Receive His Spirit and be baptized in it.

The following song has also been playing intermittently in my spirit.
Chamakte chaand ko toota hua tara bana dala..
Meri awargi ne mujhko awaara bana dala..
Chamakte chaand ko toota hua tara bana dala..

The video below by Brother David Diga Hernandez explains the spiritual act or phenomenon of praying in tongues quite uniquely.

Daughter amazes her Father with an unusual prayer... #Shorts



A very good explanatory video about the difference between the body, soul and spirit and how they impact one's navigation through one's life on Earth.

This Eye-Opening Revelation will Change How you See the Holy Spirit

Before I found out the above video in which the teacher uses a visual representation of the Body, Soul and Spirit, I was watching a different video in which he talked about the same topic while sitting behind a desk.

In that other video, the preacher talks about how the spirit of God searches the mind of God and reveals it to us and how it also knows everything about the deep things of our own spirit which too is revealed to us by it. As I hear the words, it makes me recall the recent revelation that I had written about the top view of the dusky man lying on my bed with me lying on my side as I hugged him. As I recalled the revelation, I saw: the upper half of the dusky man in black with two red love hearts in front of his eyes float down to me in front of me as he was looking at me smiling. The vision repeated a few times. It was followed by him extending his left hand and putting it lightly on my left cheek as he continued looking at me.

And while I was watching that version, I had the following visions as well:

The upper half of Death Conqueror in a white tunic near the ceiling on my right side as he says smiling looking down at me: You're changing us! You're changing us!

The dusky man in black appears on the right side as well as he too says: You're changing us!

The visions repeat a few times.

The trio dressed in casuals with Death Conqueror in a white tunic set, and the dusky guy in his black clothes from the day stand together in a line as they put down and fold their genitalia between their legs with the words: We want to be like you!

We're foolish to her. We're extremely foolish in her sight.
Well, I was saying the same about my own self earlier during the day for the time that I didn't know God.

I get the thought of how Death Conqueror deserved a white, in-shape pornstar and that that's his level. So, I google white porn stars and opening the images section, point to the blurred images and tell him that that's what he deserves and that's his level.

When I lay down to rest, I have the following revelations.

- Death Conqueror says as he retracts in a dark background: Thanks for showing me my level. Isne mujhe meri aukat dikha di. She just showed me my level. He is accepting it as the truth. This shows that he is aware of who he is and sane enough to understand how he deserves a white porn star. It repeats for a while.
  When I say these words, the previous revelation from the 2nd of Feb in which he was saying that he was expecting a woman who wears a headwrap comes to my mind, and it makes me look at the wide difference between who he is or how he lives a promiscuous life, and what he expected for himself for a wife - a virgin who wears even a head wrap! The two seem too contradictory to me. It just doesn't seem to make any sense. I am not sure though but perhaps this is the revelation that subconsciously could've made me tell him that he deserved a white whore. And I chose the adjective white because through his messengers he keeps insulting my skin tone by portraying it as an extremely undesirable black. Not to say that a black skin tone is undesirable. But he portrays it as such.

- Bhool jaunga mein tujhe, Kartika. Bhool jaunga.
- As I lie face down, I hear: Say it, Kartika. We've broken your heart. Say it. Say it. We've broken your heart.
- David Diga Hernandez, dressed in a grey coat over a black shirt tucked inside pants is pulling a long red drape horizontally through the air to himself. As the vision expands, the drape is shown to be a part of a fair chubby woman's red Saree. She has a round face with her black hair tied in a bun at the back. Why is he pulling her drape towards himself? When she's near him, he stretches that drape across her mouth and pushes her down making her fall on the ground.
- The top view of the upper half of David Diga Hernandez lying on my bed with a fair woman dressed in a red embroidered saree and a conical tiara on her head lying on her left side on the left end of the bed facing him. While he's dressed the same as the above vision, the lady is dressed in an Indian ethnic attire and looks like a Hindu goddess.

- The face of Milind Soman in a dimly-lit golden background as the top of his forehead bleeds. There's a visible few cms round hole on top of his head a cm or two away from where his forehead starts.
- Marne ke liye akela chhod diya. Marne ke liye akela chhod diya.
- As I continue to lie feeling tensed unable to fall asleep though I am feeling tired, I see a lightly moustached face of Glory as he says: Bahut pyaar kiya hai na tune mujhse!? Dekh mein use kitna marta hu!
- She just said 'Never' to me. She just said 'Never' to me. As the blurry upper half of Death Conqueror in a dark background is flashed along the words.

I get up to write the revelations as I wasn't able to sleep either. I was feeling tensed and not able to relax. I then see:
The upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic as he says: Mein kis muh se jaunga iske paas. (Look at what I did to her.)

I hear a guy's voice say: Na to tera pyaar saccha hai, aur na hi nafrat.

These three scenes from a movie have been highlighted to me for a while.

A Guy Misbehaves

(from the Amitabh Bachchan and Hema Malini movie Baghbaan)
In this scene, the granddaughter of Hema Malini goes to a club dressed in promiscuous revealing clothes after which one of the guys whom she considered her friend begins misbehaving or sexually molesting her. When she tries to resist, he replies with the statement that women like her first entice men through their promiscuous clothing and when the men get provoked, they behave as if there's none righteous than them. In that scene, the lady was dressed in extremely skin-revealing promiscuous clothing.

The Prayer Before Eating

This scene is from an old Bollywood movie in which a rural man happens to be given a leading position in a firm. He's brought in place of the previous owner. When the people of the firm are having a lunch meeting together, the rural guy takes some water on top of his palm and spreads it around his Thaali and says a prayer before eating. But the rest because they are not used to praying before eating get still at his behavior and don't know how to react. Someone comments that it's a good practice to always pray before eating after which the rest of the men follow along and pray as well before beginning to eat. The rural man was also well-versed in genuinely good behavior and therefore came across as weird to the selfish people of the city.

As I began to write the above scene, I heard:
She's wasting our time.

I know. She's wasting our time.

Sridevi With a Lost Memory

In this scene, Sridevi after having met with an accident loses her memory. The doctor who operated on her tells Anil Kapoor about the black mole on one of her thighs for him to use that information to make her believe that he indeed was her husband, so she can live with him while she recovers. Though I don't recall the exact plot, this specific part where the hero was given certain info to pretend to be the lady's husband was highlighted to me.

Kartika, hum marne waale hai.

I was watching the scene from the movie as I was recalling it when I heard:
Kartika, Khyati dahaad dahaad ke has raha hai!

When I was watching the movie scene, it reminded me of the dream with CID Daya dropping in to meet his wife's, whom he was also calling his Mummy, daughter.

But why would he leave his wife there in the first place!? And as I was looking closely at his face through the glass window on the right side of the door, and he paused in his statement and referred to the lady as his mummy, I gave him a huge smile.

Khushi ne humari humein.. Maar dala..

This reminds me of the times when I am visibly sad or am grieving during which I often hear: That's what I was expecting as Glory is highlighted because I am not supposed to be happy or joyful in this situation. But it's because of the Lord that I keep forgetting the wrongs done and I keep looking at Him as my strength and that's what makes me joyful. Can't he see that I have been under depression for around a year when I didn't even go to work? Indeed the situation is bad. But it's the truth of the Lord inside me that I can feel so strongly that overrides all other emotions and fills me with joy. It's the flow of His Spirit.

Khushi ne hmari humein phod dala..

A small-framed vision of Death Conqueror retracting back in a dark background as he says quietly: I've to leave her.

Revelations from last night before sleeping:

You've won Adele's heart. accompanied by the small-framed vision of the face of Adele from Bold Existence Ministries with her hair tied at the back and several small packets of different Namkeens present below her face as she looks smiling at me.

The upper half of Jesus in off-white multilayered clothes, as he extends a 3D paper rose to me, made of red and green paper. It makes me think how though it's a good 3D rose, it's not having the scent of a rose. He then sprays perfume on top of it and gives it to me. I put it in one of my books and it squishes to a 2D rose which I take out after a long time and which is still the same when I take it out.

Mein teri ha Rachna.
Tere vich vasda ha..
Teri ungli phad ke..
Tere sang chalda ha..

It is followed by him handing out to me a real red rose followed by several red roses crowding the space.

Aradhana.. Aradhana.. Aradhana..
Teri Aradhana..

Mein teri ha rachna.
Tere vich vasda ha..
Teri ungli phadd ke..
Tere sang chalda ha..

- A small-framed vision of an unusually wide James McAvoy with very light side-burns dressed in an old Testament full-length light yellowish attire with a dark cyan drape hanging at the back and a small golden crown on his head as he stands facing to the left slightly angled towards the viewer on the right side of what looks like a part of an open empty hall lit in golden light.
- The vision then morphs to him standing in the same posture but he looks older with a denser beard periphering the edges of his face as his drape at the back also looks thicker and covers a greater part of his shoulders and he looks overall bulkier carrying a more mature expression with even a slightly bulkier golden crown as he stands and seems to be interacting with someone not visible in the vision.

Morning
Dream:
In this dream, I'm in a shop on the ground floor which when I come out of, I see narrow stairs right on its left side going upwards, and apparently, the owner of the shop stays up there.

Aaja lagja gale se mere tha kar ke..
Tha tha kar ke. Tha tha karke.
Saari duniya se ishq bayaan karke..
Tha tha kar ke. Tha tha karke.

The owner is a tall man whom I saw walking upstairs dressed in all black. The next time that I visit that shop and find no one inside, someone comes and offers to call the owner from upstairs for me. I have a chat with the owner and buy something to eat as I am later sitting inside the shop, while it seems to emanate a homely aura.

The next thing I see is two women in wheelchairs. One of them is Rihanna. As she sits on her chair in the centre of a hall inside a house, being dressed in a long red coat dress, someone is targeting her as that person attacks her and slides her off out of the vision. The same thing happens to the other lady.

I find myself cooking an omelette in boiling water and it turns out quite flat and fine. I save it for me to have later. My mom has cooked food as well for the family, but I will have just the omelette. When I come across my dad, he tells me to keep a part of the omelette for him as well. I have three metallic rings left from a group of twenty or thirty-some rings that I had bought, and my mom is asking for one.

When I go back in the kitchen to have the omelette left on top of the black pan, I happen to drop a part of it on the floor. I pick it up, and put it back in the pan.

I come across my mom again and it reminds me of her wanting one of the three rings. As I think about it, I can recall handing out those rings to several different people to signify the covenant that Jesus makes with us through His forgiveness found in His shed blood. I am being skeptical about handing out one of the rings to her because in the dream, they are supposed to be for three persons who too are chosen of God. So, I am wondering if I should give one of the rings to my mom taking the share of one of the possible other three persons that could accept God in their lives better than my mom. My mom, though she wants the ring, doesn't show the love and heart for God she's supposed to have.

~15:00
The face of Death conqueror as he says: Mein marne wala hu. Mein marne wala hu.

While I'm having the Egg Maggi and moving the fork inside trying to grab a suitable eatable portion, I hear a guy's voice say: Leave her. She's stupid.

A while back I was thinking how it is too difficult to be around people who reason in a wicked way. How can a sane person exist in close vicinity of those who have wickedness infiltrating their commonly used sense of reasoning. Such people will disrupt the peace of a godly person. Now it's not to say that the Holy Spirit can't impart to us a supernatural sense of inner peace but people who reason wickedly can't be reasoned with and no resolution is attainable.

~15:19
The upper half of a stubbled Arjun Kapoor turned slightly angled to the left looking in that direction being dressed in a white polo shirt in the background of a lighter shade of dark green. When the vision expands, I see the upper halves of a group of men dressed in white polo shirts standing in a V-shaped formation pointed towards the viewer, with Saurav Ganguly standing at the center of the formation facing the viewer with a white bat lifted on his left side. On the top right corner of the vision is written ICICI. The vision has the same green-shaded background.

(We've to leave her Mrittunjay.)

A clean-shaven Steve Carell dressed in a black suit over a white shirt stands in front of a white background with a dense shrub of tiny colorful flowers stretching horizontally above behind him as a thick branch of the flowers hangs down in front of his right shoulder which he moves around looking smiling at the viewer.

As I was looking for rings on Flipkart, I came across watch rings and a certain design had me real fixated on it.

I then heard a male's voice in my spirit: That's who she is! That's who she is!

It made me imagine a commercial that advertises those rings as a tool or identifying marker for God's prophets to possess to signify their covenant with Jesus and how His Spirit helps them traverse through time and know things from the past and the future as is the Will of God.

The one with a black dial with white numbers was the one that was highlighted to me. And I also the upper half of Jesus dressed in multilayered white clothes wearing that ring with the black dial as He made punching gestures at my face.

While I was checking the ring watches out, I heard a voice: She is so cheap! She is so cheap!

20:21

- Prof TRS dressed in a brown shirt tucked inside brown pants lying on the floor and laughing hard holding his belly at the ring's advertisement comment.

  Has your sense of time been dwindled?
  Are you stuck amidst different revelations pacing forward at different paces?
  You know the events but the blanket over the 'when' keeps you confused?
  Has your sense of time been messed up to the extent that you often lose track of time?
  If so, we present a ring watch created exclusively for the prophets of God.
  It not only serves as a quick time-checking tool but also reminds one of his covenant with Jesus.
  Make it yours before it runs out of stock.

- The upper half of a clean-shaven Glory dressed in a white T-shirt as he stands facing to the left addressing the person in front as Madam with a sweet smile. The immediate vision has the upper half of a lady in a lingerie set with shoulder-length straight hair sitting on the floor in a pile of blood as he throws something on her head from a few meters.

  Banake kyu mara re..

- Death Conqueror stands dressed in a white tunic with his back towards me as he says: Go back to your world of poverty. I deserve her! The vision repeats.

While resting:

- The white face of David Diga Hernandez with the flat white body of a jet plane behind him as he flies to the left.
- A follow-up vision has his normal human form rising up in a dark background as he says: I'm going to kill him. It is followed by him hitting the demonic left half of Death Conqueror while the white angelic half is left untouched following which only his angelic part is left and he turns into a full angel.
- The face of Death Conqueror comes closer to me above as he says with a smile: Sorry for doing this to you, Kartika. I deserve her! Sorry for doing this to you, Kartika. I deserve her!
- Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic set as he takes a few steps away and says: She deserves to go back to the filth she came from. I deserve her. She deserves to go back to the filth she came from. I deserve her. The dusky guy in black stands on the left of the vision and it is quite clear that he doesn't think this way. A clear countenance of love-filled respect can be seen on his face as Death Conqueror stands a few steps from him further into the vision facing away from the viewer.
- Dr Ramani with her thick grey and black frizzy hair hanging loose by her sides frantically talks to the camera/viewer being dressed in a half-sleeved loose cotton top with a round neck in the background of a room with a double bed laid against the wall on the left behind her. The room is dimly lit with white light. It reminds me of me thinking of her in the morning when I was having snacks with tea and ended up licking my lips the way she does while talking as they keep getting dry. Now I did it because some particles of snacks were left around. But in any case, both of us need to drink more water. The follow-up vision had her saying: Thanks for saving my life!
- The upper half of a man as he says to Glory: She loves them, Khyati. She loves them.
- Somewhere in the stream of visions, I hear: She has given herself to us. She has given herself to us.
- A small-framed vision of the front view of dusky guy in black walking a few side steps to the left as he stops in front of the viewer in the background of a grey hall behind him as he says gesturing with his hand: We are not hurting you, Kartika. We're not hurting you, Kartika. When I saw the trio enter that space, I became cautious, and so the dusky guy in black said what he did making sure that I didn't get alarmed. Seeing his gesture and posture, I too don't see any harm in the dusky guy as I walk towards him with an extended hand for a handshake. I can already feel a sense of compassion as I walk towards him. I see the follow-up vision as a third person as I see myself standing in front of the stove inside a kitchen lit with natural daylight with the dusky man in black to my right. As I talk to him, I can feel a sense of mutual empathy with which I am communicating with him. As I look at the vision, it makes me look at the contrasting inner countenance of the short fellow. As I pull apart his chest, I see a huge golden ring inside which he slides on me through my head as it circles me around my upper half. He then slides more such plain rings through my head as they've now formed a vertical cylindrical structure around me. The follow-up vision shows a semi-animated vision of a naked me leaning against a wall as we're in the act of intercourse. As we continue to do so, a child comes out of a narrow and tight vaginal opening and floats away with us still being in the act. We continue relentlessly and several children come out in a line one after the other as they keep floating away and get deposited at the back. Apparently, in this vision, I must have gotten married to him. Towards the end of this series, I see the side-view of an old and slim me with grey straight neck-

length hair standing in front of an old him where he stands on the right side facing to the left. As I was editing the previous sentence, I heard: You're not that beautiful but I would give you the grace. The vision has me dressed in a white tunic finely printed in blue as I place his hand on my right breast. Apparently, our passion has managed to stay strong until our old age. Though I wasn't expecting these visions, they make me think of them as a good situation because that's what a godly marriage is. Not to say that it will come to pass. But this is a godly union exemplified. One of the follow-up visions from the grey hall also shows us leaving joyfully together holding each other and a few bouquets in our hands leaving the two behind in the hall. One of the follow-up visions has us standing in a handshake in front of a shop at night in a market area. As I am holding his hand, I don't feel like leaving it, but I'm rather lightly caressing it with my thumb as I seem to be in good compassionate communion with him. In yet another one of the visions, and perhaps it was the follow-up to the visions exclusive to him at the beginning, as I stand in a handshake with him in the grey hall, his clothes disappear and he is pushed unto me and like a translucent being seeps inside my being while still being visible and stays there. The follow-up visions now show a representation of our souls in a human form in a dark background that are able to seep into the other person's form. It reminds me of the Bible verse that talks about Jonathan's soul being one with David (1 Samuel 18:1). By just receiving these revelations, I can tell the change in perception I have experienced. And it's a desirable change (for me) because that's how you're called to relate with your fellow believers: being one mind with them which is another way of saying that one is being mutually compassionate. That's the kind of bond I desire with people - bonds that are deep and rooted in a smooth understanding of the straight and undeceptive mind of another person. As I was writing the part with souls in human forms, I saw the upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic as he took a few steps backwards and said: That's not what we wanted.
Somewhere above as I was writing, I ended up yawning and saying that I didn't want to fall asleep (as I had things to be written). That's when I saw the upper half of the dusky guy in black on my left-hand side as he said looking at me: You don't want to fall asleep? I'm going to f*ck you hard!

Banake kyu bigada re. (The song lyric always makes me think of my marriage with Glory for some reason.)

- RS dressed in his previous deep red tunic attire with an embroidered half jacket stands together with KA dressed in a white tunic attire as they say in turns: Hum use kuch nahi kahenge. They pause for a while before saying: Vo gwaar hai! Vo murakh hai! Following this, they jump off a surface and the vision shows the top view of them falling together into Ganda Nala.
- Humare haath bandhe hue hai. It is immediately accompanied by the vision of them standing together with cuffed hands with RS standing on the right and both dressed in the same attire as the above vision.

While pooping in the afternoon, I saw the clean-shaven face of Chatur with his upper half laden with several floral garlands.

Past Revelations
(Past three weeks)

- I see a small-framed semi-animated vision of me cooking in a kitchen followed by me serving Aloo Gajar Matar on three plates placed in a line as I place a few rotis on each one of them for the trio to eat.

  As I was writing the above vision, I heard: We shouldn't have done this to her. We shouldn't have done this to her.
- While having sweet yellow rice, I see myself extend a spoonful of the yellow sweet rice ahead to the trio. The vision is followed by three spoons filled with sweet rice extended ahead in a horizontal line in front of the mouth of the trio.
- Glory breaks my legs from around my knees as he hits them outwardly between the knees bending them sideways outwards.
- Phod ke khaane ke din aa rahe hai. Phod ke khaane ke din aa rahe hai.

Dream:
I find myself cleaning a lady's ears. Apparently, she's my mom. Even after cleaning them for a while, I can visibly see dried white wax inside. I find that I have been using a metallic pin to scratch and clean the lady's ears. I take a look inside one of her ears and see a layer of dried white wax going until her eardrum. I don't want to scratch along the surface and scrape off the layer for it might hurt her ear canal. So, I figure I would have to leave it as it is. The other ear has a huge visible dried flake at the entrance itself of her canal which makes me think how come that visibly huge flake be still there when I've been cleaning her ears for a while now?

After peeing, as I am about to get out of the washroom, I see the dusky guy in black standing to my left as he says in a quiet and serious tone: You love me? Then sleep with me. I ignore the vision.

- A small-framed vision near the ceiling of a metallic navy blue wavy middle part of a cone with a horizontal TRAP written in bold deep red in the middle.

I go back to bed and fall briefly asleep again when I have this other dream.
Dream 2:
I am making tea for myself but when I'm finished and pour the tea out, it fills a medium-sized cup that as I enter that home's bedroom and pass my mom, I hand over to my dad who stands up from the bed sideways from its left end. I see a fair guy with neck-length straight hair dressed in a black suit over a black inner lying curled on the right side of the bed on his side with his laptop open on his right. As I see that man, I get on the bed and crawl to him and as I do so, I see him looking at me showing his clenched, slightly longer-than-usual upper white teeth. It seems that he may hurt me. But for some reason, I continue crawling towards him. I seem to know him. When I've reached him, I see his hand resting on its palm in front of the laptop. I slowly take hold of his hand and then move closer to his lips. He doesn't hurt me but stays still. Though I know that he's a vampire, I still for some reason want to kiss him in that dream. I gently press my lips against his holding his hand and he doesn’t retaliate with anger, but I can feel reciprocation in is stillness and though the thought of him attacking me abruptly and digging his fangs in my neck and drinking my blood crosses my mind, he doesn't behave in that way but as I continue to kiss him gently, I can now feel a reciprocated sense of love. The sensation of my lips gently perched out and pressed against his along with my hand holding his hand is too real as I stay in that posture with him and slowly get out of the dream. Even after I've woken up to the extent that I am aware that I've woken up, the sensation on my lips and right hand is there and it makes me think how can my hand that's resting on my body be holding another hand for the sensation is so real. I'm completely woken up and the sensation is still there. I am now eager to open my eyes as I want to confirm this supernatural sensational experience. I can now feel my hand lying on my body but the touch of the other hand that I am holding is present as well. When I open my eyes, I see a brief vision of my mom's face in front of mine lying with closed eyes with perched lips. My fingers can feel another hand's touch. But after a while of opening eyes, I find that the sensation was caused by my lips perched together against each other and my own fingers of my right hand sticking close together on top of my body. My mind had externalized the touch of my own body against itself as another person's touch.

