We as the children of God have to walk in the Will of God. And I was so glad later to 'see' in the ark-room dream that God did save the person whom He had represented to me as the demonized fat infant previously. My heart's desire since I came to know the real God was to have this person saved, who was so persistently chasing after me and was staying at the apartment right above my parental home (or he may be having a few more places to hide). I prayed for him as well after my fast was over one Sabbath day - this person whom I saw as being immoral and evil. I prayed to God to make my Sabbath fruitful by 'saving' this person who wasn't doing the right thing in my eyes. I initially had a sort of hard spot as well for him in my heart. We are called to pray for those who hurt us in one or the other ways. And I knew that God was watching us or everything and that He was in control, and therefore He will work things out as He had already called out my name (Kartika) and shown me some things. The Holy Spirit had me prophesy to be having the anointing of 'Rebecca' (in relation to my wedding). I knew therefore that even if my situation seemed oppressive to me as I saw another person trying to erode my boundaries - God was still with me as He had communicated with me a few times by then. So the only thing that I could do was to pray to God regarding everything. Once I was trying to pray in tongues out of curiosity when I first got to know about it. I was at home during the lockdown in 2020. I was praying in tongues as it came to me and at the end of each long sentence, I would end up with the name 'Rebecca'. I didn't understand right then what it meant as I didn't even know back then that Rebecca was a person in the Bible. I found it out later on. And then He gave me the two dreams in Room D4 - one which had a huge white camel lying down thirsty whenever I looked down from above my PG, and another that had the ark-room where I saw a very short camel pass me by warily (perhaps shorter than my own height) along with an infant who was supposedly a girl.

God saves His sheep. God must have a reason to orchestrate a situation such as this, for the greater good. He holds all answers and wisdom. All we can do is walk in His ordained path and try to live up to what we are called to by God. I never had a two-track mind. I always wanted one person for me and knew that that would be enough for me. And when I came to know God, I knew that God filled that position well. And now I've grown and matured in Him and come to learn how to follow in His Will and have an understanding of how things are going to unfold for me and therefore what expectations I should be having during my time here, and that I can't just do anything I want or make of my life what I personally would want to - this is something the children of the world can't and don't want to do - not have their own plans but walk in the plan of God, however it may be. I would rather have 'one' person for me on Earth in the role of a spouse. But God chose two for me to mingled with two people. One He showed me to be getting wedded to, another He showed me some snippets of my time together with.

While we are on Earth, hearts and bones break. But we live for the hope for Heaven we have as our eternal residence.

The symbolic infant himself admitted indirectly during my time at home in 2020 that 'he had a killer in him', and he was breaching all my boundaries as he sent his tiny cam bots wherever I went and showing me and my family to the world even when we went to use washrooms, and he was not feeling guilty about it at all, and then he thought what was stopping me from coming to him because I definitely did seem to him to be showing some soft spots for him at times. Well, I don't like to hate people except when they are continuously moving forward in their wicked ways.

But God changed my perception of him as He revealed many important things to me.