She is going to make us cry, dude.

Masih Nidhaal soe daar chalte dekha hai..

After I'm woken up from the second dream, I stay in bed for a while before getting up.

While I'm still half asleep, I have this dream in which I see the upper half of the Barber from The Matrix Salon in a dark background as he tells me that my hair need more keratin. This makes me think if he knows how he messed up when he treated them.

As I continue to lie, I feel the heaviness of the great worldly personas of the trio around me. I feel how great they worldly they are. And it makes me feel so small as I am thinking about why these 'great' worldly people came running after me. For the first time, I can feel an oppressing blanket of their power and influence in the world which makes me think why they came to weigh me down with the same.

(Oh dude, she's so truthful.)

I also see the upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic as he says: Mein ek kutta hu! Mein ek kutta hu! It makes me think of the context in which he's calling himself a dog. (The Pastor is laughing!) The vision is then followed by him turning into a literal light beige dog who is running freely on a road and jumping on women, their asses, and other parts as he comes across them one after the other on the open road.

After I was done writing the above, I saw: the dusky man in black dressed in a full-length white tunic with a wide shining white crown on his head that then extended to a foot along the sides. It seems to me that this is who he is in comparison to the short fellow.

Somewhere earlier in the morning after waking up from one of the dreams, I see the bottom view of a naked short fellow trying to have intercourse with a woman who's there in front of him with her back facing upwards as he has managed to insert only 1 or 2 inches of his genitalia and is trying to push it further but he's stuck in the middle and not able to move beyond that with the woman still bent and facing downwards.

As I was still writing the above revelation, I saw a blurry figure of the short fellow highlighted as the short fellow says:
She's going to kill me. She's going to kill me for doing this to her.
I'm going to die Madhavan.

While brushing teeth:
As I look at my new bracelet with Matthew 19:26 printed on it, I see the upper half of Death Conqueror looking down at it as he says: I want that off! I want that off! I ignore it.

Be beautiful Kartika. Then we'll love you. Be beautiful Kartika. Then we'll love you. It repeats intermittently.

Later as I sit in my bed and talk about how I stopped myself from highlighting the negative and hurtful ways this Amma behaves as earlier this morning too she said something mean. But then I looked at how bypassing her negative traits and then ministering to her would achieve a desirable result. And then I saw how God did the same as well. He bypasses our character or who we are and with the knowledge of who we are works on us to sanctify us. This made me think of how the trio did the opposite. As I completed writing the sentence, I saw: the upper half of the dusky guy in black above on my left-hand side as he came slowly at me to hit me with a danda while shouting: Gwaar! (The side view of the upper half of the dusky man in black in a black and white suit facing to the left and slightly angled towards the viewer in the air in a spacey light navy blue background on my right as looking down at me, he says smiling: You're not Gwaar. You're extremely intelligent.) The base continued: The trio bypassed their knowledge of wrong and right and operated on the other side of that knowledge to achieve their purpose. It was then that I saw the upper half of the dusky guy in black on my left side as he suddenly assumed a serious expression riling up with a subtle seriousness.

He then began gnawing brutally like a zombie on the left side of my brain with a bent upper half.

The dusky guy in black comes closer to my face with red love hearts in his eyes. He then says: Let me bear children with you. This reminded me of the vision from the previous day.

I further added how it was because they took authority over their Free Will as if it wasn't given to them by God to walk on His straight and narrow path. But they took what was given to them as something to freely navigate outside of the desired path.

While making tea, I hear: Humein ise maarna padega, Kartik, as a close-up view of the face of KA is shown looking at me with a wicked revengeful smile.

As I was done writing this vision, I saw: the upper half of RS dressed in his previous deep red tunic attire with a light stubble and neck-length hair as he shouts: LOVE YOU..!

On my way to church, the song Tumhare Siva song kept playing in my spirit quite strongly.

During church
As we're worshipping, I see Jesus dressed in his full-length tunic lifting little Angel as He swirled her around in arcs in the middle and near my side of the church.

She's smart. She's smart.

A small-framed vision of my dad as he looks down at me and says: Iska kuch karna padega.

The fat and bald middle man hits the top of my bed with a danda.

I speak my testimony and also at its end sing the worship song HalleluYah Stuti Gaaye Hum. When everyone is meeting after church during communion, as I talk to people, I hear: She's now the star of the church. She's now the star of the church.

After church
She's never coming Mrittunjay. Look at her face. She's never coming.

She's never coming. It repeats intermittently even after I'm back in my room.

As I enter my room, I hear: We're extremely disgusting to her. We're extremely disgusting to her. (Well, it's no longer the case. They're rather hurtful. However, only the short fellow is disgusting because he keeps making known the insides of his perverted mind.)

The upper half of Pastor dressed in his navy blue sweater as he says pointing at me: She's very smart. She's very smart.

The upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic looks down at me as he says gesturing to the right with his face: She's a cheaper version of her. She's a much cheaper version of her.

It seems to me that he's calling Akhila a cheaper version of me because all her character traits are outwardly and fake! And she's not a godly woman either! The sentence repeats when I go outside for some reason.

Later as I'm talking about how if we're struggling in one or other areas in our lives then that also serves the purpose to stop us from boasting that we are doing everything right, I hear: Tejaswi is laughing!
Though I was talking about my natural tendency to emotionally eat and end up overeating or gluttoning. But it's different from the sexual sin which is the worst kind of sin because it's against one's own body which is supposed to be consecrated to the Lord as His temple and is supposed to be made one flesh with one's covenant partner.

Night
I'm saying something when the Pastor says: In par time waste mat karo .Ye nalayak hai.

I'm recalling the Pastor's wife asking someone to make a part of their Choir. It makes me recall the YT shorts video below.

Cuan grande es Dios

I then immediately see myself standing with the trio with the dusky man in black in the center of the vision as we all seem to be singing a worship song together.

When I am using the washbasin after having milk, I see to my right: the upper half of the dusky man in black standing in my room's dimly-lit golden environment as his lips are moving in synchrony with the following lyrics from a worship song: Oh sings my soul my saviour God to thee.. As the original sound of the sound plays in the background.

The upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic as he looks down at me and says with unblinking eyes: I've ruined her life! I've ruined her life!

The upper half of Adele as she says: She's looking so good in those black trousers.

As I was editing the previous page, I heard:
Don't play with us, Kartika. We love you. Don't play with us, Kartika. We love you.
It repeated a few more times.

Earlier during the day:

- A semi-animated vision of Death Conqueror standing dressed in a white tunic as a lot of parrot green stuff seems to be present inside him visible through his translucent outer layer as a voice says that he's full of shit, calling him disgusting.
- Prof TRS says that he's impressed with me.

Dream:
I walk inside Omaxe City towards its main entrance and find a huge shop instead in the form of an open hall with an open front visible across the hall. I am thinking of buying something to eat.

As I was writing the previous sentence, I heard: She's not good with words. She's not good with words.

When I find myself inside a room, I see a clean-shaven and tall Ajay Sir (ex-PhD student of Awadhesh Prasad) dressed in a beige full-sleeved shirt tucked inside brown pants enter the room through the door on my left behind me. It reminds me of my school's uniform and I wonder why is he dressed in an adult version of my school uniform. He then enters a room in front of me as I am able to catch intermittent glances inside of another man present inside as well. They're having a chat and apparently, I need to be wary of the other man dressed in a light blue sweatshirt.

Towards the end of the dream, I see that a maned lion and a wolf have managed to take down a striped tiger as both hold him down with their mouths on his/her either side. The striped being surrenders making the two withdraw and let loose of their hold over it. When it is free and the wolf is now not present and the lion rests beside it at the same spot, the tiger(ess) slowly and sneakily gets on top of the lion to take it under his/her control, and as it is doing so, it flash changes into a grey and black wolf resembling the one that had it taken down on the ground previously along with the lion. That being is now shown to have developed an evolved sense of operating in a more stable and focused manner as the follow-up vision shows the parallel view of two feet standing across on the other side of a long 2-3 inches thick and wide beige wooden rectangular log as a wooden handle with small metallic pins periodically hit the closer end of the log lifting its metallic end around the pivot on the left side not shown in the vision. Those feet begin to walk towards the viewer on the 2-3 inches wide narrow log. He's able to balance his walk effortlessly on the log as the person puts one feet in front of the other and walks without breaks. As the feet approach the end that's being hit with the metallic pins, one gets high in one's levels of anxiety but the feet successfully step over that part of the log and continue step out of the vision.

As I begin to poop, I see a small-framed vision of the upper half of the Pastor dressed in his navy blue sweater as he is facing to the left with eyes closed and praying in tongues the way he does so in church pointing ahead with a lifted forearm.

Somewhere in the morning I also the dusky guy in black say: I will protect you! I will protect you!

Past Revelations

- (Past month or so) Whenever I hear someone say that that person is going to forget me, I hear a lady's voice: It's easy to forget a dirty thing. It's easy to forget a dirty thing. This sentence has repeated several times in my spirit during the past month.

(Past three weeks)
This certain evening, I am sitting in my bed and talking about the kind of freedom that is categorized as healthy as I talk about how I and my friends were contenders of love marriage instead of arranged marriage. That we were the ones with open minds there as we found the concept of arranged marriages as a system that's externally imposed on one. And that that's the freedom one should seek to find or have instead of the freedom to fornicate at will without a sense of love and commitment which are symbiotic in a healthy relationship.

As I say that being allowed to marry out of love is the freedom one should seek to have, I have the following visions.

- Abha Ma'am from my graduation college dressed in her beige Saree and short hair comes walking towards me with wide open joy-filled affirming eyes as she puts a red rose beside me. Her Saree reminds me of a photo of her that I had come across on Facebook several years back in which she stood beside her husband holding his hand who was dressed in a shirt tucked pants. It was the day she got wedded in an Aryasamaj Mandir. She looked so sober. Se had no makeup on. And she had married against the will of her parents because they were Brahmins and her husband hailed from Islam. She often talked about the same during her classes as well at times as she said that one only had to spend 20 or so years with their parents and the rest of their life with their wedded partner. So, parents shouldn't try to impose their will on their children. She looked so different on the day of her wedding which had no special preparations as they stood in the Aryasamaj Mandir with its open front visible in the background. When I had looked at the photo, I so resonated with it.
I just looked her profile up. She was dressed in a maroon Saree in that photo. But in the vision, she came walking to me dressed in a beige Saree.

I talked about how the situation back in my hometown was at the unhealthy culturally rigid end of the spectrum wherein parents expected their children to obey them in their choice of partners, but here in the city, at a broad level, the situation was on the other end of the spectrum where people openly fornicated without any discretion. It's a part of the sinful culture.

A small-framed vision of Abha Ma'am standing dressed in a dark purple Saree facing to the left as she says: she will keep repeating the same thing.

- Prof Hashmi from my dept looks smiling at me as he understood where I was coming from when I was making such a statement.

- I intermittently keep seeing KA shouting that I love him in a stuffed voice.

I talk about how the one thing I wanted to do since I was a child was to learn to play the keyboard which I couldn't really do during the past few years as when I got enrolled in the PhD program, I thought I would begin taking lessons. It's then that I see:
The side-view of the upper half of Glory dressed in a half-sleeved white shirt over black trousers standing in the corridor outside facing to the left as he blew his nose openly with an expression of joy.

Aaja lag ja gale se mere tha kar ke
Tha tha re.. Tha tha karke..
Saari duniya se ishq bayaan karke..
Tha tha re.. Tha tha karke..

As I talk about how I got the worldly perspective back after surfing through Abha Ma'am FB profile to look for her pic from her wedding day, and I am expanding on how the worldly rubric is profoundly different from the godly rubric of gauging people's position, and how I could never relate with the messengers sent to insult me in one or the other way by pointing out to me my worldly status disregarding who I was, I am now able to perceive the wide worldly difference and how I indeed was that lowly person when perceived through a worldly lens.

I then saw the face of the dusky guy in front of me as he held my face and said: You're very rich. You're very rich. That's how I feel as well because I don't feel that I am lacking in anything that I need. God has provided all that I need on Earth and what I need to serve as His beloved worker on Earth.

I see the drastic difference between the worldly and the godly lens now as I was negligibly or observably low on the worldly perception if not at level zero, but now I see the stark difference in the lens of the world or its culture and the lens of God or the culture of the kingdom of God. And I also realized that that's also why I could write revelations about those celebrities while looking at them as the humane or conscientious children of God and not keeping their worldly status at the forefront.

As I'm having snacks with tea earlier in the afternoon while I've put water to warm, I experience an abrupt soar in the spirit inside me and in that state, I feel like stopping eating right then with this sensation caused by a sudden rise in the spirit followed by the vision of my snack bowl being abruptly thrown away. I can tell that it is because of a sudden internal rise in my spirit that's leading me to feel this repelled by food. It convinces me how when it would be time to fast from the evening of 14th, the spirit would help me carry out the fasting for the intended duration. I then see the semi-animated face of Jesus to my right as He held my face between His hands and said looking into my eyes: I will help you fast.

- You touched Kartik's heart. You touched Kartik's heart.

Around 5 pm in the evening, I was cold waxing my hands and feet and towards the end, I heard:

- You know everything, Kartika. That's your problem. You know everything.

During bathing:

- As I am almost done bathing, I see the upper half of the bald middle man as he tells Glory to go and kiss me in Hindi. Ja usko kiss karke aa!
- Towards the end of bathing, I hear Glory again: Bik gayi. Bik gayi. I then hear Jesus who tells me that, no, I wasn't sold out.

After bathing:

- Glory shouts that I love him! I can tell that he is saying so because I am dressed in a long shirt over leggings. He shouts it a few more times again with small intervals between consecutive visions.
- He later also shouts that I'm looking Sooo.. beautiful.
- A small-framed vision of Glory dressed in full white is seen near the balcony door as he says: I didn't want a smart wife. I wanted someone whom I could manipulate.
  Well, if this is what he really wanted, then shame on him!

- As I am making tea and moving to and fro from the balcony door to the room's door through the kitchen space, I see the dusky guy in black behind me as he holds me by my waist. The following vision has my front being slim as well though it's hidden by my loose red and white checkered shirt. I then see myself dancing slowly with him being dressed the same. I then see my face wearing makeup in the dance and my slightly long manicured nails painted in a transparent glossy nail paint with the top painted with white paint as we continue to dance slowly. In this vision, I see myself being slim, dressed holy in a full-sleeved long shirt, wearing makeup and manicured nails, all of which I don't usually do, besides implementing the holy way of dressing. This version of me makes me think that this would be the least amount of change that I could bring to my looks.

  While my tea was still brewing, I also heard: Tera baap aa raha hai tujhe marne. Tera baap aa raha hai tujhe maarne.

  As I am having tea with the sweet snack my Mom brought, I see:
- The upper half of the dusky guy in black to my left as he says: I will kill you for doing this to me. Because you're so sweet.
- The dusky guy in black say: She's pure sugar. She's pure sugar. The vision is followed by a translucent and fluid him lying on the floor as he's being stretched on the floor with his body and the transparent fluid around representing thick sugar syrup.

  The upper half of Glory dressed in a half-sleeved anime t-shirt facing to the right as he asks me sobbing with an open mouth: I am a toy?

- I also see the blurry upper half of Pastor dressed in his navy blue sweater say laughing: Ye Petu fast kaise karegi!?
  As I wrote the above, I heard:
  Na to bal se.. Na shakti se..

Par teri atma ke dwara..

I go out because of something and when I am back inside and am all smiling, I see the upper half of the dusky guy in black as he says looking to the left: Her husband is here. Her husband is here.

20:22
About half an hour back, I received my dinner from the neighbouring Aunty and I was so filled with joy because I had received my ring watch a while back as well. As I am explaining the cause of my happiness, (We've to leave her Mrittunjay. She's getting attached to us.)
I look at my amplified state of feeling being connected to Heaven and standing stronger in my identity of a coheir with Christ who is currently on Earth in a physical body. It was quite contrary to the abrupt change in my perception of the world to being high in the world – which I had experienced in the morning after surfing through Abha Ma'am's FB profile.

Suddenly I was full of my spiritual identity in Christ and I felt connected in my spirit to Him and His kingdom through His Spirit and knew that though I was on Earth, I was a future citizen of heaven. As I said so, I saw the dusky guy in black near the ceiling behind me in the kitchen corridor as he said looking down at me with an annoyed expression: Can't believe this bi*ch is real.

As I am saying something standing facing the table, I see Glory hit sideways the back of my head with a thick log carrying a fierce expression.

I see Glory's eyes looking to the left as he seems to be lost in thought while he repeats: She's feeling in character today. She's feeling in character today.

Late Evening

- A small-framed Jesus dressed in all white as He is burning in high flames of fire and looking at me says: I Love You, Kartika.

Night

The side view of a woman's naked middle body facing to the left with a string made of diamonds around her lower waist with a conical frilled front hanging in front of her groin as she is moving slowly around her position. The vision expands and she is shown to be a naked Akhila with her hair falling at the back as she is moving her buttocks in slow dance moves dressed in that frilled diamond lingerie set. As the vision further expands, she is shown to be dancing in front of Death Conqueror who sits leaning on the double bed looking at her naked dance moves.

As I was writing the above vision, I saw the face of Death Conqueror in a dark background as he said: That's who I am. That's who I am.

Earlier during the day:

- Two or more fingers slide against the inner side of my inner lobe lifting it up.
- Three genitalias slowly enter together into a dark space in a flat conical formation.

- The dusky man in black tears apart my lips and throws them to the ground followed by him now regaining his gentle posture as he puts them back at the place and they get joined back as he lightly caresses the edges and then hugs me.
- A small-framed vision of Prof TRS dressed in his brown attire in a dark background says that I am extremely dirty.

Dream:
I walk through a brown narrow passage that leads into a colorful space with parrot green being the prominent color around present on the walls. It's not a concrete house but looks like the arrangement of an acting set, and apparently, this arrangement is made in the middle of a water body as it floats on a surface. It seems that I too would have to play a part but I am not really an acting person. So I step out of the area. But then I get to know that it has been officially declared as a part of a heavenly plan to create that series for people to watch. It makes me recall the label of Pride and Prejudice that I saw at the beginning of the dark brown passage. So, indeed, the play has to be made to portray the literary work. When I get out of the arrangement, I get into a motorboat with two other people and begin to drive around. There is a net covering the base of the entire water body as a protective layer to stop people from drowning in the deep. Also, we're instructed to stay within the boundaries specified on the water body. However, as I am speeding my motorboat around, I find that I can't control its direction. When I realize it, I try to control it so it stays within the boundaries but because it just keeps speeding without much direction control, soon it exits the specified markers it was supposed to stay within and is now speeding over the waters we're not supposed to be treading. I know that we have to get back within the boundaries of the play but the boat keeps speeding away from the set as I look back at it getting further and further away. Soon we are met by a water accident and all three of us fall down. Though we are out of the specified water region, the net below the water is still present as it was laid below the entire water body and not just within the boundaried region. As we fall down, I see us falling on the net present below which stops us from sinking to the great depth out of which it would've been almost impossible for us to emerge and we would surely have been dead and without a possibility of our bodies being found and pulled out. One of us is carrying a portable balloon packed at the back but it can only help his own self and not us. I ask him to put it to use and leave. He opens the mechanism and it expands into a yellow balloon above him where he too is now shown as a short, a few feet tall, yellow plum creature with a round face. As I was writing the previous sentence, I heard in my spirit the word Pikachu - said in the tone from the TV series.

The small creature is right in front of me as I look at his changed look and the balloon above. He then leaves as we watch him floating high in the sky where he looks too tiny and is going to be our sight soon. But that floating balloon comes with the limitation of it not having a landing mechanism. So I know that it will continue to take him as high as possible and as far away as possible and soon he is going to be wandering aimlessly in the sky and would need to be found and brought back. But how is that possible without a third-party intervention? This concerns me and I know that I too would have to go up in the sky to bring him back. I and the other fellow manage to get out of the water.

After roaming around a bit, I enter into a room and now have a packed balloon with me and as I unfold it, I see it inflate and rise up by itself. I now have some hope of going to get that yellow guy back from the sky who must have traversed a great distance now wandering aimlessly high in the sky with no direction control and mechanism to land. As I turn back and walk out of the room, I see my dad standing some meters away dressed in a white tunic set.

The follow-up part of the dream has a guy lying unconscious on the floor as two girls on the other side are trying to support and lift him up. I too happen to be present there and I find myself singing a song. I don't know why I am singing that part of the song sung by the drunk lady. As we all are sitting on the floor with vertically folded knees trying to help the guy up, the other two girls insult me about singing in the exact same way as the original song. They say rudely with a mean expression: She's singing in the exact same way! I don't know either why they are insulting my singing instead of asking me why I was singing when I was supposed to be helping them lift the guy up and take him to an appropriate place. As I then focus on the part of the song that I am singing, I find that the part that I am singing is a specific small part of the song that is sung by a drunk lady. (Apparently, the lyrics aren't too meaningful either.) As I am now thinking about the reality of the song's part that I've been singing, I wake up.

After waking up

A photo of Death Conqueror that I had come across on FB is highlighted to me in which he stood drunk with both his hands around the shoulders of two ladies dressed promiscuously holding a glass of alcohol in each hand. And it makes me feel repelled from him with a great intensity and makes me nauseous for it's a blatant display of a lack of character.

It makes me feel utterly disgusted and not want to have anything to do with such a person. And now that I've seen it, I can't unsee it so it does the job of repelling me away from him. I then see a small framed vision of Jesus dressed in white as He says to Death Conqueror that she's not going to be with you unless she forgets everything.

Death Conqueror shouts: Hate you Kartika, Hate you..!

As I get up to use the washroom, I hear the following song lyrics play.

The Guy sings:
Jab behek jayenge had se jyada kadam to..
Sambhalega tumko tumhara sanam.

While brushing, I happen to think if none of the women Death Conqueror was with asked him to marry her. I then ask if none of them was willing to stay at home and cook. Now I didn't add some things which would include them getting emotionally abused or being ok with adultery and being controlled like a puppet all the time.

After a while, I see a small-framed vision of the side-view of Death Conqueror in a white tunic standing facing the dusky man in front of him on the left as he says sobbing to him: She knows how to hurt. She knows how to hurt. As he's saying so, the dusky man in black is comforting him.

In the dept

Suddenly, I am overtaken by a sense of not acknowledging Death Conqueror and think if he ever came in front of me, I wouldn't act like I knew him. I can see that I don't want to interact in any way, shape, or form with him, and don't even want to admit that I know him in any way! But I know I would be lying if I said so. So I am later thinking about how I would respond to someone asking me if I know him. And though I feel like saying that I don't know him where I don't even want to hear anything further related to him, I settle in my mind that I would choose to stay quiet and leave.

I don't want to bring any hurtful memories back to my mind so I don't feel like acknowledging him either in any way.

Prof TRS dressed in a brown shirt tucked inside pants says: She loves herself a lot.

Death Conqueror looks smiling down at me in a dark background as he says: I know that I have ruined you!

I'm having breakfast in the canteen when I have the following vision.
I also see Death Conqueror throwing a red drape away as a naked lady is seen lying helpless a few meters away from him on the floor as he says to her: Ye le tere kapde! Aur ja! As soon as he throws them at her, she gathers them quickly and first and wraps the drape around her breasts. The vision followed by her private parts covered by the plain red clothing. The follow-up vision shows her dressed fully in the red tunic set as she leaves with a joyful countenance! The vision repeats a few times and in the follow-up versions, Akhila with a naked upper half is shown to be lying on the floor with her unusually large breasts protruding out as he throws a drape at her!

My supervisor visits the lab and we chat briefly. After she's left and I am working, I see her hit the top of my head as she asks me to continue working.

I see Prof TRS dressed in his vision standard brown attire hit my head too as he too asks me to work diligently.

When I'm having lunch in the canteen, I see the dusky man in black above on my left side as he bends down and says: Never say that you love him, Kartika. Never say that you love him. The vision repeats a few times.
This makes me wonder if he says so because I'm looking apparently hateful.

I then observe my own mind because I don't want to have hate inside. And then I see myself asking lady Akhila and Death Conqueror with a forgiving and happier countenance if they would accompany me to church. That if they would like to go to the church of God. Because that's the only place they can resonate with me as of now. And I can see my happiness as I ask them the same. In this scenario, I am not in any kind of ungodly bond with Death Conqueror and I see him as my brother as I suggest Akhila to stop fornicating with him and decide this day if she was looking forward to get married to him. And that if that was the case, even then they should respect God's holy precepts, and if that was not the case, then she should be like his sister as well and repent of her past with him and let it go and leave it in the past!

A small-framed vision of Death Conqueror in a dark background as he shouts bent over his upper half: Hate you, Kartika.. hate you!

Later I see Prof TRS say as well that I don't love the short fellow.

As I'm still in the canteen, I see the parents of Death Conqueror standing together in the background of a filled room as they say looking at me: We hate our son. We wish he wasn't born. It reminds me of the last time that I saw this vision first a few weeks back.

When I'm back in the lab and working, I see:

- A small-framed vision of the dusky man in black sliding a few cms wide golden ring in my ring finger with a front of tiny embedded diamonds. As I turn my hand and look at the inner side of the ring, I see a tiny disk of a watch at the center of the other side. It has roman numerals engraved on the edges and lacks arms signifying eternity.
- A small-framed vision of my dad in a dark background as he says: Aisi beti ka kya fayda. Isse accha to beti na hi ho. The vision repeats a few times.
- After I've apologized to Deepak for throwing water at his face and spoken out why I did the same, and I am now back to my lab and happen to recall my interaction as I think how it resolved things between him and me, I see the upper half of dusky man in black rush to hit Death Conqueror as he says to him: She loves him! She loves him!
  I also told him that he was just a messenger and not the perpetrator and different from him. And I too observed a change in him that was not there before. His countenance looked different, the way he talked looked different, and one could feel a changed heart inside as well. I didn't perceive in him the cunning wickedness that I did earlier.
- Death Conqueror says that it was a test and I failed it. He repeats it a few times.

Somewhere during the day as I'm working, I see the upper half until the shoulders of Death Conqueror above me as he shouts loudly in a stuffed voice: Kartika this is how you'll treat me!? The vision repeats later.

Later in the evening, I become sad as a certain heart state floods my mind. I look at why am I feeling this emotional pain or heartache that was quite apparent in front of me. I then realize that if my suffering was only for the good of God's children, I wouldn't be so much hurt.

Let me write an example.

If a woman intentionally makes her home dirty and leaves things unorganized, is not disciplined in taking care of her household responsibilities, intentionally cooks sour food or adds poisonous substances to it making it extremely dangerous to be consumed, intentionally partially cleans the dishes, and is often, if not all the time, lying, gossiping, shouting and insulting an innocent man for no reason, a man who doesn't behave in those ways in any time, and she also often creates unnecessary uncomfortable situations or scenarios for others, is sleeping around, or starts affairs and then shoves them openly on his face and uses others as well to insult that man or make a demeaning point while also declaring openly that she doesn't believe in marital commitment the way it is meant to be exercised, and if she then reasons that she is doing all that to test that man for him to be her husband, then it just wouldn't make any sense! She is doing everything a wife is not supposed to do and hurting that man. Why would that man desire or want her as a wife!?

The intent behind her behavior contradicts the desired truth of the situation. If someone goes around eating from outside and then reasons that she is doing it to cook for her family, this too wouldn't make any sense. She has to stay at home during the time she's actually cooking.

I then realized that if I was to treat him or look at him as a brother with brotherly love, it's then I would be able to overlook his sins and not be so much in pain even if he was doing the same thing that he is doing now. If he did made my prostitute website as a purely objective act meant only to humiliate me, I wouldn't be so much hurt. But he did this to attack that space that I perceived as the purest in my life with the intent to invade it. I looked at how I was capable of bonding in a love-filled bond that came with a sense of purity and commitment. But that space that I have and that ability can't be used to its full extent and he is going to be the source of all problems because that's how he has been acting until now. All these thoughts made me extremely sad and I went silent and worked silently until late evening.

So, as I was looking at how I expected my bond with my supposed husband to be and how I wouldn't think of someone who can't fulfill that bond to have the label either, and how this fellow was trying to force himself into that space, I felt downcast in my spirit.

Some revelations late evening in the dept:

- And as I work with a fallen countenance, I see Prof TRS say: You love yourself a lot. The vision repeats intermittently a few times.
- As I sit with a fallen countenance, I see the dusky guy in black wrap me with a white cloth fully after which he lifted me vertically up while I was emanating a childlike aura as I stayed still.
- As I was nearing the day's completion of work, I saw him say: You hate yourself a lot. The vision repeated when I was wrapping up and preparing to leave.

If God has a bride on Earth - the bride of Christ - He helps her in her sanctification so she becomes Holy and therefore is ready for Him. Why would God receive a filthy bride who says Jesus is her husband but doesn't live in the way? She is not a bride in that case but a hypocritical whore. And God will not accept such people either into His kingdom because those people are not behaving like the children of God? Though I know that we are not to give our Earthly lives much importance as we've our hope in heaven, but while we're on Earth, we've to act according to the godly requirements of our earthly bonds. And it doesn't mean that we shouldn't leave situations when God requires us to, because He can separate His people from the unbelieving crowd that is posing a hindrance in that person's growth in Him.

After I've returned to my room, as I move to my bed after having made tea, I see the dusky guy in black say that he hasn't seen a more real person than me, as he's referring to how my inner state bursts forth through my expression. I recall a statement I had made earlier in the dept in which I said that if Death Conqueror gave me freely even the cheapest of things, even if it's worth one rupee, or even 50 paise, I wouldn't be able to accept it. And this time I have the exact words that describe why I said what I did while earlier during the day, I wasn't able to put the underlying reason clearly. I say that it's easy to accept a cheap thing freely because it doesn't put a burden on one's conscience, while one refrains from accepting free expensive things. And for this reason, I didn't want to receive something freely from Death Conqueror which was as cheap as one rupee because it would exert an unbearable burden on my conscience! As soon as I said the same, I saw:

- Death Conqueror abruptly begins to cry out a load of tears as he retracts against the wall.
- That's the kind of wife I wanted. That's the kind of wife I wanted. says Glory with wide-open eyes, a touched expression, and a smile as he looks at me standing in the corridor, being dressed in a half-sleeved white T-shirt with a central print.
- The upper half of the dusky man in black slides down in front of me with filled eyes as his face transfigures to an amalgamation of Glory.
- A flooding Death Conqueror says why didn't I say what I did earlier?
- The dusky guy in black says that I was like this from the beginning.
- The flooding Death Conqueror says that he didn't know me as Glory repeats that that's exactly the kind of wife he wanted.

I see how I don't want to receive anything from him, not even a paisa because it would be a huge burden on my conscience!

What I said was a response to what I saw as I walked along the corridor of the administrative room of my dept towards my lab. I saw a fat and black lady dressed in light pink walk in front of two tall people as she said: Free ka khana. This enraged me and made me say the things that I later did. I called him a rapist and not think of him otherwise. And then I saw that I wouldn't want to receive anything from him, be it paid or free. He can keep it to himself. It's Jesus who feeds me! And now I am looking forward to observing the 40-day lents beginning Wednesday.

As I reach my room, I see a dark and burry vision of Death Conqueror again: It was a test. You failed it. You were never worthy of me. I was so great.

Phootne waali hai. Phootne waali hai: as I see the face of the fat and bald middle man.

- As I am walking towards my bed, I see the upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic as he says: Nau- krani. Nau-krani.
- Iske marne ke baad hi ye kissa khatam hoga. Iske marne ke baad hi ye kissa khatam hoga. And that person seems to be referring to me.
- A small-framed vision of Naveen in his day's attire as he says with a sad countenance: Kartika kyu aayi is duniya mein! Na hi ati to sahi rehta. Kartika kyu aayi is duniya mein! The vision repeats a few times.

(Updated on May 5th, 2024 at ~ 5:15 am)

Part of a Dream:
I am standing in front of a wardrobe full of clothes that aren't mine. The dark brown wardrobe is placed out in the open on the back first-floor balcony of our rented apartment at Rugha Saini's. Apparently, it's Akhila's wardrobe. I see a lot of clothes. I am holding a mic in my hand which I bought for about 50k and there are a few other small similar electronic items lying inside the wardrobe. On my right side, I see Matthew from The Chosen dressed in an unzipped white fluffed jacket over a top over blue denim jeans. He is standing with his back towards me. He turns and walks towards the wardrobe to organize his clothes and it's found that his clothes were hidden by the excess clothes of Akhila. He slides her hanging clothes to the right as he makes space to set his clothes previously hidden in the top left corner of the wardrobe. I see that those few clothes are the only clothes he has in there as I stand holding the mic which apparently belongs to me with its wire coming in from the wardrobe. In the dream, I relate with him as my own self as it seems to me that he is arranging my clothes inside though they are his. My main possessions lying inside that almirah constitute the mic and a few other musical gadgets and in the dream, I seem to know that I bought them at a high price. They constitute the most expensive things in the wardrobe.

Towards the end of a different dream this morning, I tell someone present with me that I took or accepted what a certain person gave me because I liked that person.

- The top view of a small newspaper pouch with a few biscuits inside it. The biscuits are the coconut-flavoured, round, and rectangular ones that I get from the Dinesh Store.

- This scene from the movie Stardust was flashed in my vision.

Ref: Stardust (2007) .....Lamia the evil witch ,zaps the equally evil Ditchwater Sal (full scene)

- The top view of an egg being broken into a glass with one or more eggs already broken inside.
- The upper half of a doctor dressed in white and light sky blue in a white background with a stethoscope around his neck with his head missing as a light sky blue inward burst is seen to be spreading upwards. It later reminded me of the YT Shorts video I had watched within the past week in which a painter was painting a doctor with a multi-colored outward burst with a dark base at the place of his head.

- The view of GTB Nagar Metro Crossroad as seen from the joint where cabs to Jaroda and Burari gather as a corner shop across the road on the right side is highlighted by the huge picture of a sad and dull face of a woman with her hair tied low at the back being held away as a mask. The woman holding the mask away is Shilpa Shetty looking sideways to the left with a teethful smile, and is dressed in a plain white saree with its drape spread fully on her front over a red blouse.
  I hear a group of guys shout: Chak de fatte!, said in a tone from a Bollywood movie.

  Chak de fatte!: I began hearing this about 3-4 weeks back. And it also reminds me of this recent vision from the past two weeks in which I saw the bottom view of Glory dressed in a red t-shirt with the view of the open sky above as he hit the top of my head with a wide and flat wooden log.

  Glory dances slowly with eyes wide open in the corridor while pointing to himself as the Bollywood song plays: Bepanah pyaar mujhse.. Tu kyu jaane na..!

- The left side view of a thick beige wooden frame and a door made of raw rough, unsmoothened wood. The door is revealed to be the door of Prof TRS' room to the left of my lab on the 2nd floor in the Multi Storey building of my dept. When I enter, I see the drawers and the row of cupboards on the right side of the wall made of the same raw, and rough unsmoothened wood. He stands in front of his table with the pane of glass window behind him through which I see a monkey hanging from a tree branch. So, the aura of the room looks quite raw or natural and I seem to feel at ease in the vision as he begins to speak about something.
- Jesus standing facing the room at the edge of the kitchen area turns over a long white paint bucket filled with yellow egg mixture on my room's floor in my direction.

  Prof TRS says: She can fool anyone. She can fool anyone. But it doesn't make any sense to me. Why would I want to fool anyone?

She's gotten into our brains.

Yeah, I know. She's gotten into our brains.

Later as I'm brushing teeth: She's gotten into all of our brains as a lady resembling my supervisor says the same in the background of a crowded open place in a small-framed vision.

The side view of the face of the dusky man resting on a surface below with an open mouth in a dim-golden background as several GulabJamuns enter into his mouth one after the other in a line followed by several white Rasgullas.

The dusky man in black starts moving his mouth in sucking motions around the ring watch that I am wearing.

The bottom view of the dusky man in black in a dim golden background as he yawns. The vision repeats a few times.

The bottom view of the upper half of Death Conqueror in a white tunic near the ceiling as he looks down at me and says: You've matured Kartika. You've matured Kartika.

Well, I didn't mature into a wicked woman by God's grace.

Past Revelations

- (Past few months) This photo of the upper halves of Glory with his parents where he was dressed in a white tunic in the dark of the night outside that I saw some years back (2017 or 2018) on FB has been flashing in my spirit for several months now. Above the photo, he had written: With parents. Rome wasn't built in a day but it can be seen in a day. He looked a bit distraught in that photo as I looked back, that's how things made sense to me slowly.
- (Past few months) This photo of Death Conqueror standing behind his mom sitting on a chair with his dad beside him inside a room with a book rack lying against the wall has also been flashing in my spirit for several months now. Above the photo, he had written: With parents.
- (Past month) This was on the evening of the day that I had gone to the dept during the past month.
- (Past month) The revelation with the doctor's head today reminded me of the previous revelation of the scene from Stardust in which the witch who had held Tristan's birth mom captive is frantically moving on the ground with a missing head as tiny flames are visible around her neck.
- (Past month) When I first took out my long black muffler horizontally striped in black and white at the ends with black and white frills hanging on both sides, I heard in my spirit: Give it to her. Give it to her. As I also saw Death Conqueror looking down at me as he says: You don't deserve to possess this muffler! As he's implying that she is going to look better in that. I suddenly feel attacked because I have been using that muffler for more than 13 years since I got it in 2010 and my dad chose it and bought it for me and therefore it comes with a special importance. And additionally, it still looks as good as new. Why would I give it to someone who already has an abundance of possessions and who only wants it because she perceives it as good looking while I have deeper meaning associated with it? Now I could lend it to a needy person but she's not needy. (A tiny-framed vision of Akhila in a background as she shouts: Hate you, Kartika. Hate you.) The vision repeats intermittently during the next few weeks. And this certain day, it repeats with great intensity as I see his upper half dressed in a white tunic near the ceiling as he looks down at me and repeats incessantly without breaks: Give it to her! Give it to her! Give it to her! This makes me think if they're that greedy though being abundant.

Now, I could share it with her if she was in a needful situation and didn't have access to her abundance but I would take it back. Why? Because I have been using it for 13 years and I would rather buy her a new muffler than give her the one I have that I want to continue to use further.

(Akhila in a dark background shouts loudly at me as she looks down at me with a bent upper half: Hate you, Kartika! Hate you! It repeats. Hate you, Kartika! Hate you! That's not who I am! It repeats for a while.)

Now, it's not about an object that's to be given away but their intent and attitude behind asking for it. They're demanding it out of egoistic reasons though not being in need while saying that that person doesn't deserve that object that they've been using for more than a decade and knowing that they hold that object in special regard.

- (Past three weeks) Within the past few weeks, as I was walking inside my room and was feeling tensed, irritated, and annoyed with the trio, I felt a blow of air on my left side making me quickly turn my head to the other side after which I heard laughter above my head. I later heard: That won our hearts. That won our hearts.
- (Past two weeks) I The face of the dusky man in black to my right as I'm moving through the kitchen area and he looks at me and says pointing to the bed: What you said there was really good. The vision repeated again later.
- (Past week) As I'm reading out from the Hindi version of the Word, the dusky guy in black says: Everyone wants a wife like you. Everyone wants a wife like you.

- You've to leave us, Kartika. You've to leave us.

During Church

- A semi-animated vision of my dad walking in through the door and throwing a bomb leading to a firey blast in the center as he shouts: Aag laga dunga!
- He also makes gestures of hitting the top of my head from behind.
- As the worship continues and certain lyrics are spoken, I see him sitting on his knees in the center space.

On my way back from Church

- A small-framed vision of KA in a dark background as he shouts: Tu bahut sacchi hai..!

Past Revelations

- (Past two or three months) A semi-animated vision of my fellow PhD colleague Aastha Kakkar walking with a bent upper half as a huge beige rucksack is placed on her back. (Hate you Kartika, hate you..! That's now what I wanted to hear!)
- (Past two or three months) I hear a man's quiet voice as he says: Na to ye randi hai. Aur na hi kutiya hai. Ye bas apna kaam kar rahi hai. Na to ye randi hai. Aur na hi kutiya hai. Ye bas apna kaam kar rahi hai. (It repeats a few times.)
- (Past three weeks) As I'm sitting in front doing something, I hear: Well kill… kiss you. We'll kill… kiss you. We'll kill… kiss you.
- (Past two weeks) Glory breaks my legs by the knees by hitting them outwardly with a danda slightly below the knees.
- (Past two weeks) Phod ke khane ke din aa rahe hai.
- (Past week) Danda hit on my head.
- (Past week) The front top view of the dusky man in black in a dim golden background with a slightly erect, a meter long, and a foot wide genitalia with a huge golden pentagram resting on top at the end.
- (Past week) I'm standing in the kitchen corridor with Geeta Aunty's mummy in the small balcony area when I see in my spirit her looking at me as she gestures towards me with one of her hands while smilingly lip-synching the following song that plays in the background: Apka dil humare paas hai.
- (Past week) I am sitting in my bed when I close my eyes and then I hear: They're loving you. They're loving you. It is the only way they know how. The phrase repeats a few more times. (Kartika, we'll die!)
- (Past few days) A small-framed semi-animated vision of Ayushmann Khurrana in a light Yale blue colored background where he's dressed in a long vintage maroon sweater with a design of fine horizontal multicolored stripes separated by a foot or so around the sweater's upper half as he stands holding a bouquet which he is extending towards the viewer.
- (Past week) The dusky man in black looks at Death Conqueror as he says nodding his head: She can't be controlled. She can't be controlled. Death Conqueror affirms as he repeats the same when the vision repeats the next day.
- A very tiny me stands beside a giant Jesus like a child holding a part of His tunic.
- (Feb 13th): Ye sab karne ka kuch fayda nahi hai. Hum to tujhe maar kar khaane wale hai.

- (Past three weeks) An animated vision of the back-view of the upper half of a person extending forth from the left end of the vision. It's stripped of its outer layer of the flesh revealing the reddish tissue as it's lying on its right side on a beach with its head missing and a curved V-shaped cavity below its neck with a white strip running along each one of its shoulders. The beach extends to about 10 -15 meters further ahead before meeting the sea.

(Past few days)

- A lightly stubbled RS with neck-length straight hair in thick white attire resembling an astronaut's suit sitting in a wheelchair comes cycling into view from the left side of a dark corridor with dark shiny walls.

The view of the bottom half of a person sitting on a wheel chair with a plastered right leg.

The bottom view of a gold ring with a conical bead on top is lying on the ground in the background of the sky above. A blurry naked upper half of a man with his face resembling Glory's is seen above it as he's fiddling with the ring, still thinking if he should pick it up. Perhaps he threw it down. That's your husband, Kartika. That's your husband.

Before sleeping yesterday:

- Bitch we know you. We know you enough now.
- The semi-animated upper half of Ayushmann Khurrana dressed in a white shirt with a light orange waistcoat on top in front of a light background as a notebook lies open in front of him on a table and he has his right hand stretched forward with which he is sliding away a heap of small metallic objects of daily use that keep sliding on top of his Notebook. He slides them to the left direction again but they slide back on top of his open notebook. He repeats the gesture in a robotic motion. I don't really know what is driving the heap of metallic objects to slide back on top of his notebook.

Dream:

The Son Pari actress is seen lying on the floor in a dark tunnel with her hair tied low at the back. She is dressed in a short sky blue cotton top and a light grey cotton bikini with half a cm of her groin with a tiny hairy growth visible above her bikini line as a layer of blood can be seen running below on top her groin below the bikini's inner surface as she is moving slowly around her position as she holds her groin tightly and releases it. (Kartika, Khyati is crying.) The vision focuses and zooms in on the top left side of her groin as she grabs her groin again. It looks quite thick and is slightly upwardly protruded, and while she does so, I seem to know that Glory is watching her and liking it.

The dream concerns my mom as I find myself looking at a table made on a white page. I better act in time or my mom is going to be dead.

I walk into the smaller bedroom of our second rented home in the Cheema colony of our hometown. I see my dad lying on the left side of the bed while my mom is lying on the right side with her back leaning against the wall. I see my brother Himanshu on the right side of her as he is busy with her right breast while my youngest brother Divyanshu is lying on the left side of the bed as he takes a white cup out of the place of her left breast but it's broken in two pieces along a curve on the side.

After waking up
I see the upper half of the dusky man in black as he then duplicates into two more selves beside him.

The upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in his white tunic as he turns back and rushes to the dusky man in black standing within a meter of him and begins to hit him as he says: What've you done to her!? What've you done to her!?

I see Death Conqueror abruptly scatter down on the floor in tiny pieces of diamonds.

Mohabbat bhi jaruti thi..
Bikharna bhi jaruri tha..

During brushing
The face of the dusky man in black comes closer to my left side as he says: We know you now.

As I sit a while in prayer:

- Shanti in a dark background takes out a long strand of mucus out of her nose.
- The face of Shanti in a dark background as she says: Tum bahut acha hai.
- The face of the dusky man in black floats in front of my face as he says: We know you now. We know you now, bitch. You're a disgusting whore who pretends to be a bitch. It makes me think of the song Fiza that I was playing on the keyboard yesterday.

This song comes to my spirit after several years while I am with the online keyboard. And it has been perhaps more than a decade, and also it hasn't played in my spirit any time before either since I began hearing, and then when I do play it, I see: Glory dressed in a half-sleeved printed white anime t-shirt comes walking to me from the right direction as he hits the side of my dead lightly with a danda. The vision repeats a few times as I'm playing the song.

The lady sings:
Hum tumhare hai.. Tumhare sanam..
Hum tumhare hai.. Tumhare sanam..

Janeman mohabbat ki.. Hai kasam ki kasam..
Na Juda honge hum.

Hum tumhare hai.. Tumhare sanam..
Hum tumhare hai.. Tumhare sanam..

And as I was playing the song and also as I was writing it above, I heard: That's who she is. That's who she is.

Ashutosh Sir says: She's the simplest person I've ever met. She's the simplest person I've ever met.

As I'm walking towards my lab in the corridor on the 2nd floor of MSB, I see three ladies walking together in the corridor in the same direction as well. When I was near the lift, the short heighted dark and chubby lady Nandini had indirectly insulted me with the words laughingly (paraphrased): Bum khareedne ki aukat hai!? The taller and fairer lady Prerna in the center in a pink sweater over denim carries a prideful countenance as they all walk together while all carry mean and insulting countenances. They're all PhD students and they As I'm well ahead of them, I see a black demonic being with a volatile expression come out of the lady in the middle in a flash.

As I'm working:
I see a semi-animated vision of the dusky guy in black sitting on vertically folded knees on the ground on my left side as he is looking up at me with red love heart in front of his eyes with a smile with expressions like that of a doggie.

As I am completing writing the previous sentence, I see Glory come walking to me from my right as he says: Oye. Kya kar rahi hai ye!? He then begins to duet slowly with me. As I was done writing the above revelation, I saw a naked Glory sitting on a bench in a dark background as he looked at me and said sobbing: Mein bahut rounga tere marne ke baad.

I see him there again as this time he's sticking out his tongue as well and is gasping like a doggie along with having the red love hearts in front of his eyes.

~17:30
As I'm having snacks outside The Royal Canteen, I hear:
She's never coming.
I know.

She's never coming.

The fair and fat lady in a red coat serving as a messenger to me is indirectly saying mean things to me. When she's later having Maggi, I see a vision of her as she says to me: Mein biki hui hu bete! It repeats. Mein biki hui hu bete!

I see the upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic as he looks down at me and says seriously: No one will marry you, Kartika. After this thing has happened to you, no one will marry you!

It repeats a few times. No one will marry you. (According to the prophetic dream revelation part of which has already come to pass, Glory will marry me!)

Masih nidhaal soedaar chalte dekha hai..
Bhadakti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai..
Masih nidhaal soedaar chalte dekha hai..

Uthakar pyaar ke taabut ko masoom kandho par..

Bhare bazaar mein saabit guzarte dekha hai..

The above stanza has played in my spirit specifically quite a few number of times.

Masih nidhaal soedaar chalte dekha hai..

After reaching my room

- The face of Glory looking at me with stars and red love hearts in front of his eyes.
- My supervisor stands in front of the MSB where I last met her while leaving as she says: He asked me to do that. He asked me to do that. This reminded me of a previous vision from the past three weeks in which she said: You are making things difficult for all of us. You are making things difficult for all of us.
- After a while, I see her saying: You don't deserve him. You deserve a good man. You don't deserve him. You deserve a good man.
- The follow-up vision has her say: You deserve Naveen. You deserve Naveen.

While making tea:

The upper half of Jesus dressed in multilayered white comes out of my heart with a sword like a genie and runs the sword on the vision of Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic on my top-left shredding it into multiple pieces after which he goes back inside.

Later as I am sitting in bed

I begin to speak and explain my newly learned perspective in which I didn't just consider the behavior of other people with me and judge them based on their unjustified mean behavior but I also considered my and their relationship with God. And as I continued to explain, I received the following Analog.

Consider a dark brown plane, representing the worldly plane, in a dark background. The plane has niches that serve as the appropriate places people are supposed to assume in our lives (a given individual's life) based on who they are to us. If they deviate from those behavioral niches, it creates a problem for us, puts stress on us, and eventually may lead to us deviating from our own niches if we're not resilient or steadfast in godly values. Earlier I was looking at their hurtful behavior and was pointing out how it was wrong in different ways. So, though I may have wanted them saved, their behavior was putting extreme stress on me and led me to even being rendered unable to go to my workplace for a few months short of an year. And while I perceived them on that worldly plane, I had a vertical bond with God as well.

But now consider the dark brown surface being pulled upwards creating an inverted cone - the vertical height representing the added condition of my and others' relationship with God where I call each person's vertical height from the base of the cone their God coordinate, while the other two cylindrical coordinates represent their worldly relative stance with regards to me decided by their behavior or sins against me, or their treatment of me, that I call as their (Hu)Man coordinates.

Now, consider that out of the crowd, some people present both on the cone and the flat brown ground around were attached to me who was on the cone with thin light pink strings visible clearly in the dark. And those strings were created and placed there by God as His way of pulling them towards Him. Now, if with increased godly wisdom, I moved further up in my God coordinate, it would also lead to those people increasing in their God coordinate as well that would in turn lead to them getting closer to the desired value of their Man coordinates wherein they would transform in their treatment of me.

So instead of me looking only at their man coordinates, I now learned that I had to look at those coordinates in relation to their God coordinates and the change in my God coordinate that I would need to have so they get pulled up as a result.

As I was speaking out what I was seeing and my understanding, I saw a small-framed vision of my supervisor dressed in a tunic set as she said: So you're trying to be too smart!? Dekho vo tumhe kitna marte hai. I then received a similar small-framed vision with Prof TRS dressed in his dark grey and blue attire from today as he repeated her words. The vision repeated as I continued to explain.

- Death Conqueror says that I'm smarter than him. He also says that he couldn't have thought of this analog.
- The naked upper half of my dad sitting behind a table as he says shuffling some papers with a stressed countenance: Bahot chalak hai! Bahot chalak hai! The vision repeats.

During bathing:

- Mohabbat bhi jaruri thi..
  Mukarna bhi jaruri tha..
  The lines repeat a few times.

- The bald and fat middle man stands inside the front hall of his house as he says looking to a side: Chup kar. Is se jyada kya kapde pehenegi vo! Chup kar. Isse jyada kya kapde pehenegi vo!

- The face of the fat and bald middle man in a white background as he says: Bik gayi. Bik gayi. When I'm almost done bathing, he says: Nahi biki. Nahi biki.

- I see the dusky man in black near the ceiling as he says that he doesn't want to be with a smart girl as he may feel inferior because of her. It repeats after a while.

- When I'm almost done, I hear: Thappad marna bhi jaruri tha. The sentence repeats a few times.

- When I'm picking up my hair using toilet paper, I see: the upper half of the dusky man in black near the ceiling as he looks down at me and says: You're very disgusting. I never said it before, but you're very disgusting.
  He also says: You're very cheap.
  The visions repeat.

- When I go to the balcony area to do a chore, I see a distant small framed vision of KA on my left side as he says that no one can be with me because I'm too smart (and they won't feel good).

  I also hear: No one will marry you, Kartika. No one will marry you.

  As I'm having dinner, I see the dusky guy in black suddenly get in front of me as he begins to kiss me.

  Past 48 hours
  Death Conqueror chops his genitalia off his body with a knife.

1 Corinthians 15:1-8 (New Living Translation)

The Resurrection of Christ

15 Let me now remind you, dear brothers and sisters,[a] of the Good News I preached to you before. You welcomed it then, and you still stand firm in it. 2 It is this Good News that saves you if you continue to believe the message I told you—unless, of course, you believed something that was never true in the first place.[b]
3 I passed on to you what was most important and what had also been passed on to me. Christ died for our sins, just as the Scriptures said. 4 He was buried, and he was raised from the dead on the third day, just as the Scriptures said. 5 He was seen by Peter[c] and then by the Twelve. 6 After that, he was seen by more than 500 of his followers[d] at one time, most of whom are still alive, though some have died. 7 Then he was seen by James and later by all the apostles. 8 Last of all, as though I had been born at the wrong time, I also saw him.

Dream:
I'm standing in a street with the rough look of a town or a middle-class old undeveloped city area. I see a long and wide white car slowly approach my direction at the distant end of the street. I take the side stairs and walk up the building. When I am on the cemented rooftop, I come across almost square subsections on the floor constructed using cement.

I go back down to the first floor and find that it's our rented floor in Aditi's home (Saini Uncle's daughter). I see that a part of the Verandah is cool while another part heated by the sun. I am trying to avoid the area below the triangular part of the roof heated by the sun. While I stand confused, Sanjay Sir's student Shagun suggests me a place to sit.

In my attempt to escape the room, I jump from the window with an infant wrapped in a white cloth and as I fall down I drop him on a square grey shed on my right as a safety measure. I continue to freefall. I then see as a third person the semi-animated vision of an angled side-view of a chubby lady dropping on her back from above on a black floor, seemingly of a hall in a dark spacey background. She is wearing skinny sky-blue leggings and moves her legs slowly as she's had a bad fall. She seems to be injured. Right then another lady dressed in ankle-length multilayered white robes lands on the ground firmly on her feet with folded knees, and the person standing on the right of the lady lying on the ground begins to interact amicably with the lady standing while ignoring the one lying injured on the ground. (The blurry upper half of Prof TRS until a foot below his shoulders on my left as he says: You failed the test. You failed the test.)

While brushing
KA says in a stuffed voice: Jhutti..! Randi! Jhutti..! Randi..!

I then recall what I wrote him saying in the vision the previous night. And I remember that I need to correct it.

On reaching the dept
The left side view of my face until shoulders sitting on my seat as I'm crying tears of blood.

I am looking outside to my left through the glass window as I think how this fellow just doesn't have the needed moral track record to put me through any kind of test and how he doesn't live out the way God has called His children to do, it's when I see the face of Death Conqueror until his shoulders dressed in a white tunic as he says: I'm not worthy to test you!?

As I continue to work, I see a small-framed vision of the top-view of a naked Death Conqueror lying on top of a naked Akhila on the left side of a bed as he moved on top of her in intercourse while grabbing her breasts intermittently. The vision continued for a while followed by the short fellow elongating and transmuting into a naked Glory and Akhila transmuting into a shorter woman with neck-length frizzy hair below him.

After I'm done writing the above, I hear the guy sing:
Mohabbat bhi jaruri thi..
Bichadna bhi jaruri tha..

The vision further strengthens my resolve to stay away from him and the girl.

12:58
All these visions are seen in dim golden light.

- Death Conqueror says: I hate you for doing this to me. I hate you for doing this to me. As a small framed vision of him sitting in a car's driver's seat with an erection is shown. He repeats it a few times. (Kartika, Khyati is laughing!)
- The upper half of the dusky man in black on my left looks down at me with unblinking, wide-open eyes lowered down as he says: We've to kill her. She can destroy us. We've to kill her. She can destroy us.
- The upper half of Death Conqueror in a white tunic a few feet above my head on my left as he says: I'm sorry for doing this to you. I know you love me.
  (Hate you Kartika, Hate you!)
  I'm sorry for doing this to you. I know that you love me. As he says the same, he puts his genitalia inside his tunic and rushes at me to hug me but as soon as he hugs me, there's an abrupt enormous release through his genitalia. He then says: I am sorry for doing this to you. I know that I've to change. I know that I've to change.

1:21

All these visions are seen in dim golden light.

- The upper half of Death Conqueror in a white tunic a meter above me on my left side as he says looking to the left: She can easily do research. She can easily do research.
- The vision of the dusky man in black suggesting to kill me because for I may turn out to be a threat crosses my mind. I then see the face of the dusky man in black comes close floating in front of my face at its left side as he says in an inquisitive tone: I hurt you.?

- A small-framed vision of KA dressed in a light denim jacket over jeans walking backwards as he says that he can't be with me and continues with: Tu mujhe barbaad kardegi. Mein kahan (as he points upwards with a hand), tu kahan (as he points down).

Earlier during the day:

The Worship song Mein Jisko Chhu Lunga Pavitra Kardunga plays in my spirit as I'm walking towards the MSB after returning from submitting my documents to the Scholarship Cell.

On my way back home as I am walking towards the exit Gate No. 4 of the Science Faculty, I see

- The face of my mom as she looks at me with…
- The fair lady in dark green that I saw sitting outside her home says: Bahut gwaar hai. Bahut gwaar hai.

After returning to my room

- A small-framed vision of a beige naked Death Conqueror as he says: Mein bahut gira hua hu. Mein bahut gira hua hu.

  As he says the words, the vision flips to a side and behind it are found a spatial heap of numerous photos of a naked him lying with different naked women! The entire space is filled with such photos with him lying on top of them in different positions.

A small-framed vision of Death Conqueror in a dim-golden background as he points to the right at Akhila present at a far distance, and says: I deserve her! I was expecting her!

Even to Akhila, I would say the same words I repeat to everyone, that she should leave her lifestyle of sin and repent and seek the Will of God and be holy as He is holy. As soon as I was done saying the same, I saw the lady say: We can't live with you, Kartika. You'll make our life hell!

Glory points to the right at her and shouts: I was expecting her!

The Need for a Standard

I talk about how the presence of a moral standard is needed to live life with a clear demarcation between what's moral or godly and what's not. Without a standard, different people reason differently and tend to follow what they think is right or don't care if something is moral or ungodly. A standard gives a set rubric to compare one's moral stance with the Holy moral law of God. Without a holy standard, a certain act or line of thought can't be judged of its viability.

The Double-Slit Analogy

I then talk about the double-slit experiment analogy in which one of the slits represents the angel eye while the other represents the devil eye. If the devil eye slit is closed, the different events, situations, or ideas can only pass through the angel eye slit leading to only godly and moral judgments, creating an observed pattern of electron hits on the part of the screen behind the angel eye. However, if the devil eye slit is open simultaneously, we get an interference pattern on the screen at the back which is what we see in humans. (Somewhere while writing the last two lines, I see the upper half of Prof TRS in a light pink/lavender shirt resembling his attire from earlier during the day – May 6th – standing facing angled away from the viewer towards the left as he in a swipe removes the long red tika representing devil's eye from his forehead followed by him rushing forward to the left with pressed protruded lips and kissing someone in front of him.)

The Eye of the devil

Once while in my supposed deep transcendental meditation back in late 2016 after I had already met Tejaswi and was now doing meditation, I entered into one of those so-called altered states of consciousness and saw a red dot in my dark mental vision at the center of my forehead as that's what they teach or ask you to do. As the red hue slowly expands, the next thing I see is a huge closed eye in a dim reddish hue. The closed eye was the eye of devil inside me. That day I saw the closed eye of devil inside me.

(Past month) The upper half of Naveen in a navy blue sweater as he says: Mar raha hai vo tujh pe! Mar raha hai vo tujh pe!

The upper half of RS in deep red tunic as he says: Ye bahut dukhi hai, Kartik. Ye bahut dukhi hai.

As I'm talking about everything he said has been proven wrong or God devised a situation that defied most of the things, if not all, that he had said, I hear: Tejaswi is crying why he even met you.

As I begin to talk about how some of the things he said were partially correct, I exemplify his comment about the presence of an eternal being inside all of us but how he didn't know the truth - that eternity is supposed to be lived with God in Heaven, I then see a blurry vision of him dressed in a tunic set with a head of frizzy hair in a dim golden background as he shouts:
Hate you Kartika, Hate you!

Without God, love can't be defined as its meaning comes from an eternal God in Heaven whose love is eternal/everlasting.

1 Corinthians 15:1-8 (New Living Translation)

The Resurrection of Christ

15 Let me now remind you, dear brothers and sisters,[a] of the Good News I preached to you before. You welcomed it then, and you still stand firm in it. 2 It is this Good News that saves you if you continue to believe the message I told you—unless, of course, you believed something that was never true in the first place.[b]
3 I passed on to you what was most important and what had also been passed on to me. Christ died for our sins, just as the Scriptures said. 4 He was buried, and he was raised from the dead on the third day, just as the Scriptures said. 5 He was seen by Peter[c] and then by the Twelve. 6 After that, he was seen by more than 500 of his followers[d] at one time, most of whom are still alive, though some have died. 7 Then he was seen by James and later by all the apostles. 8 Last of all, as though I had been born at the wrong time, I also saw him.

Revelations before falling asleep:

- I see a ring watch with a circular dial circumferenced with small colorful stones.
- I then see a ring watch with a small dial with a few thin metallic strips beaded with tiny lavender circular stones.
- A light pink ring with a love heart-shaped frame inside which is shown a real natural scenic view of tall green mountains on its right side.
- A man dressed in a white suit stands in front of a white wall with a few pieces of white furniture around as a deep red bird flies upwardly to the right in the direction of the man holding a long-stemmed rose in its beak. The flight of the bird is shown a few times in the vision.

Dream:
I've to run from my abusive home on the first floor of the Rugha Saini's. When I exit through the roof's door, I take a left towards the direction of the roof and traversing a few steps forward begin to run. As soon as I begin to run, the wicked guy chasing after me begins to run as well, and I want to reach the roof's nearest edge to make a jump. In the dream, I know that I would be able to float or fly in the air and move. After making the jump, I float away in the air from the roof. The guy too jumps and is shown to be still chasing after me.

The chase continues for a while. I am now in a street with goons who shoot everyone they see. The bullets don't hit me and only I am left after the shoot. The goons begin their shoot again. There's a short-heighted lady on the street with neck-length frizzy hair dressed in a sleeveless beige rucksack. The lady gets shot along with others and falls down. I wasn't expecting her to get shot because she was one of the main characters in the dream. But now that she has been shot, I don't really know what the substance of the following dream is going to be about.

The next thing, I find myself in a crowded place with a distant side view of the moustached Pastor Emmanuel Morgan sitting at the edge of the corridor cum verandah in front of a building. He is dressed in a full-sleeved shirt tucked inside pants and is sitting facing to the left. He is healing people as they surround him in the open space in front of the Verandah. The follow-up vision shows my dad sitting in front of the Pastor with his hand held by the Pastor as he is praying for my dad. The pastor is lightly pressing on the joints of my dad's hands and fingers as he seems to pray for him. Though I'm present there as well, I don't want to be seen by him. As he's leaving, I go after him and try to catch up to him as I see him walking downstairs on the stairs on the right of the divider on the left of which I stand on the stairs going down to a U-turn to the other side. When I look at him, I see him dressed in an orange shirt with a tiny black print with a deep V-neck and a black jacket on top as he looks at me with wide-open eyes carrying a resentful and angry expression. As soon as he looks at me, I can tell that he is going to rush to me to hit me and it's also what ensues as he rushes towards me making me turn away and run. (As I was writing the previous two lines, I heard: Bahut dodaya mujhe Kartika tune! I then see a small-framed vision of the back of Death Conqueror in a white tunic running away from the viewer on an almost empty soiled road with buildings on both sides in daylight. Bahut dodaya mujhe Kartika tune! Bahut dodaya mujhe Kartika tune!)

I rush back to the church and when I enter the room, I come across some people and pass them by. Anxious and fearful, when I see the Pastor, I hastily ask him for a place to hide from my dad. He suggests a steel tin box lying in the room. I can't fit into that. Therefore, I hide below a foldable bed with other stuff lying below it. Soon my dad and my youngest brother enter the room as I can see their legs walk inside through the door through the space below the folding's surface. I'm hoping they won't spot me hiding below the bed. My youngest brother walks to the right side of the bed and in his attempt to find something or hand something over to my dad gets on top of the folding with his legs reaching below. I am now trying to avoid getting touched by his legs as a great part of which is now below the bed. However, I end up touching his legs because of a lack of space making me fearful and anxious. After a while of having touched his legs now enough number of times, I now know that I've to get out because my presence has been made known. When I do get out, I see my dad lying on top of the folding with his back leaning against the wall. He no longer looks as angry as he was at the stairs when he looked up at me on his right. He doesn't scold me, or try to hit me but is sitting silently on the bed. However, I can tell that things aren't perfectly okay either. I am hoping that my mummy would be soon around in the room as she is my protection from my dad and my youngest brother. I don't have any resentment hovering in the space between her and me so I want to be around her more than anyone else at this point. Since I know that I'm not on good terms with my dad and youngest brother, I know that I can't really argue much about anything, or it won't be safe for me. My youngest brother asks me to cook Biryani for dinner but I find the idea itself too hard. I tell him that I can cook Roti Sabzi easily and not Biryaani. But he doesn't agree with me and is adamant about Biryani. I move out of the kitchen to be away from him as he's not a safe presence to be around and find my mom outside and tell her that Divyanshu is asking me to cook Biryani while I find it comfortable to cook Roti Sabzi and not Biryani. It's not in my learned skill set, nothing that I've cooked or practiced cooking or know the procedure of, and obviously, I can't learn to cook the same and cook it well in one go without a miracle. My mom listens to me calmly as I'm complaining about Divyanshu's stubborn attitude. (A small-framed vision of my dad in a white tunic set sits leaning against a light-colored surface as he gestures wiping away a tear from below his eye on the left with the side edge of his hand. It repeats a few times.)

Post Waking Up

The chorus of this song begins playing in my spirit.

The Lady sings:

The flick is burning.. Ohh.. The time is running.. running out..

Only I see.. Ohh.. The diamonds diamonds.. Breaking down..

I won't stay quiet.. I won't stay quiet..

'Cause The pain of silence is more than dying

I won't stay quiet.. The flick is burning now..

This is not a.. This is not a.. Swan.

Dua Lipa - Swan Song (Lyrics)

The swan song plays for a while.

The beginning melody of the song Chaand Sifaarish from the Bollywood movie Fanaa plays in my spirit.

Chand sifarish jo kar ta (lyrics)

- The short-heighted fair lady in black from The Matrix Salon says to the barber: Tune iska 30% keratin kyu hataya.

13:47

- KA says: Bahut Murakh hai. The vision repeats a few times intermittently.
- RS says: She'll never marry. The vision repeats a few times intermittently.
- The upper half of the dusky man in black as he says: We hate her Mrittunjay. That's just the truth. We hate her. That's why we did this to her. We hate her. That's just the truth. The vision repeats a few times intermittently.

~19:00

- The upper half of Dushman in his beige postman clothes as he says to the dusky man in black: Phaad de ise Madhavan? Phaad de ise? The dusky man in black begins to morph into an identical image of Dushman but before he's turned into one, he changes back to himself and stays so and it's quite apparent that he can't be shapeshifted or morphed into the character of Dushman.
- The face of a man as he wickedly puts a piece of Roti in his mouth.
- The side view of Brother Philip dressed in his maroon t-shirt standing facing to the left on a concrete road as he falls on his knees on the ground with his hands on top of his head as a long danda hits the top of his head from behind.
- Apne ghar jaa Kutiya. Apne ghar ja Kutiya.
- Go back home bitch. Go back home.

20:03

- The upper half of Death Conqueror as he says: She's an extremely selfish bitch. She's an extremely selfish bitch, Madhavan.
- She's not selfish, you blind fool.**
- While cleaning the induction heater, I hear: Kartika, you forgot to say that you hate us.

As I'm looking at something in my laptop, I end up fiddling with my cross pendant with my left hand and see the presence of the metallic pendant and the ring together which makes me think of Billie Eilish as she likes to wear metallic jewellery. Her song When the Party's Over is the first song that comes to my mind and I play it. Some of the lyrics are for someone to learn from. For instance, when she holds her white shirt and sings: Tore my shirt to stop you bleeding..
And that's also the lyric that's highlighted to me. The flow of her black tears makes me recall the similar flow of bloody tears from my eyes in the dept yesterday. I also recall the recent vision I had of her which was also my first vision of her. In that vision, I saw her upper half dressed in baggy multicolored top as she stood facing to the right slightly turned towards the viewer as she looked at her/him.

Billie Eilish - when the party's over (Official Music Video)

I then play Everything I Wanted - song by, again, Billie Eilish, and as the brother-sister duo speeds up their car into the ocean, I hear: She's a true lover. She's a true lover.

Billie Eilish - everything i wanted (Official Music Video)

As I was listening to these songs, I saw the face of the dusky man in black float near to me as he said: You're healing us. You're healing us.

When I Later play Bury a Friend, I see the trio with the dusky guy in black being the central highlight of the vision as they say together: We're dying to meet you. We're dying to meet you.

Revelations before sleeping

- A semi-animated vision of Billie Eilish dressed in a thick off-white loose and long, baggy, full-sleeved, round-neck top as she walks towards the viewer in a dim-golden background with a crown on her head embedded with light-colored gems with a similar necklace around her neck and her hair tied at the back.
- Billie Eilish dressed in a full-sleeved, off-white Afgaan top with her straight black hair falling at the back as she sits at the left side of the vision looking at the viewer.
- Billie Eilish dressed in a fitting dress with a deep V-neck with her black hair tied at the back as a black drape hangs behind her back and she holds a softy cone with a pink ice cream top as she licks it once.
- A semi-animated vision of a tall Billie Eilish in a white background as she comes walking dressed in a short and tight red suit over pants with a deep V-neck white shirt and sits on a chair on the left side of the vision.
- An animated vision of the side view of a man's head facing to the left with a glassy dark blue sky blue stone inside his skull at the left side of his brain.

Dream:
After a long dream, I am recording it in my Notebook and I stop at the event in which someone is making a mention of a Pehelwaan who is a lady represented by a few cms figure facing to the left on the right end of the vision. While recording the dream, I am still at part of the dream with the vision of the tiny figure of a Pehelwaan as I count the few more events from the rest of the dream to be written and it's when I wake up.

On my way to church with the short-heighted fellow believer with me in the E-Rickshaw, the following song lyrics kept playing in my spirit.

The Lady sings:
Quiet when I'm coming home
When I'm on my own..
I could say that I like it like that..
Like it like that.
I could say that I like it like that..
Like it like that.
But nothing is better sometimes..
Once we've said our goodbyes..
Let us let it go..
Let me let you go..

- Also, I kept sensing something at the back of my head as if something was going to hit me at my head's back.
  I felt the light sensation of the hit a few times after reaching church as well.

The bottom-view of Death Conqueror dressed in a grey jacket as he looks down at me from mid-air and says:
I've to leave her. She knows everything.

On my way to Church

- A short-heighted SRK Don in a black suit pees in his pants out of fear and shrinks down and moves backwards. This is the first time I've seen him this scared. As he stands fearfully, I also hear a voice say: Moot nikal gaya. Moot nikal gaya.

During church

- I see the dusky man in black standing in front of me as he steps forward and I give him a loving hug. Perhaps it's the church of God and I don't see any wickedness in him. The vision repeats a few times.
- I then tend to speak out my name Kartika but I can sense that it's a thick voice that has spoken my name, and its tone carries authenticity and overwhelm.
- A cylindrical glass tube with flat brown ends, half-filled with a translucent green liquid moving in place of the head of a person.
- As we're worshipping together, I see the side-view of a thin parrot green snake being held by wide black hands that are stretching the snake. The snake has its fang fully open and looks creepy. I begin to pray and then see it floating out.
- The fully stretched open mouth of a snake in front of my face as it's trying to open it even more. I begin to pray in tongues again and it goes to the left and out through the door.

- 4-5 parrot green snakes in front of me with their upper halves lifted up with wide open mouths as they're trying to open them even more. I keep praying in tongues.
- The top view of Death Conqueror dressed in a grey jacket lying on his back on the floor as he's being hit on top by feet around his head.

- The bottom view of Jesus crucified on the cross as I stand right below His feet and look up at Him while drops of blood fall on me.

During End Worship

- The vision of a woman dressed in a beige tunic lying down on the floor in front of me as she fell down because of the baptism of the Holy Spirit.
- The vision of an obese moustached man in a beige tunic and a beige half jacket with fine multicolored embroidery on top turning and walking back on the narrow center space as he holds a half-eaten Motichoor ladoo in his left hand.

After returning from the Church, I pray for a while and as I'm doing so, I see the bottom view of Death Conqueror dressed in a grey jacket as he's looking down at me and says: Mein tere saath nahi reh sakta. Tu mujhe barbaad kar degi. Mein tere saath nahi reh sakta. Tu mujhe barbaad kar degi.

- I fall asleep after a while and after waking up see Amma's daughter, who represents Akhila, standing dressed in her maroon tunic at the near end of the corridor in front of her room facing in the direction of my room as the follow-up vision now shows a conical heap of ashes lying in her place.

- She's going to kill me Madhavan. She's going to kill me Madhavan.

- Death Conqueror looks at Madhavan as he says referring to me: I've to leave her.

Night

I lay down to rest for a while and have the following revelations.

- The front view of my dad's face present in place of mine sitting with his eyes closed in my posture leaning back against the wall on the bed dressed in my checkered black and white shirt covered with quilt as a golden beaded Chess Queen's crown rests on his head.
- The upper half of KA dressed in dark multilayered clothes as he says: Ye bahut acchi hai!
- RS says to KA: Ye bahut gwa.. Bahut acchi hai.
- The upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a grey jacket looks down at me as he says with an immoral expression: You're my f*ck toy. You're my f*ck toy.

- The upper half of the dusky man in black as he says:
  I can feel her broken heart. I can feel her broken heart.

- The short fellow says looking downwards:
  I don't care. She's my f*ck toy.

- A stubbled RS with neck-length straight hair dressed in a light blue zipped tracksuit with two white parallel strips running along the sides gets out of a grey car parked horizontally and begins to walk towards the viewer with the sight of a lady dressed in thick beige clothes with her straight hair falling at the back walking a few feet behind him visible on the left side of the vision as he says: Chal tujhe sair kara ke lata hu.
- A semi-animated vision of Pastor dressed in a multi-colored half-sleeved sweater over a white shirt and pants as he lies fully face down on a rectangular strip of blood on the floor of my room as he says looking upwards: Hey bhagwaan mujhe maaf kijiye!
- The face of the dusky man in black as he says with a quiet seriousness: You'll kill him..? I will kill you.. The vision intermittently repeats a few times.

She knows what she's talking about.

9:59
Dream 1:
Towards the end of this dream, I am at Meera's FB profile as I read her About section on the left side below her profile picture which reads: All Bi*ches are very serious about morals!
I read it a few more times because I find it hard to fathom that she would use such a rough sentence that she never used for years when we were friends together.

Dream 2:
As I walk on the sideway on the right side inside the Science Faculty towards the dept, I find myself looking at a page with two pictures of women drawn on it - one on the top left corner and another on the bottom right. Both pictures are basic figures with straight edges and a round face at the top. They are colored red with white stoney glass beads glued inside the straight-line structures. I notice that the one above is formed by the beads glued at some intermittent places but the one below is made by drawing a page with white beads.

My mom comes to meet me on a blue and white motorbike as she begins to explain the problems a certain vehicle is facing. I tell her that she could've used an alternative.

- Akhila dressed in a long beige coat stands facing the open door of the room at the end of the corridor in which Amma's daughter stays with a fearful expression as she pees in her trousers which can be seen reaching down the floor.
- The heads of both Akhila and Death Conqueror get hit by a thick wooden log together inside a room.
- A danda hits the top of the head of Akhila from behind and severs her head into two halves going down until the end.
- After I'm done talking to Aunty inquiring about her daughter's health and listening to her account of a lady's false ultrasound, I see the dim upper half of the dusky man in black in the dim golden light of my room as he said: That's who you are! That's who you are!

- Akhila dressed in a long beige coat stands in the corridor as she pleads: Please have mercy on me. Please have mercy on me.

- I then see her sitting down on her knees as I stand inside my room as she repeats the sentence while on her left side is sitting Death Conqueror on his knees dressed in a grey jacket as he too seems to say the same in an apathetic tone but before he completes his sentence, he hits my left leg right below the knees with a metallic rod and breaks my leg around the joint outwardly.

As I am walking out of the room to buy a few things.

- One of the trio says to another: She's a killer. She's a killer.
- Akhila dressed in a long beige coat stands facing Amma's daughter's room as a round and inverted dark orangish-brown earthen pot is shown in place of her head which gets easily shattered with a blow.
- Death Conqueror comes at me with a danda from the top but I stop it midway by holding it and taking it from him hit him back.

As I'm washing my hands standing by the washbasin:

- I see Akhila dressed in a long beige overcoat standing behind me as she is coming sideways at me with a long danda. It seems to hit me but I then see myself getting a hold of it. The vision repeats and it hits me injuring me but I'm not angry by this time so I've no will to fight back.
- She stands in my room holding vertically straight a beige danda in their right hand as others then appear around her and now there's a crowd of people holding dandas standing in my room.

16:46

- She's coming to kill you. She'll kill you for doing this to her. She'll kill you for doing this to her.
  It repeats a few times as I'm brushing while waiting for the Daal Choorma.

Before falling asleep

- The upper half of a blonde Sharon Rooney with front parallel flocks resting on her forehead and the rest tied messily at the back sitting on a wooden swing with two ropes beside her, dressed in a white shirt below a red round-neck, pinafore with red circular cloth buttons along the vertical as she takes a quick bite from a potato chips wafer in the dim golden open background of a sunlit green area.

- The vision flash changes to a slim Moaning Myrtle - the bathroom ghost - from Harry Potter, who too is dressed the same and holds a wafer of chip near her mouth between her fingers as she then floats away to the left.
- The semi-animated vision of an open mouth with a protruded beak-like upper jaw and a narrow tongue running outwards.

Flashes of the dance moves of people dressed in black along with the singing guy from this song below were highlighted to me in the spirit after I was done listening to I Have Nothing from the same series.

GLEE - It's Not Right But It's Okay (Full Performance) (Official Music Video) HD

While I was listening to the song, I heard in my spirit: He's crying why he even met you! He's crying when he even met you!

The bottom view of Death Conqueror dressed in a grey jacket as he looks down with unblinking open eyes and pointing at me, says: I've to leave her. She's going to make my life hell!

- The upper half of Klaine dressed in black in a dark background from the song as he looks at the viewer and shouts the way he does towards the end of the song.

20:36

- We're powerful people. We're powerful people Kartika. You can't fight us.

I don't want to fight wicked powerful either. I will leave them to God. I don't want to fight anyone. I will stay away from them.

- The lady sings:
  Don't you know I'm no good for you..
  I've learnt to lose you can't afford to..

- The trio cries tears of blood.

- The upper half of Death Conqueror in a grey jacket as he says: You were so disgusting yet we chose you!

The God Frequency

I explain how it is to be at the God frequency and then the previous vision of a white wooden Y placed on a flat surface in a dark background as the Y glowed with radium pink
Yesterday night the instrumental below began to play in my spirit

And as I was explaining how the instrumental carried the pure essence of God, I saw Glory dressed in a half-sleeved white t-shirt over black trousers as he stood in the corridor outside with his back facing my side of the corridor and said: Mein bahut bura hu. Mein bahut bura hu.

Earlier during the day:

As I am lying in bed feeling fatigued and thinking about how I've failed God and how I am a useless servant, I see Judas lying on his side on a surface in a dark background with a black woollen beanie on his head as he says: My job is so difficult. After the vision, I begin to speak insults about myself to God in prayer as I say that I am this, I am that and I don't know how He sees me and what good I am to Him when I see a 4-5 inches long kite-shaped navy blue translucent diamond floating openly in the air.

1 Corinthians 15:1-8 (New Living Translation)

The Resurrection of Christ

15 Let me now remind you, dear brothers and sisters,[a] of the Good News I preached to you before. You welcomed it then, and you still stand firm in it. 2 It is this Good News that saves you if you continue to believe the message I told you—unless, of course, you believed something that was never true in the first place.[b]
3 I passed on to you what was most important and what had also been passed on to me. Christ died for our sins, just as the Scriptures said. 4 He was buried, and he was raised from the dead on the third day, just as the Scriptures said. 5 He was seen by Peter[c] and then by the Twelve. 6 After that, he was seen by more than 500 of his followers[d] at one time, most of whom are still alive, though some have died. 7 Then he was seen by James and later by all the apostles. 8 Last of all, as though I had been born at the wrong time, I also saw him.

As I lay down to sleep the last night, I saw a small-framed vision of Glory dressed in full-sleeved, ankle-length white tunic with a narrow waist tie as he held a golden crown in both hands floating in the background of the heavenly blue sky with some clouds and a few other angels visible behind him in the far sight as he said: We're waiting for you.

Dream Vision:
Two columns of 3 long Hindi words written in brown on a white surface with the columns separated by less than a foot with the first word on the left column written in Hindi being Hawasnihari. All the words in both the columns are long and the ones on the right column are longer.

As I was writing the above:

- The bottom view of the upper half of Death Conqueror in a grey jacket as he looked down at me and says slowly pointing at me with a quiet unblinking expression: Mein marnewala hu.

In the middle of the night
I wake up with a sudden inner repulsion for the passive presence of wicked Death Conqueror through the spy cameras that makes me change sides as I feel nauseated. (The face of Death Conqueror on my right with red love hearts in front of his eyes as he licks my right cheek with a foot-long narrow tongue. Mein yehi chahta tha. Mujhe rape karna pasand hai.)

The Dusky Man Revelations (I have a series of revelations about the Dusky Man in black.)

Dream :
In this dream, I see a girl sitting on the floor flipping pages of her unlined notebook with English words written on top of each and their meaning written below the line drawn below the words. She's sitting with a local crowd around her minding their own business and chatting within their groups. I see that some words have their Hindi meanings written as well at the bottom of the page after she's flipped through several pages. The girl then tears up the top part carrying the words from the pages together and hands the rectangular bunch to a person sitting beside her on the floor, but keeps the written meanings intact in her Notebook.

I am inside a room lit in white light with my mom. Outside the window on the wall on the left, I see some books, stationery items, and a packet of chips lying on a surface extending right below the window's lower edge. I don't know why are those things placed outside the window. I lock the door but the locking system is dysfunctional.

Post Waking Up
As I sit up on my bed, I hear another word adjective emerge in my spirit as a voice says the same: stanhari. (A man's voice whispers lightly: I'm going to die..)

As I sit in my bed, and hear the light voices, I hear in my spirit: You're our wife. You're our wife.

As I feel periodic movements of the drone in my mouth, I hear a periodic: Wife. Wife. Wife.

I talk about how all Israelite men above a certain age were supposed to be a part of Israel's army to fight the people of the land they were to possess in their journey with God to their promised land. And none of them could say that they were not fit for fighting or not strong enough in physique, mind, and heart to fight and kill. All of them had to partake in the army and serve as soldiers. At times God told them to kill everyone present in the land that they were supposed to possess and not leave anyone alive and they were able to win every time they fought within the Will of God.

So, regardless of a person not wanting to be a part of the army, he had to be a part of them and be willing to fight. My motive behind talking about this was highlighting how they were given the command of 'Do not murder' but yet when they were commanded or led by God, they had to fight and kill people. This is not to say that one should murder out of vengeance because it is written Vengeance is mine sayeth the Lord but that the Israelites were required to be mentally prepared to kill in a war while sticking to the commandments in their daily lives. And I gave this example because of the scene of The Bride from Kill Bill fighting the crazy 88 that I've had revelations about previously. In one of them, The Bride was looking at the reflection of the people in her sword to gauge her surroundings and in the other one, she got injured and left unable to fight after which she got filled with the Spirit that not only healed her up but also fought the men on her behalf. (Who is the bride, you can ask. It's you and me: the bride of Christ.) I was expanding on how the bride is fighting the wicked men not out of a hateful heart but a righteous temperament because the person whom they work for took away, or tried or wanted to take away from her her only chance to live Holy. So she is highly convicted to stand firm on her stance and fight the wickedness.

As I said the above, I heard: We'll have to kill her. We'll have to kill her.

I explain how I judge but I don't judge the trio. I judge righteously their acts that tell me what they're doing is wrong but I don't judge them as I don't behave according to what they've done. In this way, I judge but don't judge. But I rather look at how God is judging them by looking at the revelations given by Him and let those revelations sink into my mind and change me from within. After I've explained this, I enter the washroom to use, and hear: We can't kill her. She's so sweet. We can't kill her. She's so sweet.

The next thing I hear is: You'ld have to kill us Kartika for doing this to you. You'ld have to kill us Kartika for doing this to you.

The face of the fat and bald middle man as he says pointing at me with his palm: Phootne waali hai. Phootne waali hai.

While I was in the middle of watching the fight scene below, I went to wash my hands and as I was doing so, I saw a blurry figure of Akhila standing behind me dressed in her long beige coat open at the front as she said: She can kill me. She can kill me. Followed by her turning her face to the left.

Kill Bill 1 Vernita Green fight scene

Mita Dena Kartika. Mita Dena.

Phootne waali hai. Phootne waali hai. says the fat and bald middle man.

One of the trio says to another looking to the left: That's why God chose her bro!

A blurry figure of one of the trio resembling Death Conqueror looking down at me as he bends his upper half down and says with a mean expression: We'll leave you after f*cking you bitch!

Well, it should feel like one would feel if one's wife left him the next day of one's wedding when he was looking forward to doing certain things together as a part of living life and had a plan for their married life. Just like one doesn't get married to break up or divorce the next day or is not expecting one's partner to leave them unalarmed the next day, in the same way, one is not supposed to fornicate and leave.

Earlier during the day:
As I was sitting in bed and the light whispers through the drones began again, I found myself unaffected and not feeling any certain way but at peace. This made me question if there's something wrong with me for it could also imply that I perhaps became apathetic to their sin or was condoning it, or what if I too became a partaker of their sin that I am not feeling agitated or hurt. And then within the past week as I lay down to sleep at night and the light movements of the drones had begun again, I had heard in my spirit a voice say: She's not enjoying it, she's liking it. She's not enjoying it, she's liking it. Though this revelation wasn't what I remembered while suddenly being vigilant of my inner stance, I still wanted to be sure about my state as I was sitting with a relaxed countenance with no reaction. I then saw: a small-framed vision of a fluffed and muscular white angelic being with a white hairy look dressed in a multicolored hairy armour with two huge white wings at the back as it wrestled a black demonic being present on the left side of the vision with its sword and was bent over him domineeringly. The follow-up vision had the demonic being lying on the ground as the angelic being stood on the right side looking down at it with its sword pointing down at it.

It's a spiritual battle inside that we face.

- As I was done writing the above, I saw: the upper half of the fluffed and muscular white hairy angelic being with a wide and outwardly curved and armoured busty and strong upper half looking at the viewer with arms lifted sideways and forearms up as it's showing its strength to the viewer. And as it stands, the demonic being enters the vision from the left side to blindside it but gets immediately overpowered.

Past Revelations

- (Past two months) A dark face of Akhila horizontally stretching a sky blue inch of tape below her face in a dark background as she looks at me with a wicked smile and a high-pitched laughter. The vision then expands and a dark me is shown standing in the dark background with a protruding unusually round naked belly as she puts the inch tape around my waist still laughing in that high-pitched tone to make fun of my round belly.
  After I was done writing the above, I saw: the upper half of Akhil as she said bent towards me with a hateful expression: Bitch I hate you! Bitch I hate you!

- (Past two months) The trio in red and white stand together horizontally in a line as they each pour a bucket of blood on top of their heads.

- (Past month) I am doing something in the kitchen area when I see the upper half of Death Conqueror in a white tunic as he says turning his face to the left: Mein iska kya karunga!? Mein iska kya karunga!?

- (Past week) Maine tere saath bahut bura kiya na!? Dekh mein uske saath kya karta hu! It repeats for a while.

Night

A guy's voice says: You would've to forget me. You would've to forget me. (with a blurry half of Death Conqueror in a grey jacket being highlighted)

Late at night, I say that you don't care about the way someone looks or if that person is rich or poor but you want someone whom you resonate with mentally and find an unworldly mutually loving bond with, and when you find that, you don't listen to others. You don't care what others have to say about you as they are not the ones in the personal nonjudgmental space sharing a love bond. I said this as I looked at how all these messengers highlighted one or the other things about me to insult me. As I said this, I saw a blurry half of Death Conqueror as he said: I know what she's talking about. I know what's she talking about.

Dream:
We need to learn something in the church. I find myself around Gate No. 1 of the Science Faculty and the Buddha lawn as I later walk into a classroom with a girl holding a sketch of the human digestive system diagram inside an open notebook. For some reason, she has the page opened. Perhaps she needs some elaboration on the process or she is fascinated by it as it must have been taught in the class at a previous point in time.

- The parents of Death Conqueror stand together as his mom says: We hate our son. We hate our son for doing this to you.

- The vision then zooms in on her mother dressed in a full-sleeved white tunic set as she says again: We hate our son for doing this to you.

- The bottom view of Death Conqueror dressed in a grey jacket as he turns his face to the left and says: She's coming to kill me.

It's Not Right But It's Okay plays in my spirit and while looking for the English subtitled version of it to discern the sentence: cheating is the fascist land pit of any animal, I notice a song titled Hit You With My Best Shot, and immediately what comes to my mind is that I would hit the short fellow with my best shot so I cause the greatest damage to him during the first hit itself lest my conscience stops me from hitting him further or I begin to feel guilty already. As I say the same, I see the upper half of Kurt from Glee dressed in navy blue in his look from the song at my top right side as he looks down and shouts silently with a mouth wide open and dark blurry eyes sliding inwards.

While I was listening to the song It's Not Right But It's Okay, I saw the upper half of Death Conqueror in a grey sweater as he said: She's won. She's won.

I also saw Glory standing in the corridor with his back in my room's direction as he turned his head to one side and said with a smile: You've won, Kartika. You've won, Kartika.

As I look at the list of pages left to be edited on the left side of my Notebook App, I see the long list float together and enter into my tissue tube.

Kartika everyone is crying why they ever met you!

Past Revelations

- (Past month) Post writing the revelation in which I put a white diamond heart-shaped rock on top of the palm of the extended forearm of the dusky man which he put on the floor and hit with a hammer, I see: the upper half of the dusky man near above me on my right side holding the revelation page in front of him with both hands like his gem as he looks at it joyfully and floats around with the page. A few hours later, as I'm now in the kitchen area perhaps checking out the water that I had put to warm, I see him near the ceiling at the small kitchen area's edge as he throws down the crumpled revelation page at me and turns away with a rude Gwaar!

As I'm writing the above revelation, I see the upper half of the dusky man in black as he says: She's not foolish or a Gwaar. She just loves truly.

- (Past few days) As I'm expanding on what I learnt from God's given revelations as I recall the one that said, "Don't sin, my darlings", I see: the upper half of the dusky man in black bent slightly to his left behind me as he asks quietly: You meant it? This makes me think why would I say it if I don't mean it?

The face of the dusky man in black bent to the left in front of me as he says: You love me!? The vision blinks for me to write it.

Your own mind is playing games with you.

Death Conqueror dressed in a white tunic looks down at me with a wide teethful smile as he says: Kartika you love us!

On reaching dept

The song It's Not Right But It's Okay plays in my spirit.

15:18
While doodling

- She's your death.
- The vision of a translucent death written in light black on my face.

I was drawing as I was led. And I wasn't being specific. I was changing angles and drawing as it came to me with the structure making no specific sense to me, but when I rotated the page straight in front of me, I saw that the structure actually resembled the upper half of an armour. After I realized the shape, I then began being a bit intentional though that too was led.

Late Evening

I was working in the dept when I started having the following vision:

- The bottom view of the bald and fat middle man hitting the top of my head with a danda as I seem to be lying on the floor.
- My dad hits the top of my knees brutally with a danda. The vision repeats.

Also, the song What Was I Made For song sung by Billie Eilish began playing in my spirit, so I played it on my laptop.

Billie Eilish - What Was I Made For? (Live from Lollapalooza Chicago 2023)

- As I played it in my spirit, I saw a translucent vision of Billie in her attire from the song behind me as I danced slowly with her.

- As I was saying something, I saw a small-framed vision of my supervisor shouting: Do your work! They're going to kill you!

- Bhai marne wala hai tera. Bhai marne wala hai tera.

Dream:
The baby; the living room (the bigger room) of our rented ground floor of the first house in the Cheema colony of my hometown; the baby changes to a toddler girl.

Revelations Post waking up

- The top view of an open cubical beige cardboard carton of dimension 1 meter as a navy blue box resembling a shoe box is turned around to its top over several other such shoe boxes of different colors lying around and below it as the top of the navy shoe box reveals Condom in bold white written on top.

- When I made a note of the vision above as The Carton for it to be written later, I saw the Bride in her yellow tracksuit attire in the air as she came at the top of my head with a danda held by both her hands with a furious silent shout.
- As I was done writing the above carton vision, I saw the bottom view of the upper half of Death Conqueror dressed in a grey jacket as he looked down sobbing at me and said quietly: Mein marne wala hu.
- The small square window with a dull light brown outside view as seen through a slightly moving lens with a cross in the middle.
- A fair and fat toddler with narrow eyes and a line for a smile, dressed in a light sky blue and white allovers, as the middle of the tall man dressed in black holding the toddler straight in front of his belt is visible while the toddler is pulling the string out of the trouser of a person standing facing to the left. The toddler does so quickly with a mischievous expression as he keeps stretching out the trouser string of that person. As the man moves forward towards the viewer, he continues to mischievously pull up the trouser string of all the people standing in a line on the right facing to the left!

- As I settle in my bed to have tea, leaning against the wall, I see the front view of a blonde Uma Thurman as The Bride sitting in my place emulating me.

13:57

- As I was wiping my face after a water wash, I saw the upper half until the shoulders of The Bride in yellow with her sword held straight beside her face as she was floating towards the viewer speedily leaving the view of her surroundings and the people she was leaving behind blurry.

14:30

- As I was readying to go to the bank, I heard in my spirit: Phootne waali hai. Phootne waali hai. Phootne waali hai. along with the blurry face of the bald and fat middle man being flashed.

17:58

On my way to the first bank (Canara Bank) in Rickshaw, I see the dim translucent face of a stubbled Keanu Reaves with neck-length straight hair to my right as, coming closer to my face, he says in a quiet tone: You're my heroine!?

While walking to catch a common cab after visiting the second bank, I hear: She was always this smart. She was always this smart.

Yesterday and throughout the day today intermittently, this specific scene from Billie's Grammy performance this year of the song What Was I Made For in which she lifts up her eyes and looks to the right side kept flashing in my spirit as when I had seen it first, I could see her inner self reflecting out - that rare emotional authenticity of an artist that speaks out from his or her eyes. And when it crossed my mind today at times, I found it hard to look in her eyes in the flashed vision because of the genuinity and intensity her eyes poured out. It was almost as if her unseen self, contained inside her body, came at you with such great force if she looked at you that way that you almost felt threatened by its intense authenticity where it came out of her like an invisible unphysical thing and hit you. It was a rare sight.

What Was I Made For? (From The Motion Picture "Barbie") [2024 GRAMMY Performance]

When I went to YT again, I ended up playing the above song mainly to look at her expression, watch her sing, and look at the look in her eyes. The expression in her eyes was transparent like water and one could look directly through the several invisible transparent layers inside her eyes that led directly to her core self.

I then thought of surfing through her channel and then opened the song shared below.

Billie Eilish - Happier Than Ever (Official Music Video)

I could relate to several of the song's lyrics and therefore watched it again. I then thought of surfing her channel a bit more for some more songs. The title of the song below caught my attention and got me curious, and so I played it. While I was listening to it, I heard in my spirit one of the trio say: She's making fun of us. She's making fun of us.

Dream:
I board a bus and find a toddler sitting on the conductor seat on the left. I sit beside him and notice a fluffed and muscled gigantic man dressed in a fitting blue polo t-shirt on the seat behind the toddler as he keeps pampering him toddler from behind.

- The right side view of the upper half of Margot Robbie until slightly below her shoulders dressed in a boxy pink coat over a shirt with her blonde hair falling at the back as she is running forward with a lioness running beside her on the father end of the vision alongside the shiny horizontally striped brown wall.
- The upper half of Margot Robbie walking to the right dressed in a finely black and white checkered coat.

The upper half of Billie Eilish standing facing to the right dressed in a loose baggy sweatshirt with a Cheetah print with the vertical color scheme of the instrumental below superimposed on the vision as she lifted a long wooden lever in front of her from over a table followed by her rotating a wheel clockwise by both hands as the view of a dark dimly lit room is visible behind her.

Ye Dhua Dhua Sa Rehne Do Mujhe Dil Ki Baat Kehne Do..Instrumental

- A closeup view of the upper half of Billie until shoulders dressed in a boxy parrot green coat with a parrot green hair head top and metallic jewellery around her neck as he looks with lifted eyes at the viewer in the background of a lit empty room with a checkered floor.

As I was done writing the above, I saw the bottom view of Death Conqueror dressed in a grey jacket looking down at me as he says warily:
We've to leave her Bro. She's a threat to us.

Earlier from the day:
As I explain the way the ego does the character roleplay of Dushman as well as the guys in Red and White in the case of the trio and how my ego does the roleplay of the lady in orange from the song Tumhare Siva as well as The Bride in the scene of The Bride vs The Crazy 88.
She is just like us.

You've understood us perfectly.

As I'm walking downstairs towards the half gate, I see a semi-animated vision of the dusky man in black in a black and white suit behind me above on the floor before the stairs as he folds his genitalia and tucks it between his legs.

A voice says: They're going to cry tears of blood. They're going to cry tears of blood.

Earlier during the day, the following lines from the song were playing in my spirit.
The Guy sings:
You make me feel funny..
…….
You make me feel happy..
What am I doing without you.

Revelations last night:

- The upper half of Finneas dressed in his striped and checkered brown attire from the last video I watched yesterday says: You're very smart. You're very smart.
- Finneas dressed in his light brown attire from the video stands facing me against the wall to my right as he says: You're extremely cheap. You're extremely cheap.
- I'm watching one of Finneas' song in which he sings to not waste time just to pass the time. It reminds me of the words said to me by my friend Blue during one of her FB chats in which she said that there's always something to do to pass one's time on Earth as we wait for the kingdom of Heaven. And when the song is over, I end up saying the same, and it's when I see a dim vision of his upper half in front of the clock and Psalm's wall, dressed in a white t-shirt as he's shown to be laughing and a voice says: He's laughing Kartika.
- I then see a silver ring or some other similar metallic ring with a blue bead in the center in a light background with the upper half of Billie's brother Finneas as he says to someone in the front: It's for you. It's for you.
- The bottom view in a white background of a thin metallic ring with a conical blue stone head followed by Finneas flashing in the background as he says: You're my diamond. You're my diamond.
- I see a dark grey cemented long passage with thick side walls as a crowd of tiny people is rushing in. It seems as if they're all entering a hall that lies at the end of the passage. Finneas dressed in a maroon jacket over a neck-high grey t-shirt over trousers speeding on a bicycle towards the viewer appears in the middle of the end of the passage. He is bicycling towards the viewer speedily in the vision.

- A vision flashes which shows the upper half of his brown attire from the video I watched yesterday as he sits beside Billie on a separate chair looking at her says to her: She's just a dumb girl who got interested in us. She's just a dumb girl who got interested in us.
- As I'm making tea later, I see a dim upper half of Finneas as he says quietly with a serious expression that he is in love with me. The vision repeats.

As I lie down to sleep later and can sense the drones and the presence of the trio, I hear:
Don't tell us Kartika that you've fallen in love with us. Don't tell us Kartika that you've fallen in love with us.

- A grey tombstone as a tiny Finneas dressed in a suit with a white shirt inside lies with a bouquet of red roses along the side of the cemented grave.
- He says: I'm going to die.. I'm going to die.. If you.. He then says that he's going to cry after I die. The vision repeats. He says that he's going to die when I die.
- His upper half dressed in the red and white attire moves towards the viewer as he holds a bouquet of red roses in his hands.
- A stubbled RS with a blonde Drew Barrymore wearing red lipstick with her hair tied at the back at the front of a speed boat moving towards the left of the vision with another boat resembling a ferry few meters away from them on the other side of the vision.
- The top view of a woman's head facing to the left with black hair partitioned in the middle as seen from 3 to 4 meters as a wooden danda hits the top of her head in the middle from the back.

As I said that you only feel pain when you're stuck in the earthly plane perceiving things from an earthly sense of reality, and that that's not the place I wanted to be at, I saw the stubbled face of Finneas until his neck a few inches ahead to my right as he held my face with both hands and was lightly pressing kissing me with closed eyes. And it's also when the drones are moving somewhere inside my mouth.

I also saw the face of a sobbing KA in a white tunic as he said to me: Kartika tu phas gayi yaha par. Tu phas gayi hai yaha par!

Post waking up
As I continue lying in bed waiting to gain strength to get up, I hear the chorus of the song play in my spirit. I had watched it yesterday night and it reminded me of the first time I had watched it after Tejaswi's episode.

The Guy sings:
So go ahead and break my heart again..
Leave me wondering why the hell I ever let you in..
Are you the definition of Insanity?
Or am I?
Oh it must be nice..

To love someone who lets you break them twice.

FINNEAS - Break My Heart Again (Official Video)

As I open my eyes lightly, I see the view of Billie's eyes in place of mine emulating my expression.

After a while, as I'm turning, I see Finneas in his brown attire from yesterday's video in place of me emulating my expression. So, both of them are called by my name to the kingdom of God.

The chorus plays intermittently as I'm making tea and other times.

Past few minutes

- The side view of the upper half of Glory until his shoulders standing facing to the left dressed in a white tunic as he holds my face within his palms who stands a foot or two in front of him as he says: Aisa kyu kiya!?

Glory dressed in a white tunic stands in the corridor facing my room's direction as he shouts: Kartika tu bahut acchi hai!

A dim-vision of Finneas dressed in his brown attire from the video yesterday as he shouts: You're extremely poor! You're extremely poor!

But he's going to be sad anyway when I die.

14:24
About an hour back, as I was nearing the door to step out to buy some things from The Dinesh Store, I saw a small-framed dim figure of Finneas dressed in his brown attire from the video yesterday as he shouted: I'm in f*cking love with you! He repeats it with a bent upper half: I'm in f*cking love with you!

When I've returned and am making tea, the vision repeats.

- While I'm making tea, I see the stubbled upper half of a smiling Finneas dressed in a round neck plain white seamless tunic with two white angel wings at the back as he is rotating a person not visible in the vision in full circles holding that person's hand above in the blue sky background of heaven with a few white clouds around. The vision contains such an extreme sense of Holy Love that I end up exclaiming: What a beautiful vision!

It repeats later as well while I am having it. As I'm in the balcony area, I see him standing behind me as he shouts: You're extremely beautiful!

As I'm about to finish my second mug of tea, I think of what this guy from earlier during the day left speaking as he drove away on a bike. He was dressed in a checkered navy blue shirt tucked inside pants as a thin dark guy sat behind him on his bike after which he rode away saying: iPhone hai uske paas! Lekin phir bhi google pixel use karte hai!

As I am reminded of his statement while having tea, I finally understand what he meant by Google Pixel. He was saying that I could google and find my pictures online. And when I understand this, I imagine how it would be if I actually took a look at the website and the pictures. And I could already feel a sudden pain in my heart arise though I have not even taken a look at it yet. And I knew at that moment that the pain would be too unbearable and that for precisely that reason I didn't want to look at the website for I don't know how I would spend the rest of my life with that memory!

As I realize that it's out there in the open, I feel a sudden sense of public nakedness and with a heavy heart, I button up the top button of my black jacket. And as I enter the washroom to pee, it's then that I re-experience that painful feeling in my heart that I had several years back. I felt an abrupt crack emerge at the place of my heart as I thought about the pics online. But then I stopped thinking about it and before my heart could reexperience the same pain in the same intensity, I stopped myself from thinking any further.

Later when I was washing my hands after using the washroom, I told the cameraman to leave forever and to not send any indirect messages either!

Later I was thinking about why I had to go through the same pain again when I didn't deserve it. It was the worst pain I had ever known in my life and there was nothing that I could do to stop myself from hurting. It just stayed the same and I could think nothing, I could do nothing to make it go away! I thought about the possibility of me going back to the same state if I googled the website. And so I stopped thinking about actually doing that. And I saw how unfair it was that I had to face such pain that cannot be dealt with! And it was then that the past vision of Jesus driving a wooden stake through His heart was flashed to me. And I saw how he loved, and that that's the way He has loved me. Though I wouldn't want Him to drive a stake through His heart and whatever is driving that stake through His heart, I would stop doing that thing. But the vision showed that His love was so great to an extent that He was willing to do that to Himself.

The dim upper half of KA in a dark background as he says: Kartika tu ek kaatil hai.

While resting in bed:

- Death Conqueror dressed in a grey jacket looks down at me as he says:
  I'm going to die because of what you've done. I'm going to die because of what you've done.

- A dim vision of Finneas in an off-white cotton shirt checkered in brown as he says: She's my girl!
- The upper half of Finneas in the checkered brown shirt as he stands behind a tall brick wall with his hands resting on the top surface of it in the dark background of the night. The follow-up vision shows him jumping and rising up the level of the wall to take a look on the other side followed by early teenagers Ron and Hermione appearing on his left side as they too jump together to take a look across the wall. The wall reminded me of The Wall in the movie Stardust.
- A small-framed vision of Billie Eilish with short blonde hair dressed in my checkered red and white long shirt over black leggings with her duck lips protruding out.

  As I wrote the above vision, I saw the upper half of Glory in a fully zipped navy blue jacket speedily moving his arms to and fro as he touches himself with his palms with his eyes wide open as he is gesturing me to come to him.
- While I'm sobbing in bed, Glory dressed in a fully zipped navy blue jacket tries to soothe me down as he quickly moves between my face and my legs with a bent upper half and says: Chup hoja. Chup hoja. Earlier he was standing holding a long danda with a threatening expression on the floor of my room to my right but then he threw it away to the left of the room and rushed to soothe me to make me stop crying. The vision repeats as he says again: Chup hoja. Chup hoja. The follow-up vision has me lifted up horizontally in his arms as he's pampering me like a baby looking down at my face in order to make me stop crying. The vision repeats. Well, though the revelations are balming, I still can't stop sobbing. I think if he was doing that for real then I would have immediately stopped crying. I can imagine how I would have stopped sobbing immediately because I would forget what I had been crying for and I am going to be consumed by his presence.

  As I walk towards the washroom to pee, I now see him looking down at me saying the following:
  God is going to judge me for doing this to this poor girl. God is going to judge me for doing this to this poor girl.

  A small-framed vision of Death Conqueror in a grey jacket in a dark background as he says:
  Naseeb phoot gya mera tujhse pyaar karke. Naseeb phoot gya mera tujhse pyaar karke.

- We all will cry for doing this to you. We all will cry for doing this to you.

- (Past week) Jim Carrey rides a bicycle in a dim golden background with a black belt around his waist with a square pouch in the center.

  She's not a toy. She's our lifeline, Mrittunjay. She's not a toy. She's our lifeline, Mrittunjay.

- A short-heighted KA in a buttoned-up white tunic runs towards the viewer with an arm raised forward in a dark background as he says: Please mujhe chhod kar mat jao!

  Earlier during the day when I went to buy something from the Dinesh Store, I was already in a disturbed mental state as I thought about actually taking a look at the website. So when I reached the shop and saw a guy dressed in dark green standing there with his back towards me with the phrase Most Valuable written on it which added to my disturbed state and provoked me up as it made me immediately think that he was a messenger sent by the short fellow which enraged me. It was quite apparent that he was a messenger by the way he stood facing a corner looking down for no reason with the intent of showing the phrase on his back to the person behind. It seemed too hypocritical to me and my immediate involuntary reaction was tightly slapping the back of the guy, and I did it twice.

  Startled he turned around and I shouted at him asking him what was he doing there! I saw that my shouting at him had made him feel hurt as it was apparent by his expression. He said something but I knew that whatever he said was a false justification. I asked him to get lost, leave immediately, as I pointed to the left with an arm. In that state, I was unaffected by his expression or the fact of how my words and behavior made him feel because if he was there for ulterior reasons, then he shouldn't have been hurt if that person confronted him. He didn't look like a bad guy and his hurt was genuine but I wanted him to leave as he wasn't doing the right thing by serving as a messenger communicating to me a hypocritical message when I had just overcome the thought of the pain I could possibly be subjected to if I looked up the obscene prostitute website. He repeated again that he was there to buy something. I saw that he was holding a small multi-colored gummy Pizza chewable candy meant for toddlers. Looking at the Pizza candy made me angrier. I took it from his hand and threw it aside telling him to leave again. Clearly, he was buying that tiny gummy Pizza as a joke because he looked like a college student.

  He then walked a few steps away from the shop and stood facing me and asked me why I behaved the way I did. I told him that it was because he was serving as a messenger. I asked him to strip away his t-shirt and leave because he didn't deserve to wear any (if he was indeed a messenger of the wicked clan).

  The argument amped up further and a short-heighted uncle interjected and asked him to leave.

  When I returned to my room, I heard in my spirit: Aaj aukat pata chal gayi use apni! Aaj apni aukat pata chal gayi use!

Though I didn't understand why was I hearing these words though I didn't do anything too good but only rebuked a person who was serving as a messenger – supposedly of the short fellow.

Later in the evening as the incident crossed my mind and I recalled the guy standing at the left corner of the shop facing me, I saw two red love hearts and sky blue stars in front of his eyes as he stuck out his long and wide foot long tongue out of his mouth and looked at me.

He left saying that he came there to buy his goods which enraged me and made me shout at him more.

Also, later during the day, I happened to listen to this video song.

When I later went to poop and was sitting with a bent upper half holding my head, I saw the upper half of Billie from the song above emulating me.

Later as I was done, I heard the lady sing:
Don't you know I'm no good for you..
I've learnt to loose you can't afford to..

1 Corinthians 15:1-8 (New Living Translation)

The Resurrection of Christ

15 Let me now remind you, dear brothers and sisters,[a] of the Good News I preached to you before. You welcomed it then, and you still stand firm in it. 2 It is this Good News that saves you if you continue to believe the message I told you—unless, of course, you believed something that was never true in the first place.[b]
3 I passed on to you what was most important and what had also been passed on to me. The Guy sings:
Saans thamti gayi
Nabz jamti gayi..
Phir bhi bhadte kadam ko na rukne diya..
Kat gaye sir hmare to kuch gam nahi..
Sir himalaya ka humne na jhukne diya..
Marte marte raha baakpan saathiyo..
Ab tumhare hawale watan saathiyo..

Jinda rehne ke mausam bahut hai magar..
Jaan dene ki rut roj aati nahi..

After waking up, the above song began to play in my spirit.
4K अब तुम्हारे हवाले वतन साथियों पेट्रोटिक गीत | Ab Tumhare Hawaale Watan Saathiyon Patriotic Song (youtube.com)

- This song reminded me of the vision I had on the evening of the day before yesterday in which I saw an animated vision of the top view of a long rectangular dining table covered with a white cloth as my dad slid a plate with my severed head placed on top to the person sitting across the table.

Dream:
I'm sitting at the back of the two-wheeler of a person with long straight hair as another man with long straight hair sits between him. It's taking me to a place and apparently, they're with me to act as my family with long straight hair and help me find a groom for myself. I am on one of the roads of my hometown. The outer trimmed edges; we exit into the hall of the first floor of Rugha Saini's home. On our way up, Sonia follows us for some reason when we don't want her to. I see my dad on the roof. I find myself talking to someone as a toddler dressed in navy blue lies with me on the bed as I can feel its hand running on the surface of my belly or the back of my waist while I talk to that other person. As I pull myself away from him, I tell him that there's no difference between a surface and its edge. I am now in an arrangement made for a gathering with tables covered with white satin and large steel bowls of food placed on them. I walk to one corner and stand with the few people that I know.

After waking up, the patriotic song began playing in my spirit. After making a record of it, I heard Billie's song play in my spirit.

The Lady sings:
I don't wanna be you anymore.

Billie Eilish • Idontwannabeyouanymore || english lyrics

As I continued sitting in bed, suddenly my previous firm stance towards everything sinful was intuitively back in my sight and it made me think of how I had been operating in forgiveness and extending God's grace to them. And I saw that if I was the past me, I wouldn't associate in any way with people who blatantly and remorselessly went against what I knew was conscientiously wrong.

The lyrics I Don't Wanna Be You Anymore played while I was peeing as well.

The upper half of my dad sitting on a surface and crying streamy tears of blood as he looks ahead and bends his head down held between his hands.

- (Morning) The upper half of Elle with her black eye patch dressed in her nurse attire from the hospital scene at the beginning of the movie Kill Bill as she stands at the door facing inside and throws a tissue or a paper inside as she leaves saying: Kiss her hard!

(Marne wala hu mein Kutiya.)

As I'm brushing, I recall the incident from the Bible in which Jesus saved a woman accused of committing adultery from being stoned by the religious crowd, priests, and the rest. He then told that woman to go and sin no more. And then it hit me how He did the same with the trio. Instead of giving out immediate judgment, He waited for years before giving them their first direct corrective revelation during the past month in which while wrapping a white towel around their waists, He said: Don't sin my darlings. It struck me to see how He was the same even after more than around 2050 years since the recorded incident. His nature didn't change. Still the same God after all those years. What an affirming evidence! As I wrote this similarity, I saw the upper half of Adele in her Bold Existence polo t-shirt give a high-five to someone on the left with a smile. It reminds me of the vision revelations in which I saw her saying to some other people around her that I've not yet learned how it is to love like Jesus.

I saw the realization of this evident fact about the unchanging nature of God via this similarity as quite profound. It puts you at par with who He is as you look back at the past and then look back back at the present separated by centuries of decades. And then you know who He is that you're serving and how is it to live in His eternal kingdom. It expands your understanding of His nature and your sense of time in relation to it. It literally made me think of the verse:

8 But do not forget this one thing, dear friends: With the Lord a day is like a thousand years, and a thousand years are like a day.

As I'm getting ready for the interview, I hear: We already broke her heart. What more can we do to her!?

- RS standing on the right of KA as he says to him with his head turned to the left: Tune iske saath accha nahi kiya! Tune iske saath accha nahi kiya!
- The upper half of Abha Ma'am dressed in a beige Saree as she says to me: I'll take you in without an interview. I'll take you in without an interview.

The vision is flashed in my spirit repeatedly while I am in the college as I stand outside the waiting room along with others waiting for my turn.

On my way back from the college while in the bus, I see a long black metallic danda hits the back of my head from the right side.

Post returning from the interview

- KA asks me to hug him.

While I am making tea:

- The college's principal sitting at his seat in the room I was interviewed in says: Bahut samajhdaar hai! Bahut samajhdaar hai! The man in the checkered coat says that I am a very good person. He says: Bahut gwa… achhi hai! The vision repeats several times.
- Both KA and RS say: Ye bahut acchi hai! Bahut acchi hai!
- RS says to KA: Tu ise chhod de. He seems to be giving him some reason as he looks at me, him being dressed in a yellow tunic with a half jacket.

- Prove to us that you love us! Prove to us that you love us!

As I'm talking about how the nearest bus stand is right beside the entrance gate of the college, and begin explaining how a bus ride post a busy day of work while sitting alongside the window seat looking outside at the sky is a relieving time spent detoxifying the mind as one sits silently, remembers God and prays to Him or thinks about Him, I see:

- The principal of the college standing in the center of my room facing me with a smile and filled eyes with a long blob of mucus hanging down from his nose. The other interviewer in the checkered coat also appears beside him as he too looks at me with a touched expression and a smile with lightly filled eyes and a long mucus drool hanging from one of his nostrils. The room then fills with several other people as they all look at me in the same manner.
- Sometime after returning from the interview, I also see the people from the interview bench looking at the viewer (me) together as they say that I've been selected. They happily repeated it a few times. (We were acting!)

- The side view of the face of a woman with short boy cut white silky hair, wearing a red lipstick and facing in the right direction. The lady is then revealed to be Katy Perry.
- A fair woman with a long face dressed in all black with a black head wrap stands behind a slab on which lies Akhila on her front dressed in a dark green top with a fine floral print as the woman seems to be giving light hits at her back in the background of a dark room. The follow-up vision shows the woman in black hitting her back with a fist-sized stone in her hand as she lifts her hand up and hits Akhila's back.

- Finneas dressed in a black suit over a white shirt drags Prof X drenched in blood with a hand behind him on a dark checkered floor.
- A small-framed vision of the face of Tony Stark with yellow sunglasses on as he says: He's going to die soon.

We'll leave you after f*cking you. We'll leave you after f*cking you.

Within the next hour:
We hurt the b*tch extremely. We hurt the b*tch extremely.

The dusky man in black says to others:
We can't f*ck her. She's going to be dead. We can't f*ck her, or she's going to be dead.

No one will marry you. No one will marry you after this thing.

Also, earlier during the evening, I kept seeing myself burning alive physically as the smell of the burning tissue was also highlighted to me leaving nothing behind. The vision reminded me of the following lyrics.

Masih nidhaal soedaar chalte dekha hai..
Bhadakti aag mein ek phool jalte dekha hai..

Earlier during the day
The bald and fat middle man from Single Storey says: Galti kardi tune yaha pe aake!

As I'm looking up boy shorts panties to buy:
She's still the same.

Yeah. She's still the same!

After I've ordered it, I begin hearing the following lyrics play in my spirit.

I won't just survive..
Oh you will see me thrive..
Can't write my story..
I'm beyond the archetype..

I won't just conform..
No matter how you shake my core..
Cause my roots they run deep..

Oh you have so little faith..
Don't doubt it! Don't doubt it!

Victory is in my veins..

I know it! I know it!

And you'll not negotiate!
I'll fight it! I'll fight it!

I'll transform..

When.. When the fire's at my feet again..
When the vultures are start circling..
They're whispering.. You're out of time..
But still, I rise..

There's no mistake.. No accident..
When you think the final nail is in..
Think again..
You're out of time.. But still I rise..!

RISE (Katy Perry Cover) by SUPERFRUIT, Mary Lambert, Brian Justin Crum, Mario Jose

2:58

- Princess Shayla dressed in a thick white gown with a dome-shaped vision rotates around alone slowly with a happy countenance in a well-lit white background as the upper half of Merrick dressed in blue and silver appears behind her and he begins to shower down rocks on her. The follow-up vision shows him throwing a rock at her lower spine leading to a sprout of blood followed by him throwing several fist-sized rocks at the top of her head.

- Mein marne jaa raha hu, Kartika. Mein marne jaa rahu hu. Mein marne jaa raha hu, Kartika. Mein marne jaa raha hu.

10:27
Dream:
A tall and obese lady follows me everywhere without my noticing it. I see myself as a third person exiting a door where I am a short-heighted person dressed in a grey safari suit as the lady dressed in a black tunic set with sparkling golden circular prints stands quietly on the right side of the door hiding from me.

The upper half of Death Conqueror in a grey jacket looks down at me as he says with unblinking astonished eyes: I'm going to die.

Last night as I said I didn't want the abusive, cheap, and low-quality love demonstrated by the short fellow, I was reminded of the previous revelation in which the dusky man in black put in a thick gold ring studded with tiny diamonds with a tiny clock dial on the other side lacking arms signifying eternity. I also saw: the dusky man in black sitting leaning against a black wall as his love heart inside was shown as breaking in two as he repeated that I am so bad.
I recalled the ring vision previously when I was saying how I would not feel like accepting even the cheapest of things from the short-fellow as they would seem like a burden on my conscience. But I accepted this expensive thing from the dusky man in black and then when I looked at it, I saw that I could do it because it didn't seem like a burden, as though expensive, it captured something meaningful and it was given out of love.
As I was rebuking the crowd and the trio for what they've done and I was sounding rude, I saw Adele saying to others: She still hasn't learned. But I could see that it wasn't that I wasn't loving them, but they were continuing in their sin and not turning away from it which was making me act in those ways. But certainly, one thing I could learn was the patience of God.

This morning as I woke up, I thought about my statement of not expecting or accepting cheap and low-quality love, I saw a meter or two above in front of me the upper half of the short fellow as he immediately in one swipe stripped his upper half of clothes as he looked down at me with wide-open unblinking eyes.

While still in bed post waking up, I saw:

- The upper half of Finneas dressed in a horizontally striped round neck top striped in light blue and white sitting behind a table as he abruptly spits at the face of the viewer followed by him quickly floating to the left with a lady as she stands leaning against a wall while Finneas is kissing her facing to the left.
- A small-framed vision of Akhila standing dressed in a long beige overcoat with her hair falling at the back as she says that she's going to be dead, and repeats it.

- The Bride piece Akhila and Death Conqueror into small pieces with her sword as the dusky man in black stood on the left side. She was hesitant in using the sword on the dusky man so she shifted back to the duo and filled two beige rucksacks with their flesh pieces which she took to the Police Station and spread the pieces bare in the open in front of their gate. She was hesitant to use her sword on the Raju of the trio as well who stood to the left of the dusky man. But she found it just to chop his left arm and then in a confused state she sliced in half the dusky man horizontally from the middle after which she was sewing him up.

And as this morning as I was saying that my Free Will was given to me to subject it to God and I didn't have to take permission from wicked people and do things, for even demons subject their Free Will to devil, I was reminded of the vision in which I walked up to the dusky man in black and asked him if I could buy a black high-neck sweater of the same kind that I was wearing.

While half bathing, I see a blurry vision of the dusky man in black standing as he said: Let me soap you. Let me soap you.

As I was stepping out of my room to leave for work, I heard the Maar Dala song play in my spirit.
The lady sings:
Humpe kisne hara rang dala.. Humpe kisne hara rang dala..
Khushi ne humari humein… Maar dala.. Maar dala..

(Past week)

- The side view of Brother David Diga Hernandez standing facing to the left in a well-lit white background as he holds Grammy trophies in his hands with a few lying on the desk as well.
  As I wrote the above vision, I saw him hold my face and give a love-filled brotherly kiss on my forehead.
- Dushman dressed in his postman clothes stands in the narrow kitchen corridor of my rented room with my spent dishwashing scrubber as a heap of clean white thermocoal disposable plates stand tall on its slab. It makes me wonder why would he try to wash the already clean disposable plates that are to be used and thrown. As I passed by a dustbin filled to the brim with white thermocoal rectangular slabs, this revelation was brought to my remembrance.
  (I am going to die Kartika.)
- Finneas dressed in an ankle-length white tunic stands in the center of the room with his back towards the viewer and his face turned to the left. When he turns towards the viewer, the shape of his unusually protruding lower belly through his tunic is visible after which he turns back to the front.
  (Called by my name.)

Dr. Swati Mohan Revelations (Lead, Nasa's Jet Propulsion Laboratory)

- As she's explaining about the balloon landing system which can't be precisely controlled, I am reminded of the dream on Page 675 (Feb 13th, 2024) in which I saw the man leave the water body using a balloon as he then kept floating and wandering in the sky aimlessly.
- She looks at me with two love hearts in front of her eyes as she's speaking in the lecture theatre.
- A long tongue comes out of her mouth and reaches my face as she licks it down to up.
- Akhila dressed in her beige coat falls on the floor near the front teacher's desk as she rotates on the floor with extended arms followed by her shattering into pieces on the floor.
- As I recall her leaving the Room No. L, I see her say: She's extremely cheap.
- She then says that I'm beautiful and that she's in love with me.
- After I'm back to my lab with a glass of tea and am sitting on my seat, I see us give each other a warm hug and have a brief duet in the lab (R. No. 184 of MSB).
- With her back towards me in the lab, she says with her face turned to the left with a smile: I'm leaving now.
  As I'm editing the previous page writing about the unchanging nature of God, I have the following revelations.

We're dead bro. We're going to be dead.

She's an extreme b*tch.

The lady sings:
Don't you know too much already..
I'll only hurt you if let me..

Late Evening in the dept.:

- As I'm working, I see the upper half of Death Conqueror in a grey jacket a few feet above in front of me as he slaps my left cheek repeatedly and asks me why did I love him!?
- I've done a lot to this woman. I've done a lot to this woman. (It reminds me of the words of Bill from the beginning of the movie Kill Bill. The upper half of Bill in his attire from the last scene of the last part of the series as he walks backwards whispering a quiet Bye while waving his hand tilted raised to the level of his shoulder on the left..)
- I ruined her life Madhavan. I've ruined her life Madhavan.
- He then reaches out a hand to my right cheek and placing it gently on it floats closer and kisses me. He then changes to the fat naked infant in a diaper as he floats in front of my face. It seems weird to me that an infant is sticking his lips to mine but I take it as a gesture of godly love for the little fellow. And as he floats vertically straight in front of me, he squeaks out a quiet Mumma.
- I say that he has done no right thing in his life and then I see the upper half of Death Conqueror in a grey jacket above me behind me as his red love heart faces a crack in the middle and he withdraws back with a hurt expression.

After I reach my room post work:

- One of the trio says: You're an extreme b*tch. That's your problem. You're an extreme b*tch. That's your problem.
- The upper half of Finneas dressed in a white t-shirt says that I am so good.
- The short Death Conqueror dressed in a grey jacket walks backward in a dark background as a demonic being sits behind in hiding ready to capture and ensnare him in the dark. It leads me to explain how the devil is sitting ready to capture him should he walk away backwards into the darkness.

23:07

- A wide and still water body surrounded by green mountains as a curved light brown wooden passage is formed at a good height above the water roughly following the curve of the mountains as a few small houses and other small buildings are present on the passage.

1 Corinthians 15:1-8 (New Living Translation)

The Resurrection of Christ

15 Let me now remind you, dear brothers and sisters,[a] of the Good News I preached to you before. You welcomed it then, and you still stand firm in it. 2 It is this Good News that saves you if you continue to believe the message I told you—unless, of course, you believed something that was never true in the first place.[b]
3 I passed on to you what was most important and what had also been passed on to me. Christ died for our sins, just as the Scriptures said. 4 He was buried, and he was raised from the dead on the third day, just as the Scriptures said. 5 He was seen by Peter[c] and then by the Twelve. 6 After that, he was seen by more than 500 of his followers[d] at one time, most of whom are still alive, though some have died. 7 Then he was seen by James and later by all the apostles. 8 Last of all, as though I had been born at the wrong time, I also saw him.

Dream: Towards the end of this dream, I see the upper half of a woman dressed in a red tunic with a wide neck in the shape of the lower half of a hexagon with her hair falling at the back.

I'm thinking about how the short fellow is not even a human – which is how I would talk about people in the past who committed hurtful sins against others. It was when I didn't know God. The upper half of Death Conqueror in a grey jacket a meter or so above me as he says: She thinks I'm an animal.

Now after increased understanding, I would call them as the people of the world and not the children of God.

I go to the canteen to have breakfast and commune and come across a guy in the canteen I've seen in the dept a few times. He is dressed in the red sweatshirt of a tracksuit with three white lines running along the arms. His attire sends my alarms off ringing and I know that most probably he's a messenger so I intentionally stay away from him and ignore him. As I'm standing at the counter, I turn away from him as I don't want to interact with any messenger but while I am having the meal, he comes and joins me. He says that I looked depressed to him.

I share my situation with him – that how someone made a prostitute website about me and I begin to cry while sharing the same. He says that he has a friend in the Supreme Court and I tell him that my dad can't afford a lawyer. As he sees me sobbing, he holds my hand between his hands to reassure me. He tries to console me by saying that good people leave you with memories and bad people leave you with lessons. And he adds that everything happens for good.

We've a lengthy chat during which he shares a past hurtful situation from his own life. He holds my hand several times during our chat to console and reassure, as he sees my countenance falling.

While talking to him, after he has already told me that he loves me with all his heart and soul, as I repeat to him the same telling him that my love for him is rooted in his spiritual identity of being a creation of God, I hear the song lyric from Billie's song play in my spirit: I love you..

Prof TRS says: She's the best person we have. She's the best person we have.

Night

- Death Conqueror says to me: You're disgustingly rich.
- I say that I'm wedded to Jesus and my job is to tell people about Jesus and then I see a flood of bloody tears flowing down from the eyes of the trio with the dusky man in black being highlighted in the center.
- As I talk about how time is not the most important thing one can give to another but love, and say that love transcends time, I see the face of the dusky man in black in front of me as he repeats with an expression showing his inner self turned inside out: Love transcends time? Love transcends time? The vision repeats several times.

Late Night

While lying in bed a while back

- The upper half of a clean-shaven man as he gets thrown on the wooden deck of a boat with his head drenched in blood.
- A long nail gets hammered into the right side of his skull as a jet of blood flows down and covers his entire face.
- I begin to fall into sadness again and then I hear: She's begun to cry again. She's begun to cry again. The face of the dusky man in black comes floating in front of me as he says with a molten heart: Don't cry, don't cry.

- She can destroy us. We've to burn her. She can destroy us. We've to burn her.
- The b*tch is angry, dude. The b*tch is angry.
- The upper half of Death Conqueror in a grey jacket in front of me above as he says pointing at me: I've done this woman great wrong.

Past Revelation

- The vision of a curly-haired Madhavan from the group in the air above me as he says: B*tch! Death Conqueror puts a hand on his mouth and pushes him backwards and takes him down.

Mein marne jaa raha hu, Kartika. Mein marne jaa raha hu.

****

Past Revelations

- (past week) She's extremely expensive. She's extremely expensive. As the face of the dusky man in black is highlighted.
- (past few days) The dusky man in black says sobbing as he stands leaning against a wall: I can't kill her! I can't kill her!
- (past few days) A close-up view of the front surface of a triangular golden face showing just the narrow and tiny features of the face. The face has narrow eyes, nose, and lips.
  (Mein marne wala hu Madhavan. Mein marne wala hu.)

As I sit in bed, I think about how the trio wasted away their time by whoring themselves away to others. So, I speak the same and I feel inclined to say that if not now, when would they receive and experience the love of God after they have wasted away their time with whores. As I say the same, I see a flow of blood tears from their eyes with the dusky man in black in the middle as they all stand together with a supple vulnerable expression and say with the bloody flow: Can't believe she said that. Can't believe she said that.

- I order some Christian bracelets one of which has white beads. After a while, I see the dusky man in black step down on the ground dressed in a full-length round-neck seamless white tunic with two white angel wings at the back in a flashy navy blue background as he extends out an open square box filled with pearled jewellery, and picks up one and holds it out. It is then shown that one of them has a small bronze metallic cross studded with tiny glassy beads.
  It makes me reflect on the revelation and I realize how I, who otherwise am not attracted to jewellery, will take a box if extended out to me by an angel who descended down just to do that.

  As I say that if a real angel descended down to give you something, that thing gains value by default, I see the upper half of the dusky man in the white attire from the vision above me on my right side behind my turned back as he hits the top of my head with lightly with a small foot-long danda with a smile.

- A golden surface with Perfect horizontally engraved on it along with some tiny multi-colored stones embedded or fixed along the boundaries.

As I lay in bed:

- The silent resentful clean-shaven face of Klaine from Glee in a dim golden background.
- The vision repeats as he now makes a different sad gesture emulating my expression.

Yesterday in the evening, as I was checking out the activities students were partaking in at the Science function, the first desk I happened to stand in front of had an activity involving tiny triangular flags made by using matchsticks. They had different colored flags. There were ones with the white color as well. The game had match sticks stuck inside a pink foamy slab. And the game had rules that involved burning the matchsticks in cycles accompanied by an exchange of chits and flags and whoever took the last matchstick out was to be considered the winner. It reminded me of the previous vision in which Shanon from Yeshu Ke Geet stood waving a similar white triangular flag in the night as she shouted to warn others: Don't come here! This place is too wicked!

The upper half of Death Conqueror in a grey jacket in a dark background as he says: I'm going to die!

I say that the trio should've been homeschooled because their schooling is what ruined them. Schooling is what sets the ground for any individual where he forms the base to follow for the rest of his life. He may have different experiences later on, but his base stays more or less the same unless something happens that serves as a turning point in his life where his base faces an unerasable imprint or is molded to something substantially different. I then see the trio crying tears of blood with the dusky man in black in the center lying on their backs with unusually large erected genitalias as they release a thick stream of semen continuously.

The follow-up vision has a large figure dusky man in black remove away his attire in one swipe to the left revealing his large genitalia reaching until the floor which waved through the air like a trunk as he came closer to me and put his large genitalia inside my mouth as it reached deep until inside my throat.

(Kartika, Khyati is crying.)

(Bhula dala.. Bhula dala..)

As I'm returning from the canteen with a coffee, I see a bearded guy in a black sweater walk by in front of me with his upper half bent forward as he says: Paise bachake kya karegi!? I ignore him and don't look at him though I knew that he was saying that statement to me. When I'm back inside my lab, I say that saving money is not called saving but stewarding it carefully. And by implication, it helps me to stay away from home and people like you. I then see the back view of the man in the black sweater in the corridor between the building and the small lawn as he looks back at me with his face turned to the left with a stream of blood tears flowing down from his eyes.

During Prof TRS's talk titled Surprises from the Sky today – the Second Day of the Science Day:

- Akhila dressed in a beige coat lies on the ground as she rotates on the ground followed by her turning into cubical pieces that spread apart inside the room by themselves.
  As I was done writing the above, I saw Death Conqueror saying pointing to me that he has to leave me: I've to leave her. She's going to kill her.
- As I was sitting through his lecture, I heard in my spirit that lady's voice again: Mein marne waali hu Kartika. Mein marne waali hu.
  Prof TRS explains some examples involving the throwing up of a ball in the air as it faces gravitation as the opposing force. It reminds me of the revelation from the previous day in which I saw the golden spiritual fluid inside Ravi getting a vertical upward jolt. Interacting with me instigated his spiritual self as I too saw it being reflected on his face. It was almost as if his inner eternal spiritual self had now shown itself outside as I perceived the state of timelessness.

As I'm having snacks later in the canteen, I hear:

- I've fooled her Madhavan. I've fooled her.
- I had heard it a few days back previously as well. I've duped her Madhavan. I've duped her!

I ask why did Death Conqueror do what he did. I ask the question because I think of how a normal situation would've been. In a normal setting, if someone wanted to be with me within the context of a spousal role, I would know that person personally, and I would be working my PhD out happily without oppression and would've progressed further and there would be no third-party deception involved. But what did this fellow do? He created a prostitute website. He burst an egg in my left ovary, hit my eyes from behind causing them to swell, and did other internal damage that was a part of the last year that went into battling depression and recovering from such incidences. When he could've walked to me like a righteous person and have had a chat. But he couldn't have done that because that's not who he is, and also I had blocked him for a reason that I wrote about before.

Why did he create the website in the first place that brought my PhD to ruins to a great extent, and then I see him dressed in a black suit standing in a dark background as he says: I am an abuser Kartika. I am an abuser.

Recalling some Past Revelations

- During the talk by Prof TRS, I sat on a stool in the front row with my diary open on top of my lap. It reminded me of the dream on Page 517 that I had on 28th Aug last year in which I saw KA sitting on a stool in front of me dressed in a red and white checkered shirt tucked inside black pants with a diary open on his lap with some things crossed over.
  (Kartika he's crying why he ever met you!)

- This past vision revelation from Page 565 created on 16th Oct last year was highlighted to me recently.
  "The upper half of Jyoti Ma'am (Jyoti Rajput) dressed in a green saree with a yellow blouse wearing my black newsboy cap salutes at the viewer with her right hand and says: Yes Sir! The vision repeats several times."
  (She's crying why she ever met you!)
  ****

Later, as I walk by Awadhesh Prasad's room on the second floor after the talk was over, I find it weird that it is left half open. I am walking to the adjacent room to fill my water bottle. On my way back, as I pass by it, I see that it's still half-open and when I think of what could possibly be the reason though I had a vague idea of how the minds of such people work, I see several parrot green snakes stretch outside mid-air through the half-open door with open mouths as the rest of their bodies laid inside the room.

Evening

After returning from the dept
The Guy sings:
Apno ki mehfil mein begaane hum..
Sabki asaliyat ko pehchane hum..

She's always going to remember what we did to her! She's always going to remember what we did to her!

I talk about how it's because they violated my sense of love that my earthly life was ruined in my eyes (and therefore there was no purpose left for me to live other than to follow God and walk in His will). I say how it was for preserving the right sense of love that Jesus died on the cross. How. One may ask. He died on the cross to preserve the unseen law and the holy way to be with other created beings with free will. The unseen law is an image of the right sense of love and every time someone sins, it violates the right sense of love. And then I say how preserving the right sense of love is worth your health or earthly life (contradicting Ravi's statement from the previous statement), and how all the people of God and God Himself died for the same reason, His sacrifice being our standard. As I make the statement, I see the face of the dusky man in black come floating in front of me as he asks me quietly in a teasing tone: What's the right sense of love? What's the right sense of love? As I'm making tea, he repeats it several times.

(Kartika, Khyati is crying.)

Night

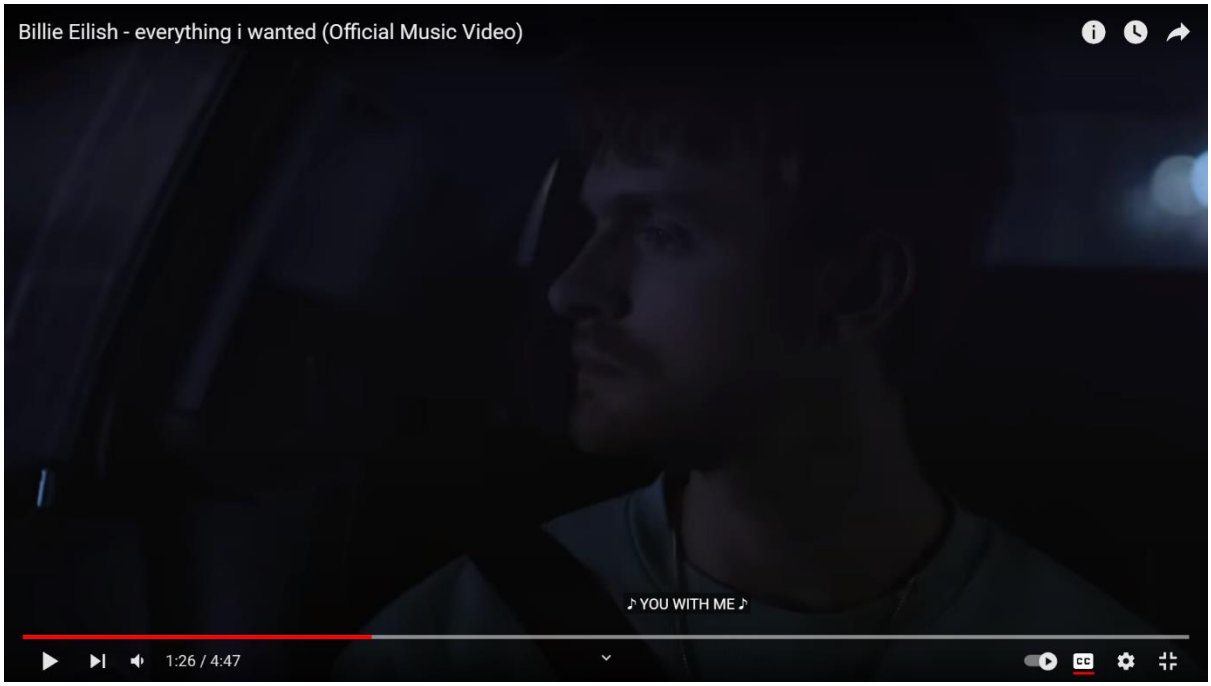
A while back, I happen to recall Billie Eilish's song Everything I Wanted, and the following lyrics stand out to me as I perceive the underlying context and depth they're sung with.

The lady sings:

I got a dream, I got everything I wanted.

But when I wake up I see, you with me.

And it reminds me of how this is what you want to hold true for real with someone in your life where you know for certain that the lyrics indeed have meaning and hold true in the same way they're sung in the song. And as I was listening to the song, the following scene in which Billie's brother Finneas makes the prophetic symbol got highlighted to me and was later blinking in my vision for me to write about it here.



Billie Eilish - everything i wanted (Official Music Video)

Later after the talk, I felt nudged to YouTube Missing Stars and the first video I opened talked about the disappearing of three stars within 50 minutes. I looked it up later after reaching my room and found the following research article. It also reminded me of the video by XtremeRealityCheck that I first watched in 2020.

How Three Stars Disappeared From The Sky And Never Came Back

- Never say that you don't love us, Kartika. Never say that you don't love us.

Dream:
In this dream, I'm with my mom in a room and see her holding a slice of peeled green fruit as she's peeling it further. It looks like musk melon but I am not sure if it is, for it's hard to eat and tastes different as well. I've to shift to a different place for some reason I don't know, and apparently, I've already contacted a broker to look for rooms in what looks like a Porsche colony. Though I never see the broker in the dream but directly find myself walking into that area the ground floor of which is built in the form of an open pillared hall, I seem to have easily found the place without much effort because of which I assumed the role of a broker. Perhaps I'm getting a room at a reasonable price in that locality. I take a look at the rooms all of which are well-furnished with dark wooden furniture and have long dark brown wooden doors. After I've shifted to one of the rooms, a lady with her hair tied low at the back informs me that the owner possesses a key to the main entrance door to the apartment that I've rented. It seems to make the sense to me that he could steal my stuff from inside the room if he has the key. That's what the lady's statement seems to covertly suggest or why would she be telling me the same with that smile? It makes me a bit worried. But why would the landlord keep one of the keys to himself? There's another lady with me in there as well as my roommate. I stand by the washroom's door with my oval red and white doormat lying in front of it as the cleaner Aunty is around. I tell her to wash the floor inside and am now trying to figure out a good, user-friendly, and the least messy way to choose and put slippers outside the washroom to be used. I see my roommate's black flip-flops with thick V-shaped straps lying nearby in a direction away from the entrance door. I choose my red flip-flops as the washroom slippers and put them outside slanting them on the narrow-elevated strip as I look inside the dark dirty washroom.

I find myself with my mom again and she is still peeling that green fruit holding a slice of it to give to me.

Post Waking Up

- The upper half of Prof TRS dressed in his blue and beige attire from yesterday in a light background as he comes walking to me with an extended hand for a handshake and says with firm and righteous expression: Hi. I'm your fan!

- As I sit in bed, I see Death Conqueror above in front of me as he points to Akhila to the right and says: She's extremely beautiful. She's extremely beautiful. On the distant far end of the vision is shown a naked Akhila standing facing in his direction with her hair falling at the back as her breasts waved around their positions like serpents.

- We've to kill her. We've to kill her.
- She can't be killed. We've to severe her head.
- B*tch is extremely poor. B*tch is extremely poor.

- By killing her, we insult our own selves.

Past Revelations

- (Past two months) The upper half of Deepak in a maroon woollen sweatshirt above in front of me to my right in a dark background as he says looking down at me: I was sent to fool you! I was sent to fool you!
- (Past month) Nitish Bharadwaj as a half-naked Vishnu lies on his left side on a bed in a room it in white light resembling the series as he says that he's losing while throwing a rectangular candy's white cover down on the floor. Within the next 24 hours, when I went to the Dinesh Store nearby, as I was approaching it, I saw an arm extending out from inside the shop and throw a similar white candy cover down on the ground. When I had taken a few more steps, I saw that it was owner's son Surjeet throwing down the cover of a similar white rectangular candy. (Bas. Mein marne wala hu K*tiya.)
- (Past month) The upper half of Death Conqueror in a dark background as he says to someone beside him: I've broken her heart. I've broken her heart. The vision repeats several times during the day.
- (Past three weeks) She loved me from the beginning. She loved me from the beginning.
- (Past three weeks) The upper half of Nivedita Ma'am in a light background as she says: He's doing this because he loves you. He's doing this because he loves you.
- (Past three weeks) A naked Death Conqueror above in front of me while looking at me speedily floats to the right and sticks to a naked Akhila. The vision repeats with him now being substituted by a naked Glory. The vision has repeated several times in my spirit at different occasions.
- (Past two weeks) The Poor Queen.

- (Past week) As I am sitting in my seat in the dept and grieving, I see a small-framed vision of Jesus dressed in full-length multilayered white standing in front of a wall with Death Conqueror on the left side of Him as He bent to His side and said: She's in pain because you broke her ideal reality.
- (Past week) I hear in my spirit a sad lady's pleading voice: Why didn't you marry me Mrittunjay? Why didn't you marry me Mrittunjay? It comes as a surprise because I am not aware of any specific details related to them apart from what is revealed to me.
- (Past two days) A small-framed vision of Jyoti Ma'am dressed in a long and thick white cheetah-printed sweatshirt over similar trousers as she stands facing to the left in a dark background.

I want to eat Churma but find Silk Spoon closed. I am again experiencing that uneasy feeling which when I get – I rush to eat. But I don't feel like eating anything. I want to eat something but I don't feel like eating anything. Nothing seems delicious enough to compensate for how I am feeling. I then see NOTHING written in a dim maroon font on a dark background as it blinks in the vision. I think of eating milkcake but it doesn't seem inviting enough. The Nothing vision repeats.
(Brother David dressed in a white jacket over a blue shirt looks to the left as he says: When will she learn?)

- The upper half of Akhila in a dark background with her hair falling at the back as she says sobbing to me: He's using you Kartika! He's using you Kartika!
- The dusky man in black in a dark background stabs his own belly repeatedly.
- I take the knife from his hand and throw it away.
- I feel like leaving these people forever (depriving them of my presence), and therefore I hear myself saying: I will leave you forever! I will leave you forever!
- A small-framed vision of his figure in a dark background says to me: I'll kill you if you die! I'll kill you if you die!
- He says to Death Conqueror angrily: If she dies, I am going to kill you! The vision repeats a few times.
- The moustached face of Gajendra from the movie Lajja looking at me in a light background with a silent smile. The vision expands and on the left side is revealed the face of Akhila facing him as she licks an orange ice cream. (I'm about to die Kartika. That's what you wrote: says Death Conqueror in a tender amicable tone.)
- The face of the dusky man in black as he opens the centre of my chest and inserting his face inside tries to lick a part of my heart.
- I get a sense of there not being much to lose now. So I hear: There's nothing to lose now. There's nothing to lose now.
  And it makes me think of how this is the perfect spot or mindset to begin working for God fearlessly.

- (Referring to the trio) The day they realized how you loved them is the day that they died! Jis din unhe realize hua, us din vo mar gaye. It repeats several times during the day.

Autophagy. Autophagy. (repeats in my spirit)

Mujhe bhook pyaas na hogi..

Mujhe bhook pyaas na hogi..
Mera Yeshu Masih hai gadariya..
Mera Yeshu Masih hai gadariya..

- Prof TRS dressed in his attire from the lecture Surprises From The Sky says to Annapurni Ma'am: She knows she's going to die soon. She knows she's going to die soon.
- Death Conqueror dressed in a grey jacket in a dark background says to me: I'll die because of what you've done. I'll die because of what you've done.

While walking on the road to Dinesh Store to buy milk, I hear a male voice say: I'm a whore, Kartika. I'm a whore. It repeats when I'm back inside the room.

- She hasn't talked to us since morning. She hasn't talked to us since morning.
- Pair cutne wale hai tere K*tiya. Pair cutne wale hai tere K*tiya.
- The face of a moustached Glory until his shoulders in front of me as he hits the top of my head with a danda and severs me in two vertical halves.
- The upper half of Maleficent in a metallic armour taking some steps backwards from a small vertical frame at the bottom of the vision with the photo of Aurora dressed in her sky blue dress from the movie as she's burning inside the photo frame. The follow-up vision shows her tied with a beige rope in the vision as she burns inside the photo frame.
- I'm thinking about the drones moving through my flesh above my skull as they're causing me pain, and then I see Sanjay Jain Sir standing with his back towards me as, turning his face to one side, he says: He's doing it intentionally. He's doing it intentionally.
- The dusky man in black looks down at me from near the ceiling as he shouts: You're extremely cheap. I can't be with you.
- I wrap white towels around the erected genitalia of one or more persons from the trio as I say: Don't sin, my darlings. Don't sin, my darlings.
- Death Conqueror dressed in a grey jacket in a dark background looks down at me as taking some steps backwards, he says: She loved me truly. She loved me truly.
- The moustached face of Glory with a plain black sweater below as he drops a kiss at my lips smiling and tells me that he loves me.
- Surjeet from Dinesh Store dressed in his orange polo t-shirt stands in front of the chips rack outside the shop as he says: Mar raha hu mein tere saath sone ke liye. Mar raha hu mein tere saath sone ke liye. In the real situation, as I came in front of his shop and spotted him outside, he moved to the left side and stood with his hands folded below in front of him on top of each other with a righteous expression while his wife stood behind the counter.
- He stands in front of his shop as he says in a fearful and grateful tone: Bach gaya mein nark ki aag se! Bach gaya mein nark ki aag se!

The Guy sings:
Kissed me half, a decade later..
The same perfume.. The same sad eyes..

The above lyrics have been playing in my spirit intermittently since morning.

The Guy sings:

So Go ahead and break my heart again..
